Luxury Liner Scuttled By Nazi Crew

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 — (AP). —The one-time German luxury liner Columbus was a blazing derelict to-day, scuttled by her crew at the approach of a British destroyer.

Like the once proud German pocket-battleship Admiral Graf Spee, scuttled off Montevideo on Sunday rather than face again the British cruisers that drove her to cover, the 32,000-ton Columbus was fired and left to sink beneath the Atlantic waves when capture by the British warship appeared imminent.

The United States cruiser Tuscaloosa picked up 579 crew members and officers of the former queen of the Nazi merchant fleet and headed for Ellis Island, immigration station outside New York.

The Columbus, which failed in a desperate dash for Europe from Vera Cruz, Mexico, already was setting when the Tuscaloosa completed rescue operations at dusk yesterday 400 miles east of Cape Henry, Va. Only two German sailors were known to have been lost.

Women Among Rescued.

The survivors, including nine women, were due in New York Harbor about 4 p.m. EST for examination by immigration officials. If they are found to be bona-fide merchant

Expecting Defeat

London, Dec. 20 (CP).

GREAT BRITAIN sees in the scuttling of the Admiral Graf Spee evidence that the German government expects defeat in the war, an official spokesman said today.

"If the Graf Spee had been interned," he said, "she would have reverted to Germany at the end of the war — provided Germany won.

"Since she was scuttled on instructions of the German government the conclusion must be that the Nazis do not think Germany will win."

3 More Trawlers Feel Wrath Of Nazi Planes

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(CP).— The Aberdeen trawler, Star of Scotland was towed into port to-day with two of her crew dead, the result of machine-gunning and bombing by German planes.

Two other fishing trawlers, the Strathalbyn and Strathrannock, were unscathed during the raid, although the former was attacked twice.

Capt. Henri Noble of the Strathalbyn said: "One heavy bomb fell only 10 feet from our bows; then gunners fired several hundreds rounds at us, hitting our decks but doing no damage.

The press expresesd indignation at the attacks on small civilian fishing boats. Only two of the vessels lost in the series of air at-

Claim Craft Sunk Some 250 Miles Inside Safety Zone

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)— State department officials disclosed today that the German liner Columbus was scuttled almost 250 miles inside America's neutrality zone. Immediately they began a study to determine whether this meant that an act of war had occurred within the zone.

First information yesterday from Stephen Early, White House press secretary, was that the scuttling had taken place when a British warship came upon the big liner outside the zone. But later expert calculation of the ship's position given by the United States cruiser Tuscaloosa showed that the Columbus sank nearly 250 miles inside the zone, on a line due east of Washington.

This gives the American nations which fixed the limits of the zone in a meeting at Panama this fall their second problem of a possible violation, the first being the battle between British cruisers and the Admiral Graf Spee off the coast of Uruguay last week which, like the Columbus incident, resulted in the sinking of the German vessel.

In connection with the neutrality zone limits officials explained while the zone ordinarily was understood to extend about 300 miles off shore it went out, at some points to several hundreds of miles.

Survivors Off Harbor

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—The United States naval cruiser Tuscaloosa, with 579 survivors of the scuttled Nazi luxury liner Columbus, was reported off Ambrose light-ship, just outside New York harbor, at noon EST today.

Hemmed in by a thick fog and drizzling rain, the vessel was expected to anchor outside the harbor until the weather cleared.

The speedy vessel's arrival indicated that she had escaped a storm that was moving up the coast in her wake.

The navy took special precautions to guard the Tuscaloosa against vistors. Newspapermen, photographers and radio men were

Fails To Find Girl

London, Dec. 20 (CP Cable)

THIS is the story of the search of a Canadian soldier for "the girl with the lovely eyes."

Jack Steel, a Manitobian, spotted the girl in the undeground, enroute from Waterloo Station to Piccadilly Circus. He was so interested he missed his station and finally left the train at Kingsbury, Middlesex, where the girl got off.

But Steel lost the girl in the blackout. He went to a nearby cinema where the manager allowed him to boadcast an appeal from the stage in the hope the girl was among the audience. The crowd applauded him, but....

"The girl with the lovely eyes" was not there.

Finns Hurl Russians Back To Karelia Border

Call Men Of 40 To Aid In New Arctic Line As 25 Below Zero Stops Red Drive In North

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 20. — (AP).—Finland called to the colors all able bodied men of 40 years of age today as military sources declared Russian troops had been thrown back close to their own frontier on the Karelian Isthmus and Soviet bombers renewed raids on Finnish cities.

(Blizzards and 25-degree temperatures of below zero, said dispatches from Kirenes, Norway, near the Finnish frontier, apparently have paralyzed a Russian drive in Northern Finland. The finns, hitherto retreating in this sector, were said to be preparing a new fortified line south of Lake Inari.)

Today's mobilization order was the first going outside the normal classes of reservists.

(The call probably adds 20,000 to the Finnish forces, which were authoritatively estimated at 400,000 at the start of the war. Finnish reports have placed the strength of the opposing Red army forces as high as 1,500,000.)

The men called were instructed to report by December 26 with at least a three days' food supply.

All the regular reserves had been called by December 16.

Air raid alarms were sounded this morning in many cities of Southern Finland, inluding Helsingfors, where the alarm was sounded at 10.03 a.m. (3.03 a.m., EST), followed by the all clear signal 11 minutes later.

A number of raiding planes were seen over Southwestern Finland and four times during the day warnings sounded at Turku (Abo), which was bombed three times yesterday. A number of houses were destroyed yesterday, and a workers' apartment house was set afire. Ten bombs exploded outside the town and four persons were injured.

At Hangoe, coastal fortress town on the southwestern coast, an air raid alarm lasted four hours. A refugee camp outside the town was reported hit, but the extent of damage was unknown.

Coastal batteries drove back Russian raiding planes at Kotka. Two planes were reported shot down off Antrea, near Viipuri

A hundred Russian planes in formations of from three to 20 attacked Helsingfors, Viipuri, Hangoe, Turku and other areas yesterday.

Several fires were started in Viipuri and civilians were killed and wounded Three Finnish fighting planes downed two Russian ships in flames outside Viipuri, Finnish sources said.

Apple Saves Day

Boston, Dec. 20 (AP)

MRS. NINA FLYNN, fearful that Christmas might be slim for her three youngsters, told them Santa Claus was ill and might not be able to visit them this year.

Five-year-old Ronald Flynn was pretty well disturbed by this tale, however, and he showed up at city hospital a little later with an apple.

"Apples make you well, ma said so," he advised the doctors.

Berlin Trade Totters In Rumania

Allies Are Expected To Press Contracts Shut Germany Out

LONDON, Dec. 20 (CP) — New moves by Great Britain and France on the trade and diplomacy fronts were forecast today in authoritative circles as a consequence of yesterday's session of the allied war council in France.

A communique which followed the meeting said the council had "ordered necessary measures to reinforce the means of action which the Franco-British collaboration has at its disposal in the diplomatic field, as well as the military."

A breakdown in German-Rumanian trade relations—at least a delay in the signing of trade agreement—was counted as a significant factor in allied plans. There were strong indications a trade "offensive" would be aimed at Germany in the Balkan region.

A Bucharest dispatch said demands of German manufacturers for a 24 per cent increase on past and future deliveries to Rumania delayed conclusion of pact.

The head of the German mission to Rumania, Dr. Karl Clodius, said the manufacturers would refuse to fulfill contracts, including partly-filled orders for products of the Czech protectorate, unless the increase were granted. Rumanian officials were reported to have balked at the demand.

Time To Step Out

Extensive business interests have been pressing the British government to step up the economic war—to put it on a par with the recent bolder strokes in the air and at sea.

Business men argued the allies must outbid Germany for neutral goods, whatever the price, and at the same time undersell her. They were encouraged by November figures showing sharp increases in British imports and exports.

The London Daily Express cautioned, however, that "it is too soon for the government to whoop and wave their hats in the air. Export figures are swollen by deliveries held up since the war began."

MRS. Sally Learmonth, 37, Toronto, today was fined $50 with court costs after she had pleaded guilty to a charge of offering lottery tickets for sale. The tickets, police say were for contests to be held by a Ridgetown service club (Rotary).

They were priced at 25 cents and sold as donations toward the club's fund in behalf of crippled childen.

U.S. Offered Aid To Help Expel Graf Spee

MONTEVIDEO Dec. 20—(AP) — Diplomatic sources of high authority disclosed today the United States, Argentina and Brazil had offered armed aid to Uruguay for ejection of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

The informant stated that in the last hours before the German raider acceded to Uruguay's departure order Sunday, the representatives of the Washington, Buenos Aires and Rio De Janeiro Governments agreed in a meeting here to assist Uruguay if the need should arise.

The Admiral Graf Spee finally sailed out of Montevideo and was exploded by its commander, Capt. Hans Langsdorff, rather than again face the British warships it had battled last Wednesday.

It was explained that force, had its use been necessary, would have involved the American nations concerned in putting teeth into the

Glorious Sacrifice To Fatherland Is German View

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 20.— (By Telephone to New York.)—(AP). — Captain Hans Langsdorff, sorrowing over the loss of the pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, shot himself to death with a revolver.

The German embassy, announcing his suicide, said his body was found this morning at 8.30 a.m. (6.30 a.m. E.S.T.)

Captain Langsdorff, the embassy said, took his life at the naval arsenal last night.

"He sacrificed his life for the Fatherland," said an embassy communique.

The embassy statement follows:

"The commander of the glorious pocket battleship, Captain Hans Langsdorff, sacrificed his life for the Fatherland last night, eliminating himself voluntarily as he himself told in a letter addressed to the German ambassador.

Planned Same Doom.

"From the first moment he made up his mind to share the fate of his magnificent ship.

Desperate Finns Make New Stand In Arctic

As the Kremlin sent new masses of troops and mechanized units into the invasion, loss of the 23,256-ton Russian battleship Oktaibrskaya-Revolutia (October Revolution) was reported in a Danish news dispatch. Unofficial but well-informed sources in Helsingfors denied the warship had been sunk.

The battleship was completed in 1914 by the Czarist navy under the name of Gangut, the warship had a normal crew of 1,125 men and carried 12 12-inch guns. A Russian destroyer and patrol ship had been reported sunk by the Finns last week.

At least four Red army planes were shot down yesterday, the Finns said, in a renewal of aerial warfare over Helsingfors in which 32 bombs were dropped in the Suburban area, causing little damage.

The Finnish communique said their air force had bombed and machine-gunned supply columns and troop rest areas in Russian territory, while land forces made a successful offensive north of Lake Ladoga.

Attacks Cost Dearly.

"The enemy launched heavy attacks in great force on the "Karelian; Isthums front," said the communique, which did not mention the battleship. "The main Russian attack took place between Muola-

House Wreckers Drop $12,900 In Negro's Hands

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 20.—(AP).—Joseph Johnson, 70-year-old Negro laborer, was cleaning bricks for 75 cents per thousand as wreckers tore down an old house.

The cornice collapsed. Johnson saw a small tin box, pried into it. His eyes bulged. Greenbacks—two bundles of large, old-fashioned bills! "The sweat just popped out on me."

Excited, and still confused, he decided to "wait and see if anything comes out in the papers."

Something did. Mrs. Rafale Rizzuti, watching the house razing, had reported to police she saw a Negro find "some big green papers" and rush away.

Police recovered the money in the Metropolitan Spiritualist Church of Christ (Negro) where it had been taken by a friend of Johnson's. But they still had a big headache: Whose money?

They said that probably would be decided in court.

Better, Faster War Planes Than New Nazi 110's Held In Reserve By R.A.F.

LONDON, Dec. 20 — (CP). — Britain has in reserve planes superior in striking power and speed to the new Messerschmidt 110's which were first seen in the aerial battle over Heligoland on Monday when 12 or more of the German planes were shot down, it was learned here to-day.

The new German fighters are planes equipped with two water-cooled motors of 12 cylinders each, capable of a speed of 370 to 375 miles an hour, and armed with four machine guns forward and two aft, and two low-calibre guns.

When the Air Ministry feels the need to do so, it can put on the line new fighters which are superior to these German fighting craft. However, in the planes they were using during Monday's fight, the British airmen showed they were at least equal to the new Messerschmidts and their German pilots.

The fight showed that the British bombers do not need to be convoyed by squadrons of pursuit ships and that the Measerschmidts must suffer from the same flaw as earlier models, excessive weight. Otherwise it would be impossible to explain why the Germans lost so many ships in combat against slower bombers not especially designed for aerial fighting.

BERLIN, Dec. 20 — (AP). — Lieut.-Colonel Karl Schumacher said to-day lessons which his squadron learned in the Spanish Civil War and the Polish campaign helped in the Heligoland naval base aerial battle with British bombers.

Schumacher, head of the pursuit squadron which engaged in Monday's battle, was decorated with the Iron Cross yesterday.

(The British Air Ministry announced seven British planes were lost and that 12 German planes were brought down. The Germans claimed 36 British planes were lost, as against two German craft.)

In a press interview, Schumacher said 52 Vickers-Wellington bombers engaged in the fight with 40 German pursuit planes.

Aside from experience in the Spanish and Polish campaigns, Schumacher said his airmen were able to study their enemy's combat methods in British flights over Wilhelmshaven on September 4, Heligoland September 29, and the North Frisian Islands on December 14.

"We don't understimate the Tommies," Schumacher added. "We know what they can do, and we know that they are as brave as they showed on December 14 when they attacked in weather when normally there is no flying."

Higrading Charged

Toronto, Dec. 20 (CP)

PROVINCIAL and city detectives today stopped a truck on the Dundas highway outside Toronto and arrested William Cembrowski, 36, formerly of Timmins, on a charge of highgrading.

Nuggets valued at $7,000 were found, police said, inside socks stuffed into a pair of miner's shoes that were in the truck.

Cembrowski is said to have come to the Toronto district from Timmins three months ago.

Admits Killing Three Men 20-Day Bride

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 20—(AP).—Charles Garner, who confessed he drowned his bride of 20 days "for the notoriety," now volunteers that he killed three men—two of them because of a quarrel over an all-night date with his wife-to-be.

Officers were skeptical but began an immediate investigation because "it all checks so far."

"I want to get the matter off my mind. I prefer death to life imprisonment," Garner told Warden Tom Scott and newspapermen in Missouri Penitentiary. He is serving a life term for his bride's death.

Then he calmly related a story of shooting, poisoning and drowning that began last summer when he was a garbage hauler in York, Neb.

Garner asserted he:

Shot Alvin Collingham, June 1, because he objected to Garner's all-night date with his sister, Jean Collingham.

Poisoned a neighbor, Clem Hall, who "bet I knew something about" Collingham's death.

Drowned Jean in a Liberal, Mo., quarry pool July 2, 20 days after their marriage because "she was the only one who knew" of the two slayings at York.

Argentina Rules Spee Crew To Be Interned

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 20 (AP)— Land-locked life in the Argentine interior became the lot today of the Admiral Graf Spee's crew, interned for duration of the war.

President Robert Oritz decreed last night that officers of the German sea raider which was burned and sunk in the River Plata estuary could live in Buenos Aires, but that the seamen must be distributed among provinces far from the ocean or the river.

Germany will bear the maintenance costs, the president said, with detailed arrangements left to the ministry of justice and interior, which controls the nation's police forces.

Foreign Minister Jose Cantilo numbered the interned crew at 1,039. However, the German commander, Captain Hans Langsdorff, was quoted in Montevideo as telling port authorites this was the number of his crew when the Admiral Graf Spee engaged three British cruisers Dec. 13. Thirty-six were killed, and 60 wounded were left in Montevideo. Four able-bodied stragglers also were reported held in Uruguay.

Captain Ready

Langsdorff, who brought his men here aboard tugs after blowing up the Admiral Spee with his own hands Sunday night, had remarked as he landed, "I am ready for internment."

Still wearing his Iron Cross and blue naval uniform, he said impatiently, "All that is over," when mention was made of the Exeter, one of three British cruisers which drove his pocket battleship to cover.

When told that the German merchant ship Columbus had been scuttled by her crew off Norfolk, Virginia, Langsdorff flared, "That doesn't concern me."

5 Days Leave For Canadian Troops As Boys Prepare Jolly Christmas

WITH THE CANADIAN ACTIVE SERVICE FORCE SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Dec. 20—(CP Cable). —Five days' leave will be granted over Christmas and New Year's to a limited number of officers and other ranks of the Canadian Active Service Force, it was announced today.

The leave will be restricted to those with relations or friends to visit in the British Isles, since the groups planning entertainment for Canadian troops in London and elsewhere are not yet organized.

Leaves will be available at New Year's or later for those not benefitting from the Christmas concessions.

"We have had one application to go to France, where the applicant claimed to have a wife there," mentioned the staff officer in charge.

Canadian units in camp are now complete and are engaged in practice. The troops are comfortably located in barracks with central heating. Officers are billeted in quarters with fire grates in each room and a general air of chilliness and damp.

Considerable Shivering.

Around headquarters of the C. A. S. F. a good deal of time is spent shivering, trying to keep warm and seeking heavy baggage and trunks to get out long underwear. The warmest Canadian is Private D. J. McEwen of Ottawa, of the advance party which has been here for a month. He moves around feeding coal to the grates.

Following tomorrow's visit of Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary of State for War, Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, and General Sir Walter Kirke, commander-in-chief of the home forces; Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, the Canadian commander, and his chief assistant will go to London Friday to clean up a variety of matters and will visit the War Office to see General Sir Edmund Ironside, chief of the Imperial General Staff.

General McNaughton in a statement today, said that "on the eve of Christmas the people of the British Isles have set themselves out to give us a merry welcome" and that "the generous offers of hospitality are much appreciated"

At the camp the troops will get this Christmas menus: Roast turkey, English dairy-fed pork, Christmas pudding, old ale, mince pie.

Alibi Perfect, Killer Beats Lie Detector Only To Have Shotgun Story Trip Him

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—(AP)—A youthful gun enthusiast who successfully matched his wits against seasoned detectives for 10 weeks was held today as the confessed slayer of a one-time friend.

Captain Thomas Harrison announced that Carl Erickson, 25, confessed last night that he shot and killed Herbert Wolff, 28, and then told of how he defeated a lie detector test and circumvented a ballistics test of the death weapon.

But it was Erickson's imperfect knowledge of firearms that eventually led to the confession, Capt. Harrison said.

Wolff was slain with a pistol Sept. 29 while asleep in a garage where he worked as an attendant. Erickson was seized for questioning but provided an alibi through a roommate, George McKenna.

Captain Harrison said Erickson passed the lie detector test when originally arrested, and that a ballastic test of Erickson's pistol was fruitless. He remained under suspicion, however, because he attributed nitrate stains on his hands to a shotgun he said he had fired the day before the slaying.

"He did not know," said Captain Harrison "that a shotgun leaves no nitrate stains."

Arrested a second time last Saturday, Erickson was questioned for nearly three days. Then, Capt. Harrison said, Erickson told the following story:

He took Wolff and his wife into his apartment a year before the slaying, assisted Wolff in getting employment, and finally quarreled with him over his "ingratitude."

On the night of the slaying he crawled over his sleeping roommate, went to the garage and killed Wolff, and returned to bed without awakening McKenna. He had taken McKenna, a transient, to his living quarters to perfect an alibi.

To circumvent a ballastics test of the revolver he destroyed the rifling inside the barrel by rubbing it with an abrasive.

To defeat the lie detector he rehearsed carefully his statement to the police and the answers to anticipated questions.

Promoter Offers To Help Boxer Defend Charge Of Murder

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 — (AP).— Ernest Kehler, 24, Canadian boxer who allegedly signed a 15-page confession that he killed Dr. Walter Engelberg, 42, first secretary of the German Consulate, on December 5, was brought back from Toronto to-day to face homicide charges.

Handcuffed to two detectives, Kehler, who fought under the name of Ernie Haas, hid his face and crouched behind a cordon of police as he arrived at Grand Central Station.

Michael Kern, assistant district attorney of King's County, told newsmen that the case was "all settled."

According to the purported confession, Kehler bludgeoned Dr. Engelberg to death in the Nazi agent's Brooklyn home in a blind fury aroused when Dr. Engelberg's behavior became offensive to him.

Boxing circles here described the youth as a third-rate fighter who slept on rubbing tables and was fed by a ring promoter who regarded him highly as a "clean boy."

Police said an unwitting remark dropped by Mrs. Kehler to a clerk in a Jamaica, Long Island, store where she was buying Christmas toys for the daughter led to the capture of her husband. By chance, police said, Mrs. Kehler remarked that she and her husband planned to go to Toronto over the Christmas holidays.

Friend Offers Aid.

"Ernie, this is Benny. I'll take care of you," he shouted. But Kehler, hemmed by police, didn't see his friend.

"I never knew anything bad about Ernie," Freedman said. "He used to sleep on the rubbing tables at my club, and I'd give him money for his meals.

"I never knew he was married, and I can't understand how he got into this mess. I always thought of him as a good boy."

In his confession, as given out by District Attorney William Geoghan of Brooklyn, Kehler asserted he struck up a "ringside" acquaintance with Dr. Engelberg last September 19 when he was boxing at the Jamaica Arena.

Invited To His Home

"We got to talking and he invited me to his home," the statement said. "I met him again on Monday night, Dec. 4, at the Arena, where I was acting as second for a fighter named Gene Johnson."

This time, Kehler said, Dr. Engelberg approached him with inquiries about taking off weight and sug-

Deserted By Pals Thief Nabbed After Gun Fight

OTTERVILLE, Dec. 20.—A sneering, swaggering young bandit, cornered after a holdup of the Royal Bank branch here yesterday, fired a shot at the screaming wife of the bank manager, pulled the trigger twice again without result, and then fled, only to be captured by a store clerk. The bullet missed the woman.

Robert Harlow, 23, was held in prison cell after a sensational episode which saw two confederates flee in a motor car when Mrs. V. D. Olliver, wife of the bank manager, screamed at the top of her voice, bringing a crowd of citizens to the spot. Harlow was captured by Ross Davis, grocery clerk, who fired one shot at the fleeing bandit and then ordered the bandit to stop. He did, and threw his gun away when commanded to do so by Davis.

"A couple of yellow rats," was Harlow's description of his pals who left him to his fate when it appeared certain the getaway plans were to misfire. Harlow had $200 of the bank's money in his possession when captured.

Ditched Robbers Escape Afoot

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 20. —(CP)—Two men who held up a service station here early today escaped across fields outside the city limits after a police cruiser forced the car in which they were fleeing into a ditch.

Several shots were fire by police during the chase, but none was believed to have struck either of the men. Police started search for the men after word was received that the Centennial service station had been held up shortly after midnight.

They spotted the car in the city and gave chase. They overtook the car about four miles outside the city and forced it into a ditch. The two men scrambled from the badly damaged car and escaped in nearby fields under cover of darkness. Police said the car used by the men was stolen in Toronto.

LONDON, Dec. 20 — (CP). — The British Government was understood to-day to feel that the Royal Navy has a right to fight battles anywhere on the international seas, regardless of the Pan-American 300-mile neutrality 'safety zone.'

The question arises in connection with the battle between the German pocket batleship Admiral Graf Spee and three British cruisers off the coast of Uruguay.

The British contention is understood to be that if the aims of the zone could be enforced, it would work to the advantage of the Allies, and they would favor it. Barring physical evidence of workability of the plan, however, the inclination is to regard the international seas as a legitimate place of battle.

Flouting Hitler.

LONDON, Dec. 20 — (CP). — Captain Hans Langsdorff's suicide was interpreted in British naval circles today at the last gesture of a gallant sea-dog determined to dissociate himself from Adolf Hitler's order for the scuttling of the Admiral Graf Spee.

His decision to kill himself may have been strengthened, it was said, by the revelation that in ordering him to sink the Admiral Graf Spee Nazi authorities stated a formidable Allied naval force was waiting to pounce once the pocket battleship left Uruguayan territorial waters. Actually only three British cruisers were on hand for the expected engagement.

A suit for $5,000, brought by Mrs. Mae Hill of Havelock against the village of Havelock, occupied the attention of Mr. Justice Roche at the non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario all day to-day. Mrs. Hill entered suit as a result of a fall she claims to have suffered on icy streets last winter, in which she injured her spine. W. J. A. Fair appeared for Mrs. Hill and T. N. Phelan, K.C., of Toronto, acted for the municipality. The trial opened late Tuesday afternoon and all plaintiff's witnesses had not been heard at noon today.

Scots Changing The Terrain In France

These men of a Highland regiment are busily moving great chunks of the French landscape in wheel-barrows, somewhere behind the Maginot line. The censor did not commit himself as to the exact location of the Scots' activities or as to just what the "Ladies From Hell" are digging up the landscape for.

ing full knowledge of regulations to affect these seamen, he postponed fulfilment of his designs until he was better able to carry out that duty and also the duty of informing his superiors of the event.

Having completed that mission last night, the fate of the brave sailor was sealed, the sailor who wrote another glorious page in the book of the German navy.

In Jolly Mood

Despite a presentment of death which other Germans as well as naval officers felt when Captain Langsdorff failed to go down with his ship when he blew it up, he was almost constantly laughing and joking with his companions until he closed the door of his room last night.

Neither his fellow officers nor Argentine sailors and officers inside the arsenal heard the death shot, and there was no indication of the suicide until the aide entered the room this morning.

"That can never be true! Our captain would not do a thing like that—it must have been an attempt on his life."

Captain Langsdorff will be buried at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon in the German cemetery here after the naval funeral at the embassy.

The Argentine Ministry of Marine began an inquest this afternoon and will make a report available to the German embassy for transmission to Berlin.

Son Of Clergyman.

Captain Langsdorff was 45, the son of Wilhelm Langsdorff, a clergyman. His death terminated a 27-year naval career that included participation in the Battle of Jutland. In that famous North Sea engagement he was an ensign with the ninth destroyer flotilla.

Langsdorff then was a mere youth, having joined the Kaiser's navy in 1912. After the war, when Germany undertook to create a new navy, Captain Langsdorff served first as the captain of a destroyer and then as commander of a destroyer division. Subsequently he served on the staff of the commanding chief of the German naval forces.

Before taking command of the Admiral Graf Spee, about 14 months ago, he was on duty with the German navy department in Berlin.

Langsdorff was detained at the naval arsenal after he reached Argentina with more than 1,000 of his men from Uruguay where the Graf Spee was scuttled on Adolf Hitler's orders on Sunday.

Argentina ordered internment of the German seamen—the crew in the interior and the officers in Buenos Aires.

Bids Officers Farewell.

At 9:30 o'clock last night Langsdorff called his staff officers into consultation. For three hours they talked. When the meeting broke up Captain Langsdorff gravely shook hands with each of his men, making a complete circle of the officers assembled before him.

Then he went to his room leaving word he was not to be disturbetd because he was tired.

An aide entered his room at 8:30 this morning and found the captain dead.

The German Ambassador and Argentine authorities were immediately notified. The Ambassador did not give the German crew word of their commander's fate until he had communicated it to the Argentine Minister of War.

At noon the crew, confined at the naval arsenal, were summoned and the announcement of Captain Langsdorff's death was made to them.

German Embassy attaches said the captain's death had been expected since Sunday morning when he gave his camera and other personal effects to a man in the Embassy, saying: "Take these; I will not need them any more."

Careful Of Lives

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 20.—(AP)—A slight, alert sailor, Captain Hans Langsdorff made up in personality what he lacked in size.

He was the kind of seafighter who could sink nine merchant ships—the number attributed to the Graf Spee before her raiding was ended by last week's naval battle—and then declare with delight he was thankful no loss of life had resulted from the sinkings.

Langsdorff displayed a springy step and a pleasant smile when he paid formal calls on Uruguayan authorities after the Graf Spee reached Montevideo last Wednesday.

But the following day there was no smile, only a look of deep seriousness, when the bodies of 36 men were brought ashore from the Graf Spee for burial.

He stood at the centre of a weighty international question involving the status of his ship and at a perhaps graver humanitarian problem — whether to risk the lives of more than 1,000 young seamen in a dash to sea past Allied warships hovering off the Uruguayan coast.

"Adolf Hitler may give the orders," one dockside observer put it before the Graf Spee was scuttled, "but it will be up to Hans Langsdorff to carry them out."

From Hitler came orders to scuttle the ship, and Langsdorff did so without losing the life of any of his men.

Then the captain and most of his men sailed up the Plate River to Argentina and internment.

One of his enemies in the war at sea had this to say of him:

"There is no mercy from Langsdorff when he has fighting to do, but when he is not fighting he is a fine gentleman."

It was Captain Patric Dove, captain of the British tanker Africa Shell, who said it. Dove knew, for he spent three months as an enforced "guest" aboard the Graf Spee after the Africa Shell was sunk.

CAPTURED IN CHASE.

LONDON, Dec. 20 — (CP). — Sought in two car thefts, one in his hometown of Port Credit and the other at Windsor, Ont., Robert Leslie Clement, 17, was captured last night in Strathroy by Police Chief George Tanton. In city court today, Magistrate D. B. Menzies remanded the youth to December 27 on a nominal charge of vagrancy

VERA CRUZ—(AP).—Indications the commander of the German liner Columbus foresaw the possibility he might have to scuttle his ship to escape British warship were seen today in reports that large amounts of valuable furnishings and equipment were transferred before departure.

LONDON—(CP).—The 32,581-ton German liner Columbus was the 23rd Reich ship to "commit suicide" rather than submit to capture, according to figures compiled here. The total loss in German tonnage was estimated at 139,423. Another 19 vessels with a total tonnage of 88,218 have been captured by British and French naval units.

LONDON—(AP).—Admiral Archibald Peile Stoddart, second in command of the British squadron that smashed a German raiding force in the battle of the Falkland Islands December 8, 1914, died today at the age of 79. Son and grandson of British admirals, he had a long career.

Blizzards Halt Fighting.

KIRKENES, Norway (At the Finnish Frontier)—(AP) — Blizzards and temperatures of 25 degrees below zero laid a paralyzing hand on Russo-Finnish military operations in the Far North today. The Arctic winter set in with full force, making outdoor activity practically impossible.

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP) — Herbert F. Lieflander, 36, German sailor from Danzig, in municipal court on a charge of illegal entry into the United States, told Judge John McNeils:

"If I'm sent back to Danzig, I'll find some way to come back here. I'd rather die than go back. You can't talk to your best friend without fear of being thrown into a concentration camp."

OSLO, Norway—(AP). — Survivors of the 606-ton British trawler Trinidad were brought into Egersund today by a Danish fishing boat which reported the vessel had been "blown to pieces" by a German plane just outside Norwegian territorial waters. One member of the crew drowned and another died of exhaustion.

ROME—(CP-Havas). — Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police, arrived here today on an undisclosed mission. Himmler, who was in Italy only six weeks ago on a secret mission, was believed under instructions to confer with Premier Mussolini.

tacks, the Sedgefly and Evelina, were naval trawlers engaged in mine-sweeping.

"Britons fired on as they swam for life," the Evening News headlined its story of one German raid.

Gunned in the Water.

The account declared a German raider "bombed and sank the British trawler Trinity and afterward machine-gunned the survivors as they clung to bits of wreckage or tried to swim to rafts."

A statement accused the Germans of seeking to justify such fragrant breaches of international law and decency" as the trawler attacks "by inventing a British attack on German towns."

The Air Ministry last night issued a statement declaring that German news agency reports of a British bombing raid on two towns on the Island of Sylt were "entirely false." Sylt is a German island off the German-Danish border.

British dispatches declared the Berlin correspondent of a Zurich, Switzerland, newspaper had obtained confirmation of reports the 10,000-ton German cruiser Bluecher had been damaged by the British submarine Salmon.

The Admiralty announced Monday that the Salmon, encountering a concentration of German warships in the North Sea December 13, had fired six torpedoes which damaged the 6,000-ton cruiser Leipzig and one other heavier warship.

Exports Go Up

OTTAWA, Dec. 20. — (CP). — Canada's exports during November rose in value to $97,163,000 from $85,979,000 in November last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported to-day. The United States was the best consumer, taking goods amounting to $45,201,000 compared with $28,387,000 last year, followed by the United Kingdom with $30,008,000 against $35,750,000.

Planes And Guns Seen Allied Aid To Finland

PARIS, Dec. 20.—(AP) — Great Britain and France, in the opinion of military observers, favor sending planes and guns—not an expeditionary force—as the more feasible sort of aid to Finland against the Soviet invasion.

Geography appeared to be the deciding factor. Planes and their cargoes of guns and ammunition could be flown to Finland. Hazards of the water route and the neutrality of Norway and Sweden would prevent use of the most direct maritime and overland routes.

Finnish circles in Paris anxiously awaited French and British assistance following the League of Nations' invitation for aid to Finland and ouster of Russia as an aggressor.

They said Finland was confident she could continue her resistance indefintely, if she could not get a quick supply of planes and anti-aircraft and field artillery.

NewBaconBoard HeadsAppointed

OTTAWA, Dec. 20—(CP).—Membership of the Bacon Board on which the Canadian Government has placed responsibility for carrying out terms of the agreement with the United Kingdom to supply up to 5,600,000 pounds of bacon and hams weekly was announced today.

It consists of Hon. J. G. Taggart, Saskatchewan Minister of Agriculture, chairman; S. E. Todd, secretary of the Industrial and Development Council of Canadian Meat Packers, Toronto; L. C. McOuat, general agricultural agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal; Adrien Morin, Quebec Department of Agriculture, Quebec, and L. W. Pearsall, Ottawa.

The appointment of the chairman of the board was announced last week and today Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced an Order-in-Council had been passed completing the board.

The secretary-manager of the board is Mr. Pearsall, chief of livestock inspection and grading services of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

50 U-Boats Sunk Since Sept. 3

PARIS, Dec. 20 (AP) — Official French estimates today placed at mor ethan 50 of the number of German submarines sunk by the Allies since the war began Sept. 3.

The French officials estimated that when the war started Germany had some 60 U-boats, and said that at least 12 had been accounted for by France's fast destroyer units.

The latest sinking was credited last night to the 1,316-ton destroyer Sirocco, which previously had sent two submarines to the bottom in one week.

Naval experts have said that the Allies were destroying submarines at the rate of four a week, twice as fast as Germany's capacity to replace them. This would leave Germany with some 36 submarines at present.

French military sources reported that front line troops repulsed four German raids late yesteday between the Moselle River and the Vosges Mountains.

The strongest attack, they said, was broken up by heavy artillery fire which forced the Germans, estimated at about one company, to retire in confusion, abandoning arms and material.

The army high command's communique today said, however, there was "nothing to report."

Patrons To Instal New Cheese Presses

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 19. — (ENS)—The best method of dividing whey so that each patron would be assured of getting his proper share formed the centre of discussion at the annual meeting of the Empire Cheese Company at their annual meeting. Arrangements were finally made whereby cheesemaker Les. Shillinglaw would take charge of the division. Feeling that the present was an opportune time to install new hoops and presses patrons appointed a committee which will apply for aid to the Federal Department of Agriculture under the Factory Improvement Act.

The meeting, which was presided over by President Fred Peake, was also addressed briefly by District Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray and A. G. Thompson of Campbellford.

Officers for the coming season were elected as follows: President, Fread Peake; secretary, E. W. Mitchell; directors, Messrs. W. H. Haig, Frank Lee and Ross Stephens.

The annual statement of the factory revealed the thirty-two patrons had delivered a total of 1,842,352 pounds of milk from which a total of 151,473 pounds of cheese or an average of one pound of cheese for 12.1 pounds of milk was produced. Total butter fat was 56,564 pounds and the average price received per pound of cheese was 12.62 cents. Patrons were paid and average of 30.28 cents per pound of butter fat plus the bonus of 1.75 cents making a total of $17,129.12. The bonus amounted to $986 and the average test was 3.07%.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

lead Winnipeg grain ... ...

WINNIPEG, Dec. 20 — (CP). — Declines at Chicago offset the bullish effects of improved export interest in Canadian wheat and weakened wheat futures prices 1½ to ¾ cents on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. December wheat closed at 45¼, May 49¼ and July 90 cents.

Apart from the first half hour when trading was nervously active, operations displayed little feature throughout the quiet session.

In addition to the export support, milling interests were credited with purchasing 150,000 bushels of wheat in the pit.

Six Escape Fire

Charles W. Flint Dies In Kingston

KINGSTON, Dec. 20.—One of the best-known older residents of Kingston passed away recently in the person of Charles W. Flint, at the age of 84 years. Deceased resided in Kingston for 64 years and only recently, with his wife, celebrated the 63rd anniversary of their marriage.

The late Mr. Flint was born at Cobourg and came to Kingston in 1875, shortly after his marriage. From 1875 to 1880 he served at Fort Henry and was again in uniform at the time of the Riel Rebellion in 1885. During the First Great War he had five sons serving overseas. He was himself a saddler in the army for a number of years. Later he was night fireman at the city buildings, retiring about ten years ago.

The late Mr. Flint was possessed of a fine memory and many were the anecdotes he loved to tell of experiences during the Northwest Rebellion and during his service at Fort Henry. He had been ill for only about three weeks.

He is survived by his wife, six daughters, Mrs. William Lower, Mrs. James E. McGuire, Mr. Carrie Nolan of Kingston, Mrs. Harvey Pelletier of Montreal, Mrs. William Klick of Rochester, N.Y., and Mrs. William Pollitt of Hamilton, and four sons, Charles, James, Thomas of Kingston and Robert of Peterborough. In addition there are 42 grandchildren and 32 great-grandchildren.

Rough Rides

London, Dec. 20 (CP).

THE second Great War has set Britain's civil aviation clock back to one year after the first Great War and given pilots one of the toughest jobs they have ever had to handle.

The air ministry has forbidden them use of their radio sets and withdrawn all weather forecasts. It has ordered them to fly on prescribed routes "within ground visibility" even in cloudy or rainy weather.

Pilots are forbidden to fly around storm areas and passengers, consequently have been experiencing the roughest trips of their lives.

Vesper Service Held By Y.PU.

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 20—(ENS).—One of the best attended and most interesting of the year's meetings in connection with the Y. P. U. was held on Sunday evening. It was arranged by Miss Helen Staples and took the form of a Vesper Service.

Miss Laura Neals played soft Christmas music at the opening. After Miss Staples led in prayer, the processional hymn, "O Come All Ye Faithful," was sung and the members of the executive took their places in the choir loft. Miss Staples conducted the worship period, and the responses were taken by the executive.

Bernard Preston's solo, "O Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus," was then enjoyed.

Miss Mary Staples told the story of the "The Hunchback Zia."

"Christmas on Sunset Slope," showed an aged couple (Irwin McIntosh and Mrs. Lloyd Whittington) sitting talking about the Christmases they had spent with friends in the past. As they talked of the old familiar Christmas hymns, the congregation joined in singing one verse of each.

Mrs. H. E. Connolly of Peterboro was guest speaker and brought the Christmas Message. She pictured Christmas if Christ had not come. It was explained by telling of a minister who had dreamed of a Christmas such as that—no trees, no Christmas carols, no bible with its message of Christ's birth and resurrection, no church, and no Christ. This was contrasted with what the minister found on being wakened from his dream by the ringing of the bell in the church near by.

Miss Mary Robson sang, "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

After the recessional hymn, "The First Nowell," Rev. J. F. Everson pronounced the benediction.

The Sunday School Christmas concert will be held on Thursday, December 21. The program will be provided by the pupils of S. S. No. 3 under the direction of their teacher, Miss Zetta Wilson. There will be a Christmas tree and word has been received that Santa will be present.

The Young People's Bible Class of which Mrs. (Rev). Everson is the teacher held a supper meeting in the basement of the church on Friday evening, twenty members were present and the catering was done by the W. A. group of which Mrs. H. Cathcart and Mrs. R. Wood are leaders.

A Cruel Holiday

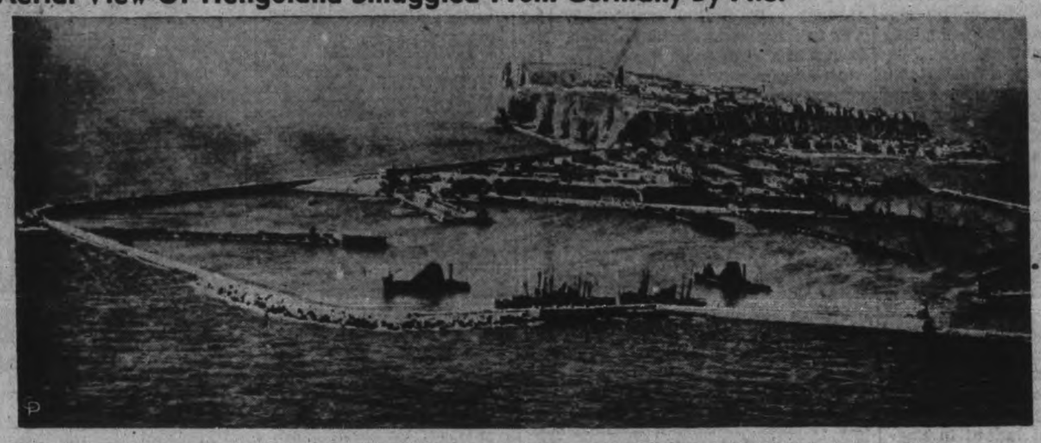
OTTAWA, Dec. 20—(CP).—Boxing Day, Dec. 26 will be observed as a civic holiday in Ottawa. This was decided by city council last night by a 20-4 vote.

SHIFTING THE COST

TORONTO, Dec 20—(CP).—Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, said today he would take under consideration the request of a delegation representing the Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association that the provincial government pay the cost of testing milk in cheese factories.

At present the cost is carried by the cheese producers and totals about $10,000 annually for the several hundred factories in the province.

Aerial View Of Heligoland Smuggled From Germany By Flier



Shown here is a new aerial view of the heavily fortified island of "Heligoland" off the German coast in the North Sea. The fury of war has visited this island in the past few days as the British air force has staged bombing raids with this important fort and fleet base as target. The lagoon which can be seen here between the larger island known as "the rock" and the smaller island known as "Dunen-Insel" can accommodate the largest ship of the German navy. "The rock" is a veritable North Sea Gibraltar, honeycombed with heavy gun emplacements. This photograph was made and smuggled out of Germany by an aviator who is now stationed on Long Island—it would have probably cost him his head if he were cought with it in Naziland.

CAMPBELLFORD

Ladies' Choir Gives Concert

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 19 (ENS)—The Allegreto Ladies' Choir scored another triumph on Sunday evening when they sang before a capacity audience in the Masonic Temple auditorium. It was their first concert of the season and the audience was unstinting in its applause. Proceeds of the evening were donated to the Campbellford and Seymour Branch of the Red Cross Society. They sang six numbers in two groups and joined the audience in three groups of carols in which the people sang with inspiring vigor. Such numbers as "Good King Wenceslas," "First Nowell!" "It came upon the Midnight Clear," and "While Shetpherds Watched their Flocks" were included in those flashed on the screen.

The choir, whose lyric quality and tonal vitality were splendidly effective in the auditorium, opened their first group with "Lo. How a Rose" by Praetorius, followed by a Thank we all Our God," and an arrangement by their very capable director, Haroide Kitney of Pietro Yon's "Jesu Bambino." Their second group opened with the splendidly effective German choral, "The Sleep of the Child Jesus" by Geyaert, then Schubert's "Ave Maria" and finally the dramatically colorful "Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

48 CADETS GRADUATE.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 20—(CP)—Forty-eight Cadets of the Royal Military College—third class to graduate since the school opened last September — received their diplomas in a ceremony here today. Major-General T. V. Anderson, chief of general staff at Ottawa, presented the diplomas and congratulated each Cadet individually. Lieutenant-Colonel C. R. Stein, adjutant of the college, said that all members of the class graduating today had accepted commissions in His Majesty's forces. Graduation exercises close tonight with a dance.

Harwood

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carruthers visited his sister, Mrs. Phillias Sandercock, at Camborne on Sunday.

There was no school in the senior room on Monday owing to the funeral of Miss Hoskin's grandmother, Mrs. T. Hoskin of Coldsprings.

The teachers and pupils are holding their Christmas entertainment in the hall on Thursday.

At the regular Y.P. meeting held on Thursday evening of last week, Miss Helen Hoskin was presented with an electric lamp. Mrs. Hoskin, principal of the school, has been engaged on the public school staff, Cobourg.

Peterborough Reduces Debt

The Municipal Council of Peterborough is not supposed to be a model for the province, but there are some things done here which might well be heeded elsewhere. One of these is the presentation in the form of a signed advertisement in the press of a summary of what has been taking place. It tells about taxation and expenditure; whether the expenses are going up or down, and how much. Speaks too about debenture debt and the provision made for paying it. In short, it tells the ratepayers about many things in which they should be interested, and it does the telling before election day has arrived.

Whether there are other cities which have improved their financial standing to an equal extent we do not know, but Peterborough has a story to tell.

Per capita taxation is now $35.54, while in 1931 it reached the peak of $40.59.

The actual decreases in taxation show there has been no changes made in the basis of assessment. There has been an increase in assessment but it was due this year to the wholesome fact that there were 95 new homes constructed as well as many other alterations and improvements to existing properties.

Peterborough began some time ago setting up a reserve fund for loss in taxes, and $5,000 was added this year, bringing the fund to a present total of $68,000.

Peterborough has not issued a debenture since 1933, and during the past five years the gross debenture debt has been reduced by $1,151,718. To meet this debt the City Trust has on hand sinking funds of $1,823,156, leaving us with a total net debt of $1,965,921.

The effect of this program of reduction can be traced right into the business of paying taxes, because the annual levy for the debenture debt chargeable to general taxes has been reduced from $254,450 in 1934 to $181,552 in 1939. If one applies a process of arithmetic to those figures it will be found the reduction has been 28.6 per cent. The reduction of debenture debt cannot be traced directly to reduced tax rates on a general scale. The wiping out of a certain debenture for local improvemnt would take with it the city's share of street intersections, but it would also wipe out the special levies which have been placed against the property affected, and in that way reduce the taxes of people in that particular district. But whichever way it goes the reduction finally finds its way back to the people.

Peterborough has had its share of expenditure for unemployment relief. In 1935 there were 548 families receiving relief, and the number at present is 290. This is one place where the city as such deals with effects rather than causes. It has to provide for those who have been affected by unemployment, and its method of doing so has been sound. Not since 1933 has there been one dollar raised for this effort by way of debentures. The entire cost of the city's share has been included in the tax rate for the year. Granted, this is not the most comfortable method for the people who are paying taxes today, but it is by far the soundest policy for a city which is making a dead set toward reducing its indebtedness. There are much larger cities than Peterborough which have persistently funded a great portion of their relief expenditure, and the result is their debt has increased. They have to pay in the future what we have been paying each year as the bills came in.

There may be cities which have made a better showing, but at the moment we cannot place them. We can only hope they do exist. We have been paying all our bills and at the same time reducing existing debt, and that policy remains as the soundest kind of good municipal financing.

So Many People Looking

There have been many pictures published of the blowing up of the Graf Spee. Pictures make their way to the newspapers quickly today because they can come by telephone or wire service. By now some millions of people must have seen pictures of that memorable Sunday afternoon at Montevideo.

In that way it is hardly possible that there can be two or three versions given of what took place. The official man of explanations in Berlin cannot operate to advantage. In pictures taken on the spot we notice the shore crowded with cars and the tops of people's head are as numerous as could be. And camera men were there and they would be using long range lenses to take their pictures.

It could not have been a comfortable setting for the skipper of the Graf Spee to go forth in the face of such an audience and do the thing he had been instructed to do. If he had been bent upon some act of gallantry it would have been all right. But to go out to blow up a good battleship with thousands looking on and with camera clicking and winding! The pill must have tasted bitter before he gulped it down.

Beating The Gun

This business of handling important news in time of war has not been ironed out, and perhaps it never will be. The first Canadian contingent left Canada, crossed the ocean and landed in England, and not a word was printed. Everything on this side of the Atlantic was perfect as far as secrecy was concerned.

In England the arrangement with the press was that the news of arrival should be released for publication on Wednesday morning. That too was right enough until the explosive First Lord of the Admiralty rose in the House of Commons on Monday evening and made the announcement.

It is easy to see what would happen then. Writers would find the story released at once, and they would all prepare their copy and flood the censorship office with it, where as under the previous arrangement they could have had their stories on hand in advance and everything would have worked out smoothly.

Whether the First Lord of the Admiralty is considered above the rules of censorship by which newspapers have to abide is something on which we have no information, but there is something decidedly whacky about an announcement on Monday night in the Commons after passing the word that release of the news was to come the following Wednesday.

Just why it was considered necessary to have that delay in making the news available to the press, and particularly to Canadian papers, is something which we cannot explain. There would be thousands of people in Canada who would welcome that bit of news. There may have been some sufficient reason for sitting on it for a couple of days, but such matters do not receive official explanation.

No Advantage In It

Perhaps the idea was wrong as can be, but we have at times had a belief or a suspicion that publishing a newspaper in Ottawa would give an inside track on finding out official information. Of course papers from all over the country keep staff men at Ottawa, but these men belong there just for the term of their office. Having a newspaper office there, with people working in it, with editors, reporters, desk men, operators, printers and pressmen right in the bailiwick, ought to make a difference.

We were wondering about that the other day when the Ottawa Journal was taking the Government or the Cabinet to pieces about not having anything to say about the air-training plan. The Journal was actually complaining, saying the announcement which was expected yesterday was not coming until the day after tomorrow, and then it would be delayed again until 3 o'clock next week. The Journal writer was right out in the open, and he had actually taken the buttons off the foils before going into action.

That was on Saturday, and by the time for getting out the paper on Monday Hon. Mackenzie King had made the announcement of a plan for air training the size of which we have not yet been able to grasp. So apparently it is no advantage printing a paper in Ottawa otherwise the Journal should have been able to get the Prime Minister or his secretary or the keeper of the door to cause it to be known that the big egg had chipped and was ready for the hatch.

A Minister Comes In

Rev. Dr. W. G. Brown, former Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, has been elected a member of the House of Commons. Possibly he is in for what may prove to be the rump session of a House soon to be dissolved, but there he is.

It may be in the consideration of war news and little else we have been missing some of the new political movements in our own land. This is one of them, for the reverend gentleman won the seat for Saskatoon in a by-election and did so under the auspices of the United Reform party. And admittedly that is a new one.

The riding of Saskatoon city came into existence in 1933. Previous record of the riding has been mostly Liberal, although a Progressive and a Conservative have held the seat. It went Liberal in 1935 by 1,831 majority, and now it has gone to the United Reform party. It is the first time the Liberals have lost a seat through a by-election which they had won in the general election of 1935. Mr. Brown in his campaign was in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war, but was critical of Government methods and wanted a greater control over finances. Just where he will fit in when Parliament opens next month is not at the moment certain. This Presbyterian is a vigorous speaker, and his years of experience qualify him to speak for the Canadian West.

NOTE AND COMMENT

France has ordered 630 more pursuit planes from United States, and when they get a lot of machines of that name we expect something will happen.

Soldier in the West claims to wear size 15 shoes. What a splendid sock that chap would have to hang up on the night before Christmas.

Berlin says Uruguay disregarded international law in threatening to intern the Graf Spee. But is there any person in Berlin who knows anything about international law or who believes in it?

Germany claims supremacy of the sea, meaning by that it has taken leadership in the unlawful planting of mines, something which no other nation apart from Russia would care to do.

Man at Cornwall faced charges of issuing 11 rubber cheques, which indicates a lot of unnecessary effort as one was sufficient to get him into sufficient trouble.

The cause of the sinking of the British submarine Thetis with the loss of 99 lives may never be known. It is quite definitely known though that the sub went down and did not come up.

Stratford Board of Health discussed a plan for getting rid of rats in the city. The Mayor of the city plays sweetly upon a tin whistle but he does not look like the Pied Piper.

A judge has declared that miners at Springhill, N.S., did an illegal thing by going out on strike. But as the strike is something which took place some time ago what are they going to do about it?

St. Thomas has had a visitor, who made history there years ago by making the street railway pay. Too bad the man could not have gazed upon his handiwork, but the street railway passed out long ago.

Italian spokesman declares Italy stayed out of the war by agreement with her ally, Germany. Perhaps that is so, but sources of information which are seldom wrong declare that had Italy decided to enter the war it would have meant trouble and disruption at home.

Man at Orillia declared he was not drunk until he was under the table and couldn't get up. He also said he has often driven his car after taking two quarts of beer. For eight days he will be in jail and for 60 days he will have to walk. He overlooked the fact that the court and not the defendant decides when a man is drunk.

Alfred Noyes has written to the London Times referring to the Ministry of Information as "high salaried amateur inspectors of the press." Having done with that he proceeded to express the opinion that the ministry's work was probably "not as valuable to the country as a litter of pigs raised by an honest agricultural worker." After reading it through a couple of times and thinking it over we conclude that Mr. Noyes means to say he does not think much of the Ministry of Information.

PUZZLED

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My great grandfather used a pen, and ranked with educated men, his penmanship was fine; I've seen some samples of his hand, and through the years they still will stand, distinct in every line.

¶ Grandfather's hand was much the same, and he upheld his father's fame, his penmanship was great; I need not puzzle when I look, to see the line grandfather took, nor does one need to wait.

¶ And when a little man at school, they taught me carefully each rule, how I must hold my pen; if I could master all they taught, 'twould help me on an awful lot, I'd march with leading men.

¶ But letters that I get today, are signed much like a load of hay, and some I cannot read; they are so fancy or they scrawl, I cannot make them out at all, for they have gone to seed.

¶ And yet these people live quite high, nor does their bank account run dry, they eat three times a day; according to the rules I learned, they should be cast aside and spurned, and sent upon their way.

¶ Perhaps the folk at home knew nought, of all the things I should be taught, it's hard to understand; there must be other tricks I missed, when they'd impress me and insist—I write grandfather's hand.

German Raiders Did Better In Previous War

THE RATHER inglorious end of the Graf Spee has provided an unexpected climax to twenty years of careful plans by an astute and clever German. The commander in chief of the German navy, Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, fought at Jutland. There he learned enough to convince him that it was useless for Germany to hope to compete in line of battle with the British fleet. Submarines, mines and raiders had been Germany's only effective naval arms in the last war. They could perhaps be developed to the stage where they would be a serious threat to Britain.

Raeder became head of the German navy in 1935, but long before that date it is believed that it was he who was influential in having naval architects assigned to drawing plans for pocket battleships. Commerce raiders had been usually more or less makeshift affairs in the last war, but the three new pocket battleships were the most perfect instruments for their purpose that it was possible to design. Admiral Raeder may perhaps have neglected to take as much care in selecting and training the officers and men to man them as he gave to the plans for the warships.

So now the Graf Spee is on the bottom after accounting for only nine merchant ships. That is a record of which most of the makeshift raiders of the last war would have been ashamed.

The most successful of the 1914-18 raiders was the Mowe, a 4,500-ton freighter that had been fitted with a fake funnel and superstructure. In a hundred and eighty-nine days at sea, the Mowe sank thirty-nine ships, including the British battleship King Edward VII. The battleship was sunk by a mine field which the Mowe had laid off Pentland Firth. The raider herself returned safely to Germany.

The most spectacular group of raiders of the last war was Admiral von Spee's squadron which, with the exception of one light cruiser and the famous Emden which had been detached from it earlier, was wiped out by Admiral Sturdee near the Falkland Islands. The fourteen victims of von Spee's squadron proper included two British cruisers, while the Emden, which von Spee had sent into the Indian Ocean, accounted for twenty-four ships before she was destroyed at the Cocos Islands by the Australian cruiser Sydney. Included among the Emden's victims were a Russian cruiser and a French destroyer. The Graf Spee had a name to live up to.

One of the least successful of the raiders, the cruiser Konigsberg, accounted for only two ships, recalls Kingston Whig-Standard, including a British light cruiser, in nearly a year at sea before she was herself sunk in a river in Tanganyika. The cruiser Karlsruhe, another noted raider, remained at sea ninety days, and sank eighteen ships before being destroyed by an internal explosion near the Barbados.

For sheer daring, the exploits of the Seeadler, commanded by Count von Luckner, were among the more memorable of the war. The Seeadler was a sailing vessel which sank fourteen ships during two hundred and twenty-four days at sea. Two German armed liners, the Kronprinz Wilhelm and the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, both spent more than two hundred days at sea and between them sank twenty-seven ships before being forced to put into Newport News where they were interned. The longest career of any of the German raiders of the last war was four hundred and forty-nine days, the record of the Wolf. This ship sank twelve Allied merchantmen and returned safely to Germany. Her success in eluding capture may have been partially due to the fact that she was the only raider of the seventeen or eighteen that the Germans sent out which carried a small seaplane.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

I will extol thee, my God, O king; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever. Every day will I bless thee; and I will praise thy name for ever and ever. Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised; and his greatness is unsearchable. One generation shall praise thy works to another, and shall declare thy mighty acts. I will speak of the glorious honour of thy majesty, and of thy wondrous works....

The Lord is good to all: and his tender mercies are over all his works ....Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations.... The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works.—Psalms, cxlv, 1-5, 9, 13, 17.

JOE LOUIS' WIFE

GLITTERING in a gold-sequined gown, her hair swept up, her feet in spun-glass slippers Marva Trotter Louis, wife of Heavyweight Boxing Champion Joe Louis, officiated at the coronation of St. Louis' Negro society king and queen. Introduced as "leader of Chicago society....America's premier lady of fashion," Mrs. Louis was accompanied by a local physician, who informed all, "I am a personal friend of Joe Louis." Interviewed by newshawks, Mrs. Louis said of her husband: "He never gets rowdy in the home. I sure wish I had his poise and calm."—Time.

• Goverments Were Too Greedy

(Letter in Ottawa Journal)

SIR:—Our Mr. Hepburn has announced that bootleggers are again active in Ontario and as a result he finds it necessary to reduce prices on hard liquor at Government stores. Quebec made a similar announcement a few days previously and gave an identical reason. In both cases the truth might well have been told so that it could serve as a guide and warning for future occasions.

Mr. Hepburn has discovered that the goose that lays the golden egg can only be squeezed so hard. In other words there is a limit to any form of taxation beyond which the treasury finds itself faced with diminishing returns—even though a few people may be paying larger amounts.

What happened in the case of liquor in both Ontario and Quebec was simply this:

Mr. Ralston, in his war budget last September, made provision for an increase in the excise tax on all liquor. Most people had expected such a move and, as the increase appeared reasonable, there was not much comment.

But when the Ontario Liquor Control Board came out with its revised prices list a few days later it was found that the province had gone the Dominion one better. On popular brands where the new Dominion tax meant an increase of 35 cents a bottle the price was jumped by 70 cents. Reason given was that the province had to protect its revenue, that the new Dominion tax would mean reduced consumption.

Consumption has been reduced, to a much greater degree than was expected, and the new tax is not producing anything like the revenue it was meant to. There has been some increase in Dominion revenue from liquor excise during the past three months, but as a revenue producing tax to meet increased war expenditures this tax has been a failure. As far as Dominion revenue is concerned the whole purpose of the tax has been defeated because Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Duplessis were too greedy. Now the bootlegger is being blamed.

• Testing Shells For British Guns

EVERY source of supply for British guns, munitions, and armor plate has its inspection department and its searching tests. Here, at a place on the coast where there are great stretches of tidal sand, the most severe tests of all are applied. Every firearm used in any of the services, from the pistol to the navy's 18-inch gun, is tested with "proof" charges—charges, that is, that impose greater strain on the weapons than they will undergo in actual warfare. Armor plate is viciously battered with armor-piercing shells; shells are fired, retrieved, and inspected.

Today I saw a small square of armor plate of the highest grade of steel, a foot thick, fired at by a 15-inch naval gun. The plate was fixed in a cave so that splinters should not fly wide, but even so we watched from steel shelters with minutely narrow eye slits. Later the plate was to be taken down and measured, but in the meantime we had gone on to see the staff of the establishment play hide-and-seek with the tides.

There were great guns five, six, or seven thousand yards out to sea at high tide, where the water at this flat-lying place is still only a few feet deep. By experiment it is known that the shells will neither ricochet nor bury themselves deep in the sand; they hit the water surface and drop only to the sand level. The moment the tide is out a caterpillar tractor or a team of horses with a limber must dash out to collect the projectiles and bring them in for test. The tractor goes to the firmer places, the horses to the more treacherous.

Today two horse teams came galloping back loaded with spent rounds to beat the tide—as good a sight almost as a team of horse gunners at Olympia. The shells were taken off then to departments which will judge whether the batches they came from have been made to specification. Weaknesses in the metal, imperfections in the castings, and irregularities in the thickness of the shells' walls are all searched for.

Every nominal five hundred or thousand shells or bombs or bullets made for the three services consists actually of 504 or 1,004 projectiles. The odd four, picked at random, are fired here as "proofs" of the batch. This proof range, taken over now from the War office by the ministry of supply, is the oldest and biggest in England. It is commanded by a gunner colonel, the "superintendent" over whose office door hangs the report of a trial effected on shells filled with bullets and of the devastating effect they had on thick wooden targets. The report is dated 1805 and is signed, "Henry Shrapnel, Lieutenant-Colonel, Royal Artillery." (After him shrapnel was named.) — Manchester Guardian.

DEVOTEE OF BEAUTY

HON. P. M. DEWAN, minister of agriculture, is an advocate of rural beautification. He believes that one of the best plans is to get children interested, and that they might well start with school yards. There are hundreds of school grounds throughout the province quite devoid of beauty. It is unfortunate. It is difficult to inculcate in children a love of the beautiful if they are raised, and taught, amid drab surroundings. Most school yards could be made attractive, with trees, flower beds, etc., and still leave space for play. It is difficult to believe that a love of beauty is not inherent in most humans. But environment also is important. Teach children to be neat and clean, and to admire attractive things, and they will retain such characteristics through life. —Windsor Star.

TWO IDEAS EXPLODED

TWO widely accepted ideas went by the board when the British cruisers Exeter, Achilles and Ajax met up with the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee off the Uruguayan Coast and drove her badly damaged into Montevideo for refuge.

One of these ideas was the belief that the British fleet contained only three or four vessels, which were capable of running down and coping with ships of the Admiral Graf Spee type.

The other idea was the generally held opinion that vessels carrying only six- and eight-inch guns in their main batteries would be helpless in a combat with line battleships carrying eleven-inch guns and upwards because they could not get into range before being sunk or disabled.

The German vessel carries eleven-inch guns. The Exeter carries eight-inch guns and the Achilles and Ajax six-inch guns, and everybody knows what happened when the British boats descended with speed and in force on the crack Nazi fighting boat.—Detroit Free Press.

BY THE KIEL CANAL

(Letter in New York Herald Tribune)

Consolidation of Russia's gains in the Baltic and adherence to Russia's constantly expressed purpose to communize the world demand free access to the North Sea by the direct-est route, which is the German-owned Kiel Canal. How long will it be till Germany is confronted with a demand by her Russian ownership in the Kiel Canal?

MORE POPULATION

WE FEAR that our governments, of both parties, have been lax about about immigration; we are shamed at Canada remaining so nearly stationary, whilst our neighbor to the South finds its population mounting until now it is reckoned at 130,000,000, in a country with pretty much the same area as that of Canada. It is true that the climate average favors the United States, but not to the extent implied by the difference in populations. Canada needs another man of the Sir Clifford Sifton type to handle the immigration problem; he was the man who engineered the heavy immigration to our West at the turn of the century. If there is such a man available at Ottawa now, he ought to be set to work, and if not, search should be made to unearth a Sifton duplicate. We do not see him at present. Some of the able men who have been called to big service in the war, or their like, should be able to set Canada on the upgrade in the matter of population. — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

SHOOTING A GUIDE

A HUNTER whose carelessness with his rifle cost a guide his life, was given suspended sentence and forbidden to hunt deer for five years.

The man in question, on a trip in the Little Current district, fired a shot in mid-November at 5 p.m. at a target of 200 yards away which he assumed to be a deer, but was the unfortunate man who had made his living serving good hunters and fools....

The solemn edict of the court that the man shall not hunt again for five years sounds a trifle foolish. If a careless hunter knew that if he shot a man he would have to support that man's dependents for the rest of his days that would be a truer form of justice.—Kirkland Lake Northern News.

BREAD ON THE WATERS

This is a story that comes from the Arts and Letters Club, where it was told with much success the other evening, about a plumber who went up to Sir Ellsworth Flavelle's to do a little job and got to thumbing through some magazines that had a lot of pictures of boats. Now the plumber was a yachting fan himself and there was one photograph he just couldn't resist, so he removed the page from the magazine and took it home. In the months that followed he built a model of the boat, entered it in a competition and won the Flavelle Trophy.—Toronto Telegram.

TERMS OF WARDENS

Some doubt has been expressed in Ontario, whether, under the no-election policy of the Government, a warden should remain in office more than one year. A change of wardens, made with the councillors themselves, apparently does not come within the meaning of the proclamation, and it would be unfortunate indeed if the traditions of municipal government in this regard were violated. — Farmer's Advocate.

Two Licenses Not Approved For Restaurants

Licenses of two unamed restaurants were not approved during November because health examination of some employees had been neglected, Sanitary Inspector MacPherson reported to the Board of Health last night. Two restaurants were also found not using chlorine for sterilizing dishes and utensils. They were first offenders and were let go with a warning.

Samples of pasteurized milk were submitted to the provincial branch laboratory for bacteriological analysis and were all "very satisfactory." Additional tests were made for coli bacteria. "The results have all showed an absence of these organisms which indicates that proper care is being exercised in production and handling of this important food."

Pasteurizing plants were found operating under sanitary conditions.

One producer-distributor of milk has undertaken to install his own pasteurizing equipment, and it is expected this plant will be operating within a month.

One producer's permit to send milk for city delivery was temporarily suspended when it was revealed that the herd was badly infected with cow pox, and certain other sanitary requirements had not been carried out.

Mr. MacPherson also mentioned certain minor requirements that were issued to other milk producers.

"This department has always demanded a high standard of sanitation wherever milk is produced or handled, but when it is considered that less than one per cent of the milk received in Peterborough is under Grade 1, I think the standards are more than justified."

Dairy farm inspection calls for clipping of cows when they are stabled in the fall, and once during the shut in period. A number of producers have not been complying with this regulation and more rigid enforcement will have to ebe employed in some instances.

Mr. MacPherson recommended that metal containers be placed at both top and bottom of the market stairways as a convenience to the public in disposing of paper and other refuse. He also suggested again that the table tops in the market be painted some light colored washable paint.

"A sahitary survey was made of all schools in the city and a great improvement in sanitation was noted. Several public schools have been equipped with new sanitary conveniences built and installed along modern sanitary lines. A condition of inadequate lighting which indirectly affects the health of students has been eliminated from all separate schools by the recent installation of efficient and adequate lighting.

Two dwellings were closed as being unfit for human habitation. The owner of another dwelling was ordered to reduce the number of occupants when it was revealed that this particular dwelling was very much overcrowded.

Since only three complaints were received this month re collection of garbage and ashes I think we may safely say the work is being carried out effectively and efficiently."

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

The Russo-German alliance appears to be an arrangement for sharing the spoils and dividing the blame.

Except for a few anti-Finnish comments in the German press, however, no statement bearing the imprint of high officialdom has come from Nazi sources in support of Russian aggression against its small neighbor state.

Nevertheless the similarity of the procedure, military, diplomatic and political, used by Russia in its approach to Finland to that used by Germany in dealing with Poland is remarkable and suggests the similarity may persist even in later stages.

Germany accepted full responsibility for the destruction of Poland. It was only when the Soviets could advance the pretext of an accomplished fact that Russian troops moved in to claim part of the spoils. Russia publicly took the ground the Polish state no longer existed due to the German invasion but accepted no responsibility for the state of affairs which resulted.

Now Germany sits silently by as Russia tries to demolish Finland. All the blame for that outrage falls on Russia but if and when Russia succeeds perhaps Germany in turn will claim she must step in and seize something from the wreckage of Finland and, perhaps, the other Scandinavian states.

The advantage of this arrangement up to date is that it has enabled Russia to remain nominally neutral and so escape the grip of the Allied naval blockade and has also enabled Germany to maintain to some extent its friendship with such strongly anti-Communist states as Italy, Spain and Japan.

TO THE RATEPAYERS

In order to inform ratepayers of the City of Peterborough of the city's financial affairs your City Council, as your representatives, present herewith a statement for the year 1939..

TAX RATE—The tax rate for the year was 34.5 mills for Public School supporters and 36.07 mills for Separate School supporters. The rate in 1938 was 35 mills and it has been steadily reduced since 1930 when it was 39.2 mills.

The reduction in taxation in Peterborough is indicated by a comparison of per capital taxation, which in 1931 reached the peak of $40.59 and this year was $35.54.

CURRENT TAXES—Tax payments were on the whole met promptly. The improvement in tax payments during the past years is a reflection of the improved industrial activity and better business conditions prevailing generally in the city.Vigorous efforts are being made to collect unpaid tax balances.

The following table shows the improvement in tax payments:—

	Total Amount On Roll	% of Current Roll Collected	Total Collection % of Current Roll
1936	923,791.42	87.0	99.8
1937	895,463.71	89.42	102.0
1938	870,581.87	90.41	102.2
1939	858,289.00	*89.8	100.3

*Dec. 15th.

ARREARS OF TAXES — Of the tax arrears of $192,379 which were brought forward on Janury 1st, 1939, it is gratifying to report 48 per cent were paid during the year.

Your Council during the difficult years has been setting up a reserve for loss of taxes. This year $5,000.00 was added to this reserve, bringing the total to $68,000.00 after allowing for losses.

BANKING—At the beginning of the year the city's bank loans totalled $133,000.00, as compared with $148,000.00 in bank loans at the start of 1938 and $203,805.41 in 1937. As tax payments were received these loans were steadily reduced and a credit balance was maintained during most of the year. This success was aided by advanced dates for tax instalment payments. It is estimated bank loans will total $120,000.00 at the end of this year.

Indicative of the improvement, on December 31st, 1934, bank loans totalled $261,091.41, showing a reduction has been made of better than 55 per cent in the past five years.

ASSESSED VALUATION—The annual assessment of real property which was completed in September, and since confirmed by the Court of Revision, gave a total of $19,445,670.00 for taxable purposes, which is an increase of $270,145.00 over the assessment made in 1938. No increase in the basis of assessment was made, the increase being due to the construction of 95 new homes and other improvements to real estate made during the year.

In all 456 building permits were issued to a total of $497,635.00, an increase of $71,491.00 over last year and the highest building total since 1930.

The increase by wards was: South, $182,790.00; Centre, $43,025.00; West, $40,785.00; North, $14,005.00. In the East Ward there was a decrease of $10,460.00 owing to the demolition of the old buildings at the Auburn Mills, although home building was most active in that ward.

To encourage the building of homes your Council co-operated fully with the National Housing Act, selling lots at moderate prices on the guarantee that purchasers would build homes within a year.

NET DEBENTURE DEBT—No debentures have been issued since 1933. The gross debenture debt was reduced by $337,381.51 during the year, debentures to that amount being retired. During the past five years the gross debenture debt has been reduced $1,151,718.00, the debt being $4,940,795.00 in 1934 and now being $3,789,077.00. To meet this gross debenture debt, the City Trust has on hand sinking funds of $1,823,156.00, leaving a total net debt of $1,965,921.00. In 1934 the total net debt was $2,890,695.00, showing a reduction of $924,774.00 in the past five years.

Of the present net debenture debt only $986,971.00 is chargeable to the general taxpayers; frontage rates being responsible for $142,433.00 and the Utilities Commission for $836,517.00.

During the same five year period, 1934 to 1939, the annual levy for the debenture debt chargeable to general taxes has been reduced from $254,450.00 to $181,552.00.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF—Expenditures for unemployment relief are within the appropriations of $50,000.00 set for the year. Relief and social service costs continue to be large items in the City's budget, but owing to the industrial improvement and the co-operation extended by the managers of the city's industries there was a decided reduction in the number receiving relief during the last quarter of the year.

Total relief expenditures for the past five years and the number of families in each December receiving relief are:

1936	153,389.50	411
1937	92,939.39	326
1939 (December amount estimated)	144,700.00	290

BOARD OF WORKS—During the year an asphalt plant to expedite the work of road surfacing and repairs was purchased for $5,517.85. This plant proved its worth on paving the road east of the Trent Canal on which $8,800.00 was expended, $6,000.00 of which will be paid by the Dominion Government. Portions of Stewart and Reid streets were resurfaced costing $4,371.80.

Cleaning paved roads, including operation of the street flusher, cost $7,836.75, and cleaning unpaved roads $4,151.46. Street oiling for which 55,999 gallons of asphalt oil were used cost $9,450.34. Expenditures for repairs and maintenance of concrete walks $4,236.92; road repairs $4,607.72 and pavement repairs $1,306.15.

Maintaining streets safe for pedestrians and motorists during winter cost the Department $17,733.13, almost double the expenditure of other years, snow removal being $9,368.01 and sanding $3,080.27.

On the beautifying of Little Lake crescent $1,024.90 was spent, and the Department also assisted in the work of riprapping the Lake shore. Cost of producing crushed stone for road repairs at the city's quarry was $7,609.56.

Operation and maintenance costs of the Sewage Disposal Plant was $7,693.83, of which $2,734.64 was for power

On miscellaneous work costs were: weed and grass cutting $1,748.67; tree trimming $829.99; stop and parking signs $721.10; street grading $1,388.54; storm drain maintenance $839.49; cleaning sewer $2,116.91.

GENERAL—It can be safely anticipated that when the year's accounts are fully completed that a small surplus on the year's operations will exist. The various departments have been kept well within their respective appropriations.

Your Council continued its work to improve the city's industrial and business life through various channels, and a particular effort succeeded in putting complete information concerning the capabilities of the city's industries before the War Supply Board at Ottawa.

Work of a legal nature was furthered again this year, particularly in consolidating and revising By-laws.

In conclusion your Council desires to acknowledge the many expressions of appreciation received from citizens generally during the past year, and wishes for their successors in office the same spirit of sympathy and co-operation for the coming year.

A Merry Christmas and Happy and Prosperous New Year to all.

Yours Faithfully,

JAMES HAMILTON,
Mayor

Galt Moosemen Are Fighting, Luckless Crew

(By the Canadian Press.)

Give a hand to Galt Moosemen, and if a Christmas wish can be spared for a hard-fighting team then wish that Galt might win a few games in the near future. Yet to taste victory in the Senior A division of the Ontario Hockey Association this season, the Moosemen are without peer for aggressiveness.

Much has been said as to the merits of St. Catharines Saints, Toronto Goodyears, and Port Colborne Sailors, presently fighting for the circuit leadership, and all the while the intermediates and juniors of last season who make up the majority of the Galt roster keep learning as they go grimly on. Newcomer to senior warfare, the club should win its first game mighty soon.

It wasn't to be last night, however, because the heavier, more experienced Port Colborne Sailors, scuttled the winless wonders right in Galt for a 5-0 victory that shot them into a second-place tie with Goodyears, league champions last season.

In the only other game scheduled, St. Catharines took over undisputed possession of first place, defeating Hamilton Dominions 6-5 in a hard-fought but clean battle in the Saints' new arena. The result left St. Kitts with 18 points, two more than Goodyears and the Sailors. Hamilton holds third place with 10.

12th Straight Defeat.

In absorbing their 12th straight defeat the Moosemen ran into the Sailors at their best. Led by old Gooney McGowan and Lloyd Fitzgerald, the Ports showed more speed and combination than their fighter opponents.

McGowan, slim little centre, scored the only goal of the first period and gave assists for two more. Fitzgerald counted twice and singletons were added by Jim McKelvie and Brown. Dint Reilly and Squeak Morrison were best for the gallant Galts, whose ages average 21 years.

Captain Red Reynolds of St. Kitts scored a goal and earned four assists as his team edged out Hamilton to jump from seventh to second place in the race for the league scoring leadership. Reynolds has a total of 21 points, compared to 23 by Johnny Conick of Hamilton who made one assist last night.

Rudy Pilous of the Saints was another big factor in the hometown victory and his three goals and one assist gave him a tie for third place in the scoring records with Eddie King of Goodyears. Each has 19 points.

Two goals in the last half of the third period gave victory to the Saints with Pete Backor and Pilous the scorers.

Remember When—

Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean, who managed to hit the sports pages from January until August, was voted the biggest sports disappointment of 1937. The Associated Press annual poll, published two years ago today, showed a majority of sports writers voted the then St. Louis Cardinals pitcher the unenviable title.

NOHA Reduces Entry Fee Of Intermediates

HAILEYBURY, Dec. 20.—Designed to encourage organized groups and individual teams playing the intermediate brand of hockey within the far-flung limits of its jurisdiction, the N.O.H.A. executive has announced a substantial reduction in fees due the parent body by these affiliated organizations. Under an arrangement just adopted by the executive, in future the only dues payable will be the annual $10 membership in the association, plus entry fee of $20 for each subsidiary group.

Previously, fees as indicated had been required of each individual club entered, but the burden financially in this respect has been found onerous, it is stated, hence the reduction now authorized. At least six local leagues, and possibly seven, will be affected by the ruling, it was stated here by Duncan E. Sutherland, secretary-treasurer of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association. Intermediate teams in the association's territory do not proceed beyond the N.O.H.A.'s own playdowns.

Benefiting by the change will be the following, it was stated: Noranda town league, four teams at least; Porcupine league, with competition among five teams; North Bay League, which has a half-dozen entries; Sudbury league, also with six teams; the North Shore-Manitoulin Island group, with six teams, equally divided between island and mainland; Harricanaw group in Northwestern Quebec, six teams, and a league under consideration at Kirkland Lake.

Allan Cup Finals Sought By Quebec

MONTREAL, Dec. 20 — (CP). — The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association will attempt to have the Allan Cup finals played here next spring, providing a Montreal team wins the Eastern-Canada title, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the association.

The Quebec delegate to the semi-

The Quebec delegate to the semi-Amateur Hockey Association in Toronto next week-end was instructed to vote for the same playoff system as was in force last season when Port Arthur Bearcats and the Montreal Royals met here in the cup final.

Charley Gehringer Is First On List

DETROIT, Dec. 20 — (CP). — Charley Gehringer, Detroit Tigers' silent second baseman, has signed his contract for next season, Walter O. Briggs, owner of the American Baseball League Club, announced yesterday in a message from Miami Beach, Fla.

"Just to advise that an old custom has not been broken," Briggs said, "Charley Gehringer, the first Tiger to be offered a 1940 contract, has signed it and returned it to me."

Gehringer, veteran of the Tigers in point of service, has been offered the first contract annually since Briggs became sole owner of the club.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Quinte columnist says: "Peterborough scribe thinks that inside of three weeks the Petes can beat the Oshawa Generals. Paisie, that crowd of patched-up pucksters in Peterborough couldn't beat those Oshawa kids if they played from now until the kids had long white beards down trailing around the elusive puck!" Which leads us to roar in rage and rhyme:

He is more to be pitied than censured,
He is more to be helped than despised:
Just an ex-umpire scribe who ventured
'Way out on the limb, ill-advised.

We mustn't scorn this poor Bellevillain,
Nor yet hit him a punch in the eye;
But we'll feed him these words on a spoon
In the beautiful bye and bye!

* * * * * *

And let that be a lesson to you—you belittlin' bohunk, you! And won't the Petes hate you and your Redmen of Bella Villa when they come up thisaway a week from Friday? As for the Generals, we repeat that the locals will beat them within a few weeks, if and when they clash again. After all, the packed Motor Citizens were about at their peak last game and on home ice whilst the locals weren't in the pink and didn't have their own cramped quarters to dish up the razzle-dazzle. At that, the Petes led going into the third but faded in the final frame. Yeah, buddy, you'll eat those words and like 'em, too, even if ya have to swish them around in catsup first.

* * * * * *

As You Like It

After all, the Generals are just junior "A"—though Memorial Cup timber—whilst the locals are intermediate "A" or senior "B", whichever ya like. And several could hold their own in senior "A" company, too. Our defence is no Maginot Line but the blue-line defenders and goalie will provide a tough set of fortifications to pierce. The local forwards are very fast and good back-checkers. Which'll make the defence look better and pester rival attackers like the dickens. It's no exaggeration; anyone who has seen gees like Honey Tompkins, Bun Kingdon, Joe Blewett, Eddie Starr, Don Coughlin and Art Heal flying around the frozen aqua knows these birds possess winged skates. Nor are Jack Jopling and Cliff Cadd slow pokes, either.

* * * * * *

This squad is better balanced now than for some time. We claim it is the most promising of any in many winters. A bit heavier than usual and with a heck of a lot more speed. No puck greenhorns aboard, and certainly no veterans. All young, experienced and scrappy pucksters. And in shape now ere the season opens. From coach to water boy, the gang is confident. Ray Harding is an A-1 goalie and such defencemen as Don Crowe, Jack Gardiner, Drake Jopling, Jim Ellis and Les Burton will supply a rocky road for any rival puck-carrier heading toward the twine tepee at the Petes' end of the iced battle-ground.

* * * * * *

It's A Bit Early

No use shinnying up the rain-pipe in this slippery weather and broadcasting from the roof top that the Petes are sure-fire O.H.A. intermediate "A" champs. That would be just wishful thinking so early in the season. Nor do we wish to scare the daylights out of the boys down Belleville way. But here and now we will go so far as to say we'll bet the brightest tie we get at Christmas against a hand-rolled cigarette that the Redmen will see more red lights flashed back of Goalie Watt than they'll notice in the vicinity of the local cage in the opening fray. Yeah, we like the looks of the locals this season, no fooling.

* * * * * *

Official report of the O.H.A. junior "B" group meeting in Port Hope recently has been sent here. We note all teams favored Lakefield's application except the Oshawa entry. However, Lakefield is in. Cobourg club squawked about the visitors' dressing-room in the Port Hope arena being open to the public, and this matter must be cleared up before the schedule opens. Home team must notify the visiting team no later than four p.m. on the day of a scheduled game if ice conditions will not permit the tilt to be staged. While visiting squads bring the referee and are responsible for his expenses, the home club of course pays the regular O.H.A. fee for his services. The playoffs were as announced here recently, top two playing three-in-five for "B" playdowns, then the third and fifth meeting in a two-game semi-final as the fourth and sixth do likewise, finalists then going at it two-in-three for the "C" playdowns.

One For The Book

Some truly amazing things pop up at times in sports, and the most peculiar we've heard of in many a moon was the stunt Conny Smythe pulled the other eve in Boston. The fiery pilot of the Toronto Leafs spent $63 on a three-column newspaper ad in a Boston paper urging Boston fans to come and see a "real hockey club." Smythe made no secret of the fact before the public that he didn't approve of the careful defensive hockey played by the Bruins, but insisted the Leafs would dish up a wide-open and colorful brand. The ad got results and a record crowd attended and saw a swell scrap, Bruins winning in overtime. We can't recall ever before hearing of a manager in any sport paying good coin of the realm to advertise the other fellow's home game! Or did Art Ross maybe give Conny the dough and the idea in the first place?

Two Girls' Basketball League jousts are listed for tonight at the Y.W.C.A. It'll be Quaker Aces vs. Westclox at 6.30 o'clock, followed at 7.30 by St. John's vs. Orfuns. While Aces and Orfuns are slight favorites this e'en, two lively cage contests are liable to be on tap, and the twin bill deserves a fair following of the fair ones. On Monday night, "Y" Gym continued to head the parade with a narrow nod o'er the battling Quaker Debs in a good fray. Haven't heard of any hoop tilts for next week yet.

Next Ruler Of Baseball's House Of Mack Has Been Learning Baseball For 15 Years

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20 — (AP) —The next ruler of baseball's House of Mack—Connie's second son, Earle—has been learning baseball at dad's knee for 15 years so he can step in as manager of Philadelphia Athletics when his father retired.

The A's without a Mack would be like a ship without a rudder, and Connie has arranged for his 47-year-old son and assistant to take the helm. When that will be only Connie knows. He will be 77 two days before Christmas, but "retirement" isn't in his vocabulary.

The feet that some day will fill Connie's brogans ran the bases of minor league diamonds for years before they took a stand on the sidelines in 1924....the year Earle Mack came with the Athletics as a non-playing assistant to his father. He now is vice-president of the club and team coach.

Earle is the younger of Connie's two sons by his first marriage.

Pep Kelly's Hat Trick Saves Him From Being Sold To Americans

TORONTO, Dec. 20. — Out of New York via the Journal American comes a story that Pep Kelly, Toronto Maple Leafs' veteran little right winger, saved himself from being dealt to New York Americans when he scored three goals in Sunday's game. The story from Gotham says, in part:

"For unadulterated irony, there isn't much to cap the experience of Regis (Pep) Kelly, Red Dutton and the hapless Americans.

"Desperately in need of a right wing, Dutton conferred at length with Connie Smythe, manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, Sunday afternoon. Smythe had a right wing who was practically forgotten and evidently had no important place in his calculations.

"That was Pep Kelly, who injured a shoulder on November 18 and up to Sunday night had played only three minutes in an entire month. Dutton's persuasive sales talk won over Smythe. The deal was practically sealed, needing only final approval of the National Hockey League, which passes on all business measures of the Americans.

He Beat the Amerks.

"As a farewell gesture, Smythe employed Kelly against the Americans on Sunday night. In sixteen minutes of playing time Kelly performed the hat trick—that is, scored three successive goals—and became the first this season to do it. He beat the Americans in the final period, 4 to 1, before a crowd of 12,771.

"Following the game, Smythe informed Dutton the deal had to be off. He couldn't let Kelly go now."

The New York World-Telegram says that after the Amerks' deal for Kelly went cold on Sunday night, the boys began betting that Dutton will land Lex Chisholm from the Leafs to bolster his injury-riddled lineup.

The boys are liable to lose their bets about that, for it doesn't sound reasonable that the Toronto management would ship Chisholm away.

Swinging across the breadth of N.H.L. territory on their three-game road trip this week, the Leafs are to play in Chicago on Thursday night before returning home to face Detroit Red Wings on Saturday, which will be Young Canada Night at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Clancy and Day Paired.

It was announced yesterday that major officials for Saturday's game will be King Clancy as referee and Hap Day as linesman. This will be Clancy's first local appearance as an N.H.L. referee, and also will be the first time that the two former Maple Leaf players work together as officials.

The younger element of fandom gets its big break of the season for Saturday's N.H.L. game, as each subscriber is entitled to one child's seat free for each pair he subscribes for. Subscribers have until Thursday to get their tickets.

Stanowski to Stay Up.

BOSTON, Dec. 20— (CP).—Wallie Stanowski, the young defenceman who sparked St. Boniface Seals to their Memorial Cup championship in 1938, came back to the National Hockey League last night after a spell in the minors, this time for good.

Stanowski was recalled from the Providence Reds of the International-American League, where he had been sent by Toronto Leafs, to play in last night's game against Boston Bruins.

Manager Smythe said Stanowski would remain with the Leafs. He said he regards Stanowski as a "very promising defenceman," and that he only shipped him to Providence to give him an opportunity to recuperate from a minor injury.

The Leaf manager also announced that a proposed deal with New York Americans had fallen through." He said the Americans had wanted Pep Kelly in the trade and that he was willing to give them Nick Metz. Why the deal fell through was not clear. Smythe said only that "some trouble with the Immigration Department" prevented it going through.

Top Bear Cats Are Homebrews

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Dec. 20—(CP)— There have been many 'five-year plans" but with Port Arthur Bear Cats, Canada's senior amateur hockey champions, it was a "10-year plan" which brought success.

In fact, if the lakehead hockey leaders wanted to, they could stretch it back to a 15-year plan. For it was in 1924 that Port Arthur decided on the policy of importing enough good hockey players to strengthen its clubs, and depend on their teaching for the future.

The plan has been a success as Port Arthur's three Allan Cup victories and export of players to the professional ranks attests. Before 1924 Port Arthur's challenge for senior hockey honors could never get anywhere. The upswing started when Lorne Chabot, Bill Brydge, Art Chapman and a few others were coaxed here.

Since the turn of the decade home brews have carried the load. All the players on last year's championship team learned their hockey in or around Port Arthur.

Goalie Drops Dead In Front Of His Nets Five Minutes After Start Of Game

VALLEYFIELD, Que., Dec. 20. — (CP)—Five minutes after the start of a Huntingdon-Valleyfield hockey game Tuesday, Hormisdas Houle, 28-year-old goaltender for Huntingdon, dropped dead in front of his nets. A doctor said a heart attack was responsible.

Play was at the other end of the ice when Houle collapsed. He was carried to the dressing room where Dr. A. Deguire pronounced him dead. The game was cancelled immediately.

Houle, who told his team-mates before the game that he "didn't feel like playing," had been a member of Huntingdon's team in the city intermediate league for a number of years.

Coroner S. W. Laroche said no inquest would be held.

BRUINS TUMBLE LEAFS 3 TO 2; WHILE RANGERS TAKE CANADIENS

Boston Outfit Is Now Deadlocked With Toronto Team For Leadership; New York Rangers Two Points Back

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Conny Smythe found out it didn't pay so well to advertise but, at that, it might be a good idea for National Hockey League manager to band together and insert something like this in the advertising columns of newspapers around the circuit...Wanted: A formula to beat New York Rangers.

The astute Smythe, ever on the lookout for some new means of placing his Toronto Maple Leafs in the public prints, paid for an ad in a Boston morning newspaper telling fans that if they were "tired of seeing the kind of hockey Bruins are playing" to come and see the Leafs.

Biggest Crowd Of Season

Taking heed of these words 14,107 cash customers—largest crowd of the Boston home season—were on hand last night to see the Bruins topple the Leafs 3-2 in a stirring overtime struggle. And at the same time in New York, there were 8,966 paying fans to watch the Rangers run through their 10th straight game without defeat by trouncing Montreal Canadiens 5-2.

The results of these two encounters brought about a first-place deadlock between the Bruins and the Leafs, who head the league with 21 points, and allowed Rangers to consolidate their hold on third place. Bruins, Leafs and Rangers have all played 16 games, with the Rangers holding a spot two points off the pace.

Their victory meant a mark of five successes and five draws in their last 10 starts, by far the best undefeated string pieced together by any N.H.L. team this season. Rangers were beaten last on Nov. 19 in New York by Canadiens, but more than atoned for that loss by blasting the Flying Frenchmen last night and by a 4-2 score on Montreal ice only last Saturday.

High spots of the Rangers- Canadiens tilt were a pair of goals scored for the Broadway Blueshirts by Wilbur (Dutch) Hiller and a first period fight that found Hiller and Phil Watson of the Rangers mixed up in a punching duel with Polly Drouin and Louis Trudel of Canadiens.

Took Lead In First

Rangers never fell behind after Neil Colville and Hiller supplied goals in the opening period. Paul Haynes drew Canadiens close with a tally in the second session but this was wiped out in the same period through Mac Colville's goal. Kilby MacDonald, Hiller and Trudel scored in order in the last period.

Three of the five goals in the Boston-Toronto action came in the extra 10 minutes as the spectacular Kraut line of Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woody Dumart went to town for the Bruins. Dumart got the first overtime tally on a play with Schmidt, then Bauer added what proved the winner on an effort with his linemates. Bucko McDonald got the Leafs' overtime score with 24 seconds of play remaining.

Drillon Got Two Assists

Despite the loss, Gordon Drillon of the Leafs picked up ground over leading N.H.L. marksmen by assisting in both Toronto goals. Drillon had a hand in Kampman's third period score, which wiped out a marker by Bill Cowley for the Bruins in the second session, and also helped on McDonald's goal. Drillon, with 12 goals and eight assists, stretched his scoring lead to four points over teammate Syl Apps, who is in second place with seven goals and nine assists.

Seabiscuit and Kayak II – He Owns 'Em Both!

Seabiscuit Assigned Top Weight For Rich Handicap

ARCADIA, Cal., Dec. 20.—Seabiscuit, grand old warrior of the race track, has again been honored with top weight in the Santa Anita Handicap. Handicaper Webb Everett assigned the C. S. Howard star 130 pounds in the $100,000 added classic to be decided next March 2. At that time, the son of Hard Tack will be seven years of age, and, inasmuch as he has been inactive for so many months due to a crippled ankle and bad knees, it appears likely that never again will the hardy, courageous old thoroughbred be in line for such an honor.

The weights for the mile and a quarter grind, richest race in the world, were released late Monday and they were, for hundreds of thousands of racing enthusiasts, horsemen, breeders and track officials, the biggest piece of news of the early winter. The handlers of several horses now in the east have been waiting publication of the weights to determine whether to ship them to California, go to Hialeah Park for the Widener Challenge Cup and the Flamingo Stakes, or 'hole in" for the winter in Kentucky, Maryland, Virginia or South Carolina.

There was mild surprise in some quarters that Seabiscuit should have been assigned top weight. But a still greater surprise was the placing of Kayak II above Challedon, after the Maryland flash had so handily vanquished the South American on the two occasions they met. Some horsemen were of the opinion that Kayak II's 129 and Challedon's 128 may have been designed by the wily Santa Anita handicapper to lure W. L. Brann's "champion horse of 1939" to the west coast, as it has been often reported the son of Challenger was either to hibernate at Columbia, S.C., throughout the winter, or would go in the Widener.

N.H.L. STARS

By The Canadian Press

Wilbur (Dutch) Hiller, Rangers, led the New Yorkers to a 5-2 victory over Montreal Canadiens with a goal in each of the first and third periods.

Woody Dumart, Boston, paced the Bruins to a 3-2 overtime victory over Toronto Maple Leafs with a goal and an assist.

Generals Trim Native Sons In 7 to 1 Game

TORONTO, Dec. 20.— Oshawa McAtees—beg pardon, Generals — gained ample revenge for the defeat Native Sons handed them in the S. P. A. final by trouncing the "Jinx Trophy" winners, 7 to 1, in an O. H. A. Big Six Junior League game at the Gardens last night. Ed Wildey's Young Rangers corralled their first winning points with a 3-2 overtime victory over the luck-less Varsity six in the other game.

The McAtees carried the mail for the Dominion champions last night. Jud McAtee, in particular, stood out. The elder of the Stratford brothers scored five goals, getting the first one and winding up with a quartet in the final period. Norm netted one and assisted in one Jud secured. Ron Wilson and Frankie Eddols were the only other Oshawa players to interrupt the scoring surge of the McAtees.

Generals Show Speed.

There was no stopping Tracy Shaw's fleet band once Jud McAtee gave them the lead with a dropping shot from the blue line that Goalie Clow missed. Norm McAtee's solo made it 2-0 before the period's end. After splitting a pair of goals in the second period, Al Percival scoring for Sons and Ron Wilson for Oshawa, the Generals ran out the victory string as Jud McAtee tapered off a great display with four goals.

Outstanding feature of Oshawa's victory was the speed they flashed. They were skating in rare style for so early in the season, going both ways at a streamlined clip. Shaw cut down his reserve strength by using only five subs. The result was more action for the players and they benefited accordingly.

Native Sons played in disappointing style, falling far short of their S.P.A. effort against the Generals Bobby Dew failed to turn out and the team was weakened further when Chick Webster suffered a wrist injury that handicapped him throughout the game.

Blues' Strong Defense.

Young Rangers blew a two-goal lead before coming back in the overtime to fashion a hard-earned victory over Varsity. Jimmy McPherson's Blues turned in their best effort of the season and should have split the points at least. Beffy MacMillan joined the team and, along with Don Boxer and Fulton, formed a defense that was really tough to get through. Walter Halder, Staff Smythe and King Cole sparked the "T" boys up front.

Wildey's buckos carried the play in the opener and finished the frame with a 1-0 edge, result of a McLean-to-Sompson scoring play. Gasperini's goal on Akey's pass hoisted the advantage to 2-0 early in the second before penalties cost the Rangers their edge. McLean was off when Cole cashed a three-way play with Smythe and Douglas, and Spike (Sparkplug) Winchenko was in the coop when Boxer converted a gang play with Smythe and Cole. Careless clearing gave Young Rangers the winning point in the overtime. Simpson carried in and, after a scramble back of the Varsity net, Winchenko nailed the disc and passed out to Simpson, who popped it home.

Lester Patrick Discusses What Is Wrong With Hockey

By SYDNEY GRUSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(CP)—Perhaps because they were tired writing about the Rangers' run of undefeated games and the Americans' losing streaks, the New York Hockey writers, with alarming unanimity, posed the question this week in bold type: "What is wrong with hockey?"

And at the first dinner-meeting of the season for the writers last night, Lester Patrick walked in and tried to find out. He was alarmed, the Rangers "Silver Fox" admitted, at the sudden outcry. He wanted to find out if there was anything wrong, he said, because it didn't seem possible so many writers could find fault at the one time without cause.

"I'm reading it everywhere," said Patrick. "Even men who never see the games are writing 'something is wrong with hockey.' I'm willing to find out."

So they seated him at the head of the table and amid the thick smoke and banter he tried to find out."

Someone was saying the game needed more color in its players, said Patrick. But color, he told the writers, was something that couldn't be bought, unless they meant the artificial color someone could inject by telling a player to act the fool and slug another player. Perhaps there were a lack of good publicity sources to keep the public informed about the game. But the league was working on that and they would come.

It was just a thought, said Patrick, but perhaps the writers were wrong. The customers all couldn't be wrong and attendance was up everywhere except New York and Detroit. Perhaps the writers were doing the game an injustice in their continuous hammering that there was something wrong when they were just blinding themselves to the good points. Perhaps, said Patrick, the men bethind the league were wrong in allowing 15 players to a team, but at the time it seemed like the best thing to allow that many.

It was possible the writers were right, said Patrick, in saying there was a dearth of super-stars in the National Hockey League to attract more customers. But super-stars d'dnit come often in any sport and they'd be back in the N.H.L. in time.

So it went. In good humor the writers made a complaint and Patrick, always leaving a thought that perhaps the complaint was justified, answered so thoroughly that the grievance seemed out of place. The gathering broke up when Patrick glanced at his watch and found it was time to get to Madison Square Garden for the game between the Rangers and Montreal Canadiens.

And there was a rebuttal more eloquent than all the words Patrick could have spoken. When two teams put on an eye-filling show of speed from start to finish, with a little fisticuffing such as the Rangers and Canadiens threw in, there's nothing wrong with hockey. The 9,000 fans loved every bit of the game last night.

Shipments of products from Italy to the United States jumped 50 per cent in a recent month.

Great Runner Helps Defend Finland

Taking a gun from the rack seen behind him is Taisto Maki, the smiling-Finn, who threatened to break all middle distance running records before he was through with the track. But—for the moment, at least—that was not to be, and he's occupied helping his fellow countrymen defend the frontiers of their country, which "brutally invaded Russia" not long ago. Maki had bettered many of the fabulous Paavo Nurmi's marks, including that for the 10,000 metres, in which Nurmi's ambition had been to record a time of under half an hour, a feat no one accomplished until Maki turned the trick. For the time being, however, Maki has more important assignment than breaking track marks.

School Presents Loyal Pageant

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 20. — (ENS).—Several delightfully arranged tableaus formed an important part of the annual Christmas concert held under auspices of St. Andrew's Sunday school. Part I of the program for which Rev. B. Simpson Black was the genial chairman, opened with a pageant entitled "Britannia." Miss Marjorie Kerr, who was very effectively draped with a flag and bore the sword and shield stood in the centre of the platform while Miss Monica DeCarroll sang "Rule Britannia." Miss Beryl Spencer represented Canada and Miss Frances Henry offered "The Maple Leaf" as a vocal solo. Beside her was the Red Cross nurse "Georgie DeCarroll' symbolizing Canada at war. Evelyn Blakely and Ronald Adamson were the principal characters in the pageant of France, for which Mrs. Raymond Wragg very appropriately rendered the "Marseillaise."

Second part of the program was in charge of members of the Kindergarten class who began with a speech of welcome followed by the chorus "Away in the Manger." Miss Jean Carruthers and Kenneth McFarlane offered a vocal duet; Jean Campbell gave a piano solo and Kenneth McFarlane and Verna Rabethge each gave vocal solos.

Highlight of the program which was very ably directed by Mrs. Albert Hazel and Mrs. James Hamilton, was a "Cantata" in which more than twenty-five young members of the Sunday school took part, including Peter Locke, as Santa Claus; Betty Dunk, Shirley Herriott, and Ferne Begg as dolls; James Bell, jack-in-the-box; Reggie Massie, boy with the drug; David McEeachern and Murray Locke, clowns; Jack Peeling, the bugler; Bobby Peake, the sailor; Billy Bailey, Ronald Hay and Jimmie Dunk, the mechanics; Jervis Black as Jack Frost; Connie Black "Spirit of Christmas"; Jean Campbell, Jean Meiklejohn, Margaret Rutledge, Verna Rabethge, Doris Bertrand and Kathleen Fox as Christmas Fairies. Special music was provided by Wilsie Phillips, saxaphone and Jack Bell, violin. The piano accompaniments were by Mrs. M. McFarlane and Mr. Albert Hazel.

jaervi and Kaukjaervi. The enemy suffered losses of men, and numerous tanks were destroyed."

The Finns held in military secrecy the location of the new line in the gale-swept Arctic, but it was understood it would be south of Lake Inari near Ivalo.

This is about 28 miles southwest of Virtaniemi, where a Russian motorized detachment had forced its way from the northern corridor.

Dispatches from this front said the Finns had been driven back, although Helsingfors observers pointed out the advanced of the motorized unit did not mean the area was occupied by enemy forces. Troops often retreat after making exploratory thrusts, the sources said.

An estimated 12,000 Soviet troops were reported pouring into Salmijaervi, Arctic site of the Canadian Nickel Company's development which the Finns desolated before retreating.

The Russian army, however, was said to be erecting hundreds of prefabricated houses hastily.

Meanwhile, the British Government asked the Uruguayan Foreign Ministry to investigate whether British warships used gas shells in attacking the Admiral Graf Spee last Wednesday, as the Nazi radio alleged was reported by sailors on the pocket battleship to Otto Langmann, German Minister to Uruguay.

(In London, Prime Minister Chamberlain and the Admiralty last Thursday denied Nazi charges that British cruisers had used gas shells in the battle or even possessed such weapons).

But if an inquiry should determine that they are navy men or that the liner was armed, temporary detention or even internment for the duration of the war might be ordered.

The Columubus foundered outside the American neutrality zone, although the Tuscaloosa was on neutrality patrol when she sighted the ship, ablaze from bow to stern.

In wireless messages to his superiors, Captain Harry Badt of the Tuscaloose reported that the liner was being scuttled and that a British destroyer was nearby, although there was no evidence of any fighting.

The crew already had pulled away from the sinking vessel in 22 lifeboats, and the American cruiser stood by until all the occupants were picked up. The liner's sea valves were open, to hasten her sinking.

Freighter Flees to Port

The Columbus was found only a few hours after the German freighter Arauca, pursued by a British cruiser, ran into the harbor at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Captain Frederick Stengler of the 4,354-ton Arauca said that a warning shot was fired across the bow and claimed his ship was within United States territorial waters at the time.

The Arauca left Vera Cruz last Thursday before the Columbus sailed openly for Europe laden with oil and with enough food for a 50-day voyage. Their departure took place the day after the German pocket battleship Graf Spee was driven into the harbor at Montevideo, Uruguay, by three British warships. The Graf Spee was scuttled Sunday.

Mexico City friends recalled that Captain Wilhelm Daehne, commander of the Columbus who was interned in Australia during the last war said before leaving Vera Cruz: —"They'll never get my ship—I'll look out for my crew."

Germany Third Best.

The Columbus was the first big merchant ship built in Germany after the last war and was outstripped later in the fleet only by the Bremen and the Europa. She was 749 feet long and was equipped to carry 1,800 passengers and a crew of 750.

Two years ago the liner, which had been in transatlantic service, was refurnished for Caribbean cruises. A swimming pool was installed on a broad sun deck, along with an outdoor dance pavilion. The only evidence of her German ownership, aside from the Swastika flag, was a huge portrait of Adolf Hitler over the main staircase.

At the time of the Munich Conference in September, 1938, the Columbus held a shipload of tourists at Cartagena, Colombia, until the threat of war was dissipated. When the war finally broke out this year, she discharged 550 cruise passengers at Havana and dashed for a haven in Vera Cruz.

Mexican officials said that while she was at Vera Cruz, several members of the crew deserted on the ground that food was running low and that they were refused shore leave.

News of her scuttling shocked New York officials of the North German Lloyd Lines ,which owned the ship. John Schroeder New York manager, said:—

"Oh, my God! It's one blow after the other."

ployee, took a pot shot at the bandit as he started to leave the premises. The shot missed its mark, and Harlow, wheeling swiftly, returned the fire. His shot also went astray. It was at this stage that the confederates in the car drove off in a panic.

Harlow was sullen and aggressive after his capture and openly sneered at his captors. His language was vitriolic regarding "those yellow rats" who deserted him. The small amount he was able to take from the bank disgusted him.

"Was that all the money you had?" he snorted. "A fine thing. If two or three of us had come we'd have got more. We'd have got into the strong box.

Western Ontario police sought the pair who ran off on Harlow. District roads were combed. The two had disappeared into a foggy night. They are believed driving a car stolen from Brantford Monday night. The machine is owned by a Brantford police constable.

The youth walked into the bank alone and ordered five employees to the rear of the premises. He then entered the teller's cage and took a stack of bills. Acting on a hunch, Bernard Hastilow, a clerk, threw about $1,000 in bills into a waste-paper basket when he saw the stranger enter the bank. As the bandit departed, one of the employees, Jack Rice, fired at him through the front window and the bandit returned the fire. No one was hurt.

Manager V. D. Olliver, who was back at work for the first time since an operation was performed on an injured arm, raised both arms when ordered to do so by the gunman, though he had not previously been able to raise the injured one. Later, when the excitement had moderated, he was unable to raise it again.

Mrs. Olliver who heard the bandit gruffly ordering the bank staff about in the bank, ran out of the back door of the Olliver apartment, which adjoins the bank, and shouted:

'Help! Help! A robbery. Police! Police!"

A bit abashed, Mrs. Oliver admitted that was exactly what she had shouted.

She circled the bank once, shouting. The bandit when he reached the street and learned the car he expected to be there had disappeared, ran around the back in the opposite direction to which Mrs. Olliver was running.

He saw her and heard and fired a shot at her.

"Shut up,' he bellowed.

"I shut up, of course," Mrs. Olliver said.

Twice more the bandit attempted to shoot at Mrs. Olliver. The gun failed to go off. Police later produced the unfired bullets, nicked by the firing pin, but not hit hard enough to explode.

After firing the shot at Mrs. Olliver, the thug ducked between two houses and came out on the street farther up.

By this time, Davis, who had heard Mrs. Olliver shouting, was out on the street after him.

Davis ducked behind a tree and fired one shot at the bandit. The bandit turned. Aware his gun was out of commission, he stopped running.

Davis ordered him to throw away his gun. He did.

Davis and J. S. Leitch, general merchant, were both quickly on him. Leitch, who had appeared off the street, had obtained a gun from the bank to join in the chase.

A lone customer, a woman, Mrs. R. Arthurs, was in the bank.

Monday was the last day for payment of taxes in the district, and it is thought the robbers expected to get a large haul in tax money.

Marmora

Mr. Fred Burns and Fred, junior, visited relatives in Montreal for a few days last week.

At a euchre party held in the Parish Hall on Monday evening under auspices of St. Paul's Laymen's Association the honors went to W. Willis and Mrs. H. Melville. Refreshments were served at the close.

East Emily AYPA Enjoys Debate

EAST EMILY, Dec. 20—(ENS).—The members of the A.Y.P.A. of St. James' Anglican Church held their meeting this week in the parish hall.

A very interesting debate took place: "Resolved, that shows are not injurious to mankind"; the affirmative carrying off the most points and was won by Messrs. Alton Clark and Edmund Ernshaw. The negative was taken by Messrs. Arthur Boate and Dennis Acreman. The remainder of the evening was in charge of the social convener, Miss Grace Franks.

Bethel W.A.

The members of the W.A. of Bethel United Church held their meeting in the basement of the church on Tuesday evening, with a large attendance; the president, Mrs. Ira Switzer, presiding.

A very Helpful paper was read by Mrs. W. Howden entitled "The Lowly Jesus"; solo, "The Old Rugged Cross," by Rev. Mr. Patterson; duet, Alberta and Margaret Wright; recitation, Bernice Ruth.

The meeting was then turned over to Mr. Patterson for the installation of the new officers for the coming year; the old officers being all re-elected.

A social hour spent with refreshments being served brought a very satisfactory meeting to a close.

The Sunday School meeting was held Tuesday night, with the installation of officers and teachers: Supt., Eugene Switzer; Ass. Supt., Herbert Jackson; Secretary, Aldon Bailey; Ass. Sec., Ronald Darling; Treasurer, Audrey Boate.

The teachers were all re-elected and satisfactory reports given from the treasurer and secretary.

Mr. Elwood Faulkner was in Oshawa on business last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson of Springbrook and Miss Ethel Thompson of Toronto spent Sunday at the home of their sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Switzer.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Carew of Peterborough spent Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Carew.

OBITUARIES

MRS. LOTTIE REA.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 20.—(ENS)—The death of Mrs. Charlotte (Lottie) Rea, which occurred at her late residence, King street, on Thursday, December 14, after only two weeks' illness, removed a well-loved and highly-respected member of a family which was well known among the early settlers of the district, and whose name, that of Hampton, has been linked with township and village history practically since pioneer days.

Mrs. Rea who was in her eighteenth year, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Hampton, and was born and brought up west of the village, near the Fallis Line. Educated for a teacher, Mrs. Rea, whose maiden name was Charlotte (Lottie) made a marked success of her chosen profession, her first school having been in Ops township; later she taught in Lindsay, and then in Millbrook at the red brick station school', since transformed into a dwelling house and owned and occupied by Mrs. H. W. Johnston.

Over forty years ago the marriage took place of Miss Hampton and Dr. Henry Rea, of London, their home being in the latter city for a period of more than thirty years. Upon the death of her husband, which occurred some sixteeen years ago, Mrs. Rea returned to the home of earlier years at Millbrook, continuing to reside here until her death.

Brought up in the Presbyterian church, she later became connected in membership with the Methodist and United churches, and brought to her chosen place of worship faithful support, not only in attendance at its services, and in generous financial contribution, but also by her consistent Christian life and character. She was a life member of the Women's Missionary Society, had given it fine service as district organizer during her residence in London, was a generous contributor to its funds, and in more recent years was one of the honorary presidents of this organization in St. Andrew's church, Millbrook. She was also a member of the Women's Association and for nearly twelve years the very capable and faithful teacher of the Senior Men's Bible class in St. Andrew's Sunday School, succeeding her sister, the late Miss Agnes Hampton, in this office, and only giving it up some two years ago to an unsatisfactory state of health. In London, Mrs. Rea had a class of twenty young ladies, in connection with the Centenary church Sunday School, and one member of this class Mrs. P. L. Edworthy, now resident in Millbrook, speaks in the highest terms of the service rendered.

The immediate surviving relatives include two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Armstrong, and Miss Mary Hampton, both at home; previously deceased were three sisters, Mrs. William McKnight, Agnes and Rosy Hampton; and two brothers, David, who was principal of the local public and continuation schools for over fifty years, and William, who was living in the States at the time of his death.

The funeral took place from the family homestead, King street, on Saturday at 1.30 p.m., and was conducted by Rev. A. L. Sisco, B. D. Members of her former Bible class acted as pall-bearers including: G. E. Burnham, W. F. Fallis, L. W. Smith, Thomas Douglas, W. A. O'Brian and J. H. Might; the floral tributes were many and beautiful and flower-bearers were church officials, and former class members; M. McDowell, H. C. Argue, W. E. Ball, P. I. Bentley, I. Hatherly and W. Elson. Interment was in the family burial plot at Riverside cemetery, Lindsay.

JAMES SAGE

James Sage passed away Saturday, December 16, at Hall's Bridge, at the home of his sister with whom he resided. The late Mr. Sage was born in Lakefield and was in his 82nd year. He leaves to mourn his loss one sister, Mrs. Silas Graham, and one brother, W. Sage of Harvey.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon at 2.30 from Webster's Funeral Home in Lakefield to Ray's Cemetery, with Kenneth Brenton of Bridgenorth United Church officiating.

The pall-bearers were six nephews Albert Graham, Fred Graham, James Graham, Will Graham, George Graham, Sherman Graham

Keene Plans Special Services

KEENE, Dec. 20—(ENS).—"Abraham's vision of the City of God" was the topic of the sermon at the United Church last Sunday. The choir sang with good voice "O For A Closer Walk With God" which was appreciated by the large congregation. "If Abraham's gaze had been upon the great wealth he possessed it would not have made him 'the man of God'. It was his faith in Jehovah which caused him to truly prosper but his vision of the Eternal city kept him steadfast in the faith," Rev. Murray declared.

Christmas services will be held at 10.45 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. on Sunday. In the morning the choir will render special music and the topic of the sermon will be "Behold I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people". In the evening there will be a special Christmas candle light service when members of the Young People's Society will take part in this colorful service describing the Christmas story.

Proposed Legislation To Extend Mayor's Term One Year But Will Not Affect The Aldermen

The proposed amendments to the Municipal Act extending the term of municipal office to two years or the duration of the war has carried a great deal of comment, mostly unfavorable, and there has been some doubt expressed as to how it would affect local municipal affairs.

An Examiner reader wrote to the Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs, asking for information on certain points as follows:

(1) It has been announced that at the election to be held here on January 1, 1940, a mayor will be elected for one year only. If that is so and is intra vires, an election for mayor would apparently be necessary in 1941.

The minister in his reply stated that information as to the proposed extension of municipal terms of office could not be definitely given until the proposed legislation has been passed in the next session, but as now drafted, the proposed legislation will extend the term of office of every mayor for a period of one year from the date upon which his term of office would otherwise expire.

If that means what it apparently says, and the enabling legislation is passed ,then the mayor elected on January 1, 1940, will have his term extended from one year from the date upon which his term of office would otherwise expire viz. January 1, 1941. This apparently means that although technically a mayor will be elected for a term of one year on January 1, 1940, yet, in fact, on January 1, 1941, when his term of office expires, that term of office will be automatically extended for another year, or until the termination of the war, which war shall last happen. Therefore, in actual fact, the mayor elected on January 1, 1940, will be elected for a two-year term or for the duration of the war.

(5) The second point raised was to aldermen. It stated that 10 aldermen here were elected for a two-year term, half of them vacating office annually. That means that the five aldermen elected on January 1, 1940, are elected for a two-year term in any event. The five elected on January 1, 1939, will complete their term of office in January, 1941, and apparently there would have to be an election on that date to fill these five aldermanic vacancies, or what happens? This applies to the Board of Education and even more so to the Utilities Commission who are elected for a three-year term. The net result seems to be that there will be a municipal election annually and no economy is affected whatever other benefits may arise.

In reply to this query the Minister wrote: "The proposed legislation will not affect the terms of office of Peterborough aldermen but will extend for one year the terms of office of members of the Board of Education and the Utilities Commission, who are in office on the date of the going into force of the legislature." This statement is not very clear and rather begs the questions.

(3) A third question related to the proposed wine shop bylaw which will come before the electors in these terms: "Are you in favor of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario closing up the Hillrust Wine Co. Limited's Wine shop on Charlotte street in the City of Peterborough?" It was asked if the city council was within its legal rights in presenting such a bylaw when the result of the vote would be inconclusive in any event as the final decision would rest with the Liquor Control Board irrespective of the fate of the bylaw.

On these points the Minister writes: "The question of the licensing of a wine shop now operating in your city appears to be a "municipal question" within the meaning of paragraph II, section 404 of the Municipal Act (Revised Statutes of Ontario 1937, Chapter 266). The legality of a similar question was considered by the Supreme Court of Ontario in 1938 in the case of re Thomas and Hamilton."

If, as a fact, it will be necessary to hold an election annually for the appointing of aldermen the question of economy seems rather to pass into the discard, as the whole election machinery would have to be put in motion and the only economy effected would be a slight reduction of the printing bill.

Commissioners Decide To Buy New Car

Plans for the proposed improvements in the police court section of the city building were submitted to the Board of Police Commissioners at the regular meeting Tuesday by John F. Hornsby, architect, who told the commissioners that the approximate cost of the alterations was $9,000.

"We cannot do anything about it but approve or disapprove the plans," said Judge S. L. Smoke, chairman of the Board before Mr. Hornsby made his appearance. "Whether or not the work is undertaken is a matter entirely for the council."

Two different schemes were submitted by Mr. Hornsby and the first one that included new quarters for the chief council, the Crown Attorney, the lawyers and witnesses in rooms west of the present court room and over the garage, and also provided for a storage room in the basement met with approval in its main details, although no action was taken in regard to it at Tuesday's meeting.

"I think some arrangement should be made to have Sergt. Puffer's office downstairs," remarked Mayor Hamilton. "I think he would be of more service there."

Judge Smoke remarked that the room shown on the plan for the chief constable's office was larger than necessary, while the room for witnesses was correspondingly small

May Get One Car.

A letter was received from Chief Constable Newhall recommending that a trade-in offer from Foley and Wilson for the two cars now operated by the police department should be accepted, but the commission declined to act on the suggestion.

On the contrary the decision was to trade in only one car, the Pontiac now in commission and retain the present Nash. The acting Cheif Constable was instructed to secure prices from local dealers as to a trade-in on the Pontiac and as to the price of a suitable radio generator in the Nash owned by the department. The Board will hold a special meeting next Tuesday to consider the matter.

Applications for renewals of taxi owners' and drivers' licenses were received and dealt with as follows on motion of Mayor Hamilton and Judge Smoke:

Lakefield Firemen Hold Jolly Party

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 20 (ENS)—A very jolly evening was spent by the members of the Lakefield Fire Brigade and their families, when they gathered in the Memorial Hall, Lakefield, on Monday evening for their annual Christmas entertainment and supper.

A short program with Fire Chief A. H. Clarke as chairman was followed by the appearance of Santa Claus who distributed the gifts to the children.

Community singing opened the program with Miss Jean Clark at the piano and this was followed by the chairman's address. Two Hawaiian duets were rendered by Barbara and Maxine Hunter; Joan Wannamaker, Barbara Hamlin, Gilbert Hunter and Ruth Graham, each had a recitation. Jean Miller had as her number a snappy tap dance. A harmonica duet was given by Bernard Johnston and Ray Jackman. John David Grylls's piano instrumental was followed with a baritone solo by A. H. Clark. A vocal duet was rendered by Teddy Morin and Jack Chittick. Short speeches were given by Reeve Gordon Scriver and W. H. Hamlin, chairman of the social committee.

The serving of supper from well laden tables brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

Defendant Asks To Be Home For Christmas So Magistrate Postpones Giving Judgment

Although two police officers swore that he had been found on King street so helplessly drunk that he had to be carried into the police car and out of it again, an Ashburnham man charged in police court this morning with having been intoxicated took the witness box and swore that he had not been drunk but had simply fallen when he went to light his pipe and couldn't remember anything afterward.

To the crown attorney the accused said that he had previously "helped another fellow to drink a bottle of wine" but he could not remember who he was or what he looked like. All he was clear about was that he had encountered the hospitable stranger at the corner of Charlotte and George street.

When the case was called today the accused asked for another adjournment but the Crown objected vigorously. For the second time this week officers who were on night duty and should have been sleeping had been called out to give evidence and the prosecution wanted the case to go ahead. The magistrate took the same view.

"I have never been away from home for Christmas," the defendant said and the remark secured him one concession.

It was decided to proceed with the taking of evidence and then to reserve judgment for a week and that was what was done.

After Sergt. John Thompson and Constable W. A. Clarke had been heard for the Crown and the defendant in his own behalf Magistrate Langley gravely reserved judgment until next Wednesday.

Motor traffic, including the city's buses, encountered Tuesday evening the first obstructive weather this season. Rain froze on Windshields and also on the pavement. Buses missed quite a number of trips, and a local man told the Examiner it took him an hour to drive from the turn west of Lakefield to the city.

TURKEYS AT ORONO

An experiment of an organized turkey sale at Orono Tuesday was reported to have attracted a large number of buyers and sellers with results that were regarded as entirely satisfactory. A great quantity of fowl was offered for sale, and information reaching the city indicated that farmers got a favorable price.

PARTY PLANS COMPLETE.

Close to forty boys will be guests of the Kinsmen Club on Thursday night at the Empress Hotel when the Annual Christmas Tree Party will be held. This event has been a success since it was first introduced and each boy who is chosen to attend is given a gift and a meal that has both quality and quantity. The party is a service effort to gladden the hearts of boys who might otherwise have a rather dull Christmas.

THE TURKEY WINNERS

The result of the turkey draw held by the St. John Ambulance Brigade is announced as follows; these being the lucky winners of turkeys: W. Thompson, St. Mary street; B. FEW TRAFFIC CASES

Traffic court was decidedly light this morning. There were no city cases at all, and the only highway cases were two involving charges laid by Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton, one of which was withdrawn and the other adjourned for a week.

DIDN'T ASK ADJOURNMENT

One young man, charged in police court this morning with having been drunk, must have heard of Magistrate Langley's warning. At all events he didn't suggest an adjournment, promptly pleaded guilty, and was fined $10 and $3 costs or ten days in jail.

FIND WORK AT GUELPH

Luck has come at last to 18 Peterborough men who have been unemployed for some time. Through the Employment Service of Canada branch here ten former textile workers have been placed with a mill in Guelph that has received a large war order, and the company has found their work so satisfactory its management has asked Superintendent Bill Mellis to send another three. They will go to work after Christmas.

PREDICTS ELECTION

The only molety of municipal gossip heard on the street this morning was a definite statement, probably an easy foretelling by Fred T. Tuggey, former alderman, that "there certainly will be an election." For all the average main streeter knows there may be a great deal of conversation about affairs of Friday, but no one knows anything about it. Examiner enquries meet with the same reply that no candidates have been mentioned as opponents to the present elective officials.

"IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS."

A shave for a penny was the tensorial tariff in the barber shops of the Old Country in what Alderman Dutton last night ironically referred to as the good old days. He and Alderman Stocker and John A. Smith out-back the discussion to other days in England and Scotland with recollection of older methods as suggested by the lather boy. Alderman Dutton laughingly recalled that it was fast work, and intimated that there was little or no pretence of the refinments of the Canadian barber shops of to-day.

John Hill's adventures that started in the Collegiate Institute Monday night, continued in a McDonnel street apartment, went on to a London street residence and wound up in the police cells proved decidedly costly.

In police court today the young man who had Tuesday pleaded guilty to three charges, one of drunkenness and the others of wilfully damaging property, private and public, found himself assessed fines and costs totalling $46.50, with the alternative of 29 days in jail.

The first case considered today was the charge of damaging the property of Mrs. H. O. Fiske at 204 McDonnel street. Acting Chief Constable Reid was called to give evidence as to the amount of damage done but when it was found that he had not seen the damage himself but was merely giving an estimate that had been given him by others the testimony was rejected by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

"That is pure hearsay," said the magistrate in refusing to accept the evidence.

Sergt. John Thompson was then called and stated that he had seen several broken windows, a mop that had been set on fire and some articles of clothing that had been burned. His estimate of the damage was between $5 and $6.

John A. Bradshaw who appeared for Hill made a plea for leniency, arguing that the accused should be put upon the interdicted list because of the effect liquor had upon him. "He is not a man who has destructive propensities normally," said defence counsel. "Otherwise he might have smashed in those big plate glass windows of the Examiner office which ee has been passing every day and which might be a temptation to any one."

Magistrate Langley, observing that the public must be protected from folk who became drunk and invaded homes, fined Hill $15 and $1.75 costs and assessed $5 more to cover the damage he had done to the Fiske property, with the alternative of ten days in jail.

On the charge of damaging property in the Collegiate Institute Magistrate Langley made the fine $10 and the costs $1.75, but no damages were allowed as Constable W. A. Clarke who gave evidence on that point would make no estimate as the amount. In default of payment a jail sentence of ten days to run consecutively with the other was ordered.

On the drunkenness charge Hill was fined $10 and $3 costs, with an alternative of nine days in jail, to run consecutively with the other two sentences.

Gifts Exchanged By Young People

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 20—(ENS) An exchange of gifts between members was a pleasing feature of the weekly meeting of St. Andrew's Young People's Society which met for their last meeting of the year on Monday. Gifts were given in accordance with plans made last week, when each member drew the name of one of the other members. A number of the gifts were returned to be placed in the Christmas baskets which are being prepared. Rev. B. Simpson Black addressed members briefly drawing their attention to the annual week of prayer.

Wilsie Phillips arranged the program of the evening, which opened with an instrumental trio including himself, Jack Bell and Mrs. M. McFarlane. Second number was a piano duet by Mrs. McFarlane and Wilsie Phillips followed by a period of community singing. A musical quiz for which Mr. Phillips presided at the piano, calling on the members to identify the various theme songs of well-known orchestras and a number of popular pieces. A delightful lunch was served at the close.

Charged With Murder

Ernest Kehler, 26, who formerly boxed in Winnipeg under the name of Ernest Haas, was placed under arrest in Toronto charged with the murder of Dr. Walter Engelberg, secretary to the New York German consul and a member of the German secret service.

Blairton School Holds Concert

The fourth annual Christmas concert was held in the Blairton United Church Friday evening under the direction of Miss Helen Anderson, teacher.

The program was sponsored entirely by Miss Anderson's school pupils who showed they had been well trained in a wide variety of numbers.

Dr. Fletcher of Marmora made a very appropriate chairman for the evening. Between numbers W. J. Cottrell of Marmora sang and gave a recitation entitled "What Christmas Means to Me."

The numbers on the program were as follows: Recitation by Arlene Aunger; chorus, "Good King Wenceslas" by school; recitation by Shirley McQuaig; song by Isabell and Raymond Saltern; dialogue, Telling the Story; recitation by Edith Youmans; dialogue, "New Hired Man"; tableau by six girls dressed in white, Clifford Robertson sang for part of this number; dialogue by Dora Youmans and Edna Vilneff entitled "Pat's Letter," this was given in Irish dialect; candle drill by six girls dressed in white; dialogue, "Burglars and Ghosts"; pantomime, "Silent Night," by three girls acting the song while Clifford Robertson sang; Old Black Joe was sung and acted by four pupils; dialogue, "At the Ticket Office," this was a riot of laughter from beginning to end; patriotic number by school; chorus by school "Merrily, Merrily, Over the Snow"; closing speech by Marilyn Stockdale.

Shouts of joy were raised as Santa Claus appeared to distribute the gifts.

Miss Anderson and pupils intend using the proceeds for improving their school grounds.

BRITISH FLOWERS

ROME—(CP).—The British Embassy carried off two first prizes in the annual flower show held in the Villa Borghese.

Buyers Are Few But Poultry Most Plentiful

Five or ten turkeys to every buyer seemed to be the produce ratio on the midweek market this morning shortly after eleven o'clock.

Counters were stacked with fowl, mostly turkeys and geese and a smaller quantity of chickens, row after row of them. In many sections well groomed birds were two and three layers deep, waiting for buyers.

Some of the farmers reported that business had been satisfactory. Prices of hen turkeys were 23 to 25 cents as quoted and 22 cents for gobblers; geese 22 cents and chickens 18 to 20 cents. Just a glance over the hall at that hour left an immediate impression that buying would have to take a sharp spurt if the splendid supply of turkeys and geese was to be disposed of before the short day ended.

Weather did not deter farmers from coming to market over roads that were still icy, but apparently buyers were either waiting for Saturday or declined to venture out in the dull weather. The market seemed to be actually in a fog, a hangover from last night's heavy mist and low visibility following a seasonally late and much needed rain.

Incidentally, one buyer was noticed lugging two big turkeys home bound up Water street. He said he bought them for 20 cents a pound.

Freighter Grounds

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 20—(AP).—An 898-ton Norwegian passenger ship, Kronprinsesse Martha, ran aground off Stavanger today and capsized. All but one sailor of the 70 aboard were saved.

C.G.E. Girls' Team To Be Presented With Windbreakers

The annual banquet of the C.G.E. Girls' Softball team at Kawartha Club will be an event of this (Wednesday) evening. A toast to the team will be made by Mr. C. A. Salmonsen, to which Miss Marilyn McCarthy will reply. Banquet arrangements are in charge of Mr. H. A. Cranfield, assisted by the team manager, Mr. Michael O'Brien.

The presentation of windbreakers to the fifteen girls of the team on behalf of the Company by Mr. I. F. McRae will be an interesting feature. The windbreakers, of tyrol twill, with zippered front and pockets, have the C.G.E. crest of Royal blue and orange on the sleeve.

Following the banquet, games and dancing will be enjoyed by the team members and their friends.

Y.W.A. Concludes Fine Year's Work

The annual meeting of the Young Women's Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Paul's Church was held in the Guild Room on Monday evening, with the president, Miss Marjorie Nesbitt, in the chair.

The installation of officers, conducted by Mrs. A. T. Barr, was as follows: Honorary presidents, Mrs. A. T. Barr, Miss Elizabeth Walker; president, Miss Marjorie Nesbitt; vice-president, Miss Margaret Morgan; secretary, Mrs. Roy A. White; treasurer, Mrs. A. H. Dancey; Glad Tidings setcretary, Miss A. Davidson; sewing convener, Miss Marjory Best; social committee, Mrs. L. R. Mitchell (convener), Mrs. S. Hall, Miss Marlie Vickers; visiting committee, Miss Mary Greer, Mrs. T. V. Whittington; telephone committee, Mrs. G. Brown, Mrs. H. Middleton, Miss J. Connal; pianist, Mrs. V. A. Read.

The devotional section of the meeting was interestingly carried out in the Christmas theme, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Walker, assisted by Mrs. A. H. Dancey, with Mrs. V. Read at the piano. The story of "The Coming of the King," which gave the first Christmas to the world, was beautifully presented by story and lantern slides interspersed with the singing of Christmas carols.

Parents Are Welcomed At "Open School" Meeting

Mrs. E. Chamebrs, the president, and Mrs. E. Cooke, welcomed the parents at an "open school" Christmas meeting of the King Edward Home and School Association, at which teachers were present in the class rooms to present the work of the pupils and explain thier progress to the mothers.

A fine display of children's books was a centre of interest on the lower floor. At four o'clock tea was served by the ladies of the Home and School Association in the upper hall.

The presentation of a gift from the Association to a teacher of the school who is leaving at the end of the year, Miss E. Fusee, was a pleasant feature of the tea hour. The presentation was made by the president, Mrs. E. Chambers, and an address was read by Mrs. L. Gibson.

Trinity Club Holds White Gift Night

A White Gift Night was held by the Trinity Young People's Club, with Miss Kay Elliott's group in charge. Lights were dimmed while Christmas carols were sung to open the program, with Miss Frances Wells, A.T.C.M., at the piano. The Scripture lesson was read by Miss Audrey Garside, and during a Chrismas prayer by Mr. Dick Clayton, a violin obligato was played by Mr. Bert McFadden.

Officers were elected as follows: Honorary president, Rev. G. S. Easton; past president, Mr. Charles Huffman; president, Mr. Dick Clayton; vice-president, Mr. Bert McFadden; secretary, Miss Iris Whalon; treasurer, Miss Mary Thompson; group leaders, Miss May Boorman, Mr. Robt. Huffman, Miss Helen Hetherington, Mr. D. Mortson.

Boy Scouts Renew Vows During Christmas Pageant

With an attendance of over fifty parents, friends and scouts, the Parents' Auxiliary of the Fifth Troop of Boy Scouts held its Christmas meeeing in the chapel of All Saints' church. The meeting was opened with "O Canada," followed by The Lord's Prayer repeated in unison, and the Bible reading given by Mrs. Orville Kidd.

Letters of thanks were read by the secretary, Mrs. H. Dunford, and several plans for work in the New Year were announced. A reading, "The Three Wise Men" was given by Mrs. A. Lacey, and a Christmas pageant entitled "And a Little Child Shall Lead Them" was well received. The cubs, scouts and rovers entered the chapel singing "Away in a Manger," and renewed their scout and cub vows at the cradle of the Infant Jesus. Others taking part were: Mother Mary, Mrs. A. Read; Shepherds, Mr. B. Cutmore, Mr. O. Kidd and Mr. H. E. Connolly. Assisting with carol singing were Miss Marie Kearns and Miss Viola Sexsmith. Mr. L. Robinson was accompanist for the carols and other singing.

The speaker, Canon J. D. Paterson, was introduced by the president, Mrs. R. J. Kearns, and in a splendid address brought the attention of the audience to the seriousness of the Christmas season, and the responsibilities of the Canadian people toward the war situation now being created.

A solo, "Silent Night," was sung by Miss Viola Sexsmith. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction, and refreshments were served by the social convener, Mrs. A. Carpenter, and her committee.

FASHIONS

Make Your Own Moccasins

Moccasins make a practical and extremely welcome gift. These are so easy to make because they require no real sewing, they are simply laced together. Make them for the boys and girls on your list, to wear about the house. Any heavy woollen such as coating or a discarded heavy blanket is suitable, as well as suede, suede cloth or leather. Bright beads in Indian design on the front add a gay touch to either plain or contrasting color moccasins. Just four simple pieces and you don't have to sew a stitch.

Style No. 2639 is designed for shoe sizes 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8.

When a Difficulty Arises, Try The Problem On Yourself And See What Your Reaction Is; If Unfavorable, You Can Be Sure Others Will Dislike It.

IF YOU are in doubt as to what to say or do in any circumstances, the infallible rule is to try it out on yourself and see how you react to it. If the result makes you boiling mad it is a warning to change your tactics. But if, on the contrary, it leaves you feeling like the cat that swallowed the canary it is a signal that it is safe to use it on others.

This simple method of dealing with our fellow creatures would enable husbands and wives to stay married, children to be able to endure their parents and friends to remain on speaking terms, because not many of us are intentionally cruel and unkind. We are just dumb and possessed of the delusion that other people don't feel about things the way we do and are not irritated by the things that rile us.

Suppose, for instance, you were a child. How would you like it if you were dragged from your play into the living room and forced to make the rounds and kiss a lot of doddering old relatives with mouths full of false teeth? How would you like to gorge yourself on spinach when your mouth was watering for roast beef and potatoes? How would you like to have to get up with your knees shaking so you could hardly stand and recite or sing for visitors? How would you like to listen while your features were taken apart and one old aunt said what a pity it was you had the Jones' nose and another one surmised that you were going to be runty like the Smiths? How would you like it if Mamma and Papa made you the subject of their funny stories that set dinner parties in a roar? And how, oh, how would you like it if everybody asked if you were a good boy or girl?

If you had married a girl who had led you to believe that she considered you the ultimate in human perfection, how would you like her to turn into a little critic on the hearth as soon as you got her home and begin chirping to you about all your faults and imperfections? How would you like her to criticise your clothes and your table manners and the way you sat down and rose up?

How would you like her to be a back-seat driver who spoils every drive in the automobile by telling you that you are going too fast or too slow or to watch out for the street lights and not run over the old woman who is coming down the road? How would you like a wife who always belittled you and compared you invidiously with other men and who threw cold water on all of your plans?

If you were a husband who worked hard to keep your wife soft and easy, how would you like it if she took everything you did for her for granted and never so much as said "thank you" for all the sacrifices that you made for her? How would you like it if she never gave any sign of affection for you and if her kisses were as cold as icicles on your cheek?

How would you like it if she was always telling you about some handsome and fascinating man she had met and how beautifully he was dressed? How would you like it if she put on her hat every evening as soon as dinner was over and went out to some place of amusement, leaving you to spend the evening alone, with nothing more diverting to do than to watch the baby breathe?

If you were a wife, how would you like to have a husband who never spoke to you except to criticize you and who never noticed what you had on, or how you looked, or appreciated how hard you worked to make him comfortable? How would you like to have a husband who nagged you about what you ate, and what you wore, and where you went until you had no liberty in life?

How would you like to have a husband who whined and complained and thought he was a martyr because he had to work to support his family and stay at home with the children? How would you like to have a husband who kept you in debt with his extravagance? How would you like to have a husband who was so busy and interested in his clubs he had no time to give to his home?

If you were a mother-in-law, how would you like to have a daughter-in-law who didn't even try to be friends with you; who tried to separate your son from you and who thought she had a right to run your house and regulate your life?

And if you were a daughter-in-

Children At Shelter Are Promised A Visit From Santa Christmas Eve

Shrieks of delight will greet Christmas morning at the Children's Shelter when excited youngsters investigate bulging stockings following the visit of the pudgy little man in the red cap and coat, whose reindeer will be alighting in the roofs of Peterborough homes while good children sleep.

The jolly fellow has so many children to look after this year, however—really a great deal more than usual—that he has had to appeal for help with his Christmas shopping, and his S. O. S. was immediately responded to by members of the Rotary Club and their wives, whose contributions will help a great deal to make those stockings at the Shelter "bulge."

An Examiner reporter was lucky enough to drop in at the office of the superintendent of the Children's Aid Society Monday afternoon just at the moment when Rotary gifts were coming in, and although Christmas is a time of secrets, we can't resist telling a very little of what we saw.

First of all, of course, we were impressed with the quality of the gifts, that is, after we recovered from the surprise of seeing the usually lady-like superintendent on the floor spinning one of those gay, singing tops, and the secretary, whose calm efficiency has always impressed us, cuddling a brown teddy bear!). The fact that the gifts had been chosen individually, and represented what the donor would have liked had he still been a little boy—or girl, was obvious.

Having never outgrown the childhood "doll" complex, our first love was a chubby, cuddly baby wearing a complete outfit of hand-knitted blue wool with lots of pink tassels. Almost as popular and really twice as cute, was a black piccaninny in a yellow dress with pink sweater and cap to keep her warm. For amusement there was a tap-dancing sailor, and a grey seal whose clever ability was to balance a revolving scarlet ball on its nose! There were horns that work; guns; gaily enamelled dishes; books; games; airplanes; mechanical toys; singing toys; cars—three overflowing baskets of everything any child could wish for, and they were going to be done up in the brightest of wrappings for little fingers, trembling with excitement, to open Christmas morning.

In memory of their son, and what a loving and most gracious way of remembering, one father and mother are being Santa Claus to twenty-two children. In response to letters written to Santa by the youngsters themselves, they will receive their heart's desire, whether it be a windbreaker, a snowsuit, kiddie-car or skates, etc.

Donations of money received will be used for the children who have not been remembered in other ways. Families who cannot make Christmas for children in their own homes will also be remembered through the efforts of the Children's Aid Society, whose help, however, is only possible through the thoughtfulness of the community.

Two C.G.I.T. groups of St. Andrew's and Knox Church, six girls in all, have sent gifts, and a donation of money has come in from the Junior Red Cross of Grade 6, Queen Mary School.

Thursday evening is the Board of Directors' Christmas party at the Shelter, to which everyone interested is invited. It opens at 7.30, and there is to be a program presented by the children of the Shelter and several from outside, and a handsome Christmas tree from which the children will receive gifts. Mrs. J. S. Fanning is convener of arrangements for the party.

Do You Know?

Many an accident has been caused by loose stair rods; go over yours and be quite sure they are all firm.

When pressing a knitted garment before sewing together it is often difficult to hold the curled edges down while pressing under a damp cloth. If the edges are pinned firmly to the ironing cloth every few inches the task is made much easier.

We Noticed

. . . That despite wartime conditions, stores in the West End of London are taking advantage of obtaining all kinds of useful things before prices rise.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . . Counters displaying woollen underwear for men and women at bargain prices are crowded with people laying in stocks for the future.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . . Practical gifts are popular this Christmas, with stockings and shoes foremost. Prices in shoes are rising rapidly and shoe stores are full of women choosing them for presents.

✧ ✧ ✧

. . . . Wool-lined fur-edged all-weatherboots are a favorite buy for England's temperamental weather and are sensible wear for women who have to be out of doors rain or shine. Stockings are being bought in half dozens, although prices have not incerased a great deal yet.

Montevideo, Uruguay, now has 81 motion picture theatres.

Barbers' Bylaw Is Suspended For Six Months

Barbers of the city got an early Christmas present from the Board of Health Tuesday night in a resolution suspending for six months the effect and operation of the bylaw passed applying new regulations to the city's hairdressing shops.

M. H. Gainey and John A. Smith, as a deputation, asked that the bylaw be hoisted for the duration of the war and three months beyond the return of peace. They complained that the trade has not been apprised of the progress of the bylaw, but Mayor Hamilton in reply to that grievance recalled that draft copies of the bylaw had been placed in the hands of barbers who were presumed to be representatives of the industry.

Mr. Smith said he was dumbfounded when he heard and read that the council had passed the new requirements.

Alderman McCannan said that the only objection the council had received months ago when the bylaw was under discussion were some trifling suggestions about the wrapping of candy.

New demands imposed on the trade and mentioned last night as "hardships" were the use of hot water tanks for heating water and for no other purpose; the banning of cake soap of which Mr. Gainey said he had one hundred pounds, and the substitution of powdered soap; and the use of individual steamer towels for each customer.

Alderman Dutton said he did not think that any person in the trade or not would object to the main principle that customers of the barber shops were entitled to the utmost cleanliness, even to the individual steamer cloth, if that was necessary. It might that sterlizing could be effected by soaking the cloths in hot water, but Dr. Robert F. Nott, acting M. O. H., stated that the hospitals required boiling cloths.

Mr. Smith declared that from his long experience he was convinced that cake soap in mugs, well rinsed after each customer was shaved, was the best protection for the public.

After Mr. Gainey and Mr. Smith retired, Alderman Dutton moved seconded by Alderman McCannan, that the Board recommend to the Council that the bylaw be withheld in effect until July 1, 1940.

Sanitary Inspector MacPherson reported that he had called at all the barber shops, at first encountering a general feeling of resentment. That action had altered considerably when the scope of the new regulations were explained.

M. O. H. Applications.

Four applications, none of them from local doctors were received for the position of Medical Officer of Health during the absence of Dr. G. Murray Fraser on active service overseas.

Action was deferred until the Board has had an opportunity of inviting other applications through the columns of several medical journals One of the applicants was Dr. Norman H. Sutton, former District Medical Officer of Health in this city and district, and now located at Uchi Mines.

Obituary

MRS. R. C. WALT.

STIRLING, Dec. 20—(Special). — Profound sorrow was portrayed by many friends of Stirling and district as they paid final tribute of respect at the funeral of the late Annis Elizabeth Foster, beloved wife of Dr. C. F. Walt, who passed away suddenly at her Front street home on Tuesday, Dec. 12, the funeral taking place at the home on Thursday afternoon.

Known throughout the entire district for her activities in women's organizations deceased was prominent for many years in institute work, active membership in the Stirling Horticultural Society, Women's Missionary Society, Women's Association of St. Paul's Church, and since the declaration of war prominent in Red Cross work. Her services were always readily offered in the promotion of any enterprise constructive to the community or helpful to her neighbors. Throughout her fruitful community life the late Mrs. Walt striving to serve others wherever possible was loved by all, possessing a kindly smile that radiated true Christianity.

Born in Stockdale sixty-two years ago she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Foster. Upon her marriage she came to Stirling where she resided until her death. Surviving besides her husband, Dr. C. F. Walt, is one son, James Cecil Walt, Toronto, and one daughter, Miss Maragret Ellen Walt at home, one brother, Charles Murney Foster, Lakefield, and two sisters, Mrs. C. D. Powell, Frankford and Mrs. W. F. Orr, Humberside. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. J. Scott on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 14, with interment in Stockdale cemetery.

Mount Julian

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Crocker and sons, Douglas and Allen, of Peterborough, visited relatives in this district on Sunday.

Mr. Alex Reid has gone to Peterborough, where he plans to spend the winter months with his family.

Mr. James Reid visited in Peterborough on Saturday.

Mr. W. T. Northey motored to Peterborough on Saturday.

Special services will be held in Holy Trinity Anglican church at eleven o'clock on Christmas morning.

HALDANE STICKS IT

LONDON—(CP).—Professor J. B. S. Haldane, the only unevacuated professor of University College, London, has been transferred to the Zoology Animal House to save light and heat. He is the holder of England's first chair of biometry.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, December 21.

The prospects are for a day of decided advancement upon desired ends, judging by the lunar aspects, although success and achievement must be wrested from difficulties and tenacious obstacles. These seem to be deep-rooted and treachers, with both hidden and open dangers, delays and disappointments. But it is probable that all such frustrating circumstances may be dissolved by means of the collaboration, understanding and goodwill of superiors or employers. Sign papers carefully. Keep things harmonious and happy at home.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of ultimate triumph over conflicting circumstances, setbacks, duplicities, and kindred adversities, mainly through the good offices, wise counsel, and confidence of employers, superiors, or others of prestige and influence. Take pains to maintain happiness and harmony in personal relations.

A child born on this day may be studious and profound, almost to the point of gloom and melancholy, although it may be kindly, companionable and have friends and position among those of standing.

Fire In Garage Is Soon Extinguished

CAMBPUELLFORD, Dec. 20 (ENS) —A spectacular blaze at Davidson's garage was soon brought under control late on Saturday afternoon. The fire began when C. Bertrand, one of the mechanics, had poured gasoline on the concrete floor of the workshop to remove the oil. Heat from a nearby stove ignited the fumes, and soon the whole floor was in flames. Bertrand, who had been alone in the shop at the time, ran to the front office, where he gave the alarm. "I thought he was just joking until the smoke began to pour out of the back shop," commented Charlie Davidson.

The Fire Department made a three hundred yard dash up the street when the alarm sounded and emptied a chemical extinguisher into the flames which were immediately extinguished. Though several cars were in the shop at the time and smoke was so dense that the lights were extinguished from view, no other damage was done.

law, how would you like to have a mother-in-law who gave you the cold shoulder and didn't attempt to understand you or sympathize with you or help you?

If only we treated others as we would like to be treated ourselves, what a lot of grief we could save!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband and I married very young and now he is tired of it all and wants to go out every night with his women friends We have a darling little girl. I work very hard taking care of her and doing the housework, and I would like for my husband to take me out sometimes, but when I mention going even to the movies he flies into a rage and says that if I do he will have my baby taken away from me. I am very lonely. What can I do?—MRS. D. L. S.

ANSWER:

It is a terrible thing that in life we are punished more for our mistakes than we are for our sins. You are paying the penalty of marrying when you and your husband were both children. Neither of you had had your playtime. He is taking his now and you are longing for yours, which you cannot take. And no one can tell you how to make a boy settle down and assume the responsibilities of a husband father, nor how to keep a girl's feet from aching to dance.

But one thing you need not worry over. He can't take your baby from you. No court in the world would give it to him. And the last thing that he wants is to be burdened with a baby.

Social Evening Held By Alderville Y.P.U.

ALDERVILLE, Dec. 20—(ENS).—The Y. P. U. held a social evening in the Community Hall last week and lunch was served cafeteria style by Mrs. Mary Ann Black and Sunday School executive.

Following refreshments, the Christian culture convenors, Mrs. Fred Smoke and Mrs. James Bigwin, jr., presented the following program with Mrs. Smoke presiding. Mrs. Mary Black and her brother, Albert Crowe contributed several piano and violin selections; a quartette, Miss Charlotte Marsden and Messrs. Lorne Simpson, Alvin Beaver and Lawson Chase sang two numbers, "There's a Rainbow Shining," and "Memories," Mrs. Alfred Simpson read "The Model Church," a duet, "They are Only Shadows," was sung by Mrs. Fred Smoke and Mrs. James Bigwin. Rev. Eugene Beech the pastor, Fred Lewis president of Roseneath Y. P. U. and John Loukes of Alderville made short speeches.

Sad Christmas

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—(AP). —Judge J. E. White mailed Christmas packages to his sister, his niece and her husband in Indianola, Ia. Then he received three telegrams. The first said his sister had been killed in an auto accident. The second said his niece had died of injuries. The third told of her husband's death.

Walter Lasher Given 4 Years

COBOURG, Ont., Dec. 20—(CP) —Walter Lasher, 45, was sentenced to four years in penitentiary in police court yesterday on 19 charges, most of them for issuing bad cheques.

Lasher, formerly of Peterborough, has spent 18 years in prison since 1914, according to his record. On October 24 he bought a radio from a Cobourg dealer and gave a cheque on a non-existent bank. Chief W. J. Carey of Cobourg arrested Lasher after an extensive search, near Enterprise, a short time after the Cobourg offence. The rest of the charges against Lasher were laid by police of various centres in the province, to which he pleaded guilty in Cobourg Police Court.

Lasher received two years on the Cobourg charge and two years concurrent on four charges of false pretences; two years consecutive to the Cobourg charge for theft of a car in Toronto; four years concurrent on eight forgery charges; four years concurrent on three charges of uttering and two years, concurrent with the Cobourg charge, for receiving stolen goods.

Menie Cheese Factory Has Longest Season In Its History–Bonus May Reach $2,000

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 20. —(ENS) —A record for late production has been set by Menie Cheese company this year. The factory ceased production Monday when close to ten thousand pounds of milk were brought in by thirty patrons, all but six of whom delivers to the facory regularly during the summer. Frank Little who has been maker at Menie for the past seventeen years (only two years after the present plant was built) declared this was the longest season he had ever had. Factories in this district generally close between November 15 and 25 but this year an open season with no snow several were in production until the 1st of December.

The production for 1939 is even more unusual when it is considered that the greatest amount of milk taken in during the peak of the season is in the neighborhood of 15,000 pounds from only thirty-two patrons. At the present time, the company has 60 colored cheese" on the range" and these will not be shipped until December 27th. They will be sold at the price affective last time the Campbellford Cheese Board met at 16 3-16 cents according to arrangements made by factory President Roy Walker who looks after the selling end of the business for the patrons. "We only had three shipments during the entire summer that weren't in the bonus class," said Mr. Little." There would be between 200 and 250 cheese in the lot. As for second grades there were only 40 or 50 of those and with regard to ones we haven't shipped I can't say but they look pretty good." Mr. Little estimated the bonus for the season would run close to $2000.00. which makes it one of the highest in the district.

Albert H. Stratton Is Laid To Rest

In the historic old St. John's Church, where he had worshipped for many years, funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon for Albert H. Stratton, long a prominent figure in Peterboorugh's business life . The impressive Anglican funeral ritual was conducted by Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson, rector of St. John's, and in the representative gathering of Peterborough citizens in attendance were old friends of the deceased, business and professional men, whose contacts with him in civic, business, social and sporting circles had been many and pleasant. Mayor James Hamilton, former Mayor William Buller, and others represented the civic bodies.

Following the brief ceremony interment was made in Little Lake Cemetery. The pall-bearers were: Alexander W. Spence, Vincent Eastwood, W. C. Ackerman, G. H. Thompson, R. M .Glover, and F. M. DelaFosse.

Chest Clinic Is Asked To Return

The travelling chest clinic of the Ontario Department of Health was invited to return to Peterborough in its next round of the circuit early in the year. Miss Zeta Kearney, public health nurse, informed the Board of Health last night that seven active cases of tuberculosis were found at the Clinic in November and another case was reported by a Peterborough physician, making a total of eight for the month.

"Arrangements have been made for six persons to receive treatment in sanatoria," Miss Kearney wrote.

And the number of cases and contacts visited was 132. She visited 130 homes, in the couse of her general work, also 246 persons in these homes, with many office interviews.

Four well-baby clinics were held in November and fifty-eight infront visits. The infants received immunization treatments against diphtheria, scarlet fever, and whooping cough.

Miss Helen Gainey, Separate School nurse, reported 467 classroom inspections in November, 116 home visits, and other attentions.

Four Charged Kidnapping Haliburton Man

Watson, O'Neill and Gassien are also charged with conspiring to defraud Foley through false cheques totalling $625. Gassien also faces three forgery counts and a charge of theft of $100 from the elderly farmer, who is alleged to have been held for a week by the quartet. Watson is charged jointly with Gassien in one of the forgery counts.

McIntyre did not appear in court, but Crown Attorney A. F. Annis stated later a warrant had been issued for his arrest. Watson O'Neill and Gassien were remanded on bail of $5,000 each until Dec. 27, when a special police court session will be held for the preliminary inquiry.

Asks $10,000 Bail.

When Crown Attorney Annis asked for bail of $10,000 for each of the accused. George Bagwell, counsel for O'Neill and Watson, termed it "a ridiculous amount."

"It was a drunken party that lasted for a week or so. This isn't a case of kidnapping. All Foley was out was $100 after a week's drunk. If this were kidnapping by violent means it would be different entirely," he declared.

"My friend puts it pretty mildly. This is an offense of the most serious nature. There might be more than the ordinary inducement for these men to absent themselves," observed Crown Attorney Annis. After considerable discussion, bail was allowed to stand at the original figure of $5,000.

Bail Refused Girls.

Bail was refused Dolly Shaw and Jean Lamonthe, former Toronto girls, who are being held as material witnesses. Bail was fixed at $500 each for the two girls last week, but Magistrate F. S. Ebbs refused to accept bondsmen who had no previous knowledge of the girls.

"There are two girls who took part in this party who are being held as material witnesses and my clients do not want to inconvenience the," Defense Counsel Bawwell told the court.

"If they were released on bail, they would only be released into custody by your clients," asserted the Crown.

"I don't know what you mean by 'custody,' " said Bagwell.

"That's just what I mean—'custody,'" stated the Crown.

The charge, as read to the accused men today, reads: "That the accused did at the village of Prince Albert on October 11 kidnap James Foley with intent to have him secretly confined against his will within the boundaries of Canada."

NOTICE

AND SYNOPSIS OF A PROPOSED BY-LAW.

THE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough propcses to pass a By-law entitled "A By-law Authorizing the Borrowing of $10.000.00 upon Debentures for the Purpose of Constructing a Bridge Across the Otonabee River from London Street to Hazlitt Street."

The purpose of this By-law is to issue Debentures for the purpcse of Borrowing the sum of $10,000.00 to Construct a Foot Bridge for Pedestrians across the Otonabee River from London Street to Hazlitt Street, said Debentures to be issued on the Instalment Plan payable in Ten Annual Instalments and bearing Interest at the rate of 3½ per cent. per annum.

TAKE NOTICE, That the foregoing is a Synopsis of a proposed By-law of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough to be submitted to the votes of the Electors qualified to vote thereon on the 1ST DAY OF JANUARY, 1940, at the same time and at the same places for holding the Poll of Members of the Council of the City of Peterborough.

And that the 30TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1939, at the Hour of Eleven o'clock in the Forenoon, at the Office of the City Clerk in the Municipality, has been fixed for the appointment of persons to attend at the Polling places and at the final summing up of the Votes by the Clerk.

AND TAKE NOTICE FURTHER. That a Tenant qualified to Vote under Section 283, Sub-Section 3, of The Municipal Act must deliver to the Clerk, not later than the Tenth Day before the day appointed for taking the Vote a Declaration provided for by the said Sub-Section.

If the assent of the Electors is obtained for the said proposed By-law it will be taken into consideration by the Municipal Council of the said Corporation at a Meeting thereof to be held after the expiration of one month from the date of the first publication of this Notice, and that such first publication was made on the 6th Day of December, 1939.

DATED at Peterborough, this 6th Day of December, 1939.

Trent River

The Christmas Tree and Concert was held Wednesday night at C... Havelock School.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Wood and Miss Irene were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. William Preston.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Allmark, (formerly Elgan Ruttan of Trent River) and two children of Toronto met with a car accident while driving through the Exhibition Grounds, Toronto, while the soldiers were drilling, one day recently. Their car crashed into a cement abutment, the occupants escaped with a few bruises and scratches but were taken to a hospital for treatment. They were able to return to their home shortly after.

Rev. A. McLauchlin of Havelock is making pastoral calls in this vicinity this week.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

NO TRUMP PREFERRED

AS A RULE a major suit contract is preferred if the side holds eight trumps between the two hands, but in some of these situations No Trump will work out better. That is usually so when one opponent has the trump strength more or less bunched against you. He might be sure of a trick in the suit if it were trumps, but might be squeezed out of his cards if No Trump were the contract.

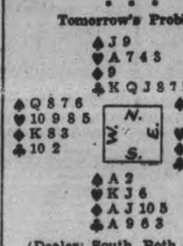
When North bid 1-Diamond on this deal, his brilliant partner, Arthur L. Pulver, financial analyst, decided to go for a No Trump contract rather than one in a suit, because the game was duplicate. So he forced with the bizarre bid of 2-Spades. When North raised to 3-Spades, he bid 4-No Trumps (Blackwood). North answered with 5-Diamonds. He then bid 5-No Trumps and after the answer of 6-Hearts bid 6-No Trumps.

The heart 10 was led to the king. Then followed a club finesse, the spade king, a second club finesse, the spade queen to the ace, a return to the spade jack, then four consecutive diamonds. When the last was played East had to discard from his two high hearts and his two high clubs. Either discard would build a trick for Mr. Pulver, who had held in both hearts and clubs the ace and another.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

While South plays for 6-No Trumps on this deal, how can East discard so as to defeat the contract?

"For He's a Jolly Good Fellow"

Canada Changes Artillery Field Brigades

WITH THE CANADIAN CONTINGENT, SOMEWHERE IN THE UNITED KINGDOM, Dec. 20—(CP)—Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, general officer commanding the first division of Canada's active service force today announced that the planned reorganization of the division's artillery field brigades into field regiments is being put into effect as approved by national defence headquarters at Ottawa. The new set-up conforms with practice in the British regular and territorial armies.

In the new organization, effective immediately, divisional artillery will normally comprise three field regiments and one anti-tank regiment, replacing the organization of three field brigades and one anti-tank regiment under which the artillery arm was set up in Canada and transported overseas. In brief the new organization aims at more effective fire control and quicker manoeuvre.

The regiment is organized in two batteries and is equipped throughout with a modern 25-pounder field gun, called by army men "gun-how," which replaces the 18-pounders and the 4.5-inch howitzers of the brigade. The new gun combines the qualities of both the earlier types of weapon and thus equipped, an homogeneity is effected which was not possible when three gun batteries and one howitzer battery made up a brigade.

Fire Easier Handled.

Tactically and technically, the reorganization enables the fire of an artillery regiment to be handled with greater facility. The regimental officer commanding having only two batteries to deal with instead of four. Reinforcing units can be absorbed without undue strain and dislocation previously inherent in "grouping." The provision of a local ammunition reserve within the regiment is facilitated, and the transmission of firecontral orders and the administrative capacity of the regiment is improved.

From the standpoint of personnel, the reorganization has been effected with a minimum of complication. The three field brigades proceeded overseas with personnel appropriate making it possible in general to absorb in similar capacities in the new field regiment the officers and men of the old field brigade. Thus the four batteries originally comprising a brigade will remain grouped but as a regiment.

Hastings Council Plans To Seek Re-election Reeve Announces

HASTINGS, Dec. 20 — (ENS). — Councillors and reeve of this municipality wound up business for the year at the "lame duck" session of council here Friday night. This meeting also marked pay-day for the council. The reeve's salary is $3 each statutory meeting while the councillors receive $2 per meeting for fourteen sitting.

Addressing members of the council at the close of the meeting, Reeve Lewis Kelley said he was proud of the fact that this year's council was the best group for co-operation he had ever sat with in nine consecutive years. "We certainly have had minor differences but I am satisfied that each one spoke and acted in the best interests of this village, according to the dictates of his conscience," the reeve said.

"After these differnece were ironed out, the council acted in harmony. I have noticed the people of Hastings are more united now than they ever were before. This has been clearly shown in civic affairs." Reeve Kelley thanked the council and village officials for their co-operation for the year and indicated that the reeve and council may seek re-election this coming year but he did not hint they were seeking an acclamation. He said that he believed it would be in the best interests of the municipality if he was re-elected due to his holding the chairmanship of the board of management of the counties old people's home in Cobourg for a two-year term which expires December, 1940.

Midnight Frolic

Council granted permission to Jack Wineberg to have a midnight frolic on New Year's Eve. It was pointed out that this occasion was a time of making merry among the younger generation and, if the young people of Hastings were not granted the privilege of attending such an affair here, they would travel out-of-town to do so.

The Bell Telephone company was granted permission to erect two poles on Division street under the supervision of the chairman of the streets committee.

On a motion of Charles Lynch and Stanley Stevenson, council will request the Hastings Hydro Commission to have the colored street lights turned on for the Christmas season.

On a motion of Iden Bonds and Charles Lynch, council granted the Hastings branch of the Women's Institute the sum of $10, as an assistance in making up Christmas cheer baskets which will be distributed among Hastings' needy families.

Poll Tax Collected

Town constable, William Wellman reported to council that he had collected all poll-tax amounting to $33. He said there was one dog owner holding out who refused to pay the tax until the latter part of December and that he had collected $100. to date from dog owners. He also reported all transient trader's licenses had been collected.

Councillor William McEachnie, who was in charge of having the relief wood cut, said there were 103 cords of wood cut and sold from the municipal wood lot during this year.

Councillor Charles Lynch, chairman of the relief committee, gave a report of expenditures for the year showing a fairly even amount of purchases among Hastings stores. It was estimated that relief will have cost Hastings about $85 less than 1938.

Tax Collector W. J. Buck gave a report on his collections showing a greater amount of outstading taxes were in compared to the corresponding period last year.

Bylaw No. 802, dealing with the appointment of poll clerks and deputy-returning officers for the pending election, was given its readings and passed by the council. Amendments to by-law No. 800 respecting the licensing of dance halls and public places of amusement, was also given its readings and passed by council.

A TEST CASE

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 20. — (AP)—The question of whether a child has the legal right to seek damages for injuries inflicted before birth came up for a ruling today in the Westnoreland county court.

Ten-months-old Daniel Berlin is asking $25,000 in a suit against the J .C. Penney Company in whose store his mother, Mrs. Harland Berlin, claimed she fell last December three months before the baby's birth.

The Berlins contend Daniel's spinal column was impaired by the fall and that he will never be able to stand erect.

Jean Holden Heads Fraserville's Y.P.U.

FRASERVILLE, Dec. 20—(ENS)—The annual meeting of the Y.P.U. was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. J. Bothwell. The president, Miss Jean Holden, presided. The meeting was taken by the Rev. F. Horton for the election of officers. The president spoke a few words, thanking the members for their co-operation in the year, and the secretary, Eleanor Pue, gave a favorable report. The treasurer, Mrs. Horton, gave a very encouraging report, showing $66 raised with a balance on hand of $20.93. Ray Bothwell moved $15 be given to the church board, making a total of $35 given to the church this year.

The new officers are as follows: President, Jean Holden; Assistant President, Mrs. K. Larmer; Secretary, Haig Bothwell Treasurer, Mrs. F. Horton; Pianist, Audrey Lewers; Assistant, Doris Horton; Fellowship convener, Bruce Cunningham; Missionary, Dorothy Moffatt; Citizenship, Kenneth Pinnington; Culture and Recreation, Doris Horton, Mary Atchison.

Mrs. M. Clarke and daughter, Viva, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Atchison, South Monaghan.

Selwyn

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Fitzgerald and daughter Isabelle, delightfully entertained their friends and neighbors on Thursday last to an evening of cards and dancing. Their home was tastefully decorated in keeping with the yuletide season, and about one hundred guests were present. Dainty refreshments of sandwiches, cake and tea were served at midnight. Music for dancing was supplied by Messrs. James Irwin and Evans Blewett.

Mrs. Gordon Fitzgerald spent the weekend in Peterborough, the guest of her sister, Miss Emma Elliott.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Elliott of Peterborough will be pleased to learn of the birth of a daughter to them on Thursday of last week. Both Mrs. Elliott and baby are progressing favorably.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Hewitt and daughter Bernice of Peterborough visited with Mrs. Hewitt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Preston on Sunday.

Bonarlaw Girls Hold Concert And Dance

BONARLAW, Ont., Dec. 20. — (ENS)— A very successful concert and dance was held in the Orange Hall, Springbrook on Wednesday evening by the Cosy Hearth Girls' Club under the leadership of Mrs. G. Williams. The net proceeds will be donated to the Red Cross.

The program was as follows:—Vocal duet, Lenora and Murney Bateman; reading, Mrs. Kenneth Bain; piano solo, Miss Ruth Storms; reading, Mrs. Albert Bateman; vocal solo, Miss Hilda Brown; piano duet, Miss Carmen Sine and Miss Lenora Bateman; vocal solo, Miss Joy Harding; vocal solo, Mr. Ken Bain; reading, Miss Ada Bateman; vocal solo, Mr. J. F. Baker. J. F. Baker acted as chairman.

Later over two hundred enjoyed both round and square dancing to music by Miss Dorothy Wickett, piano, Mr. Maurice Bell, banjo and Mr. Ken Stapley, violin. Mr. Charles Campion fulfilled the duties of floor manager in his usual capable manner.

The novelty dance prize was won by Miss Ada Bateman and the lucky spot prize by Miss Marjorie McKeown and Mr. Vincent Farrel.

A bounteous lunch was provided. Everyone reported a splendid time.

Chest Of Silver Presented To Popular Alnwick Couple

ROSENEATH, Dec. 20—(ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Parker, prominent citizens and farmers of Alnwick Township, whose twenty-fifth wedding day anniversary falls on December 23, in honor of this event entertained their friends and numbers at a community dancing party in the Orange Hall on Monday night. Mr. Parker is a son of Frank Parker of Norwood and the late Mrs. Parker. Mrs. Parker was formerly Miss Edna Parker of England. There are three children—two sons Francis and Clarence, and a daughter Phyllis. Mr. Parker has been active in municipal affairs, having served several terms as councillor and six years as Reeve.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Parker were presented with a chest of silver from the community. Ray Brown made the presentation, and Fred Norris read the following address:

"To Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Parker: Dear Friends and Neighbors, it is our privilege and pleasure to join with you to-night as you celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of your wedding day. We enjoy your friendship and we appreciate you as neighbors. This township esteems you as good citizens, and is ever mindful of Mr. Parker's efforts as he sought to promote good government in municipal circles. In this he was ever supported by the help and encouragement of Mrs. Parker. Because it is well at times to speak of things we feel, and because we would show our appreciation in a tangible form, we ask you to accept this chest of silver as a happy reminder of friendship and fellowship. That many more years of life together may be granted you, is the wish of hosts of friends in this community."

The anniversary day, December 23, will be observed by the family in their home.

Personals.

Mrs. Kyle Brown and infant son Billie returned from Cobourg General Hospital on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Skuce, Barbara and Mary spent the week-end with relatives at Lindsay.

On Friday, December 15, at Cobourg General Hospital, a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Orra Robins, Roseneath.

Mrs. Rudyard Kipling Passes In Sussex

LONDON, Dec. 20—(CP).—Mrs. Rudyard Kipling, widow of the author and poet, died at her home today in Sussex. Mrs. Kipling had been ill since the death of her husband in January, 1936. She would have been 74 December 31.

Mrs. Kipling, formerly Caroline Starr Balestier of Vermont, was married to the writer in London in 1892, the year "Barrack Room Ballads" were published.

They had three children, two daughters and a son, Lieut. John Kipling, who was killed in the first Great War. One daughter, Mrs. George Bambridge, survives.

Robust Health For Young People

What a common sight it is to see a young person whose bloodless face and feeble frame are evidence of poor circulation and weakness where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign.

Young people in such a condition are generally of an anæmic nature and require a preparation containing iron to help improve the blood content.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills meet this requirement, as they contain three concentrated forms of iron of an easily assimilated nature together with other valuable ingredients indicated for building up the system, strengthening the nerves, and adding to your physical attraction.

Truck Stalled On Crossing Fireman Says

Open Verdict Given At Inquest Held Into Crossing Crash

Finding that Arthur McMaster and Gordon Wagar came to their death on the River Road, North Monaghan, last Friday when struck by a C.N.R. passenger train while travelling west in a truck, the coroner's jury which last night, under Dr. E. P. Snider, investigated the double level crossing fatality added that "the evidence indicates that the truck stalled on the crossing."

While some fourteen witnesses were called at the inquiry, held in the police court, only one had seen the accident. He was Murray Davies, Toronto, fireman of the train who said that he had seen the truck first when it was 200 feet from the crossing. It was travelling at about 20 miles an hour. When 100 feet from the crossing it slowed down momentarily and then picked up speed again. "Then I saw it stopped dead on the crossing," said the witness, "I watched it until we struck."

Davies, seated on the left side of the cab, was the only member of the train crew who saw the motor vehicle before the crash.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., examined the witnesses and summed up the evidence for the benefit of the jury.

A feature of the testimony of the train personnel was their evidence that the truck after being hit became jammed against the front of the train, was lifted off the ground and carried about a quarter of a mile before the train stopped and that the two dead and the badly injured driver were found sitting in their seats in the wrecked cab when the trainmen investigated.

Frank Allen was foreman and the other members of the jury were: Harry Dummitt, Ed. Laplante, C. J. Alcock and James Waldie.

Floyd McMaster, father of Arthur McMaster, gave identification evidence. He said his son was 18 years old.

Mrs. Luella Wagar, mother of Gordon Wagar, also gave identification evidence in regard to her son.

Finland Seeking 50 Million Loan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—(AP).—Finland was reported reliably today to be seeking a $50,000,000 loan from the United States government to buy war materials for use against invading Russian armies.

Representatives of the Finnish government were said to have sounded out congressional leaders on the proposal after they were unsuccessful in obtaining Wall Street financing for such a sum.

Although these representatives were described as restrained in their discussions, one member of Congress who was approached said he gained the distinct impression that the Finns felt they could not long hold out against Russia's overpowering forces unless they were given more than normal support.

(Great Britain already has supplied warplanes to Finland and the Allies are planning further material aid.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation recently lent Finland $10,000,000 for the purchase in this country of non-war materials such as agricultural surpluses.

While the Finns welcome this, they were represented as contending that their greatest need was for battle planes, guns and other war materials.

Britain Rallies Defences For Trawlers; Reveals Damaged Liner Samaria Brushed Canadian Troopship During Fog

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(CP)—Great Britain assembled ships and fighting planes today to protect her unarmed North Sea fishing fleet as a result of German aerial attacks in which 35 vessels have been bombed, torpedoed or machine-gunned in three days.

Defensive arming also was considered for the fishermen, on whom Britain depends for an important part of her food supply.

The crews of trawlers engaged in minesweeping and anti-submarine activities will be given a 'hard-lying' bonus, retroactive to the outbreak of the war, it was disclosed by Geoffrey Shakespeare, parliamentary secretary of the Admiralty. Such bonuses are paid for exceptionally difficult, dangerous and uncomfortable work.

But with anxiety growing over the safety of the British fishing industry and Allied naval operations increasingly vigorous, their discussion was linked with the forays on fishing trawlers.

Senseless Inhumanity

The Admiralty assailed the attacks as an act of "senseless inhumanity" and said only three, all unsuccessful, were on naval vessels. Two others, it said, were on neutrals. (The German high command said Nazi planes had destroyed 23 British "vanguard" vessels.)

Mine sinking decreased, meanwhile, only one victim in British waters being reported in 24 hours. It was the 1,449-ton Swedish steamship Mars, sunk off the northeast coast yesterday with seven persons missing and six rescued.

Lord Chatfield, Defence Co-ordination Minister, told Britons in a broadcast yesterday that the Nazi attacks on the British fleet were doomed to failure for two reasons.

"First of all, by the most gallant spirit of our merchant seamen who refuse to be guided by brutality, and secondly, by the fighting efficiency of the Royal Navy."

J. M. Hall, skipper of a trawler Isabella Greig attacked by German airmen Sunday, said that the planes repeatedly machine-gunned the crew members as they abandoned the vessel in a small boat. Two of the crewmen were wounded, he said.

Two More Mined

(The 1,323-ton Swedish steamship Adolf Bratt was reported sunk by a mine off the Netherlands island of Terschelling Tuesday, however ,and an unidentified ship also was reported mined off the Netherlands coast. In Copenhagen, the newspaper Berlingske Tindende reported the Estonian steamship Uko sunk Tuesday in the North Sea by a German plane.)

The German liner Cap Norte, a 13,615-ton vessel and one of the fastest in the South American trade, was brought to a British port yesterday as a prize. The liner was captured Oct. 12 in the Atlantic.

British newspapers praised the scuttled Graf Spee's commander, Captain Hans Langsdorff, who took his life yesterday.

"It is a tragedy," said the Times "for such men today that they cannot serve their country save in the livery of a master whom in their hearts they must despise."

Close Call With Troop Ship

Meanwhile the Press Association disclosed that the 19,597-ton British

Arctic 25 Below Stalling Russian Tanks

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 21 — (AP).—Arctic cold ranging to 25 degrees below zero is congealing the oil of Soviet Russia's war machine in the Far North and, in part, the 24-hour battle schedule ordered by Joseph Stalin.

Finnish circles welcomed the news from above the Arctic Circle that violent storms had set in. One report from Norwegian quarters was that more than 200 Russian tanks in northern sectors were stalled by temperatures almost solidifying the oil in their crankcases.

The invaders were said to have been hardest hit south of Kirkenes, Norway, on the extreme Northern Finnish frontier, paralyzed by cold in the flimsy portable shelters they brought with them on their drive to sever Arctic communications.

A Kirkenes despatch said that a wound sustained in what feeble combat there was in the Far North virtually meant death because the wounded froze before they could be removed to proper shelter.

Volunteer Aviators.

Advices from Svanvik were that a number of Spanish and Italian aviators had taken their places with the Finns for attempts to blast the Murmansk railway which parallels the Eastern Finnish border and upon which the Red forces in the Far North were largely dependent for supplies.

The Svanvik dispatches said the Russians had been stopped 30 miles south of Salmijaervi. This would be in the region of the Finns' "Lapland Mannerheim" line on which they counted to defend Northern Finland.

From the more active fronts, the Karelian Isthmus and in Central Finland, Finnish officers reported that in dead and prisoners the Finns were inflicting 50 times as much damage on the Russians as the Finns were suffering.

Movement of Swedish volunteers to the side of their embattled neighbors took form with appointment of General Ernst Linder, 71, veteran of both the Swedish and Finnish armies, as commander-in-chief. Secrecy clothed both the departure of the volunteers and their number.

Paris Skeptical Nazis Ready For Dutch Drive

PARIS, Dec. 21.—(CP-Havas). — French military quarters to-day placed little credence in reports during the past few days that large troops movements behind the German lines presaged an early offensive against the Netherlands.

The reports—one of which spoke of 350,000 more German troops being sent into the Dutch border area —were believed to be exaggerated notions of the relatively small shifts that have taken place among the large forces concentrated behind the German lines since November. At that time an offensive was believed to have been planned against Holland.

Meanwhile the patrol and raiding activity which grew so intense during the past week has fallen off. Last night was a quiet one along the entire front except for minor patrol action on both banks of the Saar river announced in the morning communique. Aerial activity was likewise greatly reduced.

The morning communique said: "Activity of patrols on either side of the Saar."

"Break With Soviet."

Rightist political quarters raised the demand for early rupture of diplomatic relations between France and the Soviet Union.

Louis Marin, Rightist Deputy, urged this course yesterday at a meeting of the Republican Federation. Today Le Jour-Echo de Paris, influential Rightist newspaper, echoed his views: "It is necessary to break off relations with the Soviets as soon as possible," the paper said.

Aldershot, Dec. 21 (CP Cable) LESLIE HORE-BELISHA, secretary of state for war, visited the Canadian Active Service Force at camp today and after a 25-mile, two-hour inspection tour classified the Canadians as "unbeatable."

The sun shone brightly for the first time since the arrival of the Dominion troops from their port of debarkation. While the air was chilly, sunshine was welcome after the dampness and fog of the past few day..

Mr. Hore-Belisha's visit marked the first inspection of the Canadian troops by a British official.

The minister was accompanied by other British officials. Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom, and Brig.-General H. D. G. Crerar, military adviser to the Canadian mission here for Empire talks, came from London to look over the layout.

Among the units inspected were a Toronto Scottish outfit, whose bayonets flashed in the sun as the soldiers greated Mr. Hore-Belisha with a general salute. The party was obviously impressed when a kilted pipe band came by in the march past.

Walks With McNaughton

Mr. Hore-Belisha wore a black homburg and black chesterfield overcoat, and carried an umbrella. He walked about three miles during the long survey beside Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, the Canadian Commander, who wore no great coat and carried a cane.

The Minister saw a Saskatoon unit drilling with machine guns, marching and doing P.T.—going through general hardening-up. He saw another western unit in gas mask drill.

Mr. Hore-Belisha spent a good deal of time watching a Quebec regiment, 99 per cent French Canadian. They are housed in the newest type billets—camouflaged huts built on the spider web principle, that is grouped around a central hut where general utilities are available. The outfit is commanded by Colonel C. B. Price, Commandant of the Canadian Bisley team.

The Minister finished his tour seeing a Montreal machine-gun unit dining, the knives and forks rattling like machine guns on active service. The troops left the dining room when Mr. Hore-Belisha departed and gave some good Canadian cheers.

An Outstanding Feature.

Mr. Hore-Belisha in an interview said: "I was most impressed and moved by the large percentage of men who served in the last war and were not too exhausted to undergo the same trial again. Most told me they were 15 when they enlisted in the last war, giving the wrong age.

"The sight that most struck me was the French-Canadian unit, where commands were given in English and the explanations in French. It is significant that Canada has placed the Fleur de Lis beside the Maple Leaf on the Canadian (Headquarters) flag—Old France and Great Britain side by side in Canada.

"When we see these men there is no doubt about the result of the war. They are just unbeatable.

"No finer body of men ever crossed the ocean. Their formation is perfect. They are just collecting their equipment, but it is easy to see they have been soldiers a long time."

For General McNaughton it was the first general visit to the troops since he made his cross-Canada inspection several weeks ago. He said everybody was settling down admirably, thanks to the excellent co-operation the Canadian Staff were receiving from British Headquarters.

"The men are extremely adaptable and have shown this in the quick transfer to new quarters," General McNaughton commented.

Praise From France.

Canadian Destroyer Is Credited With Scaring Columbus' Captain

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(CP)—A naval officer who saw the German luxury liner scuttled off the United States coast today expressed the opinion that the approach of a Canadian destroyer led the Nazi seamen to fire and sink their ship.

An unidentified officer aboard the United States cruiser Tuscaloosa, which brought 577 survivors of the scuttled liner to this port yesterday, was quoted by the Daily News as saying that the approach of one of Canada's two Fraser-class destroyers caused the Nazi captain to order his ship destroyed rather than risk capture.

However, most of the Columbus seamen identified the vessel as the British destroyer Hyperion and Captain Wilhelm Daehne expressed the opinion it was British "G" class vessel although he couldn't make out her name. From a distance the Hyperion and a vessel of the Fraser class would appear similar in silhouette.

Meanwhile, the Columbus crew told how Nazi ships carry trained "scuttle squads" to comply with general orders from Berlin requiring them to burn and sink their own vessels rather than let them fall into enemy hands.

The Columbus, scuttled Tuesday, was the 12th Nazi ship sent to the bottom under Adolf Hitler's maritime policy of suicide before capture.

Its master, Captain Daehne, who with 576 other survivors was taken to Ellis Island last night from the Tuscaloosa, seemed depressed at the loss of his ship but shrugged fatalistically when asked why he had given the command to sink it.

"You get an order and you obey," he said quietly. "You don't ask questions."

The middle-aged German sea captain said the Columbus, scuttled 240 miles southeast of Nantucket Shoals Lightship, carried no weapons other than "six pairs of boxing gloves."

The crew members were highly excited on docking at Ellis Island to read of the suicide at Buenos Aires of Captain Hans Langsdorff of the Admiral Graf Spee, who scuttled his crippled pocket battleship off Montevideo last Sunday on orders from Berlin.

The survivors, included nine women stewardesses and two boys, will be kept at Ellis Island until they have been examined by immigration officials.

Third Officer Henry Lampe, 27, said the two crew member were lost when the others put out in 22 lifeboats, and apparently thought the alarm was only the signal for another "scuttle drill."

Lampe explained that when the alarm sounded indicating an enemy vessel had been sighted, each

Boxer Refuses Counsel In Murder Case So Judge Bars Writ Of Habeas Corpus

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Justice James T. Hallinan to-day erfused a writ of habeas corpus for Ernest Kehler, 24-year-old Winnipeg boxer ,accused of the slaying of Dr. Walter Engelberg, first secretary of the German consulate.

The writ was saught by William Richter, who said he had been retained as Kehler's lawyer by the proprietor of a gymnasium where Kehler worked ou as a boxer under the name of Ernie Haas.

Justice Hallinan threatened to cite Richter for contempt of court after Kehler told the Judge that Richter was not his lawyer and that he did not desire counsel.

Kehler was returned to New York yesterday from Toronto, where he was arrested Tuesday. The district attorney's office said Kehler made a confession in which he said he killed Engleberg after the German allegedly made "improper advances" to him.

Soviet Aviators Rain Bombs On Helsingfors With Many Dropping In Hospital Area; Direct Hit Is Made On 5-Storey Dormitory

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 21—(AP).—Soviet Russian fliers for the third successive day of terrifying raids bombed Helsingfors and more than a score of cities and villages in Southern and Western Finland today and machine-gunned two trains.

More than 30 bombs were dropped in the Helsingfors hospital area. Only two persons were injured and none were killed in Helsingfors, but many were killed or wounded elsewhere.

Two persons were announced by officials to have been killed aboard the Turko-Helsingfors express.

The destruction of a Russian battalion and destruction or capture of large quantities of Russian tanks, machine guns and other weapons in success along the eastern front were reported today by the Finnish army.

Battleship Hit

A direct hit on the Soviet 23,265-ton battleship Oktaibrskaya-Revolutia (October Revolution) was reported meanwhile by Finnish officials. The announcement said the hit was scored by coast defence batteries guarding Koivisto, a gulf of Finland seaport about 60 miles from Leningrad.

(One of three Russian battleships, the October Revolution was completed in 1914 and was part of the Czarist fleet in the last war as the Gangut. Her normal crew is 1,125 men and her heaviest weapons 12 12-inch and 16 4.7-inch cannon.

(A Russian destroyer and patrol ship were reported sunk by the Finns last week.)

An air raid alarm cleared the capital's streets at 10:07 a.m. (3:07 a.m., EST) but no warplanes were seen from within the city although some rifle fire and shots from anti-aircraft batteries were heard.

An all-clear signal ended the alarm at 11:14 a.m.

Red army planes attacked Hangoe, on the southwest corner of the Finnish coast, yesterday and swung along the railroad in the direction of Helsingfors.

The extent of damage was not known but reports from scattered towns indicated a heavy toll of civilian deaths and injuries.

Provincial advices indicated also that about 200 Russian planes were seen in the widespread attacks, especially in the southeast, last night. A similar estimate was made of air raiders in daylight both Tuesday and Wednesday.

Officials said not all of the bombs dropped in the hospital area exploded, but the dormitory, a five-storey structure of red brick, sustained a direct hit. The bomb collapsed the roof and the upper two floors, wrecked the back of the building, and tore out the front.

Glass Broken for Mile.

Windows were broken over an area of a square mile. The clinic building, a five-storey stucco structure, was damaged heavily, as was the school for the blind, a building four storeys high and a block long.

Power lines dangled over the streets which were littered with glass, bricks and fragments of food. Firemen, police, and workmen labored steadily, clearing away the wreckage and spraying water on small fires burning here and there though no incendiary bombs were dropped.

Most of the hospital patients had been removed, but 10 were too ill to stand transfer and one of these was injured seriously, while another was

Pope Lauds King For Keeping Italy Neutral

Vatican City authorities announced that on December 28 the Pope would go to the Quirinal Palace to return the visit in the first call by any pontiff on an Italian king since unification of Italy 69 years ago. The palace once was occupied by the popes themselves when they ruled Rome.

The Pope's visit would thus mark increasingly close relations between the Vatican and the Italian government since Pope Pius XI. negotiated the lateran accords in 1929, ending the long dispute between Church and State that grew out of the Italian occupation of Rome.

From 1870, when Italian troops entered the city, the popes had considered themselves prisoners in the Vatican, refusing to leave it as a protest against the loss of their temporal domain.

Pope Pius XI. ended the voluntary "imprisonment," and was visited by the King and Queen after the lateran accords, but he sent his Secretary of State to return the call.

Today the royal visitors were accompanied by high government officials in 15 automobiles.

The King and Queen then proceeded to the papal apartments, where they talked with the Pope for 40 minutes and presented members of their party.

After a brief speech, Pope Pius bestowed his blessing on them, other members of the royal house, the Italian government and all Italy.

Reds Celebrate As Stalin Reaches Sixty

MOSCOW, Dec. 21 — (AP).—Soviet Russia celebrated on a vast scale to-day the 60th birthday of her leader, Joseph Stalin, who was eulogized by the press as "the pillar of hope to the workers of capitalistic states."

As his Red army fought in bitter cold in the invasion of Finland, a new biography of Stalin was published by President Michael Kalinin of the Supreme Soviet, describing him as "a happy man who led one-sixth of the globe to Socialism ....He is now ready to lead them to Communism."

The book was given an initial printing of 1,000,000 copies.

A flood of newspaper articles credited Stalin with many achievements of the Soveit Union, including the "liberation" of the Ukrainian and White Russian regions from Poland and pacts with the Baltic states, but made no mention of Finland.

The presidium of the Supreme Soviet conferred on Comrade Stalin the Order of Lenin—highest award in the land—and gave him the title of "Hero of Socialist Labor" for his "exceptional services in organizing the Bolshevik Party, creating the Soviet state, building a Socialist society in the U.S.S.R., and consolidating the friendship of peoples of the Soviet Union."

In Stalin's "official" biography, the order in which his "comrades in arms" are listed was seen by some observers as a semi-official ranking of Soviet leaders. The first four named as Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff, War Commissar Klementi Voroshiloff, Fuel and Railways Commissar Lazarus Kaganovich, and Supreme Soviet President Kalinin.

At least openly, no opposition remains to the rule of Russia by Stalin, son of a shoemaker.

Air Squadron To Be Sent From Canada

Call Toronto's 110th; 6,000 Corps Troops Will Also Go

OTTAWA, Dec. 21 —, (CP). — A complete air squadron and between 6,000 and 7,000 corps troops or technical services will proceed overseas to support the First Division of the Canadian Active Service Force in the field, Defence Minister Rogers announced last night in an address broadcast from the Capital over a national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Artillery, engineers, signallers army service corps, ordnance corps, hospital units and certain base troops will join the First Division in France, along with a Royal Canadian Air Force Squadron, the No. 110 Army Cooperation Squadron of Toronto, senior unit of the auxiliary or non-permanent air force. Officers and airmen from Western Canada and from the permanent air force will be incorporated in the squadron, the minister said.

Outlining the increased strength of Canada's defence forces since the outbreak of war, the Minister said 65,000 men had been enlisted in the Canadian Active Service Force, including the First Division of some 16,000 men sent overseas and the Second Division, held in reserve.

In addition, the personnel of the Royal Canadian Air Force had swelled to 8,000 officers and men, and the Royal Canadian navy now has some 5,000 men to man the six destroyers, a flotilla leader, and the mine sweepers and auxiliary vessels.

With First Division

"I am in a position to announce the selection for despatch overseas of the first squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force to proceed abroad on active service," Mr. Rogers said. "It will serve in the field with the First Canadian Division and will be in command of Squadron Leader W. D. Van Vliet of Winnipeg.

"The unit selected for this honor is No. 110 (City of Toronto) Squadron, the oldest of the auxiliary or non-permanent arm of the Royal Canadian Air Force. Several other units will be associated with this army co-operation squadron in order to give representation to both western and eastern Canada and

Manhunt Ended With 2 Arrests

HAMILTON, Dec. 21 — (CP). — End of the province-wide manhunt for two men who allegedly stole an automobile here on December 12, staged a hold-up—with a third man —near Port Hope and abducted a gasoline station attendant, was announced to-day by A. J. Chamberlain, Inspector of Detectives, who said that William Pascas, 21, of Montreal, and Fred McDonald, 19, of Port Hope, had been arrested here.

"They will appear in court today on a charge of stealing the auto of William Gage here and will be held for Port Hope police in connection with the holdup and alleged abduction," said Inspector Chamberlain, who recalled that a third man had been arrested in the Peterborough area.

The Gage auto was abandoned near Peterborough after crashing into a fence while trying to elude police who were checking all motor vehicles in the hope the fugitives would be discovered. The gasoline station attendant had been freed before the crash.

Nazi Fliers "Raising Hell" Fishers Protest To King

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(CP)—The King, visiting the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries today, expressed indignation over reported German machine-gunning of British fishermen.

The King's comment was made to Sir John Marsden of the British Trawlers Federation.

Dan Hillman of the Fishermen's Union said after the King's visit:

"I told the King the Fishermen are having a hell of a time on account of the present tactics of the enemy. I described in detail how a Scottish trawler was attacked by German planes with bombs and machine guns.

"I said that in the fishing industry we had to deal with even greater problems than did His Majesty himself.

"The King said he quite understood the situation."

Weatherman Shies Pledge Of Snow For Christmas

(By The Canadian Press.)

Snow flurries gave Ontario a promise of a white Christmas. But the forecaster at the Dominion Observatory in Toronto declined to go out on the limb and predict one.

He said there would be further flurries of snow in the Lake Huron and Georgian Bay areas but no more snow was expected in Central Ontario in the next day or two.

Saturday will be fair and cool, the weatherman said, and he refused to predict anything beyond that.

About an inch of snow fell in Brockville early this morning and at noon a second fall was continuing.

An all day rain yesterday was followed by a five hour snowfall at Cornwall. Streets and sidewalks were slushy.

Husband Is Held For Slaying Wife In Quebec

GRANBY, Que., Dec. 21—(CP).—Provincial Police held Clarence Hebert today, pending arraignment next week of the 27-year-old resident of St. Albans, Vt., on a charge of murder in connection with the death of his wife. The woman's skeleton was found in a maple grove here Dec. 1.

The murder charge was laid against Hebert yesterday, after a coroner's jury held him criminally responsible for the death of Mrs. Phyllis Hebert, 26-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Upton of Guelph, Ont. Skeleton of the woman was found by a farmer after it had been uncovered by a dog.

Hebert was remanded to custody of provincial authorities last night after a primary arraignment before a justice of the peace at nearby Sweetsburg, Que. At the inquest, Provincial Police officers told of the discovery of the skeleton by Alberic Gouzil, a farmer. Gouzil dug up the woman's body six inches under the ground after being led to the spot by his dog.

Laboratory work in Montreal by medico-legal experts, to whom remnants of Mrs. Hebert's clothing were turned over, established the identification of the woman. Dr. Jean Marie Roussel of the medico-legal department said the condition of the remains fixed the time of death as "last spring."

The medico-legal expert declared, however, that no signs about the skeleton indicated the cause of death. The woman's age was established by examination of cartilage of the limb bones.

Wine Stores Shut In 1-Day Penalty

TORONTO, Dec. 21.—(CP)—The one-day suspension of Bright's Wines, Ltd., stores as a result of the Ontario Liquor Board's ruling that the firm's advertising violated commission regulations, will not be lifted, Liquor Board authorities said today.

The company's stores must be closed all day Friday as a penalty for the advertising which appeared in Toronto newspapers, Liquor Commissioner A. St. Clair Gordon ruled.

Liquor Board authorities denied the suggestion that any official approval had been given for the advertisement, and could see no reason for altering their decision to suspend the licence for one day.

During Friday the company has been prohibited from selling any native wines across the counters of its eight stores in the province.

Second Attack of Day.

Eight planes swept over the city in the attack. The warning siren sounded at 11.58 a.m., followed by a series of rumbles as the bombs loosed by the invaders exploded.

Anti-aircraft batteries then broke loose and the planes disappeared. One observer said he saw one of the craft slipping downward with smoke streaming from the tail, indicating a hit.

After the first give minutes of steady firing only an occasional explosion could be heard and no planes could be seen though the raid warning remained in force until 1.48 p.m.

This was the second raid of the day on the capital, four bombs being dropped in the first. But the attacks extended over an area for 25 miles around the capital, with bombs dropped on Lappvik, Hyvinkaeae, Kerava, and a number of other towns.

Trawler Attacks Justified Berlin Claims

BERLIN, Dec. 21 — (AP).—The German high command claimed today destruction of a French warplane which attempted a flight over Germany. Its communique read:

"In the west somewhat livelier artillery activity. One French reconnaissance plane was shot down in the region of Pirmasens by German pursuit craft shortly after crossing the border."

Authorized sources contended Germany was justified in sinking British North Sea fishing trawlers, asserting that whatever their fishing activities, they were wireless-equipped and served as lookouts to report German aircraft and warships approaching British waters.

Hon. Macdonald Passes In B.C.

VICTORIA, Dec. 21—(CP).—Hon. J. A. Macdonald, 81, former Chief Justice of the Provincial Appeal Court, died here last night after a lengthy illness.

Mr. Macdonald, first Justice of the Appellate Court, was born in Huron County, Ont., and attended Ontario public schools, the Collegiate Institute at Stratford and the University of Toronto. Graduating from the university with the degree of Bachelor of Laws, he continued study at Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

Mr. Justice Macdonald took up law practice in Toronto in 1889 and six years later moved to Rossland, B.C., where he later was appointed solicitor for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company. He was first president of the Rossland branch of the British Columbia Mining Association.

He entered politics in 1903 when he was elected Liberal member of the British Columbia Legislature for Rossland and later became leader of the party in the Provincial House.

He was re-elected in 1907 but retired shortly afterwards.

Mr. Justice Macdonald resumed law practice at Rossland until November, 1909, when an Appeal Court was established in British Columbia and the former Liberal leader was made its Chief Justice.

Surviving are his widow; two daughters, Uorma and Mrs. Oliver Pauline; and a son, K. G. Macdonald, all of Victoria.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Nazis To Leave Warsaw City Of Ruins

WARSAW, Dec. 21—(AP).—Warsaw, now a city of shambles, is likely to remain so unles sthe Poles find money to rebuild it. The Germans say they do not intend to reconstruct the metropolis.

Three fourths of its buildings were destroyed last September when an estimated 100,000 of the 1,255,000 inhabitants were killed by bombers.

Walls of some of Warsaw's buildings are being pulled down because they are potential dangers to human life. Even the buildings still fit to be occupied add to the deserted appearance of the city because almost invariably their windows have been boarded up or patched with the broken glass taken from other window frames. No window glass was left intact in the entire city.

Rubbish still lies in the streets. Pavements are torn up. Peasant carts and open trucks are the sole means of conveyance.

Graves in virtually every open space heighten the dismal appearance of the once thriving Polish capital. It was too dangerous during the siege to bury the dead in cemeteries. Under German orders, however ,the bodies are being moved to graveyards.

Changes Hinted In Profits Tax

OTTAWA, Dec. 21—(CP).—Government activities have settled down to a Christmas season routine and no more Cabinet sessions are planned until next week.

The main body of civil servants will enjoy a long week-end but a great number engaged in essential war activities will have little release from work.

Finance Minister Ralston is preparing his budget for the parliamentary session which opens January 25. Other departments will be busy preparing estimates for 1940-41 which must be ready to table soon after the House meets.

Ordinarily work on the estimates begins months before the opening but the pressure of war work has been too great this year to permit much attention to this task.

With the government ordinarily spending money, in recent years, at the rate of more than $1,000,000 a day, and now, under war pressure, requiring double that amount as from September 1, next year's appropriations are expected to be the highest ever requested from parliament.

Col. Ralston announced in a press statement last night that some amendments to the excess profits tax would be introduced at the coming session.

The provisions will be to prevent evasion or minimizing of of the tax by alterations in the capital structure designed for that purpose.

He said the general plan of revision would be to adapt the wartime legislation more effectively to new circumstances in Canadian business.

It is expected the government shortly will offer the first war loan but the nature and extent of this issue has not been indicated.

The session for which preparations are now under way will be the sixth of the present parliament and probably the last. The present government will be in power its statutory five years next October. General expectation is that an appeal to the country will be made next summer.

164 Years In Jail Faces Buchalter

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, 42, who will be sentenced Jan. 2 for conspiracy to violate the narcotic laws, still faced today additional narcotic and bribery charges under which he could be sentenced to a maximum penalty of 164 years in prison and $180,000 in fines.

A Federal Court jury convicted Buchalter of conspiracy last night after hearing the government describe him as "top man" in a $10,000,000 international syndicate which smuggled drugs into the United States illegaly from France, Japan, China and other countries in 1935-36-37.

Max Schmuckler, a co-defendant, was convicted of the same charge, but David Kardonick, the third co-defendant, was acquitted. Maximum penalties of two years in prison and $10,000 fines can be imposed on Buchalter and Schmuckler. Kardonick and Schumckler denied participating in the syndicate's operations.

The Scuttle Gang Starts.

He said the Columbus' seacocks were opened by engine crews while 10 men, known as the "strosstrupp" or special crew, seized drums of benzine and emptied them in strategic spots throughout the vessel.

Two trusted sailors, Lampe continued, followed them with incendiary torches that turned the 32,500-ton ship into a flaming hulk.

Captain Daehne said that after his vessel left Vera Cruz, it was "escorted, or followed, whichever you want to call it, by destroyers of the American Navy."

There was always one or two such destroyers, he said. "Knowing nothing officially as to the relations between our country and the United States, we wondered what the escort meant. They appeared very friendly.

"Last Monday, the Tuscaloosa took up the escort. Tuesday at 2.30, when we had remarkable visibility and could see many miles, I saw a destroyer on the starboard side. At 2.55, I was able to make out the British flag.

Drilled for Weeks.

"Her funnels were not so clean, and I couldn't make out any details except that she was a G Class destroyer. At 2.56, I sounded the alarm, the men understanding they were to stand by and scuttle and burn. You know I had drilled them in that for weeks. The destroyer was about two miles astern. At the same time, I telegraphed our position to all ships, advising them I was ready to scuttle to prevent the Columbus from falling into the hands of a British warship.

"At 2.57, I got a flag signal from the British destroyer which said, 'Stop immediately.' At that time, the Tuscaloosa, which had been steaming beside us, turned aside to await developments. At 3.05, the British fired two shots across our bow, and I gave the order to lower the boats.

"At 3.06, I gave the order to scuttle, to open the seacocks. By 3.14, all of the boats were lowered and cleared of the ship, except Nos. 13 and 14, which were held for the scuttling crew and fire brigade. At 3.15, the chief engineer advised me that all personnel had left the engine room, and the valves were open. Then I ordered them to set the fire."

Famed Battle Song 25 Years Old Today

OTTAWA, Dec. 21 — (CP). — Twenty-five years ago today these words echoed through the sombre streets of Havre:

"Our Rick-a-dam-doo, pray what is that?

"'Twas made at home by Princess Pat,

"'Tis red and white and royal blue,

"That's what we call our rick-a-dam-doo."

It was the battle song of the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry as they landed in France to be the first Canadian unit to join the British army corps in the first great war.

And the song referred, to the regimental color, sewn by Princess Pat, daughter of the Duke of Connaught, Governor General of Canada when the first war broke out. He consented to the regiment bearing his daughter's name after it was organized in Ottawa by Hamilton Gault of Montreal.

Yesterday the same Duke of Connaught visited Aldershot Camp in England to see the first Canadian contingent of the second great war.

Anther unit of the Princess Pats, now with headquarters in Winnipeg, is included in the First Canadian Division which ultimately will proceed to France like their members of 25 years ago, still singing "Rick-a-dam-doo."

U.S. Questions Japan's Opening Of Yangtse

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Japan's announced intention to reopen the Yangtse River to commercial traffic may be an important step toward settling Japanese-American questions in the Far East. But it is not being overemphasized here.

First of all, officials want to see whether burdensome restrictions will be imposed. Second, they are not sure that the opening will have the economic benefits which some Far Eastern sources seek to accord it.

At first sight, the importance of Japana's promise is greater politically than economically. It is an indication Japan is willing to make concession to prevent relations with the United States from becoming tense after the commercial treaty between the two nations expires Jan. 26. As such, it is being genuinely welcomed as a wholesome sign.

Grave To Retain Any Secrets Of Langsdorff

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 21—(AP).—The secrets of Captain Hans Langsdorff's thoughts in the hours of darkness before he died by his own hand will go with him to the grave today.

The commander, who obeyed orders of Adolf Hitler in destroying the German raider Admiral Graf Spee Sunday rather than renew a battle with British cruisers outside Montevideo, wrote a farewell letter to the German embassy just before committing suicide Tuesday night.

An Argentine naval commission investigating his death recommended that the letter be withheld from the public. It said its report would show that Langsdorff shot himself in his room at the naval arsenal here as reported by the embassy.

The body of the 45-year-old commander lay in state at the arsenal today in a cubicle no larger than his cabin aboard the Admiral Graf Spee, which the British chased into Montevideo after a 14-hour battle Dec. 13.

A burial plot was selected in the "Germany" cemetery, separated from British graves by a fence erected during the last war. Three hundred of the Admiral Graf Spee's crew were assigned to participate in funeral services.

The German admiralty issued a statement in Berlin, saying Langsdorff "did not wish to live past the sinking of his ship," and that "after bringing his crew to safety, he viewed his work as finished and followed his ship."

Hundreds of persons, many carrying wreaths, sought to enter the arsenal here to view Langsdorff's casket. There was no evidence of flowers from Hitler or other high German officials, such as decorated the Montevideo graves of the Admiral Graf Spee's 36 seamen slain in battle with the British warships.

North Bay boasted about two inches of snow and Owen Sound reported the same amount. London reported an inch overnight. St. Catharines, Hamilton, Windsor, Brantford and Guelph received thin coatings of snow. In Galt there were light flurries all morning with the snow disappearing as it landed.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 21 — (CP). — Veteran newspaperman, Mike Shea, 65, died in hospital here early today. He was taken ill suddenly yesterday and failed to regain consciousness.

Formerly superintendent of The Canadian Press Parliamentary Bureau at Ottawa, Mr. Shea moved to Winnipeg in the early twenties, joined the staff of the Winnipeg Free Press and subsequently held the positions of night editor, city editor, and sports editor.

In his youth he was a famous football and lacrosse star with championship Ottawa College teams.

He is survived by a son Tim, of Toronto. Another son, Michael, was killed on March 31, 1933, in a plane crash which occurred while members of the Winnipeg Tollers basketball team were returning from an exhibition game in the United States. A sister resides in Ottawa.

The newspaper Figaro said it could see "only advantages" in breaking off relations and Francois de la Rocque in Le Petit Journal write it would be much easier to suppress Soviet propaganda if this step were taken.

A military tribunal today sentenced a writer, Henri Jeanson and a newspaper director, Rene Freaudets to five years in prison and fined them 1,000 francs ($22) each for "provoking military disobedience and insubordination."

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 21 — (CP). — Excellent gains at Chicago strengthened wheat futures prices on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Trading was not particularly active and the nervous session ended with quotations ¼ to ½ higher, December wheat at 85¾, May 89½ and July 90⅝ to ½ cents.

Coarse grain trading was confined to minor outside buying in oats and barley, with values inclined to follow wheat prices to higher levels. Cash wheat trade lagged.

Trent River W.I. Holds Christmas Meeting

TRENT RIVER, Dec. 21—(ENS)—The Christmas meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. Mann with an attendance of 26 members and 4 visitors. The rooms were prettily decorated in keeping with the season, Mrs. Mann was in charge.

The motto was read by Mrs. J. McNeely. The roll-call was responded to by an exchange of gifts. It was decided to have a special meeting for the second series of meat cookery demonstration on Tuesday, January 9, at the home of Mrs. H. Mann. Two dollars was voted to be donated to the Club Girl Entertains organization, known as the Riverettes.

The secretary, Mrs. Melville Wight read the following letters: From the sick, letters of appreciation for fruit received from the Institute; a letter from the Department concerning The War Charities Act; The Canadian Red Cross Society on methods of raising funds, and where to secure instructions for work for Red Cross. Fruit and a potted plant were ordered to be sent to the sick.

Mrs. Ward Glenn, delegate to the Central Ontario area Women's Institute convention held at Toronto in November, gave a splendid report. A number of Christmas carols were sung. Lunch was served.

German Offices Raided

WINDHOEK, Southwest Africa, Dec. 21—(CP-Reuters).—Police today raided and searched simultaneously a number of offices belonging to German organizations and the private residences of officers of such organizations. The raids were in Windhoek and provincial towns.

Documents were seized but no statement was made by the police. Southwest Africa, formerly a German colony, is a mandated territory of the Union of South Africa.

Canadian Troop Arrival Held Proof Empire Firmly At Britain's Side

LONDON, Dec. 21—(CP Cable).—Bold headlines, colorful stories and cheery pictures told the story of the arrival of the first contingent of Canadian troops in London morning newspapers.

Landing of the Canadian active service force was played by the staid times with the double-column heading it reserves for the major news break of the day. The Daily Mirror splashed the story with a picture on page one, but the other newspapers decided the air and sea battles and ship sinkings were "bigger" stories.

"The Canadians arrive" was the Times' headline topping a two-column account of the troops' disembarkation and journey to camp somewhere in Britain.

The Daily Telegraph sandwiched the story between the latest news of the German raider Admiral Graf Spee's crew and yesterday's air battle over Heligoland. But the paper devoted its picture section exclusively to the Canucks. It showed a colonel inspecting the troops of one unit, including an airedale which is the regimental mascot; troops cheering on shipboard as they awaited the time for landing, the first man ashore and a cheery, chubby cook laden with the implements of his profession.

"The Canadians are here," screamed a headline in the Mirror. Alongside its story the paper ran criticism of the mixup over the release of news of the contingent's arrival.

Churchill Spills It.

Originally scheduled for release at 2 a.m. on Tuesday and finally promised for 3 a.m. on Wednesday, the news of the troops' coming was given out suddenly last night after Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, had made the announcement in an Empire broadcast. The resultant confusion led to delay in passage of stories of the arrival through the censors.

The Daily Express criticized the "lack of co-ordination among the news departments of the fighting services" which led to the mixup. "Perhaps this muddle must just be looked upon as an example of confusion and we can never hope for order again under this War Government."

The paper suggested editorially as well that London be given an opportunity to cheer the marching Canadians. The Express story filled two columns.

"The Canadians are here in thousands," was the way the News-Chronicle told the story. The Daily Sketch proclaimed that "Canada's sons are here to fight their fathers' battles over again."

"A Fine Muddle."

The Evening Standard devoted an entire editorial column to a scathing attack on whoever was responsible for last night's muddle in the release of the news that the Canadians were here. It demanded to know whether Winston Churchill or departmental officials held back the story.

Under the heading, "Stop This Folly," the Standard said: "You can read to-day perhaps the most thrilling news of the war. The world has been told that Britain is engaged in this conflict not as a small insignificant island in the North Sea, but as a mighty Commonwealth of peoples whose tongues are spoken, whose laws are respected, whose freedoms are established in every corner of the globe. With the arrival of the first contingent of the Canadian forces on these shores that fact is proclaimed for all men to understand.

"For days this argosy has steered its course across the Atlantic Ocean. Stealth, secrecy and all the prowess of the British Navy were required to bring this prize in safe escort to England. Until the warriors themselves in one triumphant battle shout spelt out the word 'Canada.' From that moment they were assured a fitting welcome. Men and women, old and young, raced down to the dock to cheer the heroes in. Marching, laughing, singing, they came ashore. The great fact was known. The Empire was at England's side."

Pleas Of No Avail.

Recounting the newspaper's efforts to obtain release of the news, the Standard said it pleaded unsuccessfully with the Admiralty and the War Office, and with "their lapdog," the Ministry of Information.

"But officials laid their hands on their cold, stony hearts and swore to us that the gravest injury would be done the nation's cause if one whisper escaped before that ghostly hour of two o'clock Wednesday."

Mr. Churchill made the announcement and then "perhaps the greatest story of the war is told in hugger mugger fashion a few hours later by the British Broadcasting Corporation as if it had little more interest than the fat stock prices."

"Does Mr. Churchill hold back the news in order to provide material for his speeches?" the paper asked. "We trust that is not so. Mr. Churchill is a great minister but he surely would not rob the British people of the right to be told in the proper manner.

"Or is it that the men in charge of these affairs at the (Defence) Service Departments are still unaware that the whole nation is fighting this war. Mr. Churchill last night exposed the nonsense which had been talked by his Department all day. An end must be made to running this war as if it were the private affair of a few bonehead officials.'

Three major provincial newspapers contained scant news of and no comment on the Canadians' arrival. This presumably was because of the confusion last night and the fact Mr. Churchill made his brief announcement without warning.

The Yorkshire Post printed on its front page a one-paragraph story and called it a "cheering statement."

Hitler Caused It

Adolf Hitler ordered Captain Hans Langsdorff to sink the German battleship Graf Spee. He did so and two days later ended his life by using a revolver. The German embassy at Buenos Aires, in announcing the demise of the captain, contained these words: "He sacrificed his life for the Fatherland."

The unwritten law of the sea is that the captain goes down with his vessel unless it is possible for all hands to be saved. In this case that rule would not apply as the Graf Spee was going to go down with the knowledge of all concerned, and they had planned the way of escape. A splendid warship was to be scuttled and that is exactly what happened to it.

The reasonable supposition is that Captain Langsdorff had been ordered to do something by Adolf Hitler of which he could not approve. He was at sea before Hitler started hanging paper on walls in Austria. He had been in the battle of Jutland in the previous war, and he had been entrusted with the command of one of the best battleships Germany possessed. In recent months he had been out as a sea raider, and it is said of him that no lives had been lost from vessels which he downed. It is quite possible the man had a code of ethics which would pass muster in good company.

Sinking a battleship was apparently too much for Captain Langsdorff. On the night previous to his final act he had said what looked much like farewell to all his officers. He had shaken hands with them in turn, and left word he was going to his room and did not wish to be disturbed as he was tired. Subsequent events indicate the man had made up his mind regarding the course he was going to take. He had not gone down fighting, but he was soon to follow his vessel.

We doubt if Adolf Hitler can understand or appreciate such a course. He looked upon the Graf Spee as a battleship in a tight place, but the fact that Captain Langsdorff would regard himself as part of that warship would not cross the mind of a Hitler. He would not understand it if it were patiently explained to him in detail. The scope of his mind is occupied with such lawless tactics as planting mines in brazen defiance of all sea rules and treaties and traditions.

We consider it quite just to claim that Captain Langsdorff's death by his own hand can be traced in a straight line to the order given from Berlin by Hitler that the Graf Spee was to be sunk without a fight. To put it more abruptly—Hitler killed Captain Langsdorff.

Who's Being Censored?

The more exacting a censorship seeks to become the greater are the number of boners pulled. And they are also larger. The Daily Express of London says the newspaper and the people want the news and not two or three days after it has taken place.

The arrival of Canadian troops set the Express off. The newspapers were under orders not to say anything about the event until 2 o'clock Wednesday morning. Well ahead of that time Winston Churchill announced it in the House of Commons, and the Court Circular came out with the news that officials had departed to meet the Canadian soldiers. And meantime the newspapers were supposed to twiddle their thumbs and wait.

Next thing the Express and other papers were ordered not to disclose where the Canadians were going into camp, but when the Express was thumbing through the columns of other papers it came upon a letter written to the editor of the London Times from the general officer in command at Aldershot saying that a large number of Dominion troops would be stationed there.

One can understand well enough there are certain restrictions which should be placed, but what is the use of such restrictions if the First Lord of the Admiralty can poo-hoo them and if the Court Circular and the commanding officer at Aldershot can follow their own sweet course?

What a Language!

Ho hum! What a time there is trying to keep up with the proper use of what is known as the Scottish tongue. It is a thing separate and apart from others; beloved by those who know how to use it and abused apparently by the rest of the world.

The case in point is that a merchant in Peterborough advertised pipes for Christmas, but he used the word "Cuddie." In order to make it plain it was added: "If you are not a Scot then a cuddie is a pipe."

And thus it was printed. Then came our soft-spoken and mild-mannered Scottish friend into action to explain that "a cuddie is a donkey, and the word for pipe is cutty."

It is hard for one with the tongue of a Sassenach to memorize or fathom the language of the Scot. He must begin early and take the form of instruction which impresses that oatmeal must be referred to as "them," and then proceed by easy stages until he knows for sure that "cuddie" is a donkey. What a tongue!

Another Suicide

The German luxury liner Columbus (32,381 tons) has been in and out of the news since the outbreak of war. When war was declared the liner was on a Caribbean cruise, and for the sake of safety headed for Vera Cruz, Mexico.

At various times there have been stories printed about the Columbus. It was said she had taken on food and fuel sufficient for 50 days at sea. Other reports indicating that the liner was about to move predicted she was going to be used as bait for the British navy. The Columbus was to move out to sea and there would be several German naval vessels on hand to deal with British cruisers which might be in the near waters. That theory owes its existence to the manner in which the intentions of the captain were widely announced in advance.

The Columbus did leave Vera Cruz, and it is a recorded fact she had fuel and food for 50 days. But she went only a short distance out to sea when she did the same as the Graf Spee—committed suicide. The staff and members of the crew had all taken to the life boats and they were picked up by a United States cruiser. There was a British cruiser not far off but there had not been a fight, and the Columbus was fired and sunk by her own people.

That appears to be in keeping with predetermined German policy; rather than be captured the vessel must be sunk at sea. Perhaps that is good policy because if the British were to come into possession of the Columbus the liner would undoubtedly be put into service, and might even be used as a transport for troops. As far as sea tonnage for the Germans is concerned the effect is the same—one less luxury liner, and one more crew interned.

During a Naval Battle

The damage which was done to the Graf Spee and the British cruiser Exeter has been fairly well described. Apparently the British Admiralty is willing that nothing should be secret about it, for the extent of injuries on board the Exeter has been told with considerable detail.

Regarding the Graf Spee the information comes mainly from neutral observers and from British seamen who were prisoners on board during the battle. They had been picked up from merchant vessels which the German raider had sunk.

The first five salvos fired by the Spee at the Exeter were out of range, but the next from an 11-inch gun was a direct hit on the forward turret and killed eight of the fifteen in the gun crew; there were four more direct hits from 11-inch guns, and finally there was only one gun left in action on the Exeter and it had to be fired by hand. The side of the cruiser was riddled and the steering gear was damaged. That was what happened to a cruiser when it tackled a battleship.

On the Graf Spee we learn that the forward turret containing three 11-inch guns had been put completely out of commission; the gunfire control mechanism of the ship had been destroyed, and of equal seriousness—the food supply on board the Spee had been destroyed.

The Exeter was the first cruiser to commence the engagement and afterward the fight was joined by two cruisers lighter in equipment than the Exeter. It is not often that one reads in detail just what does happen when these war vessels start action at sea. The engagements may be less frequent than those on land, but when they do go into action the damage must be tremendous and the danger intensely real. It does look as though the Graf Spee when it turned and made for port had not been as much damaged as the Exeter, and the conclusion of the neutral observers is that there should have been sufficient fight left in the German vessel when it again went through the gesture of putting out to sea.

Don't Need This Kind

A man of 31 years was in court at Hamilton charged with having assaulted his mother, who is 54 and almost totally blind. The mother has a pension of $20 per month and the son has contributed nothing at all to her support or the upkeep of the house.

The assault took place when the mother called the son in the morning. She wanted him to be out on time to apply for a factory job. He struck his mother, ripped the front out of the radio and smashed the front door.

In court the mother said she could not very well "turn her own flesh and blood" out on the street so that is why she continued to keep him.

The son told the judge, "All I want to do is get in the army." And we're not so sure that the Canadian army wants a man of that type because on the face of things he has nothing to recommend him. Certainly a man of 31 years who would strike his mother is not brave, nor would a man with such utter absence of self-control fit in with army discipline. Hes' not the army type at all.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Any turkey living by the end of the week will owe its existence to the desire to have some more turkeys coming on next season.

Berlin suggests it may demand that Uruguay pay for the loss of the Graf Spee. It does look as though at this late date there is a sense of humor developing in the German capital.

Hunter in Pennsylvania was fined $25 for shooting across a highway. What made the case so clear was that the game warden was just on the other side of the road.

The Christmas bonus used to be exempt from taxation in Germany, but this year it comes under the general scheme of "your government needs the money."

Reports indicate that 540,000 people in England evacuated from cities as a safety measure have returned to their former places of habitation. So one can understand the task Moses had on his hands when he started leading the children of Israel to the Promised Land.

Pictures taken in France show a number of Scots wearing kilts and shoving wheelbarrows around to strengthen defences. What a war! Imagine if you can a Scot dressed in kilts and heading off to deal with Hitler, and then encountering a wheelbarrow in France!

A heavyweight fighter from Chile is training in New York to fight Joe Louis, and already has it planned how he will hit him square upon the jaw. We know a couple of nice chaps who like to play the horses and they are always talking that way too.

Youth of 16 years escaped from the Reformatory and returned to Hamilton, where he knew of a store of explosives. He explained he was going to pull a job which would make him independent for life. We wonder if that mistaken and hopeful youth actually believed he could do any such thing?

One farmer at Seaforth came to pay his taxes and used $50 bills. The collector sent for the editor of the Expositor to find out if the bills were all right, and the editor in turn said he would have to inquire at the Bureau of Statistics in Ottawa.

One need not be regarded as being pessimistic when saying that the present is a hard time on daily newspapers. In United States during 1939 there were 70 daily papers which suspended publication, and in each case the reason given was the same—the cost of publication was too great.

Freddie Bartholomew, England's gift to Hollywood, has won a case in court and the decision means that his parents and lawyers cannot press suits against him for more of his money. The spectacle of parents bringing suit against a boy was never at any time particularly beautiful.

REVENGE

¶ The biggest truck that snorts and runs, that weighs around some twenty tons, and has a dozen wheels; at times I'd like to drive that truck, and with it go and try my luck, to see just how it feels.

¶ For there are drivers whom I know, I'd like to place them in a row, they get my goat they do; that's why I'd like to run that truck, for once I'd have these fellows stuck, before I got half through.

¶ The man who's always cutting in, in places where the room is thin, I'd spot him out with care; I'd crowd him just a little bit, and quietly settle back and sit, so I could see him glare.

¶ The other chap who never stops, to him stop signs are only props, for him I have to duck; I'd like to roll along some day, and get right square into his way, with that enormous truck.

¶ The other chap who blows his horn, he starts it in the early morn, and toots away all day; that truck of twenty tons I'd turn, to hear him toot and see him squirm, hear what he had to say.

¶ My motives are not good I know, I might cause trouble as I'd go, and never raise a smile; and yet I'd like to find that truck, and with it go and try my luck—and drive around a while.

Quits Drinking When Ready Says Ned Clarke

WRITING in the Globe and Mail Ralph Allen tells the story of Ned Clarke, and there are few police reporters in Toronto who have not at one time or another written of this same man. For years he was known to the police, and many of the officers could lay claim they had fought with Ned Clarke when he was drunk. The story:

Toronto's most eminent "horrible example," gnarled, mellow old Ned Clarke, interrupted a Christmas encyclical on the evils of drink yesterday to confess his King and Queen had lured him off the wagon last May for the first time in nearly four years. But the blue-eyed patriarch of the pubs has been carrying the ball of temperance so earnestly ever since that he insists his one fumble ought to be erased from the records. Considering that in his bibulous hey-day he fought nearly every cop in town at least once, appeared in Police Court on drunk charges more than 100 times and frequently spent ten months of the year in jail, he's probably right.

"Yessir," old Ned—he's 73 now—chuckled at his home in the Salvation Army Hostel yesterday, "Yessir, it was too bad in a way that I had to make that one slip. But what's a patriot to do? The King and Queen were in town and a man gave me a bottle of navy rum. Real stuff, navy rum. Drank most of it myself."

Did it—er—exhilerate him?

"Indeed it did," the celebrated teetotaller recounted with satisfaction. "Got as drunk as a goat. But I had sense enough to come back here and sleep it off. Never even saw a cop."

Ned's turning down all Christmas cheer, acutely aware after his experience during the Royal visit and several other historic moments of the pitalls of special occasions. History has been one of his most indefatigable enemies. He took his first drink to stave off cold while he was fighting as a Mounted Police recruit in the Northwest Rebellion. His permanent reformation might have occurred nearly twenty-five years earlier than it did if the Titanic hadn't sunk.

"A minister kept treating me to the gold cure," Ned recalled. "He was a fine man and he meant well. I kept telling him it wouldn't do any good, but fast as I'd get into trouble he'd yank me in again and blow me to the full treatment. I guess I took the cure a dozen times. One of the last times I could see it was beginning to wear me down. I even refused several drinks — and then bang! there goes the Titanic. Big ship like that, too. Said nothing could sink her. Well, what could I do?"

NED BELIEVES, as he believed even when he had no intention of doing so, it's no particular trick to cut out alcohol.

"Cure's no good," he reflected. "Talk's no good. A man will quit when he's ready to, and no sooner. Until he's ready you might as well try to pull the sun down out of the sky as argue him into it. Me, when I got ready, I just said, 'Henceforward I'll discontinue.' And so I did, barring that little oversight of last spring."

Ned believes his renowned fellow-traveller, John Barleycorn, would have killed him years ago if it hadn't been for Ned's own iron constitution.

"I've guzzled enough stuff to finish six ordinary men," he admitted, not boastfully, but as a gentle caution to possible emulators. "Even anti-freeze and canned heat. Terrible stuff, but it never seemed to hurt me."

What did hurt him—and the evidence is all over his patched body and twisted face—were his dozens of battles with police and one heroic escapade in which he leaped practically head-on into a passenger locomotive to brush three slightly lushed companions from its path.

BETTER DROP IT

THE Fergus News-Record sent Hon. Eric Cross forty-three clippings from weekly papers, all but two of them critical of his municipal council term-extension policy. Acknowledging them, he says: "I may say I still adhere to the view that the two-year definite term is acceptable as a sane and sensible measure of economy during wartime. Most of the criticism has been directed to any extension beyond the period of two years." The bill sponsored by Mr. Cross provides for such extension at the say-so of a government board. Does the letter mean that he has dropped this idea? Even if he has, the two-year term is in itself open to objection, and the News-Record is justified in its suggestion that the whole proposal should be forgotten by the government.—Toronto Star.

NO RED MENACE

FOR YEARS, timid statesmen and timid people alike had trembled at thought of the Red menace, Japan, Italy and Germany, not long ago, took it so seriously, or pretended to, that they tried to form a world alliance against it.

But today, thanks to the Finns, we know there is no Red menace. There is only the same old inefficient rabble of Russians, dumb, driven, tyrannized over by new masters. Ten good French or German divisions, in all probability, could go through the whole Red army like a snow-plow through slush.

The Reds may be able to walk through a door if someone holds it open for them, as the Germans held it open for them, as the Germans held it in Poland, or as it was held for them in Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia. But they haven't yet been able, by force, to break into the house of the Finns.—Chicago Daily News.

• Germans Have 100 Divisions

PARIS,—"The German people is on the eve of the greatest decision of its history." These words by the loquacious Nazi propaganda minister, Dr. Joseph Goebbels, recently uttered at Trier, just behind the Siegfried Line, now seem to be taking shape either as the shadow of the long-awaited German offensive or as another serious move in the war of nerves.

The Dutch are obvious alarmed, and it takes a good deal to shake them. Numerous French authorities are fairly sure that this time the German staff, which, by a series of pretexts, constantly has been avoiding Fuehrer Hitler's injunctions to attack, will not be able to dam the Fuehrer's impetuosity much longer.

Today there are nearly 100 German divisions within striking distance of the Dutch, Belgian, French or Swiss frontier. The French believe that most, if not all, of these troops have been informed that there will be no Christmas leaves.

Fresh German infantry, cavalry and pioneers have reached Lorrach in Baden; the cantonments at Erkelenz, near the southern end of the Dutch-German border, are filled with troops.

A new regiment of artillery, has reached Aachen, with some 8⅝-inch guns, believed to be new guns from the Skoda works in Bohemia. Fresh armored and motorized troops have strengthened the already heavy forces between the Ruhr and Cleves.

Farther to the north, where they would apparently be used equally against Sweden, Holland, or Great Britain, are heavy air concentrations. The landing fields of Schleswig-Holstein and Oldenburg have been carefully conditioned. It is reported that a recent concert in Bremen was attended by no less than 1,000 German airmen.

Finally, well-informed persons in Paris are now convinced that preparations for the embarkation of large forces have been completed at Hamburg, Bremen and Bremerhaven.

Certainly, if Hitler intended to strike within two days he would not be doing any differently than he is doing.

• Thinks Hitler Has Bungled

THE HEAVIEST casualties in this war (or wars) have been among the prophets and experts. Events have moved so rapidly, so strangely, so contrary to preconceived notions as to make forecasting the most perilous of jobs.

So we don't predict Hitler's fall within a year, says the New York World-Telegram, but merely point out the predicament in which he has involved himself—a predicament so terrible that his past gains may all be wiped out in such a debacle as the world has never seen. Consider what he has done already!

1. He has brought Bolshevism to his own borders, hemmed himself in to the East and surrendered his basic program of a drive for room and resources in that direction.

2. He has helped turn the Baltic into a Russian Lake.

3. He has placed Russia in a position to drive into the Balkans, while taking himself out of that position.

4. He has lost Italy as an active ally and increasingly faces the possibility that she will become an active enemy. Also, for whatever she was worth, he has lost Spain.

5. He has brought himself into war against the sea power of Great Britain and the land power of France.

6. He has made considerable progress on sea — and yet his victories there have merely dented Britain's sea power. And the British obviously are making steady headway against both his submarines and magnetic mines while constructing the greatest tonnage of new vessels in England's history.

7. He is shut off from imports by sea; his Russian ally has a war of its own to use up its rather doubtful stock of supplies; Russia is in a position to shut off his iron imports from Sweden, and the Scandinavian countries increasingly need their military supplies to strengthen their own defences.

8. Now his exports are cut off, and even the German press admits that exportable commodities are piling up beyond the warehouse capacity of his ports.

9. He has drained the resources and money of his country to build up armaments which are proving inadequate to win the war.

10. The Allies have attained, or will soon attain, parity with him in the air—and behind them lie the vast and growing airplane manufacturing facilities of the United States.

11. He faces discontent among his own people; he has brought into his empire millions of hungry and sullen Poles; he faces sporadic and growing rebellion among the Czechs and he has built up other active centres of potential revolution.

12. The wild ambitions of his master, Stalin, may produce war in the Balkans in which Italy and Turkey would be against him or his ally.

13. The force of world opinion has been turned against him and Russia and the moral and material strength of the most productive sections of the world is now on the side of his enemies.

PUBLIC ENEMY

MAYOR LAGUARDIA of New York may be depended upon to enliven any day with a smart remark. His latest is this: "There is one thing established in chemistry and police work and that is that alcohol and gasoline do not mix."

"Don't give the drunken driver a 'break'," says the mayor of the metropolis in an address to the heads of the police department of his city, on the occasion of the annual presentation of precinct awards for safety records. The mayor continued: "I don't care who he is. If he is driving while drunk, bring him in... I don't care what kind of a car he is driving. Apprehend and prosecute. This is something we can't ignore."

The life of no individual should be at the mercy of a drunken driver, at what Mayor LaGuardia calls the most dangerous time, "the cocktail hour," or at any other time.

Gasoline and alcohol do not mix. The drunken driver is a potential murderer, and must be regarded by the forces of law and order as a criminal, no matter who he is or how strong his pull.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And the people spake against God, and against Moses, Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? for there is no bread, neither is there any water; and our soul loatheth this light bread. And the Lord sent fiery serpents among the people, and they bit the people; and much people of Israel died.

Therefore the people came to Moses, and said, We have sinned, for we have spoken against the Lord, and against thee; pray unto the Lord, that he take away the serpents from us. And Moses prayed for the people. And the Lord said unto Moses, Make thee a fiery serpent, and set it upon a pole: and it shall come to pass, that every one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it, shall live. And Moses made a serpent of brass, and put it upon a pole, and it came to pass, that if a serpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the serpent of brass, he lived.—Num. xxi, 5-9.

First Contingent Of Canada's Overseas Forces Arrives In Great Britain

"Fall in," shouts the company sergeant-major, LEFT, and this group of Canadian Highlanders line up in a train shed ready to march to the troopship for the voyage overseas. With the announcement of the safe arrival of the first contingent of the Canadian overseas forces, this picture was released by the director of public information in Ottawa.

"Roll out the barrel for the gangplank's here," parodied this jovial Scottie as he marched with his comrades of Canada's new army on board the transport ship which carried the first contingent of Canada's overseas forces across the Atlantic.

Institute Gives Its Gifts To Red Cross

JANETVILLE, Dec. 21—(ENS).—Mrs. James Howe opened her spacious home in the village for the Christmas meeting of the Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon when 34 members and a number of visitors were present. The president Mrs. Charles Deyell was in the chair.

The secretary, Mrs. M. Armstrong read a letter in regard to Red Cross work from Miss Clarke of Toronto, the superintendent; an application form from the government grant, bills in connection with the recent social evening and a long letter with interesting snaps from Miss Mary Johnston, a member of the Scottish Institute which toured Canada in the late summer.

It was decided to use the day's collection and the surplus from the bus trip, to purchase gifts for the shut-ins at Christmas.

On motion of the members the secretary was instructed to send a letter of sympathy to Mrs. Oswald McGill and son, Mr. Guy McGill in their bereavement.

In place of the usual exchange of Christmas gifts among the members it was agreed to contribute the price of the gifts to the Red Cross which will amount to $10.00.

Two members paid fees and Mrs. W. G. Bradburn kindly offered her home for the January meeting.

Mrs. Charles Deyell as chairman of the local Red Cross Society reported the work accomplished to date as follows:—2 dozen abdominal bands, 2 dozen hospital pads, 1 dozen hospital sheets, 1 dozen pair of socks.

The program consisted of Christmas carols, a recitation, "Christmas Eve" by Mrs. J. Capstick; piano solo, "Cathedral Chimes" by Mrs. George Heaslip; reading, Christmas Facts" by Mrs. W. Campbell; and a Christmas message on the theme "Peace on Earth Good Will Toward men" by Rev. Mervin Bury, M. A.

A vote of thanks on behalf of the meeting was voiced to those taking part in the program and to Mrs. Howe for the use of her home which was seasonably decorated and included a brilliantly lighted Christmas tree.

After the singing of the National Anthem, a delicious lunch consisting of sandwich, cake, cookies and Christmas cake was served by Mrs. Howe and her assisstants Mrs. E. Henders, Mrs. R. Wright, Mrs. E. Stacey, Mrs. R. McGill, Mrs. George Heaslip and Mrs. E. A. Bradburn.

Hails Canadians

LONDON, Dec. 21—(CP Cable).—Sir Samuel Hoare, Lord Privy Seal, in a broadcast today hailed the arrival of the Canadian troops and referred to the memories their arrival had awakened.

"The man in the street had no warning of the event," Sir Samuel said. "And so his joy and delight at the sense of being one of the mighty brotherhood that spans continents and bridges oceans suddenly swept over him in a triumphant wave of affection and pride."

Ban Upon Kilts Raises Storm

LONDON, Dec. 21—(CP).—Wild winds of protest rattling through the heather over banning of the kilt as regimental battle dress have raised a fine storm in the Times correspondence columns.

The flow of correspondence became so persistent that the paper used a standard head over the letters. It was "kilts and casualties" despite the objection of one Scotsman "that the garment in question is not mentioned in the plural in its nature country."

Philip Goose, historian and naturalist, took a half-column to claim that an experiment during the First Great War disclosed every kilted soldier examined "was thoroughly lousy' because the pleats in his kilt "made ideal lurking places for the loathsome parasites."

Sir Ian Malcolm, writer and diplomat who was born in Quebec in 1868, suggested the question of kilt-wearing "is not one to be discussed, still less decided, by highlanders or others at home." He favored a plebiscite of the troops concerned."

Mrs. Violet Douglas reported her husband who served for 28 years in the Seaforth Highlanders, maintained the kilt was "the finest campaigning dress in the world."

Canon E. L. Marsden, a chaplain in the last war, interjected that senior officers ascribed much of the sickness during the winter of 1917-18 to wearing of the kilt by men unaccustomed to its use in peacetime.

Captain R. V. Steel quoted a manuscript kept by Col. Malcolm Fraser during the operations before Quebec in the seven years' war. The Journal told of the kilt being "not at all calculated for this terrible climate."

Mrs. Sam Diamond Is Re-elected President

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 21—(ENS)—Ms. Sam Diamond was for the tenth time elected president of the Women's Association of the English Line Church at their annual meeting and election of officers for 1940. In a report of the year's work Miss Kate Gould, secretary indicated there had been during the year eight house meetings; and an afternoon tea held during the month of November yielded $27.45 which is to be used for war work. Other events staged throughout the year had been a pot luck super at Bradley Bay, quilting bees and relief work. The association had also contributed a substantial sum towards the maintenance fund and had given a donation to the Sick Children's Hospital. There was a balance of $245 on hand stated Miss Gould.

Following are the officers, all of whom were re-elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Sam Diamond; vice president, Mrs. Ernest Mitchell; secretary, Miss Kate Gould; treasurer, Miss Phyllis Haig; flower and fruit committee, Mrs. Fred Smith and Mrs. Fred Peake; lunch convenors, Mrs. T. Chadwick and Miss Marguerite Haig.

Africa Reported 100 Per Cent Anti-German

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 21—(CP).—This war finds South Africa 100 per cent. anti-German and about 70 per cent. pro-British in the opinion of Col. Deneys Rentz, the Union's Minister of Native Affairs.

Col. Reitz, a rebel in the Boer War and a champion of British democracy now, has been in London attending conferences of Dominion and United Kingdom ministers.

About 30 per cent. of the Union's population is anti-British, in his view, but Germany "with its complete ignorance of Afrikaans psychology mistook anti-British feeling for pro-German feeling."

"We are like the Irish," says the Colonel. "We are always fighting among ourselves. Our political troubles are mostly internal squabbles among us Dutch, ourselves.

"Our attachment to the Empire now isn't so much sentimental as practical. We know we couldn't last if we were on our own."

HERE'S A GRAND LAST MINUTE GIFT SUGGESTION. Canada Dry in gay holiday cartons (containing four family size bottles or six 12 oz. bottles) makes a welcome yet inexpensive gift for young and old.

Canada's Soldiers Get Their First Glimpse Of England

Unheralded and unsung the soldiers of Canada's new army arrived in Britain escorted by the British Navy. When their presence became known to Britishers they were given a tremendous ovation as they hustled off to camp to start their final training period before going to France. This picture was transmitted by radio and phonephoto.

Conductor Berry Is Retired

BONARLAW, Dec. 21—(ENS).—Friends of Mr. Joseph Berry, conductor on the Canadian National train between Trenton and Maynooth have been enquiring recently about him and it is learned that Mr. Berry retired on pension on December 7, having reached the age of sixty-five.

At fourteen years of age Joseph Berry was a newsboy on this line, then the Central Ontario Railway, and served on the same line ever since as brakeman and conductor. He knew practically everyone in any way connected with the railway from Maynooth to Picton. Little wonder therefore that he is missed by a host of friends. He is known to all as a real man, of exceptionally fine personality and charming manner. Persons who have known him for over forty years say they never heard him say anything strong than "confound it."

Mr. Berry will reside at Trenton where he has made his home for years and where also he is held in the highest esteem. His many friends of this vicinity wish him a long and happy life.

Naval Base Re-inforced

LONDON, Dec. 21 — (CP). — The Information Ministry in a statement to-night said the Trinidad Naval Base had been strongly reinforced by formation of a voluntary unit which now is complete.

There was no recruiting campaign for the unit, the Ministry said, but five times more men than were needed volunteered for service from all parts of the colony.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 21—(CP).—The Windsor Separate School Board will withhold any information that would help the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs prepare a debt-refunding plan for the board until the Department comes to a satisfactory understanding regarding the board's $200,000 surplus, a special meeting of the board decided last night.

Millbrook Circle Elects Its Officers

MILLBROOK, Dec., 21—(ENS).—Golden Links Mission Circle held its annual meeting on Monday at 8 p.m., the retiring president, Mrs. Phyllis Kidd, being hostess for the gathering, her mother, Mrs. F. A. Kidd, assisting in receiving and welcoming the large number of members in attendance.

Christmas hymns were used throughout, the beautifully decorated Christmas tree which stood in the living-room adding much to the seasonable atmosphere which pervaded the home, and the meeting.

The theme, "Jesus, the Light of the World," was emphasized in the impressive candle-lighting ceremony, during which Della Mae Sisco and the president held large lighted candles, and each one present lit her smaller candle from these as evidence of consecration for service.

Each member will send a Christmas card to Miss Margaret Luxon, unable to attend the gatherings, and Rev. A. L. Sisco took the chair for the election, the list for 1940 being:

Honorary presidents, Mrs. J. McKnight and Mrs. D. Lunn; president, Mrs. Ernest J. Powell; vice-prisedents, Della Mae Sisco and Jean Fisher; secretary, Mary Dawson; treasurer, Jean L. Burnham; pianist, Mary Burnham; supply secretary, Phyllis Kidd. The treasurer reported over $50 on hand toward the allocation of $52, with mite-boxes yet to come in.

The retiring president offered the dedicatory prayer when the offering was taken, and with all lights turned off except those on the tree, Bea McDowell gave "Star of the East" as a whistling solo. Mary Burnham played "Trinity Chimes," and Miss E. L. Hetherington told the story of David, the Jewish boy of Montreal who turned to the Christian faith at the Christmas season. Following prayer by the minister, the hostess served homemade candy while a social hour was enjoyed.

BLUE BOMBERS' HALFBACK IS NAMED CANADA'S ACE ATHLETE

Leading Scorer Of N.H.L. Toe Blake Second

TORONTO, Dec. 21 — (CP). — Tow-headed Melvin (Fritz) Hanson, of the flashing feet and the swivel hips, was Canada's No. 1 athlete of 1939.

The little halfback, who ran through and around Ottawa Rough Riders when Winnipeg Blue Bombers won the Dominion senior football championship this month, was selected by sports writers across the country for The Canadian Press as the best performer of the athletic year. He didn't score a point in the national classic but he did everything else for the Bombers.

More than half the selectors picked 27-year-old, 155-pound Fritzie among the three foremost athletes for the year and—on the basis of three points for a first-place vote, two for second and one for third—he had a clear plurality. Hector (Toe) Blake of Montreal Canadiens, leading scorer in the National Hockey League last season, was second with 16 points to 23 for Hanson.

It will take football fans a long time to get over the spectacle of Hanson dodging the tacklers in the snow of Lansdowne Park at Ottawa, running the ball out of danger or into scoring position. At the finish Winnipeg was up 8-7 and, though Fritzie had scored none of the knockout blows, everyone agreed he was the little guy who had poked Ottawa in the face all afternoon.

Good Even In 1935

Once before Hanson impressed the critics nearly as much. That was in 1935 when Fritzie, fresh of Perham, Minn., led Winnipeg to its only other victory in the Canadian final by ghosting past Hamilton Tigers. He was second in the Canadian Press poll that year to Scotty Rankine, the great distance runner from Preston, Ont.

Blake, playing with a team that didn't get out of the N.H.L. cellar until late in the schedule, was paid tribute everywhere for his scoring feats. He was voted the most valuable player in the league by coaches and sports writers last spring.

Three points behind Blake was Syl Apps of Toronto Maple Leafs, whose brilliant play started a controversy this fall over whether he is the greatest hockey centre of all time, Ken Black of Vancouver, who won back the Canadian amateur golf championship for the Dominion, was next with 12 points.

The next four contenders were bunched. Gord Drillon, Apps' high-scoring linemate, tied Bill Fritz, the magnificent Queen's University quarter-miler, with nine points. Larry O'Connor, University of Toronto hurdler, obtained seven. Billy Taylor, star of the Oshawa dominion junior hockey champions who graduated to Toronto Maple Leafs, was next with six.

Other contenders with more than a point or two were Joe Krol, University of Western Ontario football sensation; Bob Pirie, Toronto swimmer; Edgar Laprade, star of Port Arthur's dominion senior hockey champions; Dave Castilloux, Montreal's Dominion featherweight boxing champion; Tiny Herman and Tony Golab, Ottawa footballers; Billy Marquart, Winnipeg lightweight boxer; Billy Whittaker, goaltender of the St. Catharines eastern lacrosse champions; and Phil Marchildon, pitcher who graduated from amateur baseball to Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League.

OFF FOR ROSE BOWL

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 21—(AP).—Tennessee's undefeated, untied and unscored on football team arranged to head for California's Rose Bowl today. The orange-shirted volunteers, 35 strong, will arrive in Los Angeles Sunday.

Boston Asset

Just before the National league season got under way, Canadiens traded Herbie Cain, ABOVE, to Boston Bruins for Charlie Sands, a deal that has probably pleased both teams, as each player is among the circuit's scoring leaders. Cain, a Montreal Maroon before "going French," was second only to Gord Drillon in goals scored in the last official averages issued. He had counted eight, the best effort of any member of the Stanley Cup holders.

Yanks Top Loop In Fielding With .978 Mark

Fielding as a whole was off two points in the American league in 1939, as compared with 1938. In the previous season the grand average for all of the teams was .971, whereas in 1939 this figure shrank to .969.

The polishd gloss of the spinning Yankees was indicated by their superb work in the field, where they registered a .978 team average for the best in the circuit. During the season the Yanks made only 126 errors, which is only two more than the major league record hung up by the Athletics in 1932. The smooth work of the Yankees in 1939 displaced Detroit as the fielding leader. In 1938 the Tigers fielded .976, but in 1939 they dropped to sixth with a figure of .967. The Yankees were fourth in 1938 with .973. The 1939 race also saw New York making an unusual record by registering only a single assist in a game with Detroit on July 14.

Double-plays were off in the league in 1939, the count bein 1,183 to 1,282 for the previous season. Errors totaled 1,465 in 1939, and 1,384 in 1938. There were more total chances in 1939, with 47,762 as compared with 47,470 in 1938.

First-basemen's fielding averages usually aren't very highly regarded as baseball averages go, but it is curious that in 1939 the six first-basemen who played over 100 games in the American League all were between .991 and .993 in the fielding figures. George McQuinn of the Browns rounded off a great all-round year with his .993 average for 154 games during which he had a total of 1,504 chances. This tied him with Hank Greenberg of Detroit who also fielded .993 by handling 1,289 chances in 136 games. McQuinn fielded .992 in 1938 in 148 games to place second to Zeke Bonura of Washington.

One point lower came Joe Kunel of Chicago, Jimmy Fox of Boston, and Hal Trosky of Cleveland—all even at .992. Babe Dahlgren of the Yankees, who is highly regarded in the league as a fielder, was next in line with a .991 figure. Dick Seibert of the Athletics equalled this mark for 99 games. Depreciating this par excellence of the league's majority of first-sackers was the erro-record hung up by Jim Wasdell of Washington, who committed four miscues at first base on May 3.

Honors among the keystone kings were appropriately carried off by the marvelous Mechanical Man, Charlie Gehringer of Detroit, who had a great year in 1939 with a fielding average of .977 for 107 contests. This was only a point ahead of young Bobby Doerr of Boston, who fielded .976 in 126 games. Doerr went through his first 32 games of the season without making a bobble. Over that stretch he handled 76 putouts and 121 assists.

Is Consistent

Gehringer's fielding average in 1938 was .976, which is about as close as it is possible to come for consistency. Doerr fielded .968 in 145 games in 1938. Among the 100-game players, agile Joe Gordon of the Yankees ranked third with a .967 figure for 151 games in 1939. In 1938 he fielded .960 in 126 games. On Sept. 15, 1939, Gordon tied a league record with 11 assists at second base against Detroit. Buddy Myer of Washington was the high man in 1938 with a figure of .982, but he dropped to .968 for 65 games in 1939.

Ken Keltner, the brilliant young Cleveland third-baseman, was out in front all by himself among the hot corner artists. His .974 average for 154 games was 16 points above the .958 figure recorded by Red Rolfe of the Yankees in 152 games. Keltner was in on 40 double plays during the season, and also a triple-killing. Harlond Clift of St. Louis, another star among the third-sackers, was third in the standing with .953 for 149 games. Rolfe again being second with .959 for 151 games. Keltner was third that year with .956 for 149 games. "Pinky" Higgins of Detroit fielded .914 at the bottom of the standing in 1939, and in 1938 at Boston he came up with exactly the same average for 138 games.

As might be logically anticipated, steady Frank Crosetti of the Yankees topped the short fielders. His fielding record was .968 for 152 games, giving him a nine-point margin over Manager Joe Cronin of Boston. Cronin, from May 7 to June 5, inclusive, went through 26 consecutive games without making a blunder. During that stretch he handled 64 putouts and 79 assists.

Crosetti was in on 118 double plays during the race, and had 809 total chances. This is a big improvement over his 1938 record in the field when he fielded .948, being preceded by four 100-game shortstops.

Among the outfielders, a record was made on May 3 when St. Louis and Washington gardeners assembled no fewer than 29 putouts in a single game, Washington accumulating 17, and St. Louis an even dozen, as follows: Case 8, Wright 5, West 4, Mazera 6, Hoag 3, Thompson 2, Almada 1.

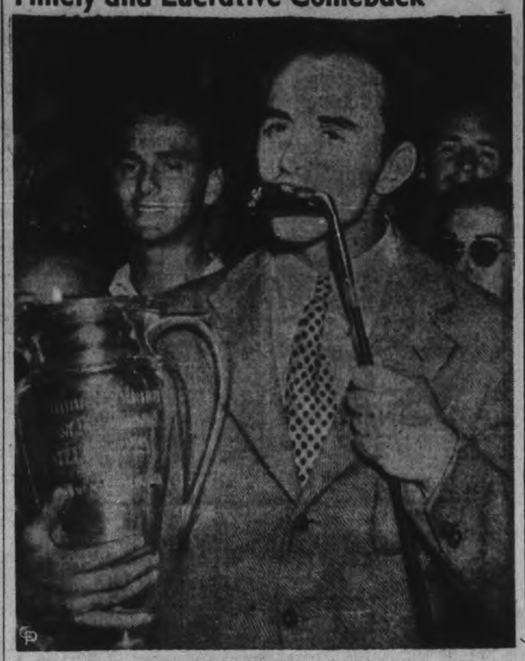
For the 100-game outfielders, George Selkirk of the Yankees had the best percentage with .989 for 124 games. He was followed by Barney McCosky of Detroit with .986 for 145 games, while Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks held up his all-around class for the season with exactly the same figure for his 117 games.

Fielding honors among the catchers went to Bill Dickey, the backbone of the champions, with a mark of .989 for 126 games. During the campaign Dickey tied the major league record for most consecutive years catching 100 or more game. This was his eleventh, equalling the record held by Ray Schalk and Gordon Cochrane. Dickey was second in fielding in 1938 to Rudy York of Detroit. His average that year was .987. Mike Tresh, reliable young Chicago catcher, ranked second to Dickey in 1939 with a .985 fielding percentages for 119 contests.

Among the twirlers, Albert Milnar of Cleveland had a perfect fielding record in 37 games on the slab during which he took care of 43 chances. Willis Hudlin of the same team turned in a figure of .984 on 64 chances in 27 games.

Timely and Lucrative Comeback



Sam Snead bestows the traditional kiss on his putter, a common pictorial effect after a golf triumph, this one coming after Sam had enriched himself to the extent of $2,500 by beating Jug McSpaden, Canadian open champ, out of first place in the $10,000 Miami open. It was a great win for Sluggin' Sam, who had not been in the best of health for some months before.

Ramblers Shade Bears By 3-2

(By the Canadian Press.)

It isn't all the top teams in a hockey league that produce the most spectacular hockey. Sometimes the cellar dwellers give the fans as much excitement as the league leaders.

Take for instance last night's game between Philadelphia Ramblers and Hershey Bears in the International-American circuit. Both are well down in the standing at the bottom of the eastern division, but they put on a thriller, the Bears bowing 3-2 to the Ramblers.

There was excitement too in the second game of the night in which Cleveland Barons shut out Springfield Indians 2-0. And these were third-place clubs before the game started.

Lloyd Ailsby, Herb Foster and Gustafson gave the Ramblers a 3-0 lead by the mid-way mark of the third period as Philadelphia scored a goal in each session. But the Bears did not give in without a fight.

With fewer than five minutes to play Boddie Kirk scored Hershey's first goal and the Bears really turned on the pressure. The Philadelphia defence yielded another goal to Gordon Bruce two minutes later, and the final three minutes saw the Ramblers holding on with all they while the Bears tried without success to get the equalizer.

The excitement in the other game was confined to the second period, marked by both goals and 11 penalties, four of them majors. Three Indians and one Baron were serving time when Ossie Asmundsen scored the first goal, but the teams were at even strength when Leroy Goldsworthy got the second.

The major penalties went to Max Kaminsky and Alf Thurrier of the Indians and Paul Runge and Bob Gracie of the Barons. In addition, Lord Duguid of the Barons drew a miscoduct penalty.

Blue Devil Win Over Sudbury Perks Interest

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Dec. 21—(CP). — Supporters of Kirkland Lake Blue Devils have been rather cold in recent weeks towards the all-Ontario senior hockey finalists of last season, but the feeling about the Gold Belt team is changing to one of interest.

It was charged that the team's playing was mediocre, that the forwards were not as classy as last season, and that three players who came here from Trail Smoke Eaters had not displayed the wares expected of them. In many quarters the charges still stand, but the club's stock took a boost in Sudbury on Monday when the Devils defeated Sudbury Miners 5-3 in an exhibition game.

The Miners generally have been considered the team to beat for Northern Ontario honors, but except for two five-minute spots in which they scored all their goals against the Blue Devils, they turned in a drab display. Cohesion between the Kirkland Lake defence and forward line and persistent backchecking were big factors in the victory.

Best of the three former Smoke Eaters — Dick Kowcinak and Earl McCreedy, forwards, and Mel Snowden, defence—was Snowden. He handled the rearguard duties capably with Captain Ray Milton, former Port Arthur Bearcats stalwart.

Tonight May See Bruins Spite Smythe

(By the Canadian Press.)

Boston Bruins can answer a challenge to-night hurled by Manager Conny Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs, and with a little help from outside sources can go into undisputed possession of top place in the National Hockey League for the first time this season.

Smythe has accused the Bruins of withholding their best efforts for home ice and playing defensive hockey on the road. The Bruins can toss back their taunt when they play Canadiens on Montreal ice to-night. A Boston victory and a Toronto loss to the Black Hawks at Chicago would lift the Bruins into the top position. Leafs and Bruins are tied presently for the lead.

Also sharing in the night's festivities are Detroit Red Wings and New York Americans, the two bottom teams in the league. They clash at New York, giving the Amerks the chance to climb into a tie with their opponents for sixth place through a victory. The Wings hold the edge in three contests this season with Americans, winning two and dropping one.

Canadiens, in the throes of a slump which has seen them lose four of their last five games after a great start, have called up Bill Summerhill and Armand Mondou from New Haven Eagles for the game against Bruins. The Habitants intend to leave Marty Barry, Earl Robinson, and Johnny Gagnon on the sidelines.

Toronto Unit

to provide for the inclusion of personnel from both the permanent and auxiliary branches of our air force.

"This army co-operation squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force is in addition to the special Canadian squadron of the Royal Air Force which has been formed from Canadian pilots now serving with the Royal Air Force in England, as announced by the Prime Minister in his broadcast on Sunday evening."

In a statement following his broadcast address, Mr. Rogers gave further details of the squadron to be sent overseas from the R.C.A.F. based on the Toronto non-permanent squadron, it will include officers and airmen from No. 112 auxiliary squadron based at Winnipeg and from No. 2 squadron of the permanent air force based at Ottawa.

Vliet In Command.

Commander of the composite unit will be Squadron Leader Van Vliet, 35-year-old Winnipeg boy who joined the R.C.A.F. permanent force in 1926 and has seen duty in R.C.A.F. stations at Vancouver, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Trenton, Ont., and Camp Borden, Ont., together with courses in the Royal Air Force staff college and the army co-operatian school in England.

Function of the army co-operation squadrons, the Minister pointed out, is to serve as the eyes of the army, so that these Canadian fliers will patrol the skies over Canadian troops, watching for enemy concentrations, photographing enemy territory, and from a lofty position direct the fire of Canadian artillery batteries.

Canadas new war effort differed materially from the senior Dominion's contribution in the first Great War, when the first concern was to send Canadian man-power and munitions overseas, changed, and the organization this time was far different. The C.A.S.F. was built upon the framework of the existing militia units.

"Our battle units actually are the militia regiments whose insignia they wear," he said. "What is more, units have been mobilized in such a way that representation has been given to all provinces. Each section of the country has been given the opportunity to share in the burdent to be borne."

Completely Supplied

The First Division has been supplied with "complete personal equipment which includes the new battle dress," Mr. Rogers said. "When it operates in the field it will have full mechanical equipment supplied for Canadian sources so far as this is practicable."

A modern division, he continued, "as at present organized, is not a fully self-contained and self-supporting organization. The approximate strength of the First Canadian Division is 16,000. In the field it will function as part of an army corps, a formation which contains two or more divisions and a number of supporting units which serve as a whole. These extra divisional units are referred to as corps troops.

"In order that the First Canadian Division may carry its full weight in the army corps of which it will ultimately form a part, the Canadian Government decided, in consultation with the British Government, to dispatch overseas a due proportion of corps troops in addition to the division itself.

"Further, to permit the First Canadian Division to be administered as a Canadian entity certain administrative units will also be sent.

"The total of all extra divisional units which will go abroad amount to between 6,000 and 7,000 men. They will include medium and field artillery survey units; engineers, signal units, army service corps, ordnance corps, and certain base details. Hospital units will also be included to care for Canadian casualties, and a fully equipped dental company will be sent to ensure adequate dental care for all Canadian forces abroad."

Some Answers...

The C.A.S.F. had been swiftly organized to meet a national emergency Mr. Rogers said, and there had been a temporary shortage of equipment, notably in clothing for the men.

"The problem perhaps, sums up in the broad figures of multiplying the strength of an army by 10 overnight," he said. "Would Canada have wanted 50,000 extra uniforms hanging empty on their pegs a year ago? Would it have been prudent to provide this and other equipment on a wartime scale only to discover, perhaps, that when the time came to use it the equipment itself had become obsolete or at variance with the standard used by the forces recruited in Britain?"

The sudden demand for equipment had been met as rapidly as machinery for providing it could be arranged and in three months full personal equipment was supplied to the expeditionary forces and arrangements laid for future needs.

The minister sketched the organization of the chaplain services for spiritual guidance of the forces, and of the vital auxiliary services to provide comfort, education and recreation for the troops. Science gave its best brains to the war effort, and civilians all over the country had responded with generous offers of voluntary service.

The pay services and the dependents' allowance board had been faced with a heavy task in arranging for allowances to soldiers' dependents, and of 42,000 applications, only 3,600 remained for final disposition. Payments are being made to 26,000 wives of soldiers. About 90 per cent of applications for allowances had been settled and the remainder were under consideration, he said.

Haiti has a new law banning commercial speculation.

Truck Stalled

thur Brinklow. Delbert Wagar was employed by him and on the day of the accident had been delivering two cattle for him. Witness knew nothing about the other two boys.

In what condition were the brakes on your truck?

"I was told they were in first-class condition. I never drove the truck myself," replied witness.

Describing the scene of the accident Mervin said the only obstacle to the view was a clump of bushes.

Dr. A. Moir told of arriving 30 minutes after the accident happened. He found Gordon Wagar and Arthur McMaster both dead. The latter had considerable bruising about the head, a fractured arm, and fractured leg.

Gordon Wagar was bruised about the head, and had a fracture of the right hip which was badly shattered, superficial cuts and the left instep had been twisted.

Dr. Moir said Delbert Wagar was badly shocked and had sustained severe head injuries. He had a fracture of the right leg and was in an unconscious condition. He would be unable to give evidence for some time.

Dr. Moir said he believed the two boys had been killed instantly.

Delbert Wagar even now had only brief moments of consciousness. He was unable to say anything about the truck.

"All he said this morning," said the witness, "was that the horse ran away."

Howard Johnston, North Monaghan, saw the truck passing his home shortly after noon. He lived about a mile and a half from the scene of the accident. At that time the truck was travelling possibly 30 miles an hour.

Bernard Meagher said he went to the scene of the accident after the trainmen had come to Whitfield's to telephone. When he got there he saw two men lying in the grass by the side of the track and a third man in the baggage car. Witness said there was a warning sign east of the crossing. The road was straight, the track crossing it from the north east. There were a few trees there but he did not think they would obstruct the view.

He had heard the train whistle at the crossing nearest the Whitfield's but had heard no other whistling. He had seen the train and estimated it was travelling 40 miles an hour.

Followed Ambulance

Herb. Payne said that he followed the ambulance out to the scene of the accident. The truck was a wreck when he saw it. The body was smashed in, the frame bent and some of the wheels knocked off. It seemed to have been hit in the centre of the cab. The right hand door was knocked off.

Witness said that the trees near the crossing would prevent a view of a train from a car nearing the crossing, although a train could be seen from further back.

Leonard Wright, Crawford's Grove, saw Delbert Wagar near the end of Park street about 12:10 o'clock in the truck. He noticed there was at least one cow in the truck, and at least one other man in the cab. Witness said the driver whom he was sure was Wagar, had waved at him.

Fireman's Story

Muray Davies, C.N.R. fireman, said that the train left Peterborough at 12:15 and the accident happened at 12:44 on Friday.

"I was on the left side of the cab," he said, "and saw the truck when it was 200 feet from the crossing. We would be much further back. It was travelling about 20 miles an hour. Then I noticed it slow down and then pick up speed again. Then I saw it stopped dead on the crossing. We were about 100 feet away then and I hollered to the engineer to stop. The brakes were applied immediately. I watched the truck until we struck."

Davies put the speed of the train at 40 to 45 miles an hour and said that the train bell was ringing and the whistle had been blowing from the whistle post onward.

"Apparently the car stalled?" said Mr. McElderry.

"At any rate it stopped," said the witness.

Did Not See Truck

T. E. Peart, engineer of the train, said that he saw nothing of the truck before the accident. The first he knew of trouble at the crossing was when the fireman shouted a warning and he had applied his emergency brakes immediately. The train struck the truck almost immediately afterward.

Peart said that the train bell had been ringing since the train left Peterborough and the whistle had been sounding until just before the crash when he had to use both hands to operate his brakes. The witness told of the manner in which the truck became jammed on the front of the train and was carried a quarter of a mile. He described seeing the three inmates sitting upright in their seats, two of them dead and one badly injured.

J. L. Woolacott, conductor of the train, saw nothing of the truck before the accident. He said the train was travelling at 45 miles and the truck was so tightly jammed against the front of the locomotive that the only way it could be released was to chain the truck to the rails and then back the train away.

Constable Bruce Menzies who investigated the accident said that the truck had been carried 1350 feet from the crossing.

Provincial Constable David Silvester described the scene of the crash which he said was a good open crossing. At several points the view was cut off by second growth bush but in between there were opportunities for a good view of an oncoming train.

H. Bearsworthy, claims agent for the C.N.R., who was the last witness, produced photographs he had taken at the scene of the accident, which were handed to the jury for inspection.

He was the last witness and the jurors brought in their verdict after 40 minutes' deliberation.

MOVE IS MADE TO QUASH BY-LAW ORDERING VOTE ON WINE SHOP

City's Bylaw Claimed To Be Illegal

Application for an order to quash the city council's bylaw for the taking of votes at the municipal elections New Year's Day on a proposal to close the Hillrust Wine Company's shop on Charlotte street has been made by Carley and Standish, and will be heard at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Thursday, December 28.

A notice of the motion in the Supreme Court of Ontario was received at the city hall today alleging that the bylaw is illegal, invalid and discriminatory.

"The council of the city of Peterborough have no authority or power under the Municipal Act or any other enabling statute, to pass such a bylaw," the motion affirms.

"The bylaw is illegal and invalid inasmuch as it discriminates against the applicants and is for the purpose of prohibiting the carrying on of business by the applicants in the one particular store in Peterborough, and is not for the purpose of a general prohibition as against all inhabitants of stores of the said city."

Contrary to L.C.A.

The application by Carley and Standish in behalf of E. Stanley Brown, secretary-treasurer of the Hillrust Wine Company also says that the bylaw is contrary to the Liquor Control Act which, it is contended, does not confer upon the council the power to single out one particular shop. "Any bylaw prohibiting the sale of liquor or of beer and wine must be a general bylaw prohibiting the sale throughout the whole municipality."

"The said bylaw is unfair and unjust to the applicants and improperly and illegally purports to interfere with and destroy the business of the applicants," the motion further asserts.

When the bylaw was introduced at the meeting of the city council by Alderman Gordon Monday, December 4th, some doubt was expressed then as to the municipality's right to ask for the closing of the Hillrust shop while wine could be purchased elsewhere in the city.

ALD. R. M. GLOVER

Alderman Glover Not Candidate For Re-election

Chairman of the Manufacturers Committee of the city council will not be a candidate for re-election at the municipal nominations Friday, he informed the council today.

Alderman R. M. Glover informed the Examiner today that he would not be a candidate for the city council at the municipal elections on Friday.

"Just make a brief mention of it," Alderman Glover requested in announcing his decision to retire from the civic service. He said that he was planning to be out of the city a considerable time next year, and he did not consider that such absence was fair to the ratepayers.

It has been known for some time that Alderman Glover has been concerned about his health, and it is understood that he is hoping by rest and disengagement from affairs to recover from an impaired condition.

Alderman Glover was elected to the council four years ago and is retiring as chairman of the manufacturers committee. The confidence of the electors in his ability and integrity was shown by their support in electing him twice at the head of the aldermanic poll.

He announced his intention of retiring to Mayor Hamilton who told the Examiner that he deeply regretted Alderman Glover's decision. "It will be a real loss to the council, and I wish there was something I could say to persuade him to be a candidate again," His Worship said.

English People Remain Calm

Bert Hall, former Peterborough ball player and hockey goalkeeper who is spending the Christmas holidays in town is just back from three years' residence in England where he represented an American manufacturing firm.

Mr. Hall returns to Canada, he says, with a firm conviction that England is a fine country in which to live, that the English people are splendid folk to live with and that the scheme of living in the Old Country with the high pressure stuff cut out and a reasonable attitude toward business is the right policy.

"They really live in England," he said to The Examiner this morning.

England, he remarked was accepting the war calmly. The heavy boost in taxation was taken by the people in their stride. The chief sign of war was the "blackout" and that, he said, had to be experienced to be understood.

Mr. Hall came back to this side of the Atlantic on the same Dutch liner as carried Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett as a passenger and he had the pleasure of a conversation with the former premier on the voyage over. Mr. Bennett, he found, shared his views as to the English people.

The trip to New York was without incident. The Dutch liner was not molested on the way across.

Long Hours Of Darkness In County Jail Give Prisoners Plenty Of Time For Thought

Comes at length and rather stealthily the shortest day of the year, December 21, a physical turning point as contrasted with the chronological bounds and limits of January 1 and December 31.

These are the longest nights of 1939, padding the community's bill for electricity in the domestic list for no doubt all the abodes in the city excepting restricted quarters in the county jail.

It seems the routine in Governor Dalton Johnston's gray pile on the hill requires that shortly after 7 p.m. the electric lights are cut-off in the cell rows. After supper there is a period of relaxation, or perhaps more correctly, further relaxation inducing comfortable digestion, and if there is any reading to be done it has to be hurried along against the moving hands of the clock. Or if there is writing or study, only a short span of the evening is granted for that diversion and by 7:15 o'clock night is suddenly thrust into the cells, and there is nothing left of the day's scant program but to curl up and try to get a long sleep, from dark to the morning twilight, a stretch of twelve hours. There must be great restorative quality in the quiet slumbering of the prisoners, doing a great job of knitting up the ravelled sleeve of care.

Those long nights may perhaps afford time for pondering the ways that led to the narrow cell and the barred doors of the house of correction, whereas summer nights with daylight saving are not so dependent on electric switches and you can look out the small windows until the day passes. So, if you must go to jail, consider the 7:15 p.m. lights-off regulation, and if you are a reader wait until May and June.

SUSPEND SHOWS

Three Belleville theatres have decided not to open their houses for midnight shows after 12 p.m. Christmas Eve, Sunday, December 24.

ANOTHER DELAY LIKELY

Lloyd McPherson, the youth arrested near here last week for alleged complicity in the holdup of a service station at Welcome was slated to appear in Cobourg court today but in view of the fact that the other two men sought as suspects in the case were arrested at Hamilton last night it is expected there would be another remand.

POLICE CAR STOLEN

The Peterborough police department was notified early this morning that a car belonging to the Belleville police force was stolen in Belleville through the night. A man was seen getting into the car but the only description available was that he was wearing an overcoat and fedora hat.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT.

The Peterborough Workers and Unemployed Association is holding its annual Christmas tree and concert at the Market Hall to-night at 8 o'clock. The program will be staged by the children of members of the association and the public is cordially invited to attend. A silver collection will be taken.

LIGHTS STOLEN

Police are inclined to blame children for the theft of a large number of colored lights from the civic Christmas tree in Confederation Square. The wires had been pulled down and the setup suggested juvenile rather than adult offenders.

CHARGED WITH THEFT

In police court this morning C. J. Asselstine was charged with the theft of a cow from William Breckenridge of Otonabee and at his request the case, by consent, was adjourned until January 4, without plea or election by the accused. It was the only case on the docket this morning.

Police Car Stolen In Front Of Station

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Dec. 21.—(CP)—A Belleville police car, stolen from in front of the police station early today, was found abandoned in a damaged condition on the second concession of Thurlow township hours later. It is believed the occupant of the car drove to Marysville, 15 miles east of Belleville, and there committed a break-in and was making his getaway when the car came to grief, in collision with a parked car near the scene of theft.

Constable Harold Taylor pulled into the station after one o'clock for lunch, leaving the car in front of the station with the key in the ignition. Shortly after there was a clashing of gears and the constable rushed out to see the car speeding east of Bridge street.

108,567 Letters Are Cancelled

The stamp cancelling machines in the post office ran up Wednesday a count of 108,567 letters and post cards as compared with 91,594 peak of the 1938 Christmas season.

Grant Smedmor of Postmaster Lacheur's office said it was expected that the outgoing volume of letters and cards would mount higher than Wednesday's figures.

The increase of 17,000 for the day did not include parcels and other forms of bulkier mail which have to pass through the hands of clerks in the process of sortation leaving Peterborough.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARGOT SMILEY

The funeral of Mrs. Margot Smiley, widow of Thomas Smiley, took place on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Mark Street United church, Rev. E. W. Rowland officiating. Interment was at Little Lake cemetery. Mrs. Smiley lived at 112 Hunter street, east, and died on Monday.

One of Mark Street church's most ardent workers, Mrs. Smiley was widely known in Ashburnham and her funeral was largely attended by church and other friends. She was a great missionary worker in the church.

Pall bearers were A. W. Gamble, G. A. Gillespie, John Taylor, E. Wand, James Ellis and Mr. Scriver.

She is survived by a sister.

Youth Suffers Gash In His Left Arm

When his axe slipped while he was cutting a Christmas tree in North Monaghan township Wednesday afternoon, Kenneth Elliott, 17, Chamberlen street, received a bad gash in his left forearm. The boy had cycled out from town and had started to cut down a small tree when the accident happened.

The wound bled profusedly but the lad applied a tourniquet and succeeded in stopping the bleeding to a considerable extent. Then he made his way to the Whitfield-Morrison dairy farm where he received first aid. Afterward a doctor put three stitches into the cut.

Traffic Officers Warn Drivers For Holiday

Traffic Officers Lloyd McClure and Gordon Broughton issue a warning to folk who may be planning to include drinking in their Christmas eve program that they had better not try to combine liquor and gasoline.

If they want to drink they had better not drive is the dictum of the traffic men who state that additional officers will be patrolling the highways and any persons who give evidence that they have been indulging in the cup that cheers and also inebriates will be taken in charge.

This is to be a safe and sane Christmas, the traffic officers declare, and they are determined to do everything in their power to make it so.

They point out that there will be heavy traffic on the roads, the weather conditions may be bad and it will require drivers with all their faculties working with complete efficiency to avoid accidents. There will be no place on the highways for drivers who have handicapped themselves with liquor. On the contrary all such drivers are likely to find themselves spending Christmas under custody.

Harold Elcombe Laid To Rest

A large crowd was present yesterday afternoon at George Street United Church to pay last respects to a popular young man of this city, Harold Vincent Elcombe, 93 Hunter street, who died on Monday in his 22nd year after an emergency operation.

He was a youth who entered into a great many of this city's junior activities and was known to nearly every young man and woman in Peterborough. Employed by the Quaker Oats Company as a bookkeeper after graduation from Central School and Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School he soon made a host of friends there, and was this year elected president of the company Junior Tennis Club. He was also a member of the Peterborough Ski Club.

In his sermon Rev. M. C. Parr recalled that the young man was an enthusiastic member both of the Y.M.C.A. and of George Street United Church. He was an usher in the church and a member of the Friday Night Supper Club, whose members attended the service in a body. It was membership in such organizations that keynoted the character of the young man, Mr. Parr declared. He saw him as a youth whose very spirit inclined him toward the healthy, wholesome associations that men have built up. G. H. Roper, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A., read the scripture lesson. Pall-bearers were Harold Rogers, A. Thompson, N. Allen, H. Bass, Jack Couper and Gordon Gonsolus. Interment was at Little Lake Cemetery.

Harold Elcombe is survived by his mother with whom he made his home; one brother, Douglas Elcombe; and two sisters, Jean and Norma Elcombe, all at home.

Omemee Man Is Held Up, Robbed Of $8.00

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec. 21 — (CP). —Three men were arrested at midnight in Lindsay following the armed holdup of Daniel Berry, Omemee, on No. 7 Highway eight miles east of Lindsay. The trio was arrested by Constable John Nesbitt.

Berry told police two of the trio, later identified by him as York and Gould, jumped out of a truck and held him up at the point of a gun, stealing $8.

Lindsay police later found an abandoned truck on a side street, and after watching it until midnight, arrested the three. A revolver, a rudely made blackjack, and a black mask were found on the street near the truck, Chief of Police Ralph Lawyer said. The three men are being detained here although no charges have been laid as yet.

Action Against Havelock Is Dismissed

An action for $5,000 damages brouht by Mrs. Mae Hill against the village of Havelock, was dismissed by Mr. Justice Roche this morning after a hearing that lasted nearly two full days at the non-jury session of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

The action was brought as the result of a fall Mrs. Hill suffered on a slippery street in Havelock last February 23, responsibility for which she claimed lay with the municipality. To have won her case she would have had to prove that the village had been guilty of an act of gross negligence in failing to take steps to eliminate ice hazards.

T. M. Phelan, K.C., of Toronto, acted for the municipality and W. J. A. Fair for the plaintiff.

In Case Of Appeal.

Mr. Justice Roche assessed damages at $1,500 for Mrs. Hill and $305 for her husband in case of appeal. If the case were appealed successfully that is the amount the Hills would receive unless they also appealed the assessment.

Costs of the action were conceded against Mrs. Hill "if asked." Mr. Phelan said he would ask that the municipality assume its own costs if the case were not carried to an appeal court. If it is, Mrs. Hill must pay the costs of the action concluded today.

"I have no hesitation in finding in this case that there was not a breach on the part of the municipality of a type 'wilful, reckless, wanton or flagrant'," declared Mr. Justice Roche.

He said that such would have to be proved to constitute the gross negligence necessary to warrant conviction, and went further to say that in his opinion not even ordinary negligence had been proved.

"That Mrs. Hill fell on the night of February 23 on Oak street, at the brow of the hill opposite the Town Hall, there can be no doubt; that as a result of the fall she received she has suffered an injury, there can be no doubt. The question to be determined by me is whether or not her fall was due to a breach of duty on the part of the defendent corporation to keep the sidewalk reasonably safe for use by reasonable pedestrians, and that that breach amounted to gross negligence.

No Gross Negligence

"In my view there was no gross negligence," Mr. Justice Roche continued. "I think the witness Percy Hill, the son of the plaintiff, was entirely mistaken when he said that on February 23 (the day of the accident) and on the few days immediately preceding that, toward noonday and for some time after noonday, the weather was thawing to such an extent that water was running down the furrow created by the snowplough, and that later it froze so as to make the hillside very slippery.

"Without reference to any particular portion of the evidence, I am definitely of the opinion that for several days prior there had not been such a thawing as he described; in fact that there had not been any thawing.

"That the hill might have been slippery is understandable." There was evidence that a large number of pupils at a nearby school were in the custom of using the street as a slide he said.

He said that one witness, Thomas O'Neill, had told of walking up the hill sometime late in the afternoon and that there had been no sand on the street. The street itself had been so slippery he had had to use a shovel as a walking stick to reach the top of the hill, His Lordship recalled.

He could find nothing in that statement to conflict with the evidence of Night Constable William Laing that he had sanded the street at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. "It may well be that Laing sanded the hill immediately after O'Neill had traversed it. In any case, I accept the evidence of the Constable.

He recalled that snow had fallen during the evening and that evidence had been submitted that the streets generally were becoming very slippery. "It was due, in my opinion, to that slippery condition that Mrs. Hill unfortunately fell."

He said that "there must be time and opportunity for a municipality to remedy the condition of peril" before negligence can be established. "Accepting Laing's evidence, as I do, there was not the opportunity."

(Laing had testified that early in the evening he had attempted to re-sand the hill but that the nature of the snow then falling, which he described as being "sugary," made sanding useless.)

"It has been suggested that the municipality should have picks and shovels to remove the packed down snow. But it would seem to me, having regard to the size of the municipality, and its resources, it would be unreasonable to expect them to send men out with picks and shovels to keep sidewalks bare to the pavement all over the village. That would be imposing a burden too great to bear."

Testimony that most conflicted during the trial was in regard to the fall of snow during the evening of the accident. Percy Hill said that about half an inch of snow fell; Village Clerk H. B. Puffer estimated two inches; Night Constable Laing thought it was between two and three inches. Puffer and Laing remembered the snow as resembling sugar, or sleet. Hill said it had been snowing ordinary snow. Mrs. Effie Williams, an elderly lady of Havelock who was called by the defence because she was in the custom of keeping a daily diary in which she often recorded weather, turned back the pages of that diary to a notation "cold and snowing" on that day. On an earlier day that week she had described the weather as "blustery and sleeting."

Witnesses for the plaintiff were Mrs. Mae Hill, the plaintiff, Russell Hill, her husband, Percy Hill, her son, Lloyd Dafoe, Thomas O'Neill, Charles Abbott, Dr. Joseph Holdcroft all of Havelock, and Dr. R. K. Magee of Peterborough.

The defence called Dr. H. M. Yelland of Peterborough, A. O. Phillips, of Peterborough, weather recorder, H. B. Puffer, William Laing and Mrs. Effie Williams, all of Havelock.

Immediately after the case had concluded another claim against the Village of Havelock that also arose from a fall on icy streets, was commenced under direction of the same legal talent.

Australian Redhead, Duke's Dance Partner Honeymoons With Ex-Head Of All Russians

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—(AP).—A red-haired Australian woman who once danced with the Duke of Windsor is sharing life's fortunes to-day with Alexander F. Kerensky, former ruler of all the Russians.

Unheralded, they arrived here last August, he from Paris and she from Sydney, Australia, where her father is an industrialist. In a secret wedding Lidia Therese Tritton became Mme. Kerensky—adding to her signature a name that has become a world-wide synonym of "stop-gap" governments everywhere.

For her husband, a sombre, slender man of 58 now, was the youthful Premier of what he describes as the only Russian Republic—it lasted 3½ months in 1917 during the chaotic interlude between the fall of the Czar and the rise of Bolshevism.

Their fondest hope to-day is that the war will end with the downfall of Bolshevism and establishment of a "true democracy" in Russia. They hate with equal intensity Stalin, present Russian dictator, and Trotsky, his arch-enemy among exiles.

"Trotsky was the most merciless of Bolshevists—a man who always hated the Russian peasantry—and his writings show his aim, like Stalin's, is to overthrow all governments and establish a world-wide so-called proletarian dictatorship," said Kerensky.

In their honeymoon apartment on Fifth Avenue, neither Kerensky nor his wife could recall where they were married only four months ago.

"It was a little town in Pennsylvanit—" Kerensky said, then asked his wife in French if she could remember its name. She couldn't, bue friends of the couple later recalled it was Martin's Creek.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press)

Sea and air warfare provide the headlines and the casualties at the moment but signs are not lacking that great land battles will be fought before the second Great War ends.

Constant scouting and raiding activity on the part of German troops on the Western front has no purpose unless a land offensive is in contemplation. German forces concentrated near the borders of Belgium and Holland have been strengthened by the addition of some of the mechanized divisions used in Poland.

The prospects of an early German offensive on land, either against the French army in the Maginot line or through Belgium or Holland may be said to grow or diminish in inverse ratio to the success of the present German mine-laying operations.

Because of Germany's delicate relations with neutral countries upon which she relies for supplies the Nazis cannot afford a period of static warfare. They must be accomplishing something, even if little, to maintain their influence.

So a land offensive on the part of the Germans, possibly with a limited objective, is not unlikely even before the winter ends.

Present Prizes To Scholars St. James' S.S.

St. James Sunday School has been celebrating its many Christmas activities during the past week-end when the various departments presented their best efforts by way of the usual Christmas concert and the attendance during the year awarded with prizes.

Beginning with the tiny tots and advancing up to the adult classes, E. R. Frost, the energetic superintendent of the school, presided as chairman at all the Christmas events and successfully carried out the various well-planned programs.

With Mrs. Ernest Lee, superintendeng, and assisted by Miss Margaret Smart, the following delightful program was planned and presented by members of the department when the children excelled themselves in their ambitious performance as follows:

Chorus, Away In A Manger; song, by the little beginners; A Peep Into the Nursery Class; recitation, Mary Hunter; Dollies Lullaby, Miss Freeman's class; recitation, Joan Frazelle; Christmas A, B, C; recitation, Billy Prest; doll drill, Miss Waterman's girls; dialogue, The New System, Miss Pomeroy's girls; motion song, The Farmer; A Christmas Sherlock Holmes, Mrs. Hunter's boys; pantomine, Mrs. Pomeroy's class; presentation of prizes for attendance, Mrs. Lee.

Those present 51 Sundays: Alastair Kerr, Rodney Kerr, June Ego.

Present 50 Sundays: Jack Monks, Joan Monks, Barbara McCullough.

Under the direction of Mrs. E. R. Frost, the junior scholars added their quota to the program with fine effect. Beginning with choruses by the whole department who sang Christmas Carols: While Shepherds Watched, Silent Night; reading, Glen Hagerman, Mrs. Glover's class; piano solo, Allan Lee, Mr. Hardy's class; dialogue, Mary Morrison and Robin Wright, Miss Welch's class; drill, Star of Gold, Miss Smith's class; vocal solo, Joe McMahon, Mrs. Fife's class; drill, girls from Miss Casey's class; guitar solo, Shirley Garner, Miss Casey's class; motion song, girls Mr. Morrion's class; drill, boys Mrs. Wheeler's class.

For 50 Sundays: Donald Breadman.

Senior And Intermediates

For the intermediate and senior program Rev. Mr. Craik acted as chairman:

Selection by orchestra; Christmas Carols; chairman's remarks; trio, Miss Pringle's class; pantomine, Miss Drysdale's class; piano solo, Elva Sollitt; reading, Betty Clarke; solo, Irene Benson; piano duet, Henry Robinson, Gordon Thexton; reading, Mrs. George Rowe; pageant, Miss Wood's class; Christmas Carols with Descant, by group intermediate girls; harmonica duet, Ashton Fife and Harold Fife; play, "Mrs. Jenkins' Rummage Sale," Mrs. Beavis' class; God Save the King.

On this occasion, diplomas and books were again awarded:

A special musical program was led by the Sunday School orchestra, directed by C. Gallagher and included a solo by Joe McMahon and a Christmas song by six primary girls. The scripture was read by Jack English and Rev. Mr. Craik offered prayer. Many white gifts were contributed and dispensed for Christmas cheer.

Prayer led by Mr. A. E. Prest brought this very successful service to a conclusion.

War On Pests Is Described To Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 21—(ENS)—The Entomological laborities at Belleville under the Federal Department of Agriculture were described in an interesting address by Rotarian Alfred Baird, Belleville, before members of the local club on Monday. Mr. Baird outlined the work being done by the Belleville laboratory in association with similar groups in various European and South American countries, all of whom were interested in improving agriculture and preventing the deterioration of forests by insects.

The Department of Entomology belong to a special division known as science service, which deals particularly with research work. The work of this department began 55 years ago when the first entomologist wa sappointed to work at one of the Dominion experimental farms.

It was not until 1914 that it was placed under a separate division. The department is chiefly concerned with forcing inspection to prevent the importation of insect pests from foreign countries. In Canada there are a wide variety of conditions and as a result laboratories have been installed in each province. Besides the reports from various other counties reports come in from various parts of our own country including forestry stations which maintain close contact with the various large lumber, pulp and paper companies. These interests are closely interested in insect pests and their effects on timber."

The war has effected the department considerably since many of the insects with which it works must be imported from foreign countries in Central Europe, Germany and France. "We are equipped to handle insects from all parts of the world in safety and our laboratory is one of the most modern of its kind," concluded Mr. Baird.

Harold Dunk addressed the club stating he had organized Bantam, Midget and Peewee hockey teams from among Public and Separate School boys again this year. Teams are being entered in the Bantam and Midget sections of the O.H.A. He asked the club's support for their drive to raise funds to buy sticks and other equipment for the teams.

Truck Is Damaged

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 21 (ENS)—As a result of icy roads a part of a load on a truck driven by Leonard Wilson of Young's Point toppled over on a truck owned by W. J. Gill and Cons and driven by Ralph Beavis. Beavis had parked his truck near the home of W. Hill and the second truck in attempting to pass, slipped against a large stone, thus upsetting a part of the load on the Gill truck.

The war has caused a revival of old army songs in South Africa.

ZELLER'S LIMITED—RETAILERS TO THRIFTY CANADIANS

In Erecting Building Over Creek J. T. Braund Maintains He Created Assessible Property

Creation of assessable value in the developing of the creek property on Charlotte Street on which he erected this year a store and office building was implied by John T. Braund in his appeal against the Court of Revision's decision regarding the assessment of the land from the entire property.

The land was assessed this year for 1940 taxation at $10,515 by W. J. Henry, city assessor, and that valuation was reduced to $8,470 by the Court of Revision.

Murton Storey and Walter Nugent, realtors, called as witnesses for the appellant, said they had gone over the property a few days ago, estimating the value of frontage on that part of Charlotte street at $200 a foot.

They then set off against that estimate the cost of building retaining walls along the creek, constructed by Mr. Braund, a small traffic bridge at the rear, affording entry to a turning place for car and truck traffic, and allowing for the hazards of freshets and also of frost possibly getting into the concrete walls, and struck off 60 per cent, reducing the value to $80 a foot.

The frontage of the new Braund building is 52 feet 7 inches. The width of the creek between the concrete walls under the building is now 23 feet 8 inches, City Engineer Parsons stated, a restriction from the 30 feet width of the span of the Charlotte Street bridge whose retaining walls are immediately downstream from those put up by Mr. Braund.

W. B. Gordon represented Mr. Braund and W. F. Huycke, K.C., appeared for the city with City Clerk Armstrong, City Assessor Henry and M. R. Sloan, assistant assessor.

Mr. Nugent agreed with Mr. Huycke's suggestion that apart from the element of cost, the creek did nothing to prevent large numbers of people from passing by the new Braund building. Mr. Nugent estimated that this traffic on the northside of the street was ten times the volume on the south side of the street, and property on the north side might be worth twice as much as those on the south side.

James Richmond explained to Judge Smoke certain additional expenses in the heating and plumbing systems by reason of the fact that a central heating plant could not be installed because the creek occupied the main section of the area below the ground floor level. The heating unit had to be placed in the fifteen-foot wide cellar on the west side of the creek.

The cellar on the east side, under the Stedman store, is 11 feet wide. A. R. Pratten and J. D. Fitzpatrick declared that lack of sufficient cellar storage room would exclude the main store in the new building from their consideration for hardware and grocery businesses.

Mr. Gordon said to Judge Smoke that he was presenting this evidence to show that Mr. Braund could not expect to attract any retail concern that came along. The kind of business that might go there would have to be made to order for the premises because they lacked the cellar capacity which both Mr. Fitzpatrick and Mr. Pratten said were essential to them.

Hearing was adjourned until Friday morning.

Bonarlaw Lad Loses Finger In Pulper

BONARLAW, Dec. 21—(ENS).—Master Delbert McComb, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen McComb, Bonarlaw, suffered a painful accident on Monday evening while helping with the barn chores. He and the hired man were cutting turnips with the pulper and Delbert was putting the turnips in the machine. As some of the roots were not going through he attempted to loosen a turnip and his hand was caught in the knives below. One finger was severed at the first joint and the other three were badly lacerated. He was taken to Stirling to Dr. Domorest's office for treatment.

One To The Wife

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 21—(AP)—E. R. Michel has marked up a credit point for his wife's "back seat driving." Michael told a judge Wednesday he failed to heed his wife's warning that he was "doing a foolish thing" when he speeded up to pass another car. Traffic officers arrested the Des Moines man for speeding and the judge fined him $15.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM JAMES KILLINGBECK

Death came yesterday to Mrs. William James Killingbeck at her home at 36 Stewart Street after a week's illness. She was in her 79th year.

Born in Hope Township, she was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Ward, and had lived in this city for the past 36 years, coming here from Cavan Township. She was a member of Park Street Baptist Church.

Surviving are her husband, William James Killingbeck, and two sons, Walter and Norman, both of Peterborough, and a sister, Mrs. Charlotte Killingbeck of Toronto.

The funeral will be on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte Street, Rev. C. C. Boyter of Park Street Baptist Church officiating. Interment will be at Zion Church Cemetery.

Y.P.U. Induction Held At Fairmount Church

FAIRMOUNT, Dec. 21—(ENS).—At the close of the church service Rev. Mr. Everson held an induction service for the officers of the Y.P.U. Miss Edna Morrison, former secretary invited the following to take places around the altar: F. R. McIndoo, Roger Hanbidge, Norman Earle, H. McArthur, Roy Ballantyne, C. S. Morgan, K. Baisdon, Helen Earle, Jean Hanbidge, Mrs. C. N. Seymour. Allen Downes, Stanford Brown and Mildred Ballantyne. After receiving the blessing, all were congratulated by the elders, and the hearty support and co-operation of the congregation was promised the organization.

Miss J. Hanbidge returned home from Peterborough on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. McIndoo visited Mr. and Mrs. F. Ballantyne on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hooton and Miss Mary Hooton motored to Toronto this past week.

Several attended the shower held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Dainard on Tuesday evening for Mr. and Mrs. A. Dainard, who were married recently.

Mrs. R. Hooton called on Mrs. B. Johnston, who recently returned from the hospital much improved in health.

Jewish Job Hunters Tripled In Berlin

BERLIN, Dec. 21—(AP). — The number of jews hunting jobs in Berlin through official employment offices has tripled since the war started.

About 20,000 of the city's 95,000 jews were officially said ot be employed as manual laborors in the building trades, trucking, forestry, gardening and clothing work.

Jews are receiving food cards the same as non-jews except for extra Christmas rations.

The official German news agency said Jews were denied clothing ration cards because "92 per cent of the Jews were formerly in business and their standard of living indicates they possess sufficient clothing."

Legion After $500,000 For Troop Welfare

OTTAWA, Dec. 21—(CP).—A national appeal for $500,000 to be used exclusively for welfare work on behalf of the Canadian troops will be made in February, Alex. Walker, of Calgary, acting Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, announced here Tuesday.

The appeal is being made by the legion's subsidiary wartime undertaking, the Canadian Legion War Service, and is being supported by the 1,400 branches of the parent organization.

The money is required, Mr. Walker said, to enable the legion to extend its activities among the naval, land and air forces of the Dominion now on active service at home and abroad.

OUTSTANDING NEWS STORIES OF 1939 TOLD IN PICTURES

THEIR MAJESTIES ARRIVE AT QUEBEC—The first reigning British sovereigns to set foot upon Canadian soil, King George and Queen Elizabeth, are shown accompanied by Prime Minister Mackenzie King as they debarked from the liner Empress of Australia at Wolfe's Cove, Quebec City, on May 17.

POPE PIUS XII.—Is pictured as he blessed the cardinals and other high prelates of the Roman Catholic Church, who witnessed his elevation to the papacy on March 12 to succeed Pope Pius XI., who died on February 10.

THE RUSSO-GERMAN PACT—Signed by Premier Molotoff, seated, and German Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop, LEFT, in the presence of Soviet Dictator Josef Stalin, RIGHT, united two hereditary foes and drastically changed the aspect of European politics. The signing of the pact surprised the world and rudely shook the Rome - Berlin - Tokio anti-comintern pact.

THE EUROPEAN WAR—Was heralded by an aerial bombing attack on Poland by the German air force on September 1. In three weeks Poland's resistance was shattered and her territory split between Germany and Russia. Dead Polish civilians, like the ones pictured here, were typical of the havoc wreaked by the Nazi Blitzkrieg.

THE U.S. ARMS EMBARGO—Was lifted as President Roosevelt signed a bill permitting the U.S. to sell arms to all belligerents, provided the warring nations transported goods bought from the U.S. in their own vessels and paid for the goods in cash.

BRITISH TOMMIES POUR INTO FRANCE—To lend assistance to their French Allies after Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons that "a state of war exists between this country and Germany." A few hours previous to the Prime Minister's announcement, the government of France declared war on Germany following the Nazi invasion of Poland. British Tommies are seen here marching through a French village on their way to the front.

THE MUNICH PACT WAS BROKEN—When Chancellor Hitler ordered his legions into Bohemia and Moravia to complete the occupation of Czecho-Slovakia. By this action the Munich pact, signed by Germany, England, France and Italy, was made null and void. German soldiers are seen here as they entered Prague, ancient capital of the conquered country.

END OF WAR IN SPAIN—The end of thirty-two months of internecine strife in Spain was marked by the bloodless fall of Madrid, to the Nationalist troops of General Franco. Though the end was bloodless, thousands of men, women and children had perished before peace came.

A DIPLOMATIC VICTORY—Was won by Great Britain when Britain and Turkey signed a mutual assistance pact, despite pressure put upon Turkey by Germany to throw her lot in with the Nazis. The Anglo-Turkish pact gives England a measure of control of the important Dardanelles Straits.

FINNISH TROOPS STIFFLY RESIST RUSSIAN INVASION—Following the partition of Poland by Germany and Russia, Soviet government embarked on an expansion program which gave control of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia to Moscow under threats of military action. Finland refused to capitulate to Moscow's steamroller diplomacy and the Red government launched its armed might against the peaceful Finns, claiming that tiny Finland threatened the security of Russia.

EARTHQUAKE CLAIMS 30,000 LIVES—Terror and destruction struck at Southern Chile last January as earthquakes laid waste a large area of the South American republic, wiping out cities and killing thousands. Pestilence and famine followed hard on the heels of the devastating earthquake, adding to misery of the populace. A view of some of the ruins at Concepcion is shown ABOVE. Concepcion was one of the cities hardest hit by the 'quake.

Candle-Light Exercise Is Theme Of Yuletide Meeting

A beautiful candle-light exercise, "The Torch of Fire," was conducted by Mrs. A. H. Alton, leader of Group A, at the Christmas meeting of Mark Street Women's Missionary Society. Members of the Group who assisted were Mrs. Tinker, Mrs. J. Hunter, Mrs. A .R. Scriver, Mrs. W. Pomeroy, Mrs. J. E. Moore, and Mrs. Musgrove. Mrs. Hepburn sang delightfully "The Light of Life," with Mrs. E. W. Rowland at the piano.

The meeting was held on Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance of members, Mrs. E. W. Rowland, the president, in the chair. A satisfactory treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Scriver, and splendid reports were presented by Mrs. H. Alton, Baby Band secretary; Mrs. J. Hunter, Associate Helpers' secretary, and Miss Elva and Miss Irene Throop, Mission Band leaders.

Mrs. J. Hunter presented the report of the nominating committee, which was adopted as read. Officers for the new year are as follows: President, Mrs. E. W. Rowland; 1st vice-president, Mrs. H. Worship Period Is Feature Of Meeting

Mrs. William Archibald had charge of an interesting worship service at the December meeting of Knox United Church Woman's Association. The meeting opened with the W.A. theme song, and the singing of a Christmas hymn. Following the Scripture lesson, the story of the Nativity from Luke, Mrs. Archibald gave a fine paper on "Impressions of the Land where Christ was Born," a descriptive story illustrating how far-reaching the small things of life may be. A prayer of hope and trust for the coming year, and the end of hatred between men and nations, was offered by Mrs. R. Laing.

The nominating committee, under the convenership of Mrs. Foster, brought in the following slate of officers, which was unanimously accepted. Honorary president, Mrs. John Penrose, Mrs. V. E. R. Zufelt; president, Mrs. John Allen; 1st vice-president, Mrs. W. Archibald; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. R. Laing; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. C. Weldon; 4th vice-president, Mrs. D. Campbell; secretary, Mrs. J. Lancashire; treasurer, Mrs. J. Londerville, flower secretary, Mrs. R. Hanscom; card secretary, Mrs. D. Lindsay; social convener, Mrs. George Davis; pianist, Mrs. H. Lewis, Mrs. G. A. Spicer.

The business continued with encouraging reports from the various committees, the visiting committee being especially active.

The season's greetings were extended to the members by the president, and the meeting closed with a Christmas hymn and prayer.

Kawartha Club Setting For C.G.E. Girls' Banquet

The Kawartha Club, its walls bright with holiday lights against branches of evergreen, was the setting on Wednesday evening for the annual banquet of the C.G.E. Girls' Softball team. Following a toast to the team by Mr. C. A. Salmonsen, to which Miss Marlyn McCarthy, captain, responded, a presentation of windbreakers from the company was made to the members by Mr. I. F. McRae. On behalf of of the team, Miss Helen Mongraw made the presentation to Mr. Michael O'Brien team manager and coach.

Games and dancing were enjoyed by the girls and their friends later in the evening. Present were Mrs. H. A. Cranfield, Miss Gladys Mortimer, Miss Helen Delahaye, Miss Dorothy Sisco, and the following team members: The Misses Marlyn McCarthy, captain, Beatrice McDowell, Marjorie Batley, Genevieve Mann, Elsie Foster, Selena Martin, Phyllis Bigelow, Annette De Carlo, Helen Mongraw, Mildred Snowden, Emma Graham, Ruth Thompson (Miss Ruby and Miss Wilma Hoskins and Miss Audrey Clark were unable to attend). Normalites Present Program Typical Of Christmas Season

A program typical of the Christmas season was presented by the students of the Normal School on Wednesday afternoon, under the direction of Miss M. R. Rannie. After the students had taken their places in the Assembly Hall, the girls of Form II. entered, their voices rising softly in "Adeste Fideles."

A three-part song, "As with Gladness Men of Old," was given by Form III. The boys' representative, Mr. Moher, gave a very delightful reading of "The Little Grey Lamb." A chorus, "Infant Jesus," by the girls of Form I. followed. Ten girls of Form II. presented a Christmas Folk Dance. With illustrations of colored slides, Mr. Leo Copp read the Christmas story, which was interspersed with appropriate Christmas carols.

Dr. J .A. Bannister briefly addressed the students and offered the season's greetings, to which Mr. Rist, the president, replied. The school sang as the closing number, "It came upon the Midnight Clear."

WHITE IN THE DARK

By ALICE ALDEN

LOOK OVER any gathering these gala nights and you'll see more white than dark furs. Fluffy fox, sleek broadtail and babyish ermine are favorites of all ages from debutante to matron. Broadtail is used in long and short lengths, a graceful hip-length jacket being pictured. This model is yoked in back, then box-pleated, and has a little round collar. The wonderful thing about a white evening wrap is that it may be worn over anything you own, black, white or vivid gowns sharing its splendor.

Holiday Season At Normal School Commences Today

The Normal School is closing this (Thursday) afternoon for the Christmas vacation. During the first week of January the students are assigned to rural schools near their homes, where they will see for themselves ungraded school conditions. Under the supervision of carefully selected teachers, they will observe the procedure, and be given an opportunity to try their own hand at teaching. This plan, which was given a trial by the Peterborough Normal School a few years ago, has now been made a regular part of the teacher-training.

During the first term of the New Year, each student will spend two weeks in a graded school, and after Easter, a second week in a rural school. On each occasion, members of the staff will visit as many of the classrooms as possible to assist with the supervision and grading of the students' work.

St. Andrew's Choir Honors Leaders

A very pleasing event at the practice of St. Andrew's Choir held on Wednesday evening was the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Harle of a beautiful picture. E. H. Humpage, the president, made the address. He spoke of the excellent harmony and fine feeling of fellowship that had been so strongly in evidence during the year. Miss Dorothy Ridyard presented the picture on behalf of of the choir.

Mrs. Williamson, the soloist, was presented with a large box of chocolates in token of the choir's appreciation of her kindly efforts and interest in the members.

Mr. Harle, in accepting the gift, spoke of the great pleasure he had in training such a loyal company of singers. He anticipated that another play similar to "Chonita" would be given during the coming year.

A social time was then had as a fitting end of the last choir practice for 1939.

Home and School Association News

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL

An enthusiastic audience of parents and children filled the Kindergarten Room of the Prince of Wales School on Wednesday evening for the annual Yuletide entertainment. Mr. G. S. Mattice, school principal, was chairman for the occasion. Mrs. F. J. Frape, president of the Home and School Association, voiced her thanks to those who had helped in making the program a success.

A cup, won by the Prince of Wales girls in a recent swimming competition with other city schools, held by the Y.W.C.A., was presented to Mr. Mattice by Beulah Milburn.

The program was presented by school pupils under the direction of the teachers, and showed splendid training in a wide variety of numbers. It was as follows: Chorus, song and recitation, Miss L. Wilson's Class; two songs and a verse, Miss I. Connelly's class; a dance, Shirley Garner and Kenneth Simmons, Mrs. H. Webber's class; group recitation, eight children, by Miss A. Milburn's class; piano solo, Dick Burrows, from Mrs. H. Webber's class; recitation, Edward Duncan; dance, Anne Allison; recitation, Fred LaRoche, Mrs. Scott's class; class recitation Matthew 2, verses 1 to 12, by Miss Huffman's class; dance, Shirley Garner, Kenneth Simmons, Mrs. Webber's class; group recitation, "Christmas Candles"; recitation, Dorothy Penhall, Miss D. Burgess' class; vocal solo, Stanley Alexander, Miss A. Eagleson's class.

Play, "At the Sign of the Red and Green Stamp," Miss Tomlinson's class; songs, recitation and boy imitator, Miss M. Baird's class; group recitation, Miss M. Brook's class; folk dance, senior girls of Miss Green's and Miss Richardson's class; duet, Joan and Douglas Plunket, Miss G. Coulter's class; two choruses, "The Heavenly Choir" and "Lo, what Starry Banners," Miss Richardson's class; instrumental duet, Albert Bradley and Reg. Jones, Mr. Noftall's class; dialogue, "Merry Christmas," Miss M. Green's class; school orchestra, Christmas carols, minuet by senior girls, Miss M. Green's class; a play "Scrooge's Christmas," Mr. P. D. Windrim's class; Christmas carols, grades 7 and 8.

TREASURE IN TRUNKS

Discovery by the Paris police of 12 trunks containing Spanish treasure estimated to be worth several thousand dollars led to the arrest of two men and a woman.

We Noticed

....That some timely, precautionary "don'ts" intended to help reduce the loss of life and property by fire during the Christmas season, issued by the Canadian Underwriters' Association, might well be heeded by every householder.

....They warn against striking matches near the Christmas tree, nor with your thumb nail; they tell you not to place the tree near an open grate or hot electric light bulbs, and not to smoke near it.

....Other don'ts concerned use of substandard strings of tree lights or substandard electrical toys, use of gasoline, kerosene or alcohol-powdered playthings without an adult's supervision, or of movie projectors with anything but safety films.

....The association warned family members against playing the part of amateur electrician and also against leaving discarded tissue paper near the Christmas tree or even in a basement corner. Persons planning to celebrate in public halls were advised to start their celebrating only after finding out just where the hall's exits are situated.

During a recent blackout in Glasgow, Scotland, swatstikas from one to three feet long and anti-Jewish slogans were scratched on scores of store windows.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Last Minute Touches Make Christmas Dinner Biggest Event Of The Year

You can roast and baste a turkey to perfection, you can make the fluffiest mashed potatoes you ever tasted, you can bake a tender flaky pie, but can you make giblet gravy? Do you know your turkey stuffing is going to be just right, not packed nor crumby? Will the almond paste on your Christmas cake cut or does it chip off at embarrassing moments? And what about the sauce on the plum pudding?

Turkey Stuffing

One average size baker's loaf of white bread fresh, 1 tablespoon poultry seasoning, plus 1 teaspoon freshly rubbed sage, 2 teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon white pepper, 1 cup very finely chopped celery, ½ cup melted butter, the lightly beaten yolk and white of 1 egg—chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon grated onion, a few chopped blanched almonds are optional, but do add greatly to the flavor. Mix in order given—do not moisten the crumbs—they are fastest removed from loaf with fork. Do not pack tightly into turkey, but sew in tightly.

Giblet Gravy

Pour off 6 tablespoons fat from pan in which turkey was roasted, sprinkle into the fat ½ cup flour, and stir until well blended, then add salt and pepper if needed—this should probably be withheld until liquids are added, then gravy can be tasted. Add 4 cups liquid—that in which giblets were cooked, and water from vegetables plus a little of the pan gravy skimmed free of fat. Stir until it thickens, then add chopped (not ground) giblets and stir well. Now taste, and add salt and pepper if needed.

Almond Paste

One pound blanched almonds, 1 teaspoon orange flavor water, 2 pounds icing sugar, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon almond essence. Put almonds through grinder, using finest cutter. They are hard to grind, but adding a few drops of the required oils facilitates the grinding. Mix sugar well with the ground almonds, then add beaten eggs and both essences. Sprinkle board with icing sugar and knead the almond paste with hands for about 10 minutes in all, just as in making bread. Roll out to exact size of cakes. Brush tops of cakes lighty with white of egg to make paste stick, and press almond paste down firmly on top of cake. Allow to harden overnight before putting on white icing.

White Icing (For Christmas or Wedding Cakes)

Two unbeaten egg whites, lemon juice, icing sugar, 1 tablespoon corn syrup. Place unbeaten egg whites in bowl, beat in 1 cup icing sugar, add juice of ½ lemon, then beat in sufficient icing sugar to make the icing consistency of whipped cream. Add corn syrup (this keeps frosting moist) and enough icing sugar to make it of spreading consistency. Spread very evenly over almond paste about ¼-inch thick.

There are two schools of thought regarding pudding sauces just as they are far graver matters in life—I am told a clear highly flavored sauce is the only kind an epicure would touch. On the other hand one strong minded clique says the rich creamy sauce that grandmother used to make is the only kind worthy of the rich plum pudding under it. You fight it out—I give you both types.

Grandmother's Plum Pudding Sauce

One cup white sugar, ½ cup butter, 2 eggs well beaten, 1 cup boiling water. Cream butter, add sugar and beat in well, then add beaten eggs and beat in well. Add water slowly and keep hot in double boiler. Make this as late as possible before serving. (Hint: a little rum or brandy and freshly grated nutmeg may be added by those in the know.)

Epicure's Pudding Sauce

Base: One-half cup sugar, 1 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 2 tablespoons butter, few grains salt. Mix sugar and cornstarch, add water gradually, stirring constantly; boil 5 minutes, remove from heat, add butter. Variations: As soon as sauce has been made as above either of the following additions may be made: 1½ tablespoons rum or 2 tablespoons brandy or 1 tablespoon vanilla; or ¼ teaspoon mixed spices—nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon.

"Piquante Dressing" for almost any type of green salad has been on my mind for a few days—I mentioned serving avocada salad in one of our Christmas dinner menus—and think this dressing would go nicely on it too. It is perfect for head lettuce in wedges, slices of leaves or for a tossed green salad of watercress, parsley, Chinese lettuce and pimientoes.

Piquante Salad Dressing

Rub one hard-cooked egg yolk through a sieve and add one-third teaspoon French mustard, 1 teaspoon of anchovy or H.P. sauce, 1 teaspoon chopped capers, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley and ½ teaspoon chopped chives or grated onion. Whip this into any good French Dressing. I like the one made with ¼ teaspoon each salt, paprika and sugar, 1 tablespoo fancy quality vinegar, and 4 tablespons pure olive oil. Chill all well.

✧ ✧ ✧

That rings down the curtain on our Christmas foods—but watch next week for some New Year's entertaining ideas.

Happy Holidays all!

DOROTHY DIX

First Year Of Married Life Is Hardest, For It Is The Period When Newlyweds Have To Adjust Themselves To The "Peculiarities" Of Each Other — Patience Is Needed.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My problem has to do with the old saying "the first year of married life is the hardest." Why is it that the feeling between husband and wife goes through some sort of change during that time that makes it different from the love they felt for each other before they were married? My mother tells me that I will love my husband, but in a different way from the way I love my sweetheart now. Does every couple go through this change?—A BRIDE-TO-BE.

ANSWER:

The old proverb about the first year of married life being the hardest does not concern itself with emotional experiences, but with the hard, cold fact that every bride and bridegroom have to adjust themselves to each other, and it is one of the most painful and difficult undertakings in life.

They find, to their utter surprise and consternation, that although they may have grown up together and thought they knew every secret thought of each other's hearts and minds that they are as absolute strangers, as if they had never met before. Each has habits and tastes, little peculiarities, kinks of character and disposition that the other never dreamed that he or she had concealed about his or her person. And it is learning how to avoid these, how to make adjustments, how to be unselfish, how to be just, how to make sacrifices gracefully that makes the first year the hardest. There probably never was a marriage in which the husband did not wonder what made him to do it during that time, nor in which the bride did not salt it down with her tears.

It is true that love does change after marriage and that husbands and wives do not entertain the romantic passion for each other after marriage that they did during the days of courtship. But this is not because they care less for each other, but differently.

It is, for one thing, because we are so constituted that we cannot live on emotional heights too long. We have to come down to normal. Nor can romance stand the wear and tear of everyday living. It vanishes before realities like mist before the sun. No man can go on seeing a girl as an angel when he beholds her every day frying steak and onions, wearing a bungalow apron instead of trailing pink chiffons and with her temper on edge because he is late for dinner. Nor can any woman behold a man as a Fairy Prince when she sees him shaving in the morning, and swearing a blue streak because she has left the top off the tooth paste tube, and hears him snore behind his paper of an evening because he is dead tired and beaten out.

But if a man and woman are of the right stuff, when this romantic love goes something a million times better comes in its place, and that is a friendship and a comradeship that lasts to the end of their lives. The man sees his wife's little faults, but they are so far overshadowed by her great virtues that they do not matter to him. Her youth goes. Her beauty goes. She may not have the time or money to keep herself dolled up. But in her old, bedraggled dress, with her hair awry, with her face lined with weariness and anxiety some morning after she has bent all night over his sickbed ministering to him, she looks more beautiful than she ever did when he was courting her.

The woman perceives her husband as he is, just an ordinary, commonplace man without anything picturesque or romantic about him. He has his weaknesses, but she loves them just because they are his, and when she thinks of how good he has been to her and how kind and how he has stood between her and the world, she wouldn't trade him off for all of the Robert Taylors and Clark Gables in the world.

And that is the change, my dear, that comes over love during the first year of marriage. It is when love settles down from the froth of romance to the reality of friendship that it is worth having.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you think anything will ever teach girls the folly of having affairs with married men? I am much troubled about a young girl, the daughter of very fine parents who sacrificed much to give her an education, who has recently secured her first position and has already started on the downward road with her employer. We live in a small town and she is now driving the boss' car, staying after hours to write letters for him behind locked doors, going away on week-ends with him, and everybody is talking about her. The man has a lovely young wife whom he has no intention of leaving, because she is not only far more attractive than the girl, but it would ruin him in this community if he did. And we are all wondering why the girl has not sense enough to see this and to

STYLISH TRADITION

By ALICE ALDEN

WINTER'S BRIDE may take her vows in wool, cut as beautifully as silk, but ten to one she'll have at least one negligee of satin in her trousseau. It's traditional and its flattering, and not as much of a luxury as in mother's day. The model shown, for instance, is about what any girl would consider paying for the most important robe in her life. It comes in pink and blue, with a back panel and deep wrap in front. Hand-run Alencon lace is generously used as accent for the sheen of the satin. Obviously such a negligee is easily matched in nightgowns and satin slippers.

Do You Know?

Very thin slices of cork glued along the edge of a door will not stop it from closing, but will deaden noise if it is slammed.

✧ ✧ ✧

When using your sewing machine for very fine materials such as ninon, net, chiffon or georgette, try placing a trip of paper under your seams. You will find the material will neither pucker nor stretch, and the paper will easily tear away afterwards.

✧ ✧ ✧

Use the corks from your bottles for cleaning purposes. A cord dipped in a little damp salt will remove burn marks on plates; stains on aluminum and enamelled saucepans can be removed by means of a cord dipped in salt. Often unsightly marks on polished wood or on wall paper will yield to treatment with a dry cork.

Branch Notes

ST. MARY'S, MANVERS.

The Christmas meeting of St. Mary's A.Y.P.A. was held at Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hannah's home on Monday evening.

The meeting was opened by the president, Bob Reid. The roll call was by a verse of 9th Psalm. Initiation of a candidate, Gordon Jarvis, for membership was conducted by the Rev. A. R. Holden. Harold Page and Jean Smith were in charge of the program, consisting of contests. The prize winners were Robert and Isabel Sisson. Muriel Hannah conducted a quiz competition, with Gordon and Isobel Sisson obtaining the highest number of points.

After singing carols a sumptuous repast was served by the host and hostess, assisted by Muriel and Jack Hannah and Mrs. A. B. Sisson.

Gifts were distributed from the tree. A very special gift, of a rich motor rug, was presented by the members, as a parting souvenir of remembrance to thier rector and chaplain, Rev. A. R. Holden and Mrs. Holden on their removel to their new parish in Uxbridge.

In fitting words Mr. Holden acknowledged the lovely and useful gift.

The first meeting of the New Year will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sisson, when it is expected the new rector, Rev. Mr. Mason, will be present.

A hearty vote of thanks was proposed to Mr. and Mrs. Hannah, Muriel and Jack by Laurence Staples and responded to by Mr. Hannah.

FASHIONS

These cute stuffed toys are easy to make and fun to give to small children at Christmas. The guy calico bean-bag frog delights a little boy or girl. The bouncing kangaroo with its young one tucked in its pouch is unusual and amusing. The happy clown has a rubber ball inside to make him round and funny. A checked gingham lamb or terry cloth ducks are favorites of all tots. Pieces from the scrap bag can be utilized to their best advantage in making these toys to help Santa Claus out this Christmas.

Betty Brown Heads Keene Y.P. Union

KEENE, Dec. 21 (ENS) — The Young People's Union of the United Church, Keene, held a social evening at which they elected new officers for 1940. The meeting opened with a short worship service with Helen Nelson in charge.

It was decided to have a special candle lighting service on Sunday evening, Dec. 24 at 7.30 p.m.

Refreshments were served and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

New Girls' Club

GRABBED IN TIME.

TORONTO, Dec. 21. — (CP). — Plainclothesman Fred Paveling, of the narcotic squad, saved Frances Dalton from plunging two storeys through a window of a downtown house, early to-day. Paveling and Plainclothesman William Bolton had forced their way into the room in a raid for narcotics when the girl leaped from a bed and was flying through the air, with her feet through the window, when Paveling rushed over and hailed her back.

realize that she is throwing herself away upon a cad for a few good times, and blocking her chances of marrying any respectable man. Can't you say something to make such girls realize what fools they are?—A MOTHER.

ANSWER:

In season and out of season, for years and years, I have preached to girls not only the wickedness, but the utter imbecility they showed in having affairs with married men. I have told them over and over again thousands of times that if they had no regard for morality, if they had no need for their own self-respect, then at least they should have enough care of their own future well-being not to throw away their lives on a bargain in which they are bound to be the losers. For the married men take their youth, their freshness, their cleanness, and when they have tired of them or the scandal becomes too open, they pass to fresher prey, leaving them nothing but tarnished reputations and the kind of women that worth-while men do not marry.

But youth does not listen to the warnings of age, nor does it heed the tragedies that have come to other girls who have had affairs with married men. Each one believes that she is going to be the one who can get some married man to divorce his wife, forsake his children, break up his home and marry her. And the poor little sillies do not even know that no woman can build her house of happiness on the wreck of another woman's.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, December 22.

A rather negligible day is presaged from certain planetary aspects that may not be interpreted as fortuitous. There are elements of petty strife, irritabilities, "grouches" and low spirits generally, both in business and in the home circle. However, it would be well to suppress such tendencies in association with employers and superiors, as they might provoke disagreeable situations.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of moderate activity, with but little to lift affairs from the path of routine or dull mediocrity. This might be due to a disposition to be vexatious, irritable, and not very congenial, owing largely to a morbid, depressed and introspective state of mind, or physical ills.

A child born on this day may have a rather contradictory nature, with warm impulses and sympathies and, as well, deep recesses of pessimism or melancholy.

England has a new war propaganda film.

Jolly Christmas To Cheer 600,000 Evacuees

LONDON, Dec. 21 — (CP). — Londoners are determined to give their 600,000 evacuated children a merry Christmas even though many of them will not be with their parents.

The London County Council is giving $20,000 to a fund for organizing Christmas treats for children evacuated from Greater London. Aldermen, councillors and other staid dignitaries are preparing to play Santa Claus and fill the 600,000 stockings while plans are well under way for Christmas parties and concerts to be held in village, town and city halls.

Many children will enjoy a double celebration. British railways, unable to cope with the normal holiday traffic and large numbers of parents rushing to reception areas, provided special facilities for parents to visit their children before Christmas. On the first of these excursions more than 5,000 parents went to different parts of England. For most of them it was the first time they had seen the youngsters since war broke out.

Persons who have opened their homes to the children are determined the evacuees shall have a good time and many mysterious parcels have been smuggled into houses and hidden from prying eyes until the great day. Nor are the children forgetting their hosts. Small heads are being put together and shopping expeditions undertaken which will bring pleasant surprises to many persons on Christmas Day.

LONDON — (CP) — An exchange telegraph dispatch today from Amsterdam said the 1,323-ton Swedish steamship Adolf Bratt was sunk by a mine explosion yesterday off the Netherlands island of Terschelling. Five of the crew were killed and 16 rescued.

BERLIN—(AP).— Germany protested today to the Argentine government against internment of officers and crew of the scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee. A communique by DNB, Nazi News Agency, said Germany told Argentina that shipwrecked crews of belligerent states customarily are released after reaching neutral ports.

LONDON—(CP)—Special Christmas leave was granted today to the crew of the submarine Ursula, conqueror of a German cruiser of the 6,000-ton Koln class. Bearded and happy to return to land, the crew of 27 came into port yesterday. Sailors and dock workers cheered their arrival.

BUENOS AIRES — (AP).— The British embassy confirmed today that the cruiser Exeter, damaged in the battle Dec. 13 with the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, had arrived safely at Port Stanley, British base in the Falkland Islands.

FARSUND, Norway — (AP). — Twenty-four foreign warplanes approached Norway's extreme southwestern coast near Lister Fjord at 12:30 p.m. (6:30 a.m. EST), coming in from the North Sea following a northerly route.

Reaching Norway's territorial limits, however, they wheeled and headed southwest. Later they were seen near Stavanger, travelling north once more.

The planes flew very low. They were painted gray, but their nationality was not discernible.

PARIS—(AP).—The French government published today a white paper consisting of more than 350 diplomatic documents in relation to international events from the Munich agreement of September, 1938, on Czecho-Slovakia, to the start of the war. In form it followed closely a similar publication by the British government.

LONDON —(CP)— Six Swedish sailors who flashed lamp signals to a British airplane from a raft after their ship had gone down in the North Sea were reported today to have been rescued by a destroyer. The warship was guided to the scene by the airplane which was on patrol. The Swedish ship, the 1,366-ton Lister, presumably struck a mine yesterday.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina—(AP)—Foreign office attaches said today that Argentina "naturally would receive and carefully study any protest of the German government" over internment of officers and men of the scuttled pocket battleship, Admiral Graf Spee.

Sea Seizures

LONDON — (CP) — The British contraband control has seized 510,000 tons of merchandise destined for Germany since the beginning of the war, the Ministry of Economic Warfare announced today. In the week ending last Saturday, 26,380 tons were intercepted. Up to last Sunday, the French contraband control had seized 360,000 tons of merchandise, bringing the total for the Allies to 870,000 tons.

LONDON—(CP)—The Press Association said today it had learned the German Westwall is being extended eastward from its southern end along the Rhine as far as Lake Constance. This extension is along the Swiss frontier.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa —(CP-Reuters)—A committee appointed by the South African Broadcasting Corporation to inquire into allegations of pro-Nazi sentiment among members of the corporation's staff announced today it had found that a small section of the Afrikander announcers were animated by an anti-government spirit. The committee recommended that the staff be reorganized.

Cunarder Samaria Damaged In Crash

LONDON, Dec. 21 — (CP). — Damage to the Cunard-White Star liner Samaria and another unidentified vessel in a collision several days ago was disclosed to-day.

The Samaria left a North-west British port on Saturday, westbound with a number of passengers. She returned to port for repairs, and the passengers were expected to sail soon on another ship.

The Samaria's bridge and lifeboats were reported damaged, but further details were not made public. The 19,597-ton ship, 601 feet long, was built in 1921. Liverpool is her home port.

Bethany Society Re-elects Officers

BETHANY, Dec. 21.—(ENS)—The W.M.S. of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. Clarence Rowan on Friday evening. During the worship period several Christmas hymns were sung. The Rev. Clarence Ferguson sang as a solo, O Little Town of Bethlehem, and Mrs. Porteous and Mrs. Waddell read responsively the Christmas story. The treasurer reported an increase of over $10.00 over last year. Mrs. Rowan took the chapter from the Study Book, "The Ministry of Healing in India." The Officers were re-elected. Mrs. Rowan served a dainty lunch at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Jackson, Pres.

GIVEN TEN YEARS.

TORONTO — (CP).— Penitentiary terms totalling 10 years were given by Judge Ian Macdonell to three men convicted by a General Sessions Jury on a joint charge of having housebreaking tools by night.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

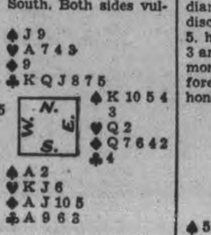
By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

SAYING WHAT TO HOLD

WHILE THE declarer is running his long suit at No Trump, you have to throw something away. You and your partner can gang up on him if you divide the work of protecting the other suits. By signaling what you are going to throw away, you can tell him what to keep.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

A pair of Vanderbilt clubbers, Walter Beinecke in the South and Harold C. Richard in the North, got into 6-No Trumps on this deal. South bid 1-Club, North 1-Diamond, South 1-No Trump, North 3-Clubs, South 3-No Trumps, North 4-No Trumps, South 5-Spades, then North 6-No Trumps, the heart 10 being led to the queen and king.

Six consecutive clubs were run. On the second of these East had to discard and chose the diamond 2, indicating that he was going to throw that suit away in order to protect something else and asking his partner to save protection in diamonds. His next four discards were the spade 3 and three more diamonds.

West did not pay much attention to the insignificant looking diamond 2 and, after his first two discards of the spade 6 and heart 5, he then discarded the diamond 3 and diamond 8, blanking his diamond king. Mr. Beinecke therefore was able to drop the diamond honors and make 7-No Trumps.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problems

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Against North's 3-No Trumps, why should East, after leading the diamond jack to the ace and taking the second club, then prefer a heart lead?

Asked To Turn Old C.N. Line Into Highway

OMEMEE, Dec. 21. — The Emily Council met in the Farmers' Club Rooms, Omemee, on Friday. Members present were D. J. Guiry, Reeve, in the chair, and Councillors Wilbert Fee, Paul J. McGuire, W. J. Patrick, and D. W. Wilson.

The following communications were read and laid on the table for further discussion, and action, if necessary:

From Arthur McQuade, re refund on seed grain account.

From the Department of Highways anouncing a change of policy in the matter of subsidizing machinery purchases.

From the Department of Highways informing Council that owing to present conditions, the annual conference of county engineers and road superintendents would be withdrawn indefinitely.

From the Canadian Automobile Service Association re claim of Dennis Ackerman for a broken car.

From F. L. Wiedon, enclosing list of old-age pensioners and those on Mothers' Allowance for consideration, also pointing out that the pension of a resident of Emily had been increased from $10.00 to $15.00.

of office two years instead of one.

A. Veals and J. O. Bannon addressed the Council on behalf of the residents of Emily, Cavan and Manvers along the line of the abandoned C.N.R. line from Omemee to Bethany, asking that some action might be taken in the matter of having the said line taken over as a public highway.

In support of their request the speakers pointed out the heavy traffic over the road, that it was a feeder to the new highway from Port Perry to Peterborough, and that at some time it would be the shortest road from Omemee to Toronto.

After some discussion, the Reeve pointed out that it was properly a matter for the incoming Council, along with the other municipalities affected, to take some concerted action along the lines suggested.

It was moved by Mr. Wilson and Mr. Patrick: That this Council recommend to the incoming Council that serious consideration be given to the matter of joint action being taken with other interested municipalities with a view to having the road in question assumed as a public road at some future date.

Apsley Junior W.A. Holds Tea, Sale

APSLEY, Dec. 21—(ENS).—The Junior Girls W.A. of the St. George's Anglican Church held a 10-cent tea on Saturda yafternoon in the Parish Hall, also a sale of needlework. Quite a number turned out to enjoy tea, between 2 and 4 p.m. The girls were charming hostesses, waiting on their guests. The next meeting will be their annual Christmas tree and exchange of gifts. The affair netted quite a bit to the funds of the W.A.

A Sunday School supper and Christmas tree was held on Monday at 4 p.m. by the St. George's Guild in the parish hall. The ladies of the guild prepared the supper for the children. Games were played in the Hall and supper was set in the kitchen, to which all did ample justice.

After supper a short program of recitations and songs was enjoyed. Among those taking part were: Irene Tucker, Margaret McColl, Lionel Brown, Reita Wilson, Boyd James, Elsie Tanner, Jean Bullied, and Audrey Windsor.

The gifts on the Christmas tree were then distributed. Jean Bullied presented Mr. E. Robertshaw, president of the Sunday school, with a gift from the pupils. Miss Irene McOmoyle presented a gift to Mrs. John McColl ,teacher of the Sunday school in Burleigh. Both were taken completely by surprise and thanked the children. "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" was sung by al, which brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Among those who spent the day in Peterborough on Saturday from this district were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lean, Miss Edna Lean, Mrs. W. Everett, Mrs. C. McCormick, Mrs. G. Kilborn and son Rodney, Mrs. H. Lean, Mr. C. McColl, Mr and Mrs. C. Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. N. James and family

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Whitmore were at home for a few days. They have spent several weeks in their camp near the Blue Mountains.

NO DUTY CHARGED.

OTTAWA — (CP). — Hon. W. D. Euller, Minister of Trade and Commerce, announced today that gifts and parcels to members of the Canadian fighting forces now in the United Kingdom will be permitted entry here free of duty.

In the interests of accurate reporting, might we say that we don't know for sure whether this is France or Germany. The soldiers are members of a French advance patrol between the French and German lines. At the moment they were photographed they were swapping shots with a German patrol at the other side of the house that once was "home sweet home" to someone.

Millbrook Annual Commencement Year's Highlight

MILLBROOK, Dec. 21—(ENS).—The Town Hall was filled to capacity on Friday evening for the annual commencement of the local Continuation School, parents and friends together with a number of former pupils from a wide area being in attendance for what, as always, proved to be an interesting and cleverly presented program.

Following the National Anthem, a group of songs by the junior pupils, under the leadership of the musical supervisor, Leslie Unitt, with Robena Tate at the piano, drew warm applause from the audience. Representing the School Board, G. F. Harrington presented Audrey Wood, winer of the Mirror-Reporter Shield for high standing in Grade IX., with the coveted trophy, and Eileen Murphy, with the medal which marked her proficiency as head pupil in Grade X.

In the unavoidable absence of Dr. J. W. Wright, chairman of the School Board, Miss F. E. Morgan, B.A., principal of the Continuation School, presented the diplomas to the Middle School graduates, "all of whom are continuing in some form of higher education"; and to each of these pupils Miss Shirley Buckingham, B.A., of the Continuation faculty, presented a half-blown red rosebud as they stepped forward to received the ribbon-tied roll. The graduates in this list were: Barbara Argue, Thomas Belch, Eleanor Bigelow, Rex Carr, Mary Eakins, Dorothy Harker, Ken Kidd, Leatha Rowland, Donald Sutton, Grenfell Trumpour, Joyce Trumpour, and William Ridge, the latter now in uniform, being absent since he is doing military duty at the Trenton Airport.

Best All-round Record.

The Dr. Norman Allen Scholarship, which carries with it a framed certificate and a cheque for fifty dollars, was won this year by Thomas Belch, for having the best all-round record of any boy in the Continuation School, and was presented by Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson, B.A.

The program continued with a group of familiar songs sung in Latin and French by the pupils of Grade X., followed by selections by the school orchestra. The Greek ball exercise given by eight girls—Leitha Edworthy, Mary Armstrong, Viva Clarke, Barbara Argue, Dorothy Sisco, Velma Thornton, Mareita Elgar, and Bernice Richards, was one of the highlights of the evening. Their costumes were attractive, full white skirts, with each girl, alternately, wearing either red or blue silk straps over the white blouse which completed the ensemble.

Play Proves Feature.

Alan Brown's violin solo won prolonged applause, and the junior play, "The Pampered Darling," directed by Miss Morgan, literally "brought down the house" as Victor Gibbons (Donald McKnight), spoiled boy of the home, pretended that he had suddenly become both deaf and dumb in order to prevent his sisters Connie and Janet Gibbons (Leitha Edworthy and Dorothy Sisco) from going without him on a three-days' projected house party in the country.

A threat to remove Victor's tonsils, and the cause of his affliction, by Janet's lover, Dr. Norman Evans (George Sisco), with the connivance of his college pal, Rudy Waring (David Hatherly), who posed as the famous surgeon, Dr. Rudolf von Hapsburg, with the ironing board as operating table, and a grapefruit knife, together with one or two sharp carving knives as the instruments to be used, finally reduced the imposter to cry, "Let me alone," and the holiday for the girls was assured.

Victor's chum Floyd Davis (Tommy Allen), having been given a moving-picture camera, and his call for Victor to came along and help him make some films, helped the "cure," the other characters including: Mrs. Perkins, housekeeper for the Gibbons family in their parents' absence (Mary Dawson); Jessica, Joy, and Annabelle (Barbara Argue, frietnds of the family; and Dudley Jean Fisher and Mary Armstrong), friends of the family; and Dudley Field, "who always did the wrong thing" (Donald Pritchard).

A duet, "Romeo and Juliet," by Mary Handley and Ruth Richards, with appropriate costumes and staging, was another popular number, as was the Coon Dance by Vera Fallis, Betty Moncrief, Nan Fallis, Mary Whittington, Mary Larmer, Wilma Harker, Martha Belch, and Laureen Richards. Blackened features, kinky hair, and gay print dresses, together with the clever dancing and its song accompaniment, featured this selection for which a recall was demanded and given.

Some Fine Acting.

The final number, a play, "The Funk Hole," by the senior pupils and directed by Walter Zeigler, B.A., won a great hand from the audience ,the scene being laid in the living-room of a cottage in Somerset on an afternoon late in September, 1938, during the Munich crisis period.

The participants managed the English accent remarkably well, and the play was quite up to date in its action and implication, Mr. and Mrs. Waterson (Alan Brown and Beatrice Fallis), desirous of having the former escape possible military service, had purchased a cottage in a secluded corner of Somerset only to find, upon arrival, that they were ordered to take seven adult evacuees as part of their household. The part of the housekeeper, Mrs. Marable (Dorothy Harker) was well portrayed, as were indeed all the characters, the evacuees who arrived in quick and unceremonious succession, including Sheila Elliott (Eleanor Bigelow), Rupert Witherby (Donald Sutton), Cedric Apsley and Mrs. Apsley (William Deyell and Mary Smith), and finally the housekeeper's nephew, Norman Marable (Tom Belch), who upset all the plans by announcing that, instead of adults, Arnold and Thisbe Waterson were to have fourteen children from a charity school as their evacuee guests.

That was too much, and Mr. and Mrs. Waterson decided to go back to London "where an air raid could not be worse than this." The program was repeated on Saturday evening before a large and appreciative audience, over $120 being taken in the the door for the two nights. In addition, a considerable sum was realized from the sale of home-made candy between the two plays by junior girls of the school.

Restrictions on the use for coal and oil for heating have caused a demand in Italy for electric radiators.

German Girl's Fate Puzzle To Ottawa

OTTAWA, Dec. 21—(CP). — Just what will be done with Katherine Haldinger, 30-yearold German girl held by immigration authorites in Toronto, remains to be decided, immigration officials said today.

The girl was ordered deported to Germany by a court of inquiry which considered her case in Toronto but officials here said deportation from Canada to Germany was not feasible with the two countries at war.

The girl might possibly be interned for the duration of the war, it was said.

German War Fleet Puts To Sea

Move Believed Threat To Scandinavia For Aid To Finland

PARIS, Dec. 22—(CP-Havas). — It was reported authoritatively here today that the German war fleet has left Hamburg, a part heading for the North Sea and another section for the Baltic.

French sources attributed the movement to the purpose of bringing pressure to bear on the neutral states, bordering Germany, which Nazi newspapers have been urging to form an anti-British bloc.

It was believed here the reported fleet movement was specifically a warning to the Scandinavian countries in connection with the organization of aid for Finland.

Sweden has sent volunteers to Finland, and today Premier Daladier announced in the Chamber of Deputies that France had started its material help of Finland and is prepared to strengthen it.

All material bound for Finland would have to pass through Scandinavia.

Production Reduced

Calgary, Dec. 22 (CP)

ALLOWABLE production of Turner Valley crude producers was reduced from 14,000 barrels daily to 12,000 under an order of the conservation board effective today.

The field is now held down to less than one-quarter of the estimated potential economic production of existing wells."

Freedom Short

Pittsburg, Dec. 22 (AP)

A paralysed robber bent on obtaining his freedom for Christmas escaped from the city home and hospital but it didn't take officers long to catch up with him.

James J. O'Connors, 29-year-old wheel chair patient who was shot in the spine during an attempted holdup, yesterday descended to the basement of the hospital by an elevator and apparently was lifted into an automobile and driven off by accomplices.

Struck By Barge Bridge Falls, 2 Die, 13 Missing

PARIS, Dec. 22—(AP).—Two persons are known to have been killed and at least three seriously injured today when the St. Louis Bridge behind the Cathedral of Notre Dame collapsed after a heavy barge knocked out its central arch.

The bridge connected two islands in the Seine River, the Ile St. Louis and the Ile de la Cite.

Police said a gas main exploded after the barge struck the bridge, plunging the structure with pedestrians and vehicles into the stream.

Police estimated there were at least 20 persons on the bridge at the time of the accident. Seven were taken from the river; five were resuscitated but two were dead. The others, about 13, were unaccounted for.

Captain Badly Hurt.

The steel barge Tunisie, which caused the accident, was carried 500 yards downstream before her crew regained control. The captain was hurt seriously.

Roland Denne Given An Acclamation On The Utilities

Mayor Hamilton begins his third term as the Chief Magistrate of the city and presiding officer of the City Council, and if the Ontario Government passes legislation suspending municipal elections for two years as a war time economy His Worship will thereby continue in office for both 1940 and 1941. He was nominated by Alderman R. M. Glover and Roland Denne.

Roland Denne was given an acclamation for Utilities Commissioner for another term of three years and continues in the trusteeship he has held for the last three years. Mr. Denne was nominted by Alderman Glover and G. Harry Thompson.

Thirteen candidates for five seats on the Board of Education brought out a strong field that may be reduced by withdrawals within the time for official declarations prior to 9 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. Kate Morris, housewife, by G. H. Thompson and Dr. A. Moir.

J. R. Marshall, manufacturer, by G. H. Thompson and Dr. G. R. Scott.

T. J. Carley, K. C, barrister, by E. L. Sackville and Roland Denne.

D. Wesley Clarke, physician, by Alderman G. N. Gordon, K.C., and E. L. Sackville.

Ivan T. Lillico, automobile dealer, by Dr. A. Moir and George H. Hewitt.

G. Harry Thompson, manager of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, by Dr. Moir and Dr. G. R. Scott.

Ralph C. Honey, dentist, by G. N. Gordon and E. L. Sackville.

David G. H. Melton, manufacturer, by W. R. Morris and G. H. Thompson.

G Raymore, Scott, physician, by H. L. Garner and G. Wharry.

C. Alexander Sollitt, manager of the Canada Life Assurance Company by G. W. Craw and R. Denne.

Mrs. Morris and Mr. Sollitt qualified as candidates for the Board of Education this afternoon.

Mayor's Address.

City Clerk Armstrong was in charge of the nominations during the hour from 10 to 11 o'clock, and at its close announced the morning's results, the acclamations to Mayor Hamilton and Mr. Denne of the Utilities Commission, and also the nomination of thirteen candidates for the Board of Education.

Mr. Armstrong also presided during the brief period customarily dis-

Re-elected Mayor By Acclamation

Peterborough retained the long municipal experience of Mayor James Hamilton to preside over the City Council for the first year of the war and the local problems it may create, by re-electing him for the second time by acclamation. Nominated by Alderman Glover and Roland Denne, His Worship begins his third year in the Mayor's chair.

Reds Routed As Arctic Tables Turn

2 Russian Battalions Wiped Out In Fierce Thrusts

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 22 — (AP). —Finnish anti-aircraft batteries today shot down one of seven Russian warplanes which dropped 20 to 30 bombs on the Helsingfors area in the fourth successive day of Russian raids. The raids were made during a snowstorm.

Hardy Arctic fighters to-day pursued retreating Russian forces in Finland's narrow corridor in the Far North. The Russians were reported in a general retreat in the Arctic Petsamo region and the resilient Finns bounded back from the defence lines to which they had withdrawn last week to harry the invaders.

(Norwegian border reports said the Russian retreat approached a "catastrophe.")

On the Eastern and Karelian fronts the Finns asserted their soldiers had withstood heavy Russian attacks without yielding an inch.

Finns In Russia?

Particularly bitter fighting was reported on the icy wilds of the lake country on the eastern frontier, where the Finnish army declared it had annihilated two Russian battalions in the past two days and hinted that the war may have carried over the line on to Russian soil for the first time.

A communique last night said one battalion was destroyed and many arms captured between Lieksa and Repola, the latter is in Russia. Lieksa, 20 miles within Finland, is about 125 miles north of Lake Ladoga. Another battalion was reported "annihilated" further north.

On the south-eastern front, where the Russians are seeking to drive into Finland's most thickly-settled areas along the coast of the Gulf of Finland, the Finns said the invaders failed to gain an inch after an all-day attack that followed heavy artillery "preparation" Wednesday.

That night and the next morning, the Finns took their turn at artil-

State Hospitals

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (AP)

—President Roosevelt said today he was considering a plan whereby the federal government would build small hospitals in states and localities too poor to provide health facilities themselves.

The president, discussing his national health program at a press conference, said the federal government would pay the entire cost of the hospitals on condition that a committee of experts found the communities could maintain them both from a health and a financial standpoint.

Steamer Ablaze In Caribbean, Claim Sabotage

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—(AP). — Officials of the Shephard Steamship Company today announced that their freighter-passenger steamship Wind Rush was ablaze in the Caribbean Sea in circumstances which indicated "sabotage."

Otis Shepard, vice-president of the line, said the ship's master, Harris Jones, reported that a "mysterious" fire was raging in number 3 hold but that he had it under control and would reach Cristobal in the canal zone at seven o'clock EST. tonight

Shepard said the line had been having labor trouble.

"We can't possibly imagine what would start a fire in that hold," he added. "We are suspicious that labor trouble has resulted in sabotage."

He said the hold contained a cargo of wire fencing, furniture, drugs, some cotton goods, but nothing of a combustible nature.

70 Nazis Die In Crash Of 2 Trains

Over 100 Injured; 8th Rail Tragedy Since War

BERLIN, Dec. 22.—(AP).— Two passenger trains crowded with Christmas travellers collided in the station at Gethin to-day, killing 70 persons and injuring 100, German authorities estimated.

The wreck occurred when the Berlin-Neukirchen (Saar) express, travelling at top speed, ploughed into the Berlin-Cologne train, which was making an unscheduled halt, about 1 a.m. (7 p.m., Wednesday, EST).

The locomotive and six cars of one train and four cars of the other were derailed.

The wreck caused the greatest loss of life of any of a series of German rail disasters, of which it was the eighth since the war began. It raised the casualty toll to 193 dead and more than 156 injured.

Six of the previous wrecks also were collisions. The seventh was a derailment caused by a rock slide.

Genthin is about 50 miles southwest of Berlin on the railway to Madgeburg.

War Toll Costs France Lives Of 1,438

PARIS, Dec. 22 — (CP-Havas). — Premier Edouard Daladier told the Chamber of Deputies to-day that up until November 30 the war had cost France the lives of 1,136 soldiers, 260 sailors, and 42 airmen.

The Premier also disclosed that the northern fortifications extending the Maginot Line and those along the Jura Monutains, on the Swiss Frontier, have been completed.

These fortifications, he said, "are not only necessary for the portection of (French) territory, but also for the conduct of the war."

Military appropriations of 55,034,000,000 francs ($1,210,748,000) for the first quarter of 1940 were approved by the Chamber.

The Premier, citing the casualty figures of the three months of war, contrasted them to the situation in December, 1914, when France had already counted 450,000 dead, had lost the battles of the frontiers, won the battle of the Marne and fought with 10 French deparments under German occupation.

On work being carried out on border fortifications, he said: "For several months all our armies have been at work. Wherever they are not fighting they are laying concrete. They are creating second and third lines of fortifications. However the war develops, we are determined to root ourselves in the soil of France.'

Most Of Ontario Snowswept; Three Lose Lives

(By The Canadian Press.)

A snowstorm over most of Ontario today gave assurance of the mantle of white essential to a true Christmas landscape. But in the western section of the province weather conditions were partly responsible for three deaths in traffic accidents.

Harry Diebel of West Montrose was killed near that village in the Kitchener district early this morning when his car left the road on a slippery hill and struck a stump. Thrown from his car Diebel's body was found hanging over a fence.

Arthur Jackson, a Canadian National Railways freight department trucker, was knocked from his bicycle and killed by a hit-and-run motorist as he rode to work about 4:30 a.m. Mrs. Edward Thomas, 47, of Adelaide Township, Middlesex, died in hospital at Strathroy, result of a head-on collision between two automobiles in Lobo Township last night.

Foot Of Snow At Aurora

A foot of snow was reported in Aurora, about 30 miles north of Toronto, this morning. The Dominion observatory said reports indicated the fall was heaviest in Western Ontario, from Lake Huron north to Georgian Bay.

Brockville reported five inches of snow before noon. Stratford had six inches at 10:30 a.m. Kingston reported a fall too slight to measure in the forenoon.

Hunting Work

Buenos Aires, Dec. 22 (AP)

CONCERNED over how to collect from Germany the $25,000 monthly maintenance of the Admiral Graf Spee's interned crew, Argentine officials sought today to help the seamen find employment ashore.

Officials in the ministry of interior said they hoped to complete within a week regulations under which the more than 1,000 men would be placed in "restricted zones" far from the sea.

One officer said these zones would be arranged so that the men could find work in groups of two or three. Even so, the ministry estimated the maintenance cost at about $25,000 a month, for which Germany will be billed.

Baffling Poison Sees 3 Let Go In Girl's Death

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 22 — (CP). —Three persons charged with conspiring to procure an abortion in the mystery death on November 17 of Mary Myrtle Lenhardt, 18, were dismissed in County Police Court today when the charges were withdrawn by Crown Attorney Norman Newton for lack of evidence.

Accused, who had been held in jail more than a month, were: The girl's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Lenhardt, 42; Lawrence Lenhardt, 24, brother of the victim, and her fiancee, Harvey Abel, 18.

"If any wrongdoing took place, it will be on the consciences of these three persons," commented the Crown Attorney.

Fighting World Of Capitalism Says Goebbels

BERLIN, Dec. 22.—(AP).— Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels declared to-day world plutocracies "have risen and are trying to strike down social-minded Germany."

In the first Christmas season utterance of any Nazi leader, the propaganda minister said the "war Christmas" found a "determined German people" fighting "capitalistic world leadership."

"But with us it is a people's war," he said, "the people are defending their lives against an enemy that has always stood opposite the Germans."

"Victory," Goebbels continued, "will be ours. We not only hope for it; we know it."

He said German was "prosecuting a totalitarian war" and that the German people, "since the war, have united in real brotherhood.

"National solidarity was never greater. The German nation meets coming events with closed ranks.

"The enemy is not underestimated. We know what their weapons are. Neither do we overestimate them.

"Peace used to be the Christmas theme, but we shall speak of that only after victory."

Goebbels said "victory will not be a victory of deception" such as 1918.

Laborites Score Police Spies, Intimidation

TORONTO, Dec. 22.—(CP)— Use of police "spies" and "the intimidatory action of police" in the trade union movement was opposed in a resolution of the Toronto District Trades and Labor council last night.

In the preamble to a resolution, the arrest of Charles Millard of the United Automobile Workers, following a speech in Timmins, was referred to, but discussion was not permitted. Police stenographers were at the meeting.

"Section 39 has been invoked only against members of the working class," the resolution declared. "Politicians have been critical of war measures, yet no action was taken by police or provincial authorities."

The resolution recalled that during the Great War the Defence of the Realm Act had been invoked among labor and the result had been delay in the production of coal and munitions, because strikes followed.

A Law-Abiding Body

"Your executive views with alarm the action taken by the Attorney General, inasmuch as the trade union movement is a law-abiding body and has gone on record in its Dominion pronouncements to assist in the prosecution of the war," the resolution read.

"If, however, it is the intention to use section 39 for the purpose of destroying legitimate criticism of the government, or its activities, or to use it in an insidious attempt to destroy the trade union movement or arrest its leaders, or intimidate organized labor or those unorganized who desire to organize, it will fail.

It recalled that William Pitt introduced acts to curb labor organi-

States Ponders Battleships Of 65,000 Tons

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (AP)—A congressional subcommittee is exploring the advisability of giving the United States navy 65,000-ton battleships, bigger and more powerful than any now afloat.

The House of Representatives naval appropriations subcommittee has asked the navy department to prepare estimates on the cost of such ships which would be about 20,000 tons more than the British battleship Hood, largest in existence.

Coincidentally, Representative Melvin Maas, senior minority member of the house naval committee, recommended battleships up to 80,000 tons in size. The Minnesota Republican asserted they would be cheaper in the long run and would make the United States "absolutely invulnerable."

SubSkipper Promoted Ahead Of 800 For Torpedoing U-Boat, 2 Cruisers

LONDON, Dec. 22—(CP Cable).—The Daily Express said today that promotion of Lieut.-Commander E. O. Bickford of the submarine Salmon to the rank of commander for his sinking of a U-boat and torpedoing of two German cruisers in the "most sensational ever made."

Commander Bickford, who also received the D.S.O., goes from the extreme tail of the list of lieutenant-commanders right over the heads of 800 other officers and gets his "brass hat" before his 30th birthday, the newspaper said.

The only parallel cited by the newspaper was that of Earl Beatty who was promoted to be commander for his service with gun boats on the Nile. He went over the heads of only 395 officers, the newspaper said. However, he was then 18 months younger than Bickford.

When Commander Bickford's mother was informed of the honors bestowed on her son, she said:

"It is splendid, it is really marvellous, and promoted to commander too, that is wonderful. I am so proud. He is only 30 and I believe that there normally is no promotion to rank of commander until the age of 33. I must really go and tell him. He has not told me very much about his adventures, but of course I suppose he must not. But I think it is all very wonderful."

Son of Toronto Man

TORONTO, Dec. 22 (CP)—Lieutenant-Commander E. O. Bickford of the submarine Salmon which sank a Uboat and who was promoted yesterday to the rank of commander and awarded the Distinguished Order is the son of a former captain in the 48th Highlanders of Toronto. He has several relatives in Canada and the United States.

Commander Bickford spent part of a leave here several years ago with an aunt, Mrs. T. D. Delamere of Toronto. An uncle, E. B. Bickford, retired barrister, lives in Kingston, Ont., and another, General H. C. Bickford, lives in Buffalo, N.Y.

Gen. McNaughton Visits The King

LONDON, Dec. 22—(CP Cable)—Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, general officer commanding the Canadian active service force, today was received in audience by the King.

After his visit to Buckingham palace, General McNaughton visited General Sir Edmund Ironside, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, in his first call at the war office. He returns to Aldershot to spend Saturday in camp and will visit friends in the country over the Christmas holiday, his first chance to relax since arriving last week-end.

"I am highly satisfied with the way the troops have settled down," General McNaughton said. "Any difficulties and complexities now seem to be straightening out.

Bohemia, Moravia Taboo Land To Foreigner As Germans Fight To Keep Rebellion Down

BERLIN, Dec. 22—(AP)— Not many foreigners are permitted to visit the protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia these days, but there is no law against riding through on either airplane or train.

Foreign travellers, however, are in "quarantine" while the trains are crossing protectorate territory. They are herded into one car, and Nazi railway guards stand at the doors to see that no one slips out at some station along the way.

"Suppose I jumped out of the window," one American traveller remarked to a guard.

"In that case I suppose I would have to shoot you," the guard replied.

United States newspaper correspondents have been able to get passes from the Berlin Gestapo to enter the protectorate. Businessmen who can establish that a visit to Prague is urgent usually are accommodated. On the whole, however, the protectorate is closed to both foreigners and Germans.

There are two reasons for keeping travel into the protectorate to a minimum.

After student disorders in which at least 12 were executed by German authorities, Nazi police are exerting every effort to see that rebellious elements within the region have no contact with conspirators abroad. Old associates of former President Eduard Benes are watched with particular care.

The other reason for restricting travel, applying especially to Germans, is that prices are considerably lower than in the old Reich. Also more products are available. Germans say it is feared that if the borders are opened to any German who might take it into his head to go down to Prague to buy a shirt, the commodity reserves of the protectorate would be exhausted, and prices would rise so sharply a hardship would be inflicted on lower paid Czech workers.

BANCROFT, Dec. 22.—(ENS) — A posse of Provincial police and farmers are combing the woods near Rose Island in the vicinity of Coe Hill, for a 27-year-old farmer, Richard Tinney, who fled from police yesterday afternoon and is believed to be armed with a rifle.

The strange story of a man who is thought to have shot and killed his own 350-dollar team of horses with a rifle, and who may be mentally ill, came late last night.

Yesterday Provincial Constable Palmateer of Bancroft recently that a telephone call from Coe Hill to the effect that Tinney, a bachelor whose farm is in Faraday township, was missing from his home and that his team of horses had been shot to death. On investigation the officers found the team dead from rifle bullets in the stable of Tinney's farm. The rifle used was of large calibre and the cartridges, lying nearby, corresponded in size to those from Tinney's own rifle, which was missing.

Later Discovered.

Tinney was later discovered in bed at the nearby home of James Campbell of Rose Island. When told his horses had been shot, he expressed complete surprise, according to Constable Palmateer. He dressed and prepared to accompany the officer, who was assisted by Provincial Constable Smith of Belleville and County Constable G. P. Wells of Bancroft. Before leaving Campbell's house Tinney is said to have told the officers that he had left the horses in the care of his father, James Tinney, of Rose Island, on December 17.

Tinney asked the officers if he might step outside the door for a moment and a few seconds later, when the policemen went out to look for him, he was gone. Nearby was the mark in the snow of the butt of a rifle and it is presumed he fled with it. They followed his trail in the snow for a considerable way toward a thick swamp.

Said to Have Owed $200.

Tinney is reported by police to have told a neighbour recently that he was indebted to a Coe Hill party to the extent of $200, and to have said that his creditor "would never draw a line over his team of horses" in settlement of the debt. It is thought possible that he is suffering from a mental ailment and that he shot the horses to avoid their seizure in payment of the debt.

A search was carried on by farmers of Rose Island and police throughout the entire area last night.

Tinney's father, questioned by police at his home, denied that his son entrusted the care of his team to him. His son is a bachelor and lived alone on his farm.

A day-long search for Richard Tinney had failed to reveal his whereabouts at 3 o'clock this afternoon. A posse combed the woods all night and again today, but their man had apparently evaded them. The swamp into which he plunged extends for 22 miles as far as Havelock village.

Last Minute News Flashes

LONDON, Ont.—Thomas Brock, London, was arrested by Provincial Constable George Clubbe today and charged with manslaughter in the death earlier in the day of Arthur T. Jackson, Canadian National Railways employee. Brock's car, with windshield and headlight broken, was found abandoned on Trafalgar street. The accused man reported to police about seven a.m. that his car had been stolen.

HELSINGFORS — The Finnish counter-offensive in the far north against retreating Russian forces was reported tonight to have reached the region of the Canadian-owned nickel mines with heavy fighting in progress.

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—(AP)—Officials of the Douglas Aircraft Company said today discussions have been started with the British air ministry on a possible $40,000,000 order for a new type of 400-mile-an-hour light attack bombers. None of the new ships, developed by Douglas, has been built. They are an improved model of the DB-7 bombers which Douglas is making for France.

Peg's Auto Toll At 12, City Pleads For Care

WINNIPEG, Dec. 22.—(CP) —The police traffic department today issued an appeal to motorists to "drive with care" during the holiday season. Winnipeg was well on the road to a North American safety record by this time last year but in the comparative period this Fall four fatal accidents have occurred on city streets.

No lives were lost in automobile mishaps from November 12, 1938 to June 21, 1939, establishing a record unequalled in any North America city of similar size and population. Since June 21, 12 persons have been killed. The last was on December 13.

On the day the record was broken black flags were flown at downtown intersections and the black markers have replaced the usual white ones for 24 hours after every fatality since.

In appealing to Winnipeg motorists, the department issued a short statement:

"Last week black flags once more front the safety flag poles indicating the death of another traffic accident victim."

"Twelve times these black flags, a warning to motorists and pedestrians to be careful, have been raised since that fateful 27th of June when our record-breaking period of 227 deathless days came to an end.

"With the cold weather, slippery streets, blizzards, and other winter hazards approaching, let us all be doubly careful lest we spoil some one's Christmas by having to raise the black flags again this year."

posed to the hearing of addresses by those who were nominated, but only Mayor Hamilton and Mr. Denne accepted. Altogether only eight citizens remained for that incidental to the statutory proceedings.

"When I was elected two years ago I thought that by this time I would be folding my tent and retiring from the service of the city," Mayor Hamilton said. "But, Canada is now at war, and it was suggested that some person with experience in this work should carry on the job, and in these days when any duty of that nature is proposed you can't very well refuse. We do not know what will happen during the next two years, but I can promise this to the ratepayers that I will do all I can to carry on in the office as Mayor and efficiently as I can.

I feel that there are other members of the council who could do as well, but since it is the wish of the ratepayers that I should carry on, I am glad to do so, and I express my thanks for the honor that has been done me and the trust that is placed in me.

I wish to congratulate Mr. Denne upon his re-election as Utilities Commissioner and I am sure he will continue his good service to the city. I am also glad to see so many nominated for the Board of Education. It is a sign that the people are taking an interest in affairs of the municipality. I regret that Alderman Glover is thinking of retiring from the council. He has been a valuable member, and I believe the time is coming when he could do more valuable work for the city than opportunity afforded him in the past. I hope he will reconsider this matter and allow his name to stand for another two years."

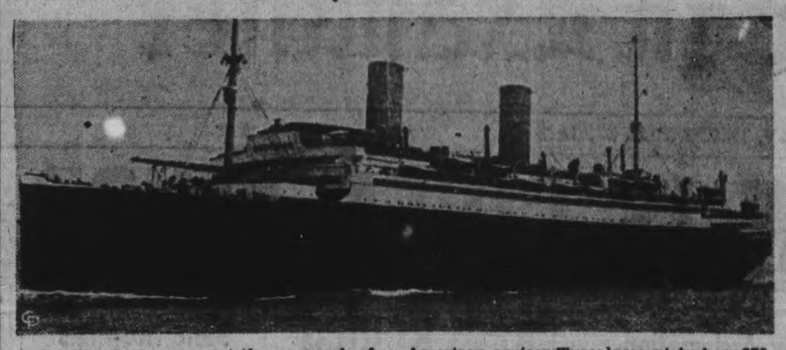
One-Time German Luxury Liner Scuttled On Orders



Scuttled by her crew at the approach of a British destroyer, the one-time German luxury liner Columbus was a blazing derelict, 400 miles north of Bermuda, as the American cruiser Tuscaloosa picked up 579 crew members and officers. The Columbus had sailed from Vera Cruz loaded with oil in an attempt to reach Germany.

5th Set Of Twins

Logan, W.Va., Dec. 22 (AP).

THE FIFTH SET of twins in six years was born today to 24-year-old Mrs. Bud Chafin and her 41-year-old miner-husband.

"I've gotten so I expected it," said the husband, a mine machineman, upon hearing the news of the arrival of the six-pound boy and girl, Don and Lola Mae.

The Cafins were married when Mrs. Chafin was 16. They have 11 children.

No Guns Located On German Steamer Arauca

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Dec. 22 (AP)—Coast guard officials said today a new search had failed to show that the German freighter Arauca was armed when she fled into harbor here to escape capture by the British cruiser Orion.

Lieut. J. W. Malen, United States coast guard executive officer, said there were no signs of gun placements, and added he was inclined to discount reports that the freighter dumped large objects, possibly arms and ammunition, overboard before entering port.

The British cruiser continued its patrol a few miles away and the United States destroyer Philip also remained in the vicinity.

The freighter, bound from Vera Cruz, Mexico, to Germany with a general cargo, sped into this port Tuesday after the Orion fired a warning shot across her bow.

Three Vehicles Tangle On Springville Hill

Three motor vehicles were involved in an accident on the Springville Hill, on Highway 28, Thursday afternoon in which a woman driver was slightly injured and a truckload of lumber upset in a ditch.

Carl McDonald, driving a truck and trailer outfit of the Peterborough-Hamilton line, was coming toward Peterborough when a car from Toronto turned out to pass him. As it did a truck laden iwth lumber for Tillsonburg and driven by Leonard Davis, Havelock, came from the opposite direction and there was a collision, as a result of which the Toronto car, after striking the westbound truck, went into the ditch.

The lumber truck also left the road and turned over, spilling its load.

Nip Hog Cholera

HALIFAX, Dec. 22—(CP).—Dominion Agricultural Department officials said today they believed they had under control the worst outbreak of hog-cholera in this province in 20 years. In less than a week 300 hogs owned by William K. Eisener of Cole Harbor road near here were wiped out. Eisener estimated his loss at $10,000.

SPECIAL NAVAL CAPS.

OTTAWA, Dec. 22 (CP).—As at war measure only, special cap ribbons, not giving the names of vessels as is the general custom, will be worn by Royal Canadian Navy sailors when employed on certain kinds of duty, the Defence Department made known today. The ribbons will be lettered only "H.M.C.S." A special use to which they may be put is when destroyers' boats' crews are sent away on boarding or examining duties."

PAID IN ADVANCE.

OTTAWA, Dec. 22 — (CP). — men of Canada's armed forces are being paid today to the end of the month so they may have some extra funds ahead of time to use during the holiday season. First plan, as announced by the Defence Department, was for payment today up to Christmas. Later this was changed to cover payment up to the end of the year.

Canadian Contingent Sleeps With Sox On Goes Hunting Sweaters, Flannels As English Mercury Slips To 29 Degrees

By GILLIS PURCELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

ALDERSHOT, England, Dec. 22 —(CP Cable). — Canada's volunteer army in training shook itself from damp and cold blankets on England's coldest day of the year to-day and prepared to spend Christmas in camp or enjoy leaves with relatives and friends.

Some of the soldiers not accustomed to the weather went to bed with socks and underwear on as the temperature went to 29 degrees, the coldest since December 26, 1938.

One postal unit man from Galt, Ont., said he wore "sweater, socks and flannels last night, and I do not know what next, unless the whole battle dress."

Christmas decorations weer hung up and talk centred on plum pudding and turkey, and the troops billeted in three barracks newly built on the spider principle, with central heating and hot water.

Other quarters, including officers', are heated by grates in each room, which are usually surrrounded by soldiers rubbing their hands and recalling memories of the last hot-back.

Thousands of Canadians started off on five-day leaves at noon. Of these a quarter headed to London and the rest to various parts of the British Isles. Trains were packed on the 90-minute Aldershot-London run with troops, including Imperials burdened down with kits and tin hats, and singing, yelling and playing mouth organs and an occasional bagpipe. The average compartment for six was jammed with a dozen.

In addition leaves were granted at least a couple of hundred soldiers accepting invitations to spend Christmas in nearby homes. Captain James Lister, Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General, said the invitations were from families varying from those of generals and admirals to those of men who fought in the ranks in the last war.

Arrangements for holiday entertainment are virtually complete. The big event of Boxing Day will be the massed bands of the 51st Scottish Division of the British Army, a spectacle eagerly anticipated. The 51st is highly popular with the Canadians, not only due to its brilliant war record and crack appearance, but because the Scots gave up comfortable quarters at Aldershot to make way for the incoming Canadians.

Hundreds of Canadians who were aboard the largest transport in Sunday's convoy learned from the papers of the ship's near collision with the liner Samaria. The incident occurred at 4.32 a.m. Sunday in fog as the transport approached port. Six lifeboats were torn from the port side of the troop liner and its superstructure was damaged. There was similar damage to the Samaria.

An aircraft carrier and also another troop liner barely missed the Samaria. Troops aft on the port side were awakened by the sudden crash and the splintering of lifeboats. They rushed into the corridors with lifebelts and gas masks, believing enemy planes were carrying out a bombing attack. In other quarters the soldiers slept throughout.

Struck By Barge

The bridge, which was built originally in 1627, disappeared completely into the river.

Gas pipes on either side of the river which were cut by the collapse burst into flames.

Preliminary investigation by the police was reported to have established that a barge carried by the current collided violently with the bridge's central arch and that an explosion then occurred.

Heavy forces of police and firemen were called to hold crowds behind police lines.

The old bridge was first known as the Pont Rouge (Red Bridge) when originally it was built of wood and painted red. Since then it has been rebuilt three times, most recently in 1877. The collapsed structure was of stone.

Mechanical Teacher

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22 —(CP). —"Red apple" diplomacy of Philadelphia school children about examination time is becoming a thing of the past. Glass of Lemonade.

Mary Lenhardt died early on the morning of November 17, a few hours after she had reportedly drank a glass of lemonade. Her illness was so sudden that medical aid wasn't called before her death.

A probe was instituted by Crown Attorney Newton and Chief Coroner A. R. Routledge, and the girl's organs were sent to the provincial analyst at Toronto.

Report received a week ago from the analyst was that poison had been found, but its identity hadn't been established. The Crown Attorney didn't reveal to-day whether the poison had been identified.

Injured in an auto mishap two months ago, Mrs. Lenhardt was still limping when she was brought to court to-day.

The Lenhardts lived on Mount Pleasant Avenue, just outside the city limits, and the case was investigated by the Provincial Police.

OBITUARY

GEORGE ILES

HAVELOCK, Dec. 22.—(ENS)—Friends Thursday afternoon attended the funeral service of the late George Iles, aged 51, of Havelock, whose sudden passing on Tuesday evening, following but a few hours illness, shocked the entire village. His untimely death, which came just four months after that of his wife, the late Hazel Freeman, leaves parentless two small daughters, Elaine aged 13 and Evelyne aged 2. The only other immediate relative surviving is their grandmother, Mrs. James Freeman of town.

Local C.P.R. freight agent for many years, the late George Iles was also prominent in the Havelock Royal Lodge No. 286, I.O.O.F. and as well a member of the Public School Board. He was extremely well known in this district, where he was a highly esteemed resident.

The funeral service was conducted from the family residence under the auspices of the I.O.O.F., with service at the Havelock United Church at 2:30 p.m. by the Rev. Andrew McLauchlin. Interment took place at Maple Grove Cemetery.

CAROLINE VOYER

HAVELOCK, Dec. 22.—A resident of this village for the past fifty years, Miss Caroline Voyer, aged 64 years, passed away here Thursday at noon. Although she has been in poor health for the past several months, her death came quite unexpected.

Born in 1875, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Voyer, she has lived in Havelock since her parents moved here in 1875. Surviving her are one sister, Mrs. E. J. Walker and a brother, Frank Voyer, both of Havelock.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Voyer, Mathison street, on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, with service at "Our Lady of Mount Carmel" Roman Catholic Church, of which the late Miss Voyer was a life-long member.

Supplies Cut Off, Invaders Forced East

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 22 (AP) — Reports from Norwegian border points today described a Russian retreat in Arctic Finland as approaching the magnitude of a "catastrophe."

Watchers on the frontiers said the southernmost Russian Arctic forces now were in the vicinity of Salmijaervi, a point they were reported to have passed in their southward advance of the past week before the movement reversed.

The Arctic highway at that point swings eastward, and other reports said the main direction of the Russian retreat also was eastward—toward the Kola, Russia, instead of northward toward the Finnish port of Petsamo.

Soviet transport ships, previously stationed at Petsamo when the Arctic push began more than three weeks, were said now to have departed.

The weather was calm and clear but the extreme cold continued. Retreating troops observed from the frontier seemed to be trying to keep warm.

Motorized troops rode in lorries for a short distance, then jumped off and ran for a while for warmth.

It was considered significant that no southward moving supply trucks had been observed in the last two days nor any other indication of food or munitions arriving from the north.

Inhabitants who were familiar with the bitter cold of this region said they believed that thousands of Russians had perished.

War or no war, the French are going to have a real Christmas this year.

Pyramids of chocolates, candied fruits, and rich food fill store windows. Abundant stocks of turkeys, chickens and other meats hang in the butcher shops. The big department stores are crowded with Christmas shoppers, among them thousands of khaki-clad soldiers and their families.

While France is briskly going ahead with her Christmas marketing, the newspapers made a point of the pinched Christmas in prospect for Berlin with prominent stories reporting shortage and rationing in Germany.

Favor Smaller Battleships

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(CP)—British naval experts, commenting on reports that a United States Congressional Committee was exploring the possibility of building 65,000-ton battleships, said the war had proved the need for more and smaller battleships rather than large craft, the cost of which is prohibitive.

"By all means build more battleships but smaller ones, not larger," summed up the reaction of British experts.

They also commented that Germany's 10,000-ton pocket battleship had proved to be to heavily gunned for their displacement.

(Pocket battleships, of which the scuttled Admiral Graf Spee was one, carry 11-inch guns. Other warships of the same tonnage carry eight-inch guns or smaller.)

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 22 — (CP). — General lack of support, together with selling prompted by forecasts of moisture in the dry United States winter wheat belt, weakened wheat futures prices 2⅜ to 2½ cents on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. December wheat closed at 83¾, May 87¼ to ⅝, and July 88¼ cents.

Most of the liquidation appeared to come from commission houses and Winnipeg traders, presumably in connection with pre-holiday profit-taking. No export or mill buying was noticeable in the pit. Coarse grain trading was quiet apart from a little export and mill support in oats. Cash wheat operations remained dull.

5 Hastings Boys Get $5 Gift For Fine Work

HASTINGS, Dec. 22—(ENS). — Frank Hall, enterprising tobacco grower near Simcoe, has forwarded a $5 Christmas gift as a bonus to eight youthful Hastings boys who assist him in getting in his crop of tobacco each season. A cheque for $40 was mailed Gus 'Red" Faux for distribution.

Last fall was the third occasion in which boys from this village went to Simcoe for the tobacco harvest and each received a $5 dollar bonus late in the fall of 1938 for their appreciated services. This year's list includes Gus Faux, Bill Faux, Walter Edwards, Harold Edwards, Paul Coughlan, Vernon "Tony" Phillips, Jack Walsh, Leo Crowley. It is interesting to note that Vernon Phillips is now with the Canadian army and he will received his gift when it reaches him in England.

All Hang Back

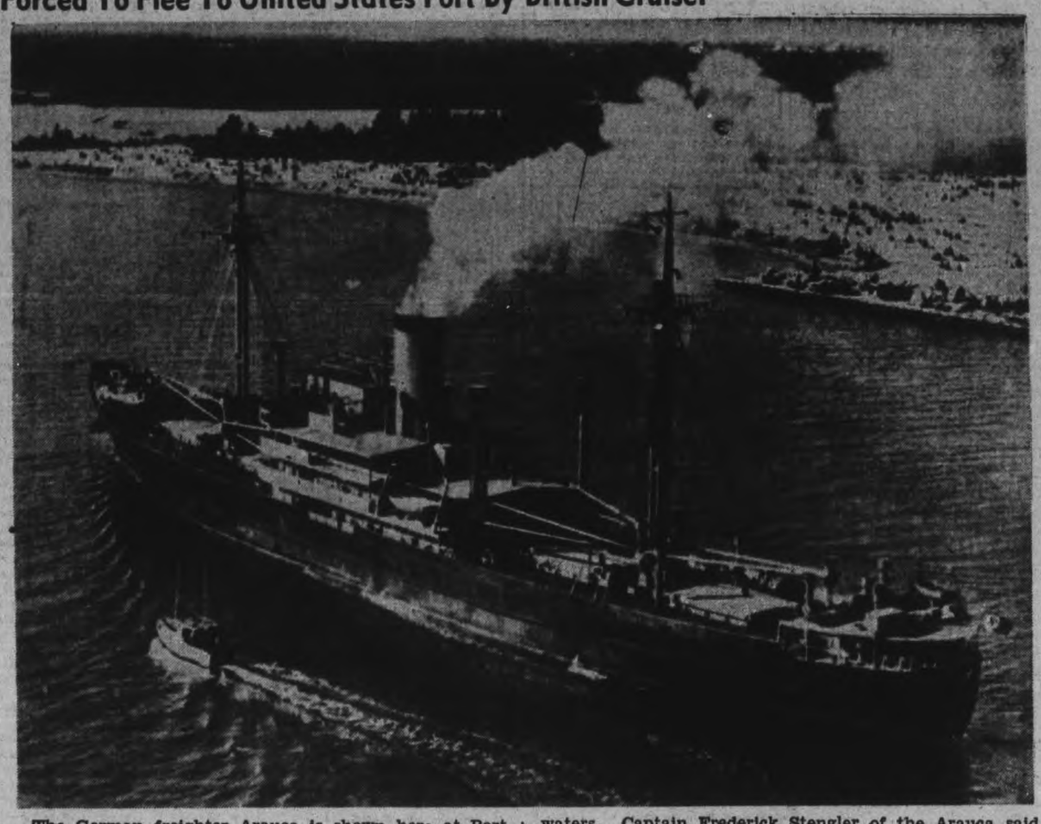
With nomination day coming off Friday talk of an election seems to be the main topic of business men here. The present council and reeve have indicated they may seek re-election to their present posts. It is known that ex-members of the council are serious thinking over the possibilities of again coming into the field. In conversation with the Examiner, they have expressed a wish to be in the council once more but the general feeling among them seems to be that any one individual would not care to take the onus of creating an election. No ex-member has openly declared he was in the field. The situation seems to hinge on nomination day and the open declarations of the nominees. It is believed that if there is an election, there will be a good representation of candidates.

A Fighting Family

Although he has three brothers in the British active service, Arthur Gundhill of Hastings has so far been unable to get into the Canadian army. He told the Examiner he was rejected by one examiner and was refused in another case before examination due to the regiment already filled with recruits.

Arthur comes from a fighting family, not the domestic fighting type, but from a family well represented in the British forces today. Eldest brother of five, Ernest is in the navy on the ship H.M.S. Resolution, a sister ship to the Royal Oak which was sunk. Richard is in the front lines at the present time with the British army and Stanley is with the R.A.F. as a pilot in training. Youngest brother of the group is ten years old, hardly of age yet to carry on the family tradition. Arthur's father served with the British active service during the last war.

Forced To Flee To United States Port By British Cruiser



The German freighter Arauca is shown here at Port Everglades, Florida, after she fled from the British cruiser Orion who fired a warning shot across the bow of the fleeing Nazi freighter before she reached safety of neutral waters. Captain Frederick Stengler of the Arauca said that his ship might stay in port for two or three years after being informed of the fate of the German liner Columbus, which was scuttled while attempting to reach Germany. This picture was transmitted by phonephoto.

Learns Of Husband's Arrest

Mrs. Ernest Kehler learned of her husband's arrest for the murder of Dr. Walter Engelberg, secretary to the German consul in New York, only upon her arrival in Toronto. She visited him at a Toronto police station before he left for New York, accompanied by American detectives, and agreed to stay in Toronto while he faces trial in New York.

Snow Brightens Nomination Day

(By The Canadian Press.)

Sleigh-bells jingled as ratepayers in hundreds of rural Ontario communities drove in cutters over snow-swept roads today to municipal nomination meetings.

Snow that fell yesterday and drifted deep along some back concessions brought the old-time election atmosphere to nomination day. In many townships the farmer couldn't have used his automobile if he had wanted to.

Some cities and towns held nominations, too, though in most cases the urban centres held elections as usual on the first Monday in December. Among places holding nominations today were Peterborough, St. Catharines and Owen Sound.

Qualifications must be submitted by the nominees by tomorrow night. Elections will be held New Year's Day.

The City of Toronto held nominations yesterday for polling on New Year's Day. Mayor Ralph Day's name was submitted again, along with that of Lewis Duncan, K.C., who opposed him at the 1939 election.

More than usual is at stake in the elections for Hon. Eric Cross Minister of Municipal Affairs, and Premier Hepburn have announced that a bill will be submitted to the next session of the Legislature calling for a moratorium on municipal elections until the end of the war. That means men nominated today and elected New Year's Day will hold office for the duration of hostilities if the bill passes.

Douro Children Delight Audience

DOURO, Dec. 22—(ENS).—When eleven pupils, most of them quite young can keep an audience entertained and amused for a two and a half hour program with only two numbers by grown-ups — in the slang of the moment "They have what it takes."

This is what the pupils of S.S. No. 8 Douro (James Maloney, teacher) did on Monday night. It was a joy to watch those children perform. It was no task for them—they loved to act. The teaching of music which was started some five years ago in this school with H. Oullette as teacher helps greatly in putting on a concert. An organ has been installed in recent months to help the musical training. Mr. Oullette was present for the occasion, playing accompaniments and helped greatly.

Following is the program: Chorus "Upon the House-Tops"; dialogue, "Three o'clock in the morning"; recitation, Teresa Moher; drill by ten pupils; recitation, Joseph Towns; The Duck Song; dialogue, A Close Shave; song, Put out the Skillet; recitation, Bernie Moher; dialogue, Grandma's Old-Fashioned Christmas; recitation, Joseph Hubble; The Midnight Excursion; musical by Mr. Oullette; recitation, Frank Leahy; recitation, Jean Dwyer; dialogue, Rus and Gus; song, "South of the Border" by John Sheehan accompanied by Marjorie Ayotte on the guitar; recitation, Zita Moher; Folk Dance; recitation, Pauline O'Brien; dialogue, Lost But Found; recitation, Ella O'Brien; tableau, Station X'MAS.

Janetville Woman Cuts Leg Badly

JANETVILLE, Dec. 22—(ENS).—As a result of the sleet storm on Tuesday Mrs. Leslie Wright suffered a painful accident while assisting her husband to shove the sawing machine into a shed out of the storm. In stepping backward she tripped and as a result fell into a ditch on a large stone, cutting her leg badly.

She was rushed to the office of Dr. J. Hamilton, Bethany, where 14 stitches were required to close the wound which was from the knee down the shin.

Bonarlaw Auxiliary Elects Its Officers

BONARLAW, Dec. 22—(ENS). — The annual meeting of St. Mark's Women's Auxiliary was held at the rectory on Thursday afternoon of last week with a good attendance. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, Mrs. (Rev.) W. G. Swayne; Vice-pres., Mrs. A. V. Brown; Sec., Mrs. W. J. Barlow; Treas., Mrs Mel. Fitzgerald; Dorcas Sec., Mrs. J. F. Baker. After other routine business had been attended to the hostess, Mrs. Swayne, served a bountiful lunch and a splendid social half hour was enjoyed.

A large number from this neighborhood attended the school concert in the 12th Line School house on Monday evening, and all report having heard a splendid program. There was a capacity audience.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard J. Murphy of Bobcaygeon were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Baker on Monday evening.

Stalin Has a Birthday

There was the best part of a column of good space used in a number of newspapers on the day when Joseph Stalin of Russia became 60 years of age. The report went on to tell what he liked to eat, and how he kept himself in the background, and how he was the undisputed ruler of Russia. And it even said he was fond of music and had a number of gramophone records which he played for his own amusement.

Perhaps it is right enough to give some space to that individual when he had lasted sixty years, but at the moment we can't see it that way. We are more inclined to believe he has raised so much hell that his music and what he eats does not amount to a row of poor beans.

The real Stalin is being written in the record of what he is doing today. He is bombing Finland. On the last trip his planes bombed a hospital.

The planes of Joseph Stalin bombed railway trains on which civilians were riding—men, women and children.

The planes of Joseph Stalin rode low so they could use machine guns on civilians riding or walking along the roads.

The fact that Stalin was born sixty years ago doesn't mean a thing. What he is doing today reflects what he has been thinking and how he has been living in the past.

His record of today is so putrid and so filled with an undiluted stench that we can have no interest in what he likes to eat and can find no reçompense or compensation in being told that he is fond of playing gramophone records.

The real Joseph Stalin is before us today in the stories which come from Finland—not from Moscow. There is blood on his hands and his real record is being raised to high heaven in the cries of his victims.

Not The Right Way

The mid-week market in advance of Christmas could not be called a success this year. There were turkeys and geese and chickens but there were too few buyers. The Examiner made an announcement in a news story that the market would be held on Wednesday, but there was no other effort to make it known.

It is job enough for a farmer to prepare a stack of poultry and bring it into town and then take most of it home again. Probably it will be returned to the market on Saturday and sold. But that mid-week market idea is all right and needs some good business policy to make it go. It ought to be advertised, as there are plenty of people in the city who would be glad enough to attend to the securing of Christmas dinner supplies in advance of the Saturday market.

It seems we are hardly being fair to the farmers from whom market fees are collected for a special event unless that special event is advertised so that customers will be present.

Stopping a Train

When there is a fatal accident on the railway there is an inquest. It was so in the case of two young men killed on the outskirts of Peterborough a few days ago. Apart from adding something like an official pronouncement the verdict of the coroner's jury brought out little that had not been previously reported. Only one man had apparently seen the accident, and he was fireman on the train. He said the truck appeared to stall when it got on the tracks. Others told about the visibility at the crossing, and there was nothing there to indicate a serious situation which invited disaster.

The constable who investigated the case reported that the train came to a stop 1,350 feet from the scene of the accident. The train was reported as going between 40 and 45 miles an hour and there would not be more than five coaches. There is not a worked-out formula showing how soon a train of that size and speed should be able to stop, but in the absence of any such table, 1,350 feet is more than a quarter of a mile. In this case the place where it stopped makes no particular difference, but the ability of a train to stop or slacken speed in the face of danger is important. It is our belief that a train of five coaches going between 40 and 45 miles an hour should be able to stop in less than 1,350 feet.

Wrapping Christmas Parcels

So many articles which one purchases in stores today need no wrapping. They are all in packages or they have all been weighed and bagged in advance. All one needs to do is wait until purchases are placed in a bag and then leave the place. There is not much opportunity to stand and see how a parcel ought to be wrapped.

Nor is there any place where the average individual can go to take a course or receive instruction on how to wrap a parcel. It is when the Christmas season comes that one feels the lack of such training, and actually the wrapping of Christmas parcels is something which requires a technique all its own. Utility must be joined with daintiness; the Christmas spirit and atmosphere must survive, nor can a degree of rugged certainty be sacrificed. You see how difficult it is.

We have tried it and we know. The gay paper with Christmas trees and several Santa Claus individuals scampering all over it appears to lose some of its seasonal gaiety by the time it is jammed in at the ends and pulled around at the front. Nor do the bits of colored string and ribbon look buoyant and suggest the possibility of radiating Christmas happiness. By the time the outside covering is applied and the ropes are yanked to the stretching and breaking point it begins to look altogether too much like a parcel of laundry or a chicken which one might wrap in a newspaper to carry home from the market. We would very much like to read a book on this subject or find where one might attend a few classes on the proper wrapping of Christmas parcels.

The Way It is Done

This business of figuring out how many years a man has to serve after being sentenced on a number of charges is apt to be a bit confusing.

Walter Lasher was rounded up in Cobourg and he was ready to plead guilty to a number of charges. He received two years on a Cobourg charge, and two years concurrent on four false pretence charges; two years consecutive to the Cobourg charge for theft of a car in Toronto; four years concurrent on three charges of uttering and two years concurrent with the Cobourg charge for receiving stolen goods.

As near as we can come to the correct answer the man was actually sentenced to 16 years in prison, but as several of the sentence are concurrent he will serve four years. So piling on the years if the sentences are to run concurrently actually makes no difference. Sixteen years can be compressed into four.

The Right Idea

Hon. Norman McL. Rogers has given a rather "extensive review" of what he terms Canada's war effort, and that name covers the case well enough. There was a store of information presented, and much of it was not previously known to Canadians.

When war was declared the first charge to Canadians was the defence of their own country, and in this war we can no longer rely on the distance which separates us from Europe. During the previous war it was out of the question for a bombing plane to cross the ocean; today it is possible. Airmen from Ottawa, Trenton and Calgary were immediately despatched to patrol both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Coastal defences are now manned by more than 10,000.

In August of 1914 our naval defence consisted of two light cruisers; today we have seven modern destroyers and they are capable of speeds (given in land terms) of over 40 miles an hour. The personnel of our navy now numbers over 5,000. The navy is constantly on duty in coastal waters.

The air training scheme calls for the establishment of 58 schools, involving a personnel of 40,000, of whom 2,700 will be officers of the Royal Canadian Air Force, 6,000 civilians and 30,000 members of the air force other than officers.

Mr. Rogers dealt with the criticism which has been levelled at the department regarding lack of clothing and equipment for enlisted men. His answer is: "The problem sums up in the broad figures of multiplying the strength of an army by ten overnight."

Referring to the difference between the equipment used in the present and previous war, the Minister of Defence explains that "the various units now go equipped with armored cars, with mobile machine guns and with other forms of mechanized equipment." Previously when a soldier was equipped with clothing, a rifle and ammunition he was ready to depart. It is also explained that all Canadian equipment is identical in standard to that approved of by the British war office today.

An informative address of that kind was needed. It is doing exactly what the papers have been urging—telling the people about what is going on, about the difficulties which are being met and the degree of success attained in overcoming problems.

It Looks Dangerous

When a story comes in we believe the average newspaper man has a right to say whether it is good, bad, fair or punk. He is at this sort of work every day and it is right down his alley. That is the way we started sizing up a story which came from the Havas news agency out of Moscow, and Havas is quite some pumpkins in the news field.

This story from Moscow told of a Finn soldier who had been captured. He wouldn't eat and his eyes rolled and at times he wanted to cover up his head when in bed.

Some one visited the place where he was kept and recited a bit of poetry in which the name "Lenin" was repeated twice "with slow, strong emphasis." After that the Finn raised his head and his face was wreathed in smiles and he was ready to eat if there were anything left in the pantry.

If you have a horse with the heaves or a pig with colic or hens with the roup, just go out and say "Lenin" to them a couple of times, but do it with slow, strong emphasis. But don't blame us if you lose some of your stock.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Things may be a little tough, but you might be thankful you are not a turkey.

One Canadian Max Barret went to the present war on the same vessel which brought him home from the previous one.

United States is ready to supply a number of its fastest planes to Finland, and the remaining trick is to find the fastest way to get them there.

Brantford has a good report when it states relief there in November was $32,425 less than in the same month a year ago.

The active bank note circulation in Canada is right now the highest in 20 years. That is easy to understand. The stuff keeps on circulating because it is so difficult to get a strangle hold on it.

The proper way to carve a turkey is to get the thing over on its back. It looks more helpless then and gives courage to the man who is not certain how it should be done.

A boy of 16 years in Hamilton stole three motor cars, and was given a second chance. The other day he was in court again on a charge of stealing 11 more and was sent down. Possibly court could think of nothing else to do, but that boy won't come out any better than he goes in.

One newspaper publishes a number of letters written by children to Santa Claus. There were 15 letters and in 12 of them the little folk mentioned a preference for nuts, candies and oranges. So if you have any doubt about the matter there is a perfectly safe guide.

The Finns are thrifty folk. They have brought down a number of Russian planes and some of them are again in action against the Russians. Parts are taken from several wrecked planes to make one good one.

Imagine if you can a man bearing the name of Ronald MacDonald applying three times for enlistment with the Black Watch at Montreal and being turned down on each visit. The trouble is Ronald is 6 feet 9 inches tall and they say that's too much. But he wouldn't have to climb a tree to see what was going on.

ADVENTURE

(By A.H.R.)

¶ The people in the comic strips, can get themselves shot all to bits, it often goes that way; just how they do it I don't know, but their recovery's never slow, they get all right next day.

¶ They jump from cars of thumping power, that travel eighty miles an hour, I know I never could; but in the strips they always land, I find it hard to understand, for they are on their feet.

¶ The villain chases them up hill, I see that he is bent to kill, he chants his hymn of hate; he shoots point blank from out his gun, but never does he injure one, the people all escape.

¶ The people in the daily strips, take to the air in thrilling trips, and often things are rough; some villain seeks to ram them there, but they just dodge him in the air, and come down safe enough.

¶ And some get kidnapped in the night, and never have a chance to fight, they're tied both foot and hand; or else they're bound fast to a tree, but in no time at all they're free, it's hard to understand.

¶ I'd like adventure of that kind, 'twould rather fascinate my mind, I'd paint the old town red; no matter what they did to me, I'd be at home quite safe you see—in time to get to bed.

New Weapons Of War May Be Actually Old

ARE THERE new war horrors which have not yet been turned into action? The New York Times discusses that question in a logical way and under the belief that chemists and engineers of one nation know about as much as those of another. The Times puts it this way:

Major General Amei Oba returns to Japan after a European tour of military inspection and announces that the Germans have "superior, entirely new weapons that we have not thought of." As a soldier the general ought to know a new weapon when he sees it. But what does he mean by "entirely new"?

The one surprise thus far sprung by the Germans in this war is the magnetically detonated mine. Yet it turns out that magnetic detonation was known to the experts even during the last war. If they failed to recommend it for adoption it must have been for good reasons. Moreover, we have no means of comparing the efficacy of magnetic and contact detonation.

Accepting Major Gen. Oba's statement that "the Frankfurt dye industry is employing 1,400 doctors and chemists in special researches," are we to conclude that the Allies are anyless active in military science? The little that comes out of Great Britain indicates plainly enough that her best chemists, physicists and engineers in industry and education are now engaged in developing what may be "entirely new weapons."

When we examine "entirely new weapons" against their historical and technological background they always turn out to be natural developments of known chemical procedures or mechanisms. Tanks, for example, naturally evolved out of familiar tractors. Bombs dropped from the air are much like shells fired by long-range artillery. Mustard gas has been known for a century, only to lie dormant for decades, probably because of a natural revulsion against its use and because of the prohibitions of The Hague Convention.

Military research is no different from industrial research. It must begin with the known. The more closely we scrutinize "revolutionary" weapons, the more they turn out to be mere improvements over the old and to involve such matters as defence of battleships against torpedoes and mines, the rapidity of gunfire both on land and sea, radio signalling, alloys with specific military uses.

It would be extraordinary indeed if military scientists could outstrip their industrial colleagues. Any such superiority would imply that the scientists engaged in purely military research are able to discover new principles with an ability and a rapidity unknown in industry, whereas the truth is that the army and navy conscript the technologists of industries and universities and thus exploit knowledge which is the common possession of all nations.

LOCOMOTIVE IS "SHE"

THE FOLLOWING letter signed "Japanese Lady," appeared in the Shipping Register of San Francisco:

"Sometime ago you publish in your voluble paper article on female shipping steamer. I have thought to write you about female engine on train. You know why? Yes, they call she for many becauses.

"They wear jacket with yokas, pins, hangers, straps, shields, stays. They have apron also lap. They have not only shoes but have pumps. Also hose and drag train (passenger and freight) behind; behind time all time. They attract men with puffs and mufflers and when draft too strong petticoat goes up. This also attract. Sometime they foam and refuse work when at such time they should be switched. They need guiding—it always require man manager. They require man to feed them. When abuse are given they quickly make scrap.

"They are steadier when coupled up, but my cousin say they hell of expense. Is not enough reason?"—C.P.R. Staff Bulletin.

BLACKOUT ADVENTURE

FEELING my way through the blackout the other night (writes "B."), my foot struck a metallic object. Groping in the dark, I found a bunch of keys and, feeling sorry for the poor soul who was probably locked out on an exceedingly wet night, I decided to make a detour and call at the home of the village constable, where I duly deposited the keys, together with a few unoriginal but friendly remarks about the weather. I then pursued my way home, enjoying a glow of satisfaction at my good deed and musing on the manner in which common misfortunes like the blackout make boy scouts of us all. The glow was quickly dimmed when on reaching my own door and feeling for my latch-key I discovered a neat hole in my trouser pocket, I had reported the loss of my own property. — Manchester Guardian.

GETTING A CROWD

PETROLIA'S POLICE FORCE has been under discussion and on the Front Page more or less for some time now. It brought considerable publicity to Petrolia but the editor of The Petrolia Advertiser-Topic offers a new use for a police force controversy as follows:

The Huntsville Forester wants to know the reason why more interest is not taken in that town's nomination meetings. Seems to us it is the Huntsvillians way of registering their satisfaction with Mayor Rice's administration. Petrolia found a way of having a well-attended nomination meeting by dismissing the police force. The crowd was so large it couldn't be accommodated.

THERE IS A LIMIT

When taxes become unduly onerous, they defeat their own purpose. That is a situation which Canada legislators will have to watch. In administrative circles in this country there is little attempt to effect economies, savings or retrenchments that would permit a reduction of taxes. That process cannot be continued indefinitely without inducing the inevitable reactions.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

OBSERVER

"I found I spent half my time in the bar so I got my husband to engage a barmaid, and now I feel uneasy unless I spend all my time in the bar."

—London Opinion.

• Britain Has Drakes and Nelsons

THE British Navy won a decisive victory in defeating and running into a neutral port the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee. It had been considered that only a few of Britain's capital ships had sufficient speed and armament to be a match for German ships of this class, but three light cruisers with inferior fire power have driven the raider from the seas.

Because of the 32.5 knots speed of the Achilles and the Ajax, the Admiral Graf Spee, rated at 26 knots, was unable either to manoeuvre to use her 11-inch guns out of range of the 8-inch guns Exeter and the 6-inch guns of the other cruisers, or to run away. The Exeter, which bore the brunt of the battle for four hours, had to withdraw, but with the bulldog tenacity of which the British Navy has always boasted the Achilles and the Ajax worried the terror of the seas into port.

Three against one may seem long odds, but without superior tactics the three might have been blasted out of the water without a chance at the more heavily armed ship. Commodore H. H. Harwood has shown that the British Navy still has Drakes and Nelson who are willing to risk seamanship against big guns. Retreating into a smoke screen when hard pressed, darting out again from an unexpected quarter whenever an opportunity offered, he moved his three light craft like stinging buzz flies until the Admiralty Graf Spee gave up the fight.

In sea, as on land, weight of numbers or of armament may sometimes be overcome by superior military skill, as the Finns have been showing by keeping at bay, for so long, the superior weight of Russia. One can admire the commanders of the German pocket battleships, who have challenged the might of British naval power; one can admire the hopeless courage of the fight of the converted liner Rawalpindi against one of them, and can then pay tribute to the professional ability, added to courage, displayed by Commodore Harwood's squadron in Britain's first victory.—Chicago Daily News.

• The Man Who Had No Clothing

STRANGE THINGS do happen, and about the strangest for some time is recorded in the London Listener.

When the evacuation of London came that week-end prior to Britain's entry into the war, a great many Londoners were turned overnight into "grass widowers." Well, some days later, one of them, who was muddling through somehow, was just about to get into his bath when he thought he'd like to look at the paper. It was the morning after (Russian Premier) Molotoff's speech. And so, without bothering to put anything on, since the house was empty, he withdrew his toe from the bath and paddled out into the hall to see if the paper had been put through the letter-box, where the boy usually shoved it.

It wasn't there, as it happened. He was a persistent sort of fellow, so he thought: "Well, perhaps the boy's put it on the step." So he opened the door a crack and there, sure enough, was the paper. But it was a couple of steps down and he couldn't reach it. Still, he knew that the houses opposite were empty—they'd all been evacuated too and nobody was living there. And there was no one in the street—he could see that. So he thought: "I'll just nip out and get it—it'll be all right."

So he didn't bother to put anything oh but out he nipped. As he bent down to pick the paper up.... bang went the door—a puff of wind had shut it. And there he was, without a stitch on, clutching a newspaper and completely unable to get back into his empty house. A bit embarrassing, wasn't it, for a respectable citizen? And he felt his position acutely.

However, he didn't panic. He was a level-headed soul and he did what he could for the proprieties by wrapping the newspaper round him. Incidentally it was an illustrated newspaper, one of the smaller ones—he swore in future he'd take in the twopenny daily—and he thought the best thing he could do would be to go and find some sympathetic neighbor.

But unfortunately he realized that all his friends in the street were away. So he picked on chance one of the houses and rang the bell.

I suppose it is just a little alarming to find a man clad only in an illustrated newspaper standing on your doorstep in the early morning. And so it wasn't surprising the little maid who answered the door gave one shriek and tried to slam it in his face. Luckily he managed to get his foot in and establish himself in the hall, whereupon the maid ran wildly upstairs, screaming: "A lunatic! A lunatic!"

And while the man tried valiantly to explain, the lady of the house very properly rang up the police. And before he had managed to make out a case for himself, two things happened swiftly. First, a patrol car arrived, with three large constables inside. And then, to crown it all, the air-raid sirens went.

Well, it was obviously one of those days. So the man took the bull by the horns and said: "Look here, we've got to get under cover and I'm quite sure this lady won't like going under cover with a lunatic. So why don't you take me back to my house—it's only just down the road—burst open the door and use my cellar, if you want to?"

To cut a long story short, they did shove him in the car and a large sergeant did put his shoulder to the door and smash it open, just in time to find cascades of bath water flooding into the hall!

EXPOSE RUSSIA'S AIMS

IT IS DIFFICULT to see why Russia should want control of Finland if defense against German aggression were the only aim in view. Naval and military bases in Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia would fully guarantee that objective. Instead, as the diplomatic war develops, it becomes fairly obvious that Germany and Russia in collusion are determined to destroy the sovereignty of all the small nations on the north. Once in control of Finland, Sweden and Norway would be the next to be threatened by Russia, just as Belgium and Holland are in danger because they debar direct assault on Great Britain and Northern France. —Calgary Herald.

EASILY SEEN

A CERTAIN gentleman was very fond of golf, and a little refreshment after the game. He arrived home very late one night, and was met by his wife in the hall.

"Well, and what excuse have you got to offer for coming home at this unearthly hour?" she asked angrily.

"It was like this, my dear: I was playing golf with some friends and—"

"Playing golf!" she cried in disgust. "Are you trying to tell me you can play golf in the dark?"

"Oh, yes, that's easy, my dear," he said quickly. "You see we were using night clubs."—Winnipeg Tribune.

TOO TERRIBLE TO USE

IT IS POSSIBLE that at some future date the consequences of unrestricted warfare will be so realized by the civilian populations of great countries that each alike will hesitate to embark upon a war with a combatant of anything like equal strength? Will war, so to speak, by its own horrors annihilate itself? That question cannot be answered now, but in the meantime there is the spectacle of Mr. Hitler holding his hand lest the utmost he might do to Allied civilian populations might be less in its final consequences than what would be done by way of retaliation. It may be that there are some weapons too terrible to use.—Toronto Star.

FINLAND AND CHINA

"CHINA got nothing like that!" exclaimed Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, China's delegate to the League of Nations, as he read the resolutions condemning Russia and urging the co-operation of League members to aid Finland.

The League, indeed, ducked the no-war in China. It expressed its "moral support" for China and recommended that members "refrain from taking any action which might have the efect of weakening China's power of resistance." It also recommended they "should also consider how far they can individually extend aid to China."

It also advises the parties to the Nine-Power Treaty to onsult as to what should be done to enforce that agreement. If anything was done about that, it was done by secret diplomacy, and the public never heard about it. Anyway, nothing came of it.

The fact is, China is so far away from Europe that the nations of that tinent were little concerned about her. But Finland is in Europe, and the Russian aggression is therefore a vital matter to the European powers.—W. K. Kelsey, in Detroit News.

WAR WIDOWS

A MR. DIGBY in England has published a book called "Red Horizons." It is all about a few funny things he discovered during a prolonged trip in the United States. Among other things he has settled a point that has often bothered me. I have wondered how it is that there are still war widows in that strangely blessed country who are drawing pensions for the War of 1812. It is quit easy and quite legal.

Veterans of that war might marry at any time and their widows were still eligible for a pension. Thus if a fellow was 17 at the close of the war and seventy-three years later, at 90, realized that his family was losing a good thing, he might find a girl of 17 and marry her. She would be only 65 today.

Thus he deducts that under the same beneficient law it will be A.D. 2079 before the last pension cheque in respect of the 1917-1918 war is endorsed by its last widow, who will not be born for another fifty-seven year. Whoopee.—J. Butterfield in Vancouver Province.

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

DECEMBER 22

1909 Rev. Father W. J. Kielty, parish priest of St. Joseph's Church, Douro, for many years is dead.

J. E. Kelly is elected president of the local branch of the Journeymen's Barbers' Union.

The toboggan slide at Jackson Park is opened for the season and is in splendid condition.

Labor's slate for the municipal election is composed of A. A. McIntyre for mayor and L. F. Humber, F. T. Tuggey, J. A. Sharpe and Wm. Telford for council.

Rev. John Galt, pastor of Gilmour Memorial Church has resigned to accept a call to Kenora.

A. A. Fowler has presented a silver trophy for competition in the City Hockey League.

1929 The thermometer dropped to four degrees below zero this morning. So far this winter 27½ inches of snow has fallen.

Royal Lodge, I.O.O.F. Havelock celebrated its 38th anniversary.

Toolmakers defeat Office No. 1 team in the opening game of the C.G.E. Hockey League 4 to 1.

IN WAR TIME

1914 The Examiner estimates that a Christmas dinner this year will not cost much more than a year ago, despite the war.

Concert at George Street Sunday School raises $150 for the Belgians.

R. W. Miller is appointed inspector for the relief committee of the Peterborough Patriotic Fund.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And all the congregation of the children of Israel journeyed from the wilderness of Sin, after their journeys, according to the commandment of the Lord, and pitched in Rephidim: and there was no water for the people to drink. Wherefore the people did chide with Moses, and said, Give us water that we may drink. And Moses said unto them, Why chide ye with me? wherefore do ye chide the Lord?....

And the Lord said unto Moses, Go on before the people, and take with thee of the elders of Israel; and thy rod, wherewith thou smotest the river, take in thine hand, and go. Behold, I will stand before thee there upon the rock in Horeb; and thou shalt smite the rock, and there shall come water out of it, that the people may drink. And Moses did so in the sight of the elders of Israel.—Ex. xvii. 1, 2, 5, 6.

A Bit Of Nonsense

Why Ask?

Husband: "Another new outfit! Where on earth do you imagine I'll get the money from?"

Wife: "Whatever my faults, darling, I'm not inquisitive."

Then—Silence

The shy curate was placed next to the very deaf duchess at dinner, and she wished to be gracious.

"I didn't catch your name," she said. "Will you tell me what it is?"

"'Jinks,' your Grace," answered the curate.

"Just a little louder, please."

"I'm awfully deaf," apologized the duchess. "Would you mind saying it just a little louder?"

"'Jinks,' your Grace," he almost yelled.

"I'm sorry," said the duchess, giving it up. "It sounds just like 'Jinks' to me."

One-Sided

"Was there any evasion on his part when you asked him for the money?" inquired the manager.

"None at all, sir," replied the collector. "The evasion was all on my side. He tried to kick me out."

Poor Ration

What they're saying (privately) in Germany:

"The Kaiser told us the future of Germany was on the water. Hitler has made it bread and water."

DANGEROUS

IS A beautiful woman dangerous? I mean dangerous as the driver of an automobile? The Hanover Post is sure she is dangerous only because so many men turned their heads to inhale her beauty that they forget what they are doing—and driving. Says the editor:

There is no difference between a lady motorist and a gentleman motorist. The chap who drives as if he owned the highway is a boor, and the same can be said of a woman who does likewise, even if she is beautiful.

The average man, being of rather a superior nature, fancies there is no such thing as a good driver among women. It is theory with which we do not agree.

In fact, we give women credit for the way they handle a car. We really can't understand how they extricate themselves from so many jams with so little damage.

The only point we concede in beautiful women being dangerous drivers is that so many men, in passing them, will turn around for another look and end up against a telephone pole.

Show Presented To Legion At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 22—(ENS).—Owing to the busy Christmas season and the cold weather the audience which attended the splendid minstrel show of the "Vinette's Rascals" under the auspices of the Lakefield Branch of the Canadian Legion, was not as large as expected. Those who did attend enjoyed to the utmost the splendid program provided by these talented visitors from Peterborough, most of whom are returned men and members of the Red Patch Club.

During the intermission there was the draw with Miss Emma V. Kennedy, Lakefield, being the lucky winner of either a ton of coal or two cords of wood. The second prize of one hundred of flour, donated by W. J. Charlton, was won by Mrs. J. Delledone, while the third and fourth winners, Master Joseph Sabatino, Lakefield ,and Mrs. A. Acheson of 198 Perry street, Peterborough, each drew a pair of chickens donated by Eric Grier.

The end men were Max Peters, Ed. Leonard, Ab Vinette, H. Vinette, Lex. McCormorack, and Sid Lewington; pianist, Carlisle Jacquith; violin, Stewart Clark; sax. clarient, Hank Simmons; electric quitar, Bob Partridge; bass violin, Jack Skitch, along with Art Barnes completed the circle.

Many were the witty sayings and snappy comebacks of these gentlemen with the dark faces, which kept the audience keyed up to the last cross-fire of words.

The draw was followed by the second part of the show or oleo. It opened with a club scene of the Legion. Mel. Morrow, as chairman of the imaginary meeting, called on members, who were supposedly attending this gathering for an impromptu program, which consisted of step-dancing, witty sayings and songs.

The 9-piece swing band was represented as playing a broadcast with Jim McCormorack as announcer. Ed. Leonard kept the audience going when he attempted a sale to those present by representing a Port Hope salesman doing his best to put his wares across to the customer.

The Hawaiian group was made up of the electric guitar. Spanish guitar. bass violin and drums.

The Silly Symphony orchestra featured James Hallsey, the funny-face comedian of Peterborough.

Stage Manager was B. Vinette. while H. Vinette was in charge of the arrangements of the show.

Following the program, splendid music was provided for the round and square dancing. A. Hudson, the secretary of the local branch, expressed his thanks on behalf of the members for all those who helped to make the evening such an enjoyable affair.

PORT CREDIT, Ont., Dec. 22.—(CP).—A thief stole a car in New Toronto early to-day and abandoned it on a Canadian National railways level crossing at Shaw Drive. The car was struck in quick succession by two fast-moving freight trains and was completely demolished. Wreckage was strewn along the track for half a mile.

As Last Lifeboat Left The Scuttled Columbus

This picture, showing the scuttled German luxury liner Columbus burning in the background, was taken from the last lifeboat to leave the doomed ship after her captain had given the order to open her sea valves and set her afire upon sighting a British warship bearing down on her. The Columbus had set sail from Vera Cruz, Mexico, for a dash to Germany. She reached a point about 400 miles north of Bermuda when she was scuttled. This picture was transmitted by phonephoto.

Lakefield Scholars Present Concert

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 22. — The Christmas concert of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church Sunday school on Wednesday evening, opened with the National Anthem, followed by the opening address by Alice Foster.

Rev. J. M. Young was chairman for the interesting program which consisted of old carols by all the Sunday school members; monologues by Doreen Hawthorne and Gordon Lee; two songs, 'Beautiful Star' and 'When the Clock Strikes Twelve by Evelyn and Hazel Moore, Pearl and Duella Hockaday, Pauline Blewett and Mrs. A. Boyce; recitations, Pearl Hockaday, Carl Skelcher, Mary Elizabeth Boyce, Ruth Boyce, Charlie Ridpath, Betty Hockaday, Jean Lee and Aubrey Hockaday.

A tableau called the 'Family Albuhm' was one in which the different scholars posed in a large picture frame as different members of a family in the old family album.

A short dialogue entitled "Filling the Christmas Basket," was composed of Pauline Blewett, Evelyn and Hazel Moore, Pearl and Duella Hockaday.

Following the distribution of the gifts from a well laden Christmas tree by Santa Claus the school joined in the singing of 'God Save Old Santa Claus.'

Iveen Boyce brought the splendid program to an end with the closing address.

Four Public Schools Unite For Concert

CENTREVILLE, Dec. 22.—(ENS). —Four public schools of South Monaghan, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 5 presented an operetta in the Sunday school hall on Wednesday night. There was a very large attendance and a most delightful program of choruses and drills were given. The reeve of the township, Roy Whittington, was chairman.

The opening number was "O, Canada,' after which the chairman gave a short address.

The following numbers were given, 'Here Comes Christmas' was the theme of the first act. The first number was a rousing chorus by the four schools. The boys and girls were arrayed in very attractive costumes and their songs and marches were well received by the audience. Margaret Rivers sang two solos which won hearty applause.

Homer Ouellette, musical director of the schools was pianist. He and the teachers arranged the program, which was enjoyed.

Concert Is Presented By Otonabee Pupils

DOURO, Dec. 22—(ENS). — The pupils of S.S. No. 3, Otonabee, put on a fine entertainment and Christmas tree on Thursday evening. A capacity crowd was present. Much credit is due the teacher, Miss Mary Maloney, for her work of training the pupils. Following is the program: Chorus, "There are Many Flags"; welcome, Madeline Elmhirst; Christmas carols, "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "The First Nowell," "Good King Wenceslas" (in parts); dialogue, Saving Society"; recitation, Marigold Elmhirst; dialogue, "Teacher's Pet"; song, "The Three Kings," by Don Smith, Arthur Elmhirst, and Forde Green; dialogue, "The Matrimonial Advertisement"; recitation, David Hayes; drill, "The Christmas Star"; dialogue, "The Evil Men Do"; recitation, Percy Elmhirst; folk dance, "Old Zip Coon"; dialogue, "Rosie, the Girl from Paris"; Highland Fling by four girls; choruses, "The Mermaid," with solo parts by Don Smith and Vincent Hogan, "Up on the Housetop"; song, "South of the Border" by four girls; dialogue, "Fetchin' Paw Around"; recitation, Vincent Hogan.

SUITABLY INSCRIBED

Directly in front of the Bank of England in London a sandbag firepost shelter was erected, and a wag placed over the entrance a sign reading: "Built with a sound financial backing."

Apsley Children Heard In Concert

APSLEY, Dec. 22 — (ENS). — Pupils of S.S. No. 4 presented their Christmas concert on Tuesday evening in the schoolhouse. The school was beautifully decorated with the Christmas colors and a lovely tree filled one corner. The teacher, Mr. Lewis, was in charge of the program, assisted by Mrs. George Kilborn, music teacher. The program was not very long and consisted of choruses by the school; song by Irene Tucker and Iris Smith; recitation by Irene Tucker; pantomime, "Holy Night" by Jean Bullied; piano accompaniment by Audrey Windsor, and singing by the school. A shadow play was enacted by three of the Senior boys; also two dialogues by several of the pupils; one called, "The Truth Machine," caused lots of laughter and fun. Rev. C. A. G. Spence was chairman for the occasion.

Trooper To Meet His Girl Of 'Lovely Eyes'

LONDON, Dec. 22 (CP Cable)—A romantic Manitoban soldier's hunt for "the girl with the lovely eyes" he saw in a subway and lost in the blackout may soon be over.

The Daily Mirror today identified her as Phyllis Swallow, 21, a Croydon stenographer, who though she ran from him in the crowd, says: "Now I would really like to meet him."

Jack Steel, who hails from western Canada, spotted the girl in the subway enroute from Waterloo Station to Piccadilly Circus. He was so interested in her eyes that he missed his station and finally left the train at Kingsbury, Middlesex, where the girl got off.

Outside the blackout swallowed her up. Undaunted, the romantic westerner went to the nearby cinema where the manager allowed him to broadcast an appeal from the stage in the hope the girl was among the audience. She wasn't.

But she heard of his appeal, and she told Daily Mirror reporters she noticed Steel following her, became nervous and lost him in the crowd not far from the cinema.

She would like to meet him and tell him "how sorry I am that I wasn't a little more friendly to him."

But unless Steel reads today's Mirror he won't know Phyllis has answered his plea. It is the only paper carrying the story—also a big picture of the lovely-eyed Phyllis.

Election Likely In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 22. — (ENS).—There will probably be an election here on January 1st. Ex-Councillor John O'Sullivan has definitely announced his intention of being in the field for councillor even if it means calling an election. A poll of member of the 1930 council indicates they al lintende to contest their seat at the table and since the retiring board has a balanced budget and Reeve Charlie Calver is eyeing the Wardenship with pretty good prospects of getting the post, whoever enters the field is going to be in for a pretty hard fight.

Reeve Calver has been attending county council for the past four years and if he succeeds in making the grade for warden will be the youngest the counties have had since their amalgamation. Charlie Davidson was the last warden to come from Campbellford. He held the post eleven years ago. Reeve Calver has had considerable experience with county work having served on the Board of Management, Special Roads committee and Finance committee while on the local council, has had his turn as chairman of the Legal, Hospitalization and Finance committees. It will be his task as chairman of finance to bring in the financial statement at the nomination meeting on Thursday and with rumour having it that a balance of some $2,000 will be shown on the right side of the ledger there will probably be more than mild applause.

This would seem to indicate that Mayor Long may get an acclamation and be given his sixth year at the head of council, while the Reeve and Deputy-reeve Locke will in all likelihood be similarly returned to carry on.

Consoles Father For Loss Of Son

The Duke of Kent is shown consoling W. J. Ross, government messenger, whose son was lost in the sinking of the British warship Courageous. The meeting took place when the Duke visited St. Andrew's House, the new Scottish government building at Edinburgh. In the CENTRE is John Colville, Secretary of State for Scotland.

Raid On Firth

London, Dec. 22 (CP)

THE AIR MINISTRY announced today that German air raiders had appeared over the Firth of Forth in Scotland this morning and had been driven off by British fighting craft after a battle in which one German plane disappeared in a dive.

The Firth of Forth, on which the city of Edinburgh and the Rosyth naval base are situated, has been the objective of German raiders several times during the war.

Earlier in the day an unidentified plane was fired on by British anti-aircraft guns over the Suffolk coast. No raid warning was given for this flight.

AN APPEAL AND A WARNING TO MOTORISTS

A Message from the Attorney General of Ontario and the Ontario Minister of Highways.

EVERY YEAR the Christmas season is marred by motor vehicle accidents. This year, in an effort to prevent the needless loss of life and damage to property, all traffic officers in Ontario have been directed to exercise rigid control of holiday traffic. The individuals who place their own interests first must be curbed in their disregard for others' safety. Severe penalties, including the loss of license, will be imposed on those who cannot restrain their speed—who by any means impair their ability to drive—who in any way disregard the safety of others.

The responsibility for danger-free driving rests primarily with every motorist. The individual must co-operate. He or she must realize that fines and jail terms, severe though they be, will not bring back life nor lessen the suffering of the injured or the anguish of their friends and relatives.

Each month, in Ontario, since September 1st, 1930, an average of 47 persons have been killed and 803 injured. The amount of property damage over these years is estimated at $10,881,334. Accidents can be prevented. We believe and expect that the motorists of Ontario will co-operate—will respond by exercising care and judgment to make this a safe and happy Christmas and New Year season.

CHICAGO UNIVERSITY ABANDONS BIG 10 FOOTBALL CONFERENCE

Trustees State No Benefit For Students

CHICAGO, Dec. 22 — (AP). — University of Chicago, a member of the Big Ten Conference since the inception in 1896 and one of its major gridiron powers for many years, has abandoned intercollegiate football.

The end of the sport in which Chicago, despite recent disastrous seasons, still holds more undisputed conference championships than any other member, came by decree of the university's Board of Trustees.

The trustees said the university "believes its particular interests and conditions are such that its students now derive no special benefit from intercollegiate football."

They added: "The university looks upon all sports as games which are conducted under its auspices for the recreation of the students. The university will continue to promote intramural sports and will encourage all students to participate in them."

Doubt that the conference would permit Chicago to continue conference competition in other sports was expressed by Prof. O. F. Long of North-Western, chairman of the Big Ten Faculty Athletic Committee.

The trustees' statement said "details of Head Coach Clark Shaughnessy's adjustments to the new situation have not been determined."

Shaughnessy himself termed the action "quite startling," but declared he had no other comment to make.

Oshawa Beats Guelph 2 to 0

GALT, Dec. 22 — (Special). — Guelph Biltmores played their first home game in the O.H.A. Junior A series here last night, and lost to Oshawa Generals 2 to 0. It was a fast, hard-checking game, with the breaks a telling factor.

Oshawa scored their first goal in a scramble in front of the net, Sawyer getting the credit, while the second was a looping shot from the centre ice by Judd AcAtee.

On the night's play the Generals had the edge and deserved their win.

Referee—Murray Cinnamon, of Brantford.

First Period.

No score.

Penalties — Hazel, Wilson, N. McAtee, Ferguson.

Second Period.

1—Oshawa, Sawyer (J. McAtee) 7.03

Penalties — Finkbeiner (2), McAtee, Dick, Hellyer, Gregg.

Third Period.

2—Oshawa, McAtee 0.19

Penalties — Dick, Daniels, Finkbeiner, Sawyer, Gregg.

Remember When—

Famous fighter of the 80's, Jake Kilrain died at Quincey, Mass., two years ago today. During his 16 years in the ring he fought 150 battles, but the highlight of his life was his meeting with John L. Sullivan in the last recorded bare-nuckle championship in 1889. Kilrain lost to the mighty Irishman in the 75th round.

To Aid Red Cross

London, Dec. 22, (CP) PAM Barton, British women's golf champion, who has swapped her clubs for the steering wheel of a London ambulance may make a brief return to her favorite sport early in the new year for the benefit of the Red Cross.

Pam plans to pair with Henry Cotton, former British open titleholder, against Wana Morgan, former English champion, and Archie Compston, outstanding pro, at the East Brighton course on the Sussex coast.

Williams Leads The League Batting In Runs

Young Ted Williams, brilliant Boston Red Sox outfielder, took the honors in batting in runs in the American League in 1939—an honor that is regarded among ball players almost above all others. In 149 games, Williams propelled 145 of his mates across the pay-off rubber, giving him a lead of 19 over the redoubtable Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees, who, however ,appeared in 29 fewer games. On the percenotage basis of games played, DiMaggio would have slightly the edge with an average of 1.05 runs batted in per game to .97 for Williams. However, it is the totals that ccunt in this competition.

Third in line came Bob Johnson of the Athletics with 114, followed in turn by Hank Greenberg of the Tigers with 112, and Joe Gordon of the Yanks and Gerry Walker of Chicago with 111 each.

In 1938 Jimmy Foxx of the Red Sox set the pace by driving in 175 runs. In 1939 Foxx drove home 105 markers, making the eleventh straight season he has driven in a hundred or more tallies.

Best at waiting them out in the circuit in 1939 was Harlond Clift, hard-hitting St. Louis third-sacker who drew 111 free trips. The year before both Foxx and Greenberg were awarded 119 passes. Frank Crosetti of the Yankees was clipped the most times by pitchers with 13 blows registered on his body. This was the fourth straight year he was the leading target.

The league's leading strikeout artist was Hank Greenberg of the Tigers, with 95 breezes. This relegated Frank Crosetti to third with 81, Bill Nagel of the Athletics having 86. Crosetti led the league in 1938 with 97, deposing Jimmy Foxx who had been the leader for the six previous years. Foxx in 1939 fanned 72 times.

An individual high for a game was attained by Jim Tabor, Boston third baseman on the Fourth of July in a game with the Athletics when he drove in nine runs. In this game he hit two homers with the bases full.

Runs-batted-in for the entire league were off in 1939, with 5,963 driven in, as compared with 6,100 the year before. Strikeouts were up, with 4,314 in 1939, and 4,251 in 1938. In line with the general slight improvement of the pitching as compared with the hitting, bases on balls were down to 4,657—from 4,926 in 1938.

Boston Rookie Led League

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—(AP). —New York Yankees dominated the summer's baseball warfare, as usual, but even their prodigious feats could not dim the lustre of one Theodore Williams.

This 21-year-old Boston rookie, built along the general lines of a beanpole, led the American league in runs batted in, clubbing out a .327 mark, including 31 home runs, 44 doubles and 11 triples.

Official averages released to-day revealed Williams, in right field for 149 games, knocked 145 runs across the pate, 19 more than Joe Dimaggio's total in second place. The Yankee ace, however, played in 126 games. On a proportionate basis, Dimaggio batted in 1.05 runs per game and Williams .97 per game.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Just when space is getting tough to fill—owing to the Xmas season and pre-seasonal sports arrangements—we're tickled to get hold of an item about Wes Champ. It is written in the Vox Pop section of Liberty magazine this week by one M. I. Clarke of Regina and concerns Mr. Champ, who lives in Peterborough now. He hails from Regina and has business connections in several towns, being owner here of the Champlain Hotel. Mr. Champ is also first vice-president of the Peterborough Hockey Club, so this lengthy item should be of some interest to local puck fans.

* * * * * *

Mr. Clarke writes: "That article about Eddie Shore written by Arthur Mann in this magazine November 25th is very fine, but to Saskatchewan readers it must give cause for some amusement to read: 'He climbed down from the engine cab in 1923 and got a skating job with the Regina Capitals, operated by the famed Patrick brothers, Frank and Lester.' Why do the Eastern writers so consistently ignore the man who sponsored pro and later amateur hockey in Saskatchewan? The Patrick brothers did not have anything to do with Saskatchewan hockey or Regina Capitals. This team was owned and operated by Wes Champ and later sold to Portland. The Regina Capitals were the beginning of big-time American hockey."

* * * * * *

He Says, Says He

"Let us give the Patrick brothers their due for what they have done," says Mr. Clarke, "but let the sports writers not overlook the fact that Wes Champ developed such players as Eddie Shore, Dick Irvin, Mush March, Geordie Hay, Rabbit MacVeigh and many others of equal calibre. I know whereof I speak because I work in the office of one of the businesses owned by Mr .Champ, and Eddie Shore's first pro contract signed for Wes Champ for $1,500 is lying in our office safe right now. I might go on to say that later Mr. Champ operated various senior amateur hockey clubs in Regina from which professionals and minor teams have drawn recruits. I refer to Lloyd Ailsbey, Lud Wareing, Johnny Clarke and a host of others."

* * * * * *

And this rabid puck fans continues: "If the Eastern sports writers would take the trouble to find out who put hockey on the map in Regina, they could go to Dick Irvin, Eddie Wiseman or Johnny Gottselig, who were Regina products. Regina is very proud of the hockey talent it has contributed to the East, but at the same time it has had to see the credit for developing it persistently going to the men who had nothing to do with it. Mr. Champ is now operating a hotel at Peterborough, Ontario, and if he has the time read this issue he will no doubt have a quiet laugh as he has had at ever so many similar articles dealing with the life and fame of great hockey players, who according to sports writers always get their chnce with Patrick or Art Ross or other well known managers in the East; but never with Wes Champ, who saw the possibilities in the raw recruits and took a chance on them."

* * * * * *

Who Knows, Maybe?

And so he concludes: "There has been so much comment by Regina sports fans regarding this oversight on the part of the Eastern sports writers, it is time some one took the trouble to correct them." Well, Mister Clarke, we have done our part—and the space it took is but small measure of our gratitude to you for filling it! We are glad to have a hockey authority like Mr. Champ on the Petes' executive and we only hope he can spot a few future Eddie Shores among some of the local amateur puckists.

From Lindsay comes word that Convener Dick Butler and a Sutton representative sat themselves down the other p.m. and drew up a schedule for a three-team O.H.A. intermediate "B" grouping. Clubs drawn were Lakefield, Oakwood and Sutton. Dunno why the Lakefield or Oakwood teams weren't represented—but anyway the schedule is due to open Jan. 3rd with Sutton at Oakwood. On Jan. 5th Lakefield journeys to Sutton, and then Oakwood opens in Lakefield on Jan. 9th. Top two clubs playoff in two out of three tilts, first team having choice of ice for the first fray, and the third if necessary. Schedule is listed elsewhere. We gather from the Scugog account that Lakefield wasn't anxious to get into a group which required too much travelling, but finally consented to that setup.

Comes A Cage Tilt

Exhibition cage contest billed for the Y.M. tomorrow eve betwixt Simpson Ave Grads of Toronto and a local all-star squad. The Grads, runners-up the last two years in the Toronto and district senior loop circuit, is rated the most polished basketball team in the metropolitan area and is led by the starry Shag Parks. It is the first time a senior Toronto team has visited here in years. The locals will have some of the St. Paul's aces—senior champs here last season—aboard, guys like Jim Thorburn, Don Sedgewick, Doug McPherson and Les Ascott. So it should be a swell scrap and deserves a good crowd. Incidentally, the City Cage Loop will consist this season of Quakers, C.G.E., Dominions, Independents and the Bees. Schedule will be drawn up next week.

First round of play in the Girls' Basketball League was completed the other night and there will be no play at the Y.W. during Christmas week, nor will the second round of the lasses' hoop schedule get under way till January 5th. A trio of tilts that night, and the rest of the schedule should be announced shortly. In other years, the damsels didn't get started till after New Year's, but they smacked all previous records to smithereens this semester by completing one leg of the schedule ere Christmas.

Picking 'em off the Grapevine: Jay's city loop bowling team rolled 3,808 against the Capitals' 3,714 at Duffus' last eve, a mighty high inter-team score....Only two of Cobourg's last year junior hockeyists are too old for the squad this season....Jack (Shorty) Roberts, former Toronto goalie, has received his O.H.A. transfer to Peterborough....Two Lindsay lads are transferred elsewhere, Tom McNeill to Orillia and Wilf Ferguson to Richmond Hill....Skipper Ed Thomas, Quinte hockey pilot, is blue over the likely loss of Gow and Hastie to Gananoque; says he might cut out hockey....Trenton Fliers will keep the VanHorne Cup if they win it this season, it being a three-year trophy and they've won it twice in a row now....Among unique Christmas cards we received is one from Hamilton showing a swell action picture of Mick Magee in the Tigers' lacrosse uniform....Percy Bond of this city has been named a supervisor for the Ontario Athletic Commish....So is Bill Walshe, the Kingston sports writer....Church hockey teams should organize over the week-end; entries must be in by Dec. 26th....Southend Loop wants a bantam and a juvenile entry yet....The muse hath up and flown away, and so we have no rhyme today.

Former Athlete Dies In The West

OTTAWA, Dec. 22.—(CP) —Word of the death of Mike Shea, veteran newspaperman in Winnipeg yesterday brought sorrow to his friends in the city who knew him in the hey-day of his prowess as a great athlete and popular news writer.

A man of marked versatility he played football, hockey, lacrosse and baseball and played them all well.

He filled with distinction such jobs as sports editor and city editor on Ottawa and later Winnipeg papers and for a time shortly after the Great War was Ottawa superintendent of the Canadian Press.

His quick decisions and clear thinking made for his success in both the sport and journalistic fields. He played left half-back with the championship Ottawa College team from 1894 to 1897.

Mike won distinction also in lacrosse with the champion Capitals and hockey.

Lakefield Team In O.H.A. Group

Sutton, Lakefield and Oakwood were grouped together in an Intermediate B series at a meeting called by convener Dick Butler at the Hotel Benson Wednesday night. A double schedule was drawn up and the playoff arrangements will see the first and second teams in a two out of three final series. The first team will have the choice of ice for the first game and the third game if necessary.

Following is the schedule:

Jan. 3—Sutton at Oakwood.
Jan. 5—Lakefield at Sutton.
Jan. 9—Oakwood at Lakefield.
Jan. 12—Oakwood at Sutton.
Jan. 16—Lakefield at Oakwood.
Jan. 19—Sutton at Lakefield.
Jan. 23—Sutton at Oakwood.
Jan. 26—Lakefield at Sutton.
Jan. 30—Oakwood at Lakefield.
Feb. 2—Sutton at Lakefield.
Feb. 6—Lakefield at Oakwood.
Feb. 9—Oakwood at Sutton.

Charley Gehringer Will Start With Tigers For 15th Year When Team Hits The Road

CHICAGO, Dec. 22 — (AP). — Charles Leonard Gehringer has travelled a long, glorious baseball road since those days when he bounced from the county fair grounds' diamond at Fowlerville, Mich., right into a full-time second-basing job with Detroit Tigers, so it's good news to hear he'll be hitting the major league highroad again next spring.

Before the 1940 campaign is well under way, "Silent Charley" will be 37 years old—and the subject of much speculation as to whether he'll be able to stick it out through his fifteenth full season with the Bengals. It's a certainty the quiet, reserved infielder won't have much to say about it himself—but his record will do a lot of talking in his favor.

He suffered a badly pulled leg muscle last June in the All-Star game at Cooperstown, N.Y., and some of the boys said he was on the way out. But young Benny McCoy, who was expected to take Charley's place ,apparently is headed for Philadelphia, giving rise to the thought that Tiger officials believe one of the greatest pair of legs in baseball will carry Gehringer through another season.

New York's great youngster, Joe Gordon, took the play from Gehringer last summer, but Charley didn't do badly. He appeared in 116 games, hit .325, and his 132 hits included 16 homers, 6 triples, and 29 doubles. Possessor of one of the keenest pair of eyes in the sport, he drew 66 walks and fanned only 16 times. He was also the best fielding second baseman in the circuit.

Previous to the 1939 campaign he had compiled a record which undoubtedly will qualify him some day as a candidate for baseball's Hall of Fame. During 13 full seasons his major league average was .327. Through that period, at various times, he led the American League in hitting, runs scored, hits and stolen bases. In two World Series he hit .377.

It's been said Gehringer lacks color. If this is true it's only because he made the hardest plays look easy.

U.S. Capital Is Taking To Hockey Game

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 —(AP)— The capital of the United States is getting its first taste of hockey and the citizens are finding it easy to digest. Its team is the Washington Eagles of the Eastern United States Amateur League, coached by Redvers Mackenzie of Montreal and made up of Canadian youths.

The Eagles got off to a bad start losing their first home game to the Atlantic City Sea Gulls.

"The boys," said Redvers, "were trying too hard to thank the people of Washington for the fine reception they're getting."

Since then, however, the Eagles have been soaring. Today they are in second place in the league standing, two points behind New York Rovers. The crowds are getting bigger weekly as the Washington citizens take to the game and its fast play and the way the team has been improving.

Washington is pretty much of a "Southern city." Many of its residents are from the Deep South and the Southwest where ice is a rarity, and before the Eagles came to town they never saw a hockey game. To help the customers understand the game Mackenzie held a hockey clinic, opening the doors of Riverside Stadium and inviting every one in free.

Using his players to illustrate the play, he went through the game, describing in detail faceoffs, offsides and many other phases of the game.

The Washington fans like the young Canadians on the team. The two principal heroes at the moment are Bill Davies, Montreal defenseman, and Goaler Gordon Lee. They also applaud such stalwarts as Paul Courteau, from Quebec, whose fiery play and flying fists have made him the most popular centre; flying Alan Kuntz, and Les Ramsey.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

CLINT SMITH
Rangers

Threatening to duplicate the clean-playing accomplishments of Frank Boucher, who held practically a monopoly on the National League's Lady Byng trophy, is Clint Smith, diminutive Ranger centre, one of the three or four best at his position in the circuit. It wasn't until Feb. 5 last season, after he had played 83 major league games, that Clint was banished. Referee Ion having the honor after an accidental trip. The previous season, 1937-38, his first in the N.H.L., he had set a record by going through the entire season without drawing a single penalty. And he garnered 37 points to make a ninth place debut in the scoring race. Last season he became a 20-goal-a-season player with 21 goals, fourth highest total, to which he added 20 assists to finish fourth in the official point standing. And he won the Lady Byng trophy for gentlemanly effective play. Twenty-six years old, Clint—or Snuffy, as he is known in some circles—is a nifty stick-handler, a fine play-maker, a good checker—in short, a starry centre. Usually wears a smile. Born in Assiniboia, Sask. Played amateur with Saskatoon Wesleys; turned pro with Springfield seven years ago. Had three great seasons on the coast with Vancouver Lions, setting a league scoring record (later broken) with 53 points in 1935-36. Following season with Philadelphia in Int.-Am. loop thence to Rangers. Shoots left.

City Bowlers Roll High In Hot Match

Rolling last night to break a second place tie in the City League standing, Jay's and Capitols put on the most thrilling exhibition of high-class bowling seen on Duffus Alleys for many years. Both teams turned on the heat to the highest pitch as the Cigar men tumbled off 3808 pins against the Grill's 3714. It was a record match for the Alleys and their split of points leaves both squads still tied for second place.

Gordon's had to much power for the good Lock Works outfit and won all four points with a 3542 total. Duffus and Grafton's worked for a two-point draw and C.G.E. nosed out Grant's by small margins on all three games.

The big four individuals of the evening were Fred Martin with 835, Bud Weese 833, Fred Hickey 814, and Bud White 803. Seven men knocked off 300 or better singles; Bud Goodson's 332 was good for a goose; Turk Walton's 330 won him chickens, while Freddie Martin took the turkey with his 835 three-game string.

The following are the City League scores:

N.H.L. STARS

(By the Canadian Press.)

Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, Boston — scored two goals, one the winner, as the Bruins defeated Montreal Canadiens 3-2.

Bill Summerhill, Canadiens — turned in a great effort against the Bruins although he failed to get into the scoring column.

Charlie Conacher and Earl Robertson, Americans—former marked up a goal and an assist and the latter turned in a shutout as the New Yorkers defeated Detroit Red Wings 3-0.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The annual survey of pari-mutuel betting disclosed last night that $297,633,113 changed hands at American race tracks during 1939 in seventeen of the eighteen States where the sport of kings was legal. The sum represents an increase of almost $20,000,000 over 1938, or one of the sharpest advances in a decade, and excludes only Louisiana.

Ten States showed gains and the seven others decreases. The biggest increase was noted in Maryland, from $29,222,534 to $34,990,580, and the greatest loss in Massachusetts, where the season was cut from ninety to sixty days and the betting dropped from $48,991,865 to $22,274,329.

Arizona, California, Florida, Kentucky, Michigan, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Washington and West Virginia showed increases, while wagering in Arkansas, Delaware, Illinois, Nebraska, Nevada and Ohio dropped slightly. Except in the cases of Maryland and Massachusetts, the difference were small compared with the totals.

California led for the second straight year with $78,808,676, an all-time high for a single State. The California season of 280 days was the longest, and the State treasury there harvested the most revenue—$3,032,347. Illinois, with a 200-day season, bet $37,973,876; Florida with a 100-day season, bet $35,276,603, and Maryland, with 154 days, wagered $34,990,580.

The figures, based only on thoroughbred racing, follow:

LEAFS DROP GAME TO CHICAGO 3 TO 1 AND LEAGUE LEADERSHIP

Ross Calls For Fine Of $1,000 On Manager Smythe Of Toronto For Inserting Advertisement

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Defendant Art Ross banked today on the cold figures of the National Hockey League standing—and they're not supposed to fib—to counter the arguments of plaintiff Conny Smythe.

Ross believes that the figures would be enough for any jury to acquit his Boston Bruins on the charges made by Smythe.

The case hit the sports headlines a few nights ago when Smythe brought his Toronto Maple Leafs to Boston. The Leafs manager inserted a paid advertisement in a hub paper claiming that the Bruins were playing defensive hockey on the road and invited fans out to see "a real hockey team, the Toronto Maple Leafs."

Great was the Rossian delight when the Bruins went out and trimmed the Leafs 3-2 before the largest crowd of their home season. Ross didn't say much about that ad while in Boston, but reserved his efforts until the Bruins came to Montreal last night for a game against Canadiens, which they won by another 3-2 score. Montreal is the home of League President Frank Calder and Ross declared that he had asked that a $1,000 fine be slapped on Smythe because of the advertisement.

To See It Through.

Said Ross: "We're serious about this and we intend to see it through." He stated that his demand to Calder was based on a clause in the league constitution which says that any officials of any club who gives adverse publicity resulting in diminishing the drawing power of a club may be fined.

The Boston leader claimed that the ad hadn't helped the crowd any in Leafs' game at Boston the other night and had resulted in only 5,000 fans turning out to watch Bruins beat Canadiens. Ross claims that any team which has lost only one in its last 11 games, such as the Bruins, certainly can't be said to be playing defensive hockey on away ice.

The victory over Canadiens, coupled with a 3-1 success for Chicago Black Hawks over Toronto Maple Leafs, lifted the Bruins into sole possession of first place in the standing for the first time this season. At the same time, New York Americans went into a sixth-place tie with Detroit by blanking the Red Wings 3-0 in the night's other scheduled game.

The star of the Boston victory—giving the club a record of eight wins, two draws and a loss in their 11 contests—was burly Dit Clapper. The defence ace scored the first and last goals, getting the winner a little more than a minute after Louis Trudel had tied the count at 2-2 in the third period.

Clapper Tied Score

Ray Getliffe, with Bruins last season, scored the first Canadien goal in the opening period. Clapper tied it up in the second and Milt Schmidt sent Bruins ahead late in the same period. The game seemed headed for overtime when Trudel scored while Clapper was off for tripping; Clapper atoned for his error by getting the winner on a shot that deflected from a Montreal player with less than four minutes to go.

The suprising Black Hawks jumped into a three-goal lead in the first period and were never caught. Mush March started them on their way with a goal in the 12th minute and Earl Seibert, who had aided in the tally, made it 2-0 less than a minute later. Joe Cooper finished off the Hawk scoring in the last minute of the session.

The best Leafs could do after that was a score by Murphy Chamberlain with little over a half-minute left of the second period. The Hawks almost completely silenced the big Leaf guns of Gordie Drillon, Syl Apps and Bob Davidson. Only Apps picked up a point, figuring in Chamberlain's goal.

Americans' victory meant the ninth straight game without a win for the Reds Wings. As goalie, Earl Robertson turned in a perfect effort, the Americans were paced by Eddie Wiseman, Charlie Conacher, and Nels Stewart. Wiseman and Conacher each picked up a goal and an assist, while Stewart figured in each of their tallies. Tommy Anderson scored the third American goal midway through the final period.

This Handstand Got a Genuine Horse Laugh

You can almost hear lilting equine laughter here as a steed named Chios peeks through the hedge at his jockey, caught by the camera in the middle of a tumbling act after he and his horse had had a difference of opinion about crossing a hedge jump during the running of the Cotswold Steeplechase at a race meet at Cheltenham, England. Chios decided not to take the obstruction, but Jockey Spares, supposedly at the controls, could do nothing else but let his momentum take him over alone, a feat calculated to arouse the risibilities of man and beast—provided no one was hurt. Which is how it turned out.

Harold G. Woods Is Named To Athletic Commission

TORONTO, Dec. 22.— Announcement was made by Lionel Conacher, M. L. A., chairman of the Ontario Athletic Commission, last night that Harold G. (Touch) Woods of St. Catharines has been named to the commission to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of P. J. Mulqueen of Toronto.

Woods' appointment will be ratified by an Order-in-Council to be passed at the next meeting of the Cabinet, it was said. Other members of the commission include A. E. Lyon of Perth, W. A. Fry of Dunnville, and E .G. Farr of Weston.

The new commissioner is a former amateur baseball player of note and has made valuable contributions to all kinds of sport in the Niagara Peninsula. No sport or cause in relation there in was ever too small or to large for the genial Garden City business man and sportsman to pass up. He made contributions, financial and otherwise, to amateur baseball, basketball, lacrosse, boxing, hockey and track and field. His flair for organizing has been one of the prime reasons why sport in the Niagara district has flourished the last few years.

Names District Supervisors.

Chairman Conacher's choice will be a popular one throughout the Province. Addition of Woods and the naming of a board of nine supervisors to further Ontario sport and assure competent direction is the first of Conacher's far-reaching "new deal" for amateurs in all sports in Ontario. Each regional director, all well known in sports, will be responsible to the commission for the district they represent. Those named are: Norman Perry of Sarnia, former Mayor of Sarnia and erstwhile Galloping Ghost of Canadian football; Harry B. Rockey of London, secretary of the London Board of Education and former secretary of the southwestern branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada; Sammy Manson of Hamilton, former Hamilton Controller and Tiger football star and past president of the Hamilton Olympic Club; J. Percy Bond of Peterborough, one-time hockey player and past president of the Central Ontario branch of the A. A. U.

Bill Walshe, sports editor of the Kingston Whig-Standard and for years a sports writer on the Mail and Empire, will look after Kingston district. Wilfred (Shorty) Green of Sudbury will promote good will and good sports in the Sudbury district. Green is one of the best-known figures in the North Country. He played professional hockey with New York Americans after a long and brilla..t amateur career.

Will Regulate Sports.

Jess Spring of Kirkland Lake, one of the best all-round athletes ever developed in Ontario and an outstanding hockey, baseball and lacrosse star, who at one time held an Ontario amateur boxing championship and later has coached several teams in different lines of sport, is also named to the Board of Supervisors. S. C. Platus, K. C., of Timmins, president of the Timmins Softball Association, and former president of the Temiskaming Baseball League, and Fred W. Edwards of Fort William, sports editor of the Fort William Times-Journal, complete the board.

Conacher hopes by means of his district supervisors to keep better tabl on the pulse of sports in the Province.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By Felix R. McKnight
Associated Press Sports Writer
(Pinch Hitting For Eddie Brietz)

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 22.—(AP).—Scopperade: Homespun Ray (Bear) Wolf, the North Carolina grid maestro ready to say "no" to the Rice coaching offer, was rumored tagged for the Texas Aggies until Homer Norton got his reprieve this season....Now Norton, on the block a few months ago, has the United States' No. 1 team, a sugar bowl date, other offers—but only a one-year contract as his probable reward.

Not Cowboy Jack Grain, the wild soph who averaged 51 yards on eight dramatic touchdown runs, but Gilly Davis, the 145-pound, padless lad he beat out of a starting berth, was unanimously named University of Texas' most valuable football player....To-day the village of Grenville, Texas, noted home of "the whitest people and the blackest land," closed shop....Hometown-boy-made-good Bob Neyland had his Tennessee Vols there for a workout en route to the Rose Bowl.

Some 20,000 schoolboys played football in organized Texas High school leagues this year, if you've wondered where those college and pro stars originate....Ole Diz Dean is getting boiled out at a Texas health resort in anticipation of a comeback....The West Texas basketball team, modest claimants to the "world's tallest team," have two regulars who measure six feet, 10 inches and six feet, eight inches.

Chas. Davidson Head Trent Valley League

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 22. — (ENS)— The Bata Shoe Company of Frankford is slated to enter a team in the Trent Valley Hockey League line up this year and will in all probability have a group that will offer plenty of opposition to the usual contenders for the trophy. The Trenton Couriers, 1938 champions will not be in the field and will thus leave the number of teams the same as in former years at six. Charlie Davidson of Campbellford was elected president, and Wib. Kingston also of town was made secretary treasurer. Managers of the competing clubs will be on the executive.

Hawks Scored Three Goals In First Period

CHICAGO, Dec. 22. —Chicago Black Hawks, getting off to a three-goal lead in the first period, defeated Toronto Maple Leafs by 3-1 here last night and knocked them out of first place in the National Hockey League rache. On Lears' previous visit here, they outscored the Hawks by the same score of 3-1 in an overtime game.

The Leafs had to relinquish first place to Boston Bruins Thursday night when they could not muster enough scoring punch to overcome the Hawks' early sniping. Mush March started Paul Thompson's team on the road to victory by beating Broda for the first goal at 11:46 in the opening stanza. Earl Seibert furnished the assist. Less than a minute later, Seibert came right back to do the goal-getting trick himself, with Doug Bentley and Bill Thoms helping. In the last two minutes, Jack Church drew the period's only penalty and Joe Cooper scored unassisted while he was off. The puck went in off Bingo Kampman's legs.

A hard fought second period saw eight penalties, five of them to Leafs, dished out. However, although the Torontonians forced most of the pace, they did not get the rubber past Goalie Karakas until the last half-minute. Seibert was serving a penalty when Leafs clicked on a ganging attack. Murph Chamberlain scored on Syl Apps' assist after a face-off near the Hawks' net.

The unrelenting Leafs sent thrusts in Karakas' direction throughout the third period, but could not get another goal in the face of Hawks' determined defensive stand. Both Seibert and Art Wiebe had to leave the ice for repairs, so warmly did the Toronto team turn it on. Bill Carse and Phil Hergesheimer got loose from Leafs' pressure in the final minute, but Goalie Broda foiled their efforts to increase the score.

The crowd was smaller than usual, only 8,216 being on hand.

Chicago:—Goal, Karakas; defence Seibert and Wiebe; centre, Carse; wings, Hergesheimer and Allen. subs: Cooper, Dahlstrom, Thomas, MacKenzie, March, Bentley, Desilets, DeMarco and Cunningham.

Two Lakefield Girls Are Members Of Team Of Hockey Players Now Touring States

Two Lakefield girls have been proving their hockey prowess on a tour of the United States with the Toronto Women's Hockey Club. They are Phyllis Calles and Betty Lampman and they have been top-notch stars in the series of exhibition game throughout leading U. S. citieis.

The games have won large audiences, sometimes as many as 6,000 spectators turning up at the pay gate to watch the Canadian young women display their hockey ability.

The Philadelphia papers have a big spread of stories and pictures to Toronto's win there over Montreal Royals—another girls' team. The Bulletin said:

"Eighteeen girls from Canada demonstrated that a broom is not the only thing with which women are reputedly adept.

'A crowd of 6,000 went wild with enthusiasm as the two girls ice hockey teams displayed with sticks all the 'savy' of their brothers and even the truculent attitude that seems to go with the game."

Harringay Racers Capture Cup

LONDON, Dec. 22 — (CP Cable). —Despite blackouts, London has seen organized hockey, the final for the London Cup going last night to Harringay Racers in a total-goal playoff with Wembley Lions. Racers took last night's game 8-1, and the series 12-2. The teams were tied at the end of the regular cup schedule.

Canadian players who remained in London played in the series, in which Earl's Court Rangers, Harringey Greyhounds, and Streatham Tigers were the other teams. Teams were limited to ten men, and at least four were English players.

Last year's London Cup tournament went to Greyhounds, who also won the regular National League title.

Hog Prices Alone Show Gain On Stock Mart

TORONTO, Dec. 22 — (CP). — The hog section showed only price advance on Toronto Live Stock Market dealings this week. Other sections were steady on short holiday runs.

Off-truck hogs gained 10 cents cwt. to close at $8.90-$9 off-trucks and dressed sales were up 15c-25c at $11.90-$12 cwt.

A small run of cattle was cleared slowly at steady prices. Weighty steers sold from $6.50-$7.60, with a few at $7.75. Butcher steers and heffers ranged from $5.50-$7.50, with a few at $7.50 and butcher cows traded at $4-$5, with canners and cutters selling as low as $3.00 cwt. Butcher bulls made $5-$5.50, and bolognas $4.25-$4.75.

Fed calves traded at $7.50-$9 cwt. and the few stockers offered sold steady at $5-$7 cwt. according to quality. Good milkers and springers were steady at $80-$90 each with others downward to $50.

Calves ranged from $6-$11 cwt. for vealers, with odd tops at $11.50. Grassers brought $4.50-$5.50.

The lamb run included three carloads of Westerns which sold at $10.75 cwt. Ontario lambs brought $10.50-$10.75 for good ewes and wethers, with some choice Southdowns at $12. Other grades were $8-$9.75.

Sheep closed at $2.50-$6 cwt., according to quality.

Janetville LOBA Heads Chosen

JANETVILLE, Dec. 22 — (ENS) — The December meeting of Silver Jubilee L.O.B.A., No. 1012, was held on Monday evening in the L.O.L. Hall with a splendid attendance. Special guests of the evening were Mrs. E. Moore, P.P.G.M., of Ontario East; Mrs. Parsons and Mrs. Worthington, all of Lindsay.

Lodge was opened with the W.M., Mrs. E. A. Bradburn, presiding.

During the evening a hearty welcome was extended to the guests, and later Mrs. Moore presided for the election of officers, which was as follows:

P.W.M., Mrs. E. A. Bradburn; W.M., Mrs. Herman Wilson; D.M., Miss Irene McGill; chaplain, Mrs. Howe; recording secretary, Mrs. H. Johnston; financial secretary, Mrs. B. Hyland; treasurer, Mrs. P. Hamilton; D. of C., Mrs. W. Hanna; first lecturer, Mrs. R. J. Burn; second lecturer, Mrs. W. Walker; first com., Mrs. Bert McMullen; second com., Mrs. S. E. Bradburn; third com., Mrs. Robert Jordan; inner guard, Mrs. C. Brunt; outer guard, Mrs. T. McMullen; guardian, Mr. H. Johnston; auditors, Mrs. R. J. Burn, Mrs. C. Deyell and Mrs. E. A. Bradburn.

During the installation of officers Mrs. Moore was assisted by Mrs. Parsons as director of ceremonies, and Mrs. Worthington, of Lindsay, as chaplain.

For her kindly interest and assistance in the lodge since its organization four years ago, Mrs. Moore was presented with a gift, and after the closing exercises lunch was served by the local members.

Y.P.U. Officers Chosen

At the regular meeting of the Young People's Union in the United Church on Monday evening, Rev. Mervin Bury presided for the election of officers for the new year, with the following result:

Past president, Mrs. P. Hamilton; president, Miss Audrey McKay; vice-president, Miss Isabel Marshall; secretary, Miss Marion Stinson; assistant secretary, Miss Muriel English; treasurer, Mr. Cecil Bradburn; christian fellowship convenor, Miss Isabel Marshall; missionary convenor, Mr. P. Hamilton; citizenship convenor, Wesley Jordan; christian culture convenor, Miss Bernice Stinson; pianist, Miss Helen Deyell; recreational convenors, Misses Helen Deyell and Muriel Stinson; publications, Miss Marjorie Armstrong; leadership training, Rev. Mervin Bury; social committee, Mrs. (Rev.) Bury, Mrs. P. Hamilton and Miss I. Marshall.

During the meeting the young people decided to purchase curtains for the windows of the Sunday school, and Mrs. Bury, Mrs. Hamilton and Miss Marshall were the committee named in charge.

Hiawatha

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Godfrey and son, Bobby, Mrs. James Godfrey and baby Norman, spent Sunday visiting friends at Trent River.

A service was held Sunday night at the home of Mr. Henry Cowie.

All roads lead to Hiawatha Friday night for the Christmas concert. Santa Claus will be there.

Mrs. E. Loukes and daughter, Fern, visited friends in Peterborough over the week-end.

Christmas service will be held in the church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Special music will be rendered by the Choir. Mr. Lander will have charge.

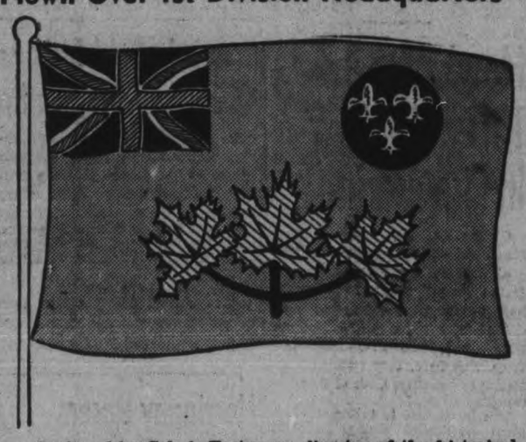
The numerous friends of Grannie Paudash will be pleased to learn she is improving in health and able to be up again.

White gifts were brought to the church Sunday, Dec. 10, for Mrs. Robert Haefield, who is a patient at the Mountain Sanatarium, Hamilton.

Mrs. Wm. Musgrove is laid up with a cold.

The Men's Club of St. James' church, Peterborough, will conduct a service in Hiawatha church, Sunday afternoon, December 31.

Flown Over 1st Division Headquarters



Designed by Col. A. Fortesque, director of the historical section of the Department of National Defence, the ABOVE flag has been officially approved to be flown over the headquarters of the first division of the C.A.S.F. The flag, which honors Canada, Great Britain and France side by side, carries the Union Jack in the upper half, adjoining the staff. The rest of the flag is a white field with three red maple leaves in the lower half and, in the upper half, away from the staff, three gold fleurs-de-lis on a blue ground within a circle.

Zion W.A. Honors Mrs. J. Simpson

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 22 — (ENS) — Members of the Zion Women's Association honored Mrs. John Simpson at their annual meeting when she was presented with a beautiful silver flower basket. The tribute was a dual one since it not only marked the completion of her service for nearly twenty-five years as president of the organization but also took the form of a birthday present as well.

Mrs. Fred Barnum, who made the address which accompanied the presentation, extended best wishes and felicitations, saying, "It is with a feeling of pleasure and esteem that the members of the Women's Association avail themselves of this opportunity to acknowledge our appreciation of your efficient services as our president, for you will soon have completed twenty-five years in that office.

"We also recognize that in times of sickness, sorrow and trouble you have proved yourself to be a true sympathetic friends and neighbor, and your long term as president has endeared you to us all. It is our wish that the richest blessing of the Master Whom you have loved and served so faithfully may be with you always, and at the sunset hour of your life may His abiding presence ever bless and keep you.'

Following the presentation by Mrs. Ernest Irwin, Mrs. Simpson replied, thanking the ladies graciously for their kindness and also for their splendid co-operation given to her as president.

Program of the afternoon included a reading by Mrs. Thomas Fry; and vocal with guitar accompaniment, Mrs. D. Ingram. Rev. Dr. C. S. Reddick addressed members briefly on the work of the society.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. John Simpson; vice-president, Mrs. Fred Barnum; secretary, Mrs. Clarence Barnum; treasurer, Mrs. Hector Arnold; pianist, Miss Doris Barnum; sick committee: Mrs. Albert Petherick, Mrs. William Forde, Mrs. Thomas Fry.

The meeting closed with a Christmas hymn, followed by prayer by Dr. Reddick. A lunch complete with a lovely birthday cake was served.

School Dance.

A number of ex-students recalled former schcol days when they joined with students for a school dance on Tuesday evening. Several from out of town were noticed in the gathering, which danced to music by the Aces Orchestra. Lunch was served at the close, when pupils voiced their appreciation to Principal E. H. Greig and the staff who made the affair possible.

Christmas Concert Given In Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 22—(ENS). — The Christmas concert of the Sunday School of the Lakefield Baptist Church was held in the Sunday School room on Wednesday evening with a good attendance. The program opened with a Christmas hymn followed by prayer. The chorus, "Bethlehem Lullaby," was sung with Miss Ruby Nicholls at the organ. Edith Hicks gave a recitation, also Gordon Rosborough.

The primary class gave as their contribution a short dialogue entitled, "Filling a Christmas Basket." "The Beauty Doctor" was a dialogue in which Elva Sweeting, Cora Webdale, Rolleen Darling, Marie Allan, and Mary and Kathleen Rosborough each had a part.

This was followed by the chorus, "A Child's Christmas." A musical trio was played by Miss Grace Young, Walter Walker, and Lorne Morrison. "At the Ticket Office," was a short comedy dialogue with parts taken by Phyllis Darling, Doris Hart, Winnifred, Margaret and Kathleen Rosborough and Alex Nicholls, Galvin Stabler and Quenton Bullock.

THIEF ADMITS GUILT

HAMILTON, Dec. 22—Before Magistrate James McKay today James McEdwards, 29, and John Kobylanski, 23, both of West Flamboro, appeared guilty to stealing nine bags of oats, nine bags of wheat, a battery and a plough, from Frank Ekstein, immigrant farmer. The two men also pleaded guilty to stealing 11 bags of oats from another farmer, John McEdwards, father of the one accused. Both were remanded one week for sentence.

In a second engagement, also on the south-eastern front, the Finns said they captured one tank and other arms.

In the Arctic, the Finnish communique said the defenders had reached Hoyhenjaervi, a village about 60 miles south of the Arctic coast and near the Norwegian border.

North Of Defence Line.

This is 20 miles north of the prepared defence line to which the Finns previously had been reported falling back.

(Observers near Kirkenes, Norway, a border unit, said Russians were seen moving northward, indicating the Russian advance had been thrust back. Some said they could see Finnish troops pursuing the Russians.

(Oslo dispatches from Northern Norway also said the Russians were falling back to the north).

At sea, the Finns reported coastal batteries had driven a Russian "main ship' and a destroyer off Kota. Finnish gunboats on Lake Ladoga were credited with successful fire against the Russian flanks.

(The Copenhagen newspaper Politiken reported that the Russian cruiser Kirov had sunk en route from Tallinn, Estonia, to Leningrad. Previous reports that the 8,500-ton warship had been damaged by Finnish fire when denied in Moscow).

In the air, the Finns said they had shot down six Russian planes and discovered the wreckage of another, shot down December 19, in the vicinity of Viipuri.

Red Raids Kill 30.

They listed, however, the deaths of 30 civilians in Russian aid raids of the past three days.

Alex Matson, Finnish writer, described a race for life by passengers of one of the two Finnish trains that were machine-gunned from the air.

He said the Turku-Helsingfors express halted as the fliers swooped down to 150-foot altitudes and the trainful of refugees ran to the woods between attacks of the swooping aircraft. Some of those aboard the train had been taken from another previously attacked. Two persons were reported killed in these raids.

Mr. James MacGregor Newlands of Maracibo, South America is visiting with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hill.

Miss Helen Porter of Toronto spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Porter.

Misses Mary and Margaret Tanner of Toronto were called home on Sunday owing to the serious illness of their father, Charles S. Tanner.

The junior hockey club will play their first game on the home ice with the Lindsay Midgets on Friday December 29.

Miss Blanche Kidd, R.N., of Port Huron is spending the Christmas holiday with her mother, Mrs. Arthur Kidd.

Tuesday December 26 has been proclaimed Boxing Day in the village, so the Christmas week-end will be one day longer.

Mr. Thomas Junkin, Jr., left on Sunday for Noranda, Quebec, where he has secured a position.

The Grove School closed for the Christmas term on Tuesday, the boys leaving on an early train Wednesday morning.

JAPS NEAR DEFEAT?

CHUNGKING, Dec. 22—(AP). — A Chinese army spokesman declared today that Japanese forces holding Nanning, strategic South China military centre, had been isolated and that the Japanese army was on the eve of a major defeat in the Nanning area. The spokesman said Japanese units attempting to advance north and northeast of Nanning had been driven back to within 10 miles of the city and that communications between Nanning and the coast to the south had been cut.

SMELTERS POUR THEIR FIRST BRICK OF GOLD AT CORDOVA MINE

Use Of Power Increased, Cost Is Lower

The use of electric power in the homes of Peterborough has increased from 74 to 178 kilowatt hours a month during the ten years from 1928 to 1938, and during the same period the average monthly bill has increased from $1.67 to $2.19 while the net cost to consumers has declined from 2.2 cents a kilowatt hour to 1.2 cents.

These kindred facts stood out prominently in Roland Denne's review this morning of the finances of the Utilities Commission to which he was returned without opposition for another term of three years. He thanked the proposers of his nomination, Alderman Glover and G. H. Thompson, and wished the citizens a happy and brighter New Year.

Mr. Denne also said that with the approaching three years of service his engagement in the municipal affairs of Peterborough would exceed thirty years. "I'll try to do the best I can for the future of our city in all respects," he said.

Electrical Assets.

Mr. Denne's statement showed that the assets of the electrical department of the Utilities Commission amounted to $1,019,023.44, of which $245,063.64 represents Peterborough's equity in the Hydro-Electric system.

The debenture debt of $527,920 is largely offset by an accumulated sinking fund of $351,899, leaving the net debenture liability at $176,020.

The assets of the waterworks department are placed at $1,175,962.90.

The debenture debt is $724,460, less provision for sinking fund $383,-461, leaving a net debenture liability for that utility of $341,398.

Depreciated value of the assets of the gas department are $333,579.44, and the debenture debt of $268,000 has been redeemed to the extent of $67,000.

More Power Used.

The great increase in the average domestic consumption of electrical power has resulted from the larger number of appliances and general conveniences that are now used in the homes of Peterborough, Mr. Denne said.

BAKERY ROBBED

Provincial Constable John A. Rogers of Havelock reports that during Wednesday night the Anderson bakery at Norwood was broken into by thieves who carried off a quantity of food products. The loot included 100 pounds of flour, 110 pounds of shortening, 56 pounds of raisins, 30 pounds of brown sugar and a pair of boots and skates.

Girl Rescued From Waters Of Little Lake

When she broke through the ice while skating on Little Lake Friday afternoon, eleven-year-old Doris Cunningham Lock street, had a narrow escape from death by drowning, only the providential arrival on the scene and prompt action by W. J. Bull, Downie street, averting a tragedy.

The girl in company with another child of the same age, Irene Wilson, Chamberlen street, was skating about a quarter of the distance across the lake from Crescent street when she went through the ice. The Wilson girl says that she also had a close call from going into the water and that she hurried to where some boys were skating and got them to come to her friend's assistance.

Doris Cunningham, who is a good swimmer, had meanwhile obtained a hold on firmer ice. When the boys arrived, according to the Wilson girl, they partially pulled the girl from the water and then left with the result that Doris Cunningham slipped back again.

At this stage W. J. Bull happened along and realizing that the ice was scarcely strong enough to carry an adult, secured the tow rope from his car and threw it out to where the girl was struggling in the lake. She managed to get hold of it and was pulled to safety, little the worse for her adventure. By that time a boat manned by the Odettes was going to her rescue.

Toys Delivered By Firemen

If you come across a fireman or two today with a tired look in their eyes, don't make quips.

For the entire department has been on 24-hour shift, and some are well on their way toward 36 hours on duty. They've been acting the part of Santa Claus, distributing more toys to needy children than have ever before been given out in this city. All night long they wrapped the toys in plain parcels and today they delivered them in a truck that differed no whit from the hundreds of other trucks that are delivering parcels at homes today.

For they are as sumptitious as Old Nick himself. Their parcels and the truck itself are intentionally anonymous so that no youngster may know, nor no neighbor, that these are Fire Department toys. Nor can the toys be recognized by their appearance. They hold no shop-worn look, but are as fresh as any in a departmental toy shop.

Kinsmen Club Is Host To Forty Boys

Forty boys from the Public and Separate Schools of the city made merry on Thursday night at the Empress Hotel when the annual Christmas Tree party was held by the Kinsmen Club, and almost to a man the youngsters declared they wanted to be aviators when they became of age.

The party was inaugurated last year and was so successful the members decided to make it an annual affair. It was no secret among the boys of the primary schools throughout the city who have been using all the influence possible to wheedle an invitation to this gay party. Through the co-operation of Misses Jessie Deyell and Mae Jory, Public School nurses, and Miss Helen Gainey, Separate School nurse, the selections were made and Kinsmen called for the boys last evening, bringing them by car to the hotel. At the conclusion of the program the boys were returned home by car.

In the corner of the dining-room a large Christmas Tree had been set up and gaily decorated. Beneath the tree was a large pile of hockey sticks, pucks and other toys. Each boy was taken into the dining-room by a Kinsman, who presented his young friend with a large cellophane wrapped bag of candies and nuts, paper crackers and a toothbrush. Following the dinner every boy received a hockey stick and a puck and other toys.

The youngsters did full justice to the turkey dinner, topped off with plum pudding and ice-cream, but few of them cared for the olives and one or two thought the pineapple juice and soup were quite unnecessary. Each boy was introduced by the Kinsmen sponsoring him and at the same time the boy told of his ambitions. One after another of the boys stated they wanted to be aviators, but a few wanted to be hockey players "like Jimmy Ellis."

Program of Entertainment.

A highlight of the program was a period of entertainment put on by Robert Hardy of the Hardy Tent and Awning Company, Patterson Street, who awed the youngsters with his feats of magic, and invited several of the boys to assist him doing the tricks.

Jack Flagler, 14-year-old boy, delighted the gathering when he sang "That Old Irish Mother of Mine" and two little fellows from Central School, Harold Harding and Jim Black, sang two songs very sweetly. "Good King Wenceslas" and "You'd Better Not Cry." A group of eight boys from Central School sang a song and were roundly applauded. Jackie and Bobbie Storey made a hit with the crowd when they got atop a table and sang "Hand Me Down My Walking Cane" and came back to sing "A Bicycle Built for Two." Miss Berniece Flynn was accompanist.

President Don Scott welcomed the boys and presided at the banquet, while his right hand man and hard worker, Morley Smith, had charge of the program and kept the affair running smoothly. The party was a complete success and another worth-while achievement by the Kinsmen in a year packed with valuable service work and generous efforts by every member of the rapidly growing club.

The Rambling REPORTERS

DOWN IN CAROLINA.

The Examiner received to-day a greeting card from Perry Alexander, summer time host at Oak Orchard, who has a similar winter job at Pine Forest Inn, Summerville, South Carolina. He follows the swallows back home. When he closed up his summer resort on Buckhorn Lake this fall to go south again, he was probably still of the same mind he had disclosed during the summer when he was trying to urge through the Examiner that only by organized effort was a larger stream of the north-bound tourist business to be attracted into the Kawarthas. From highly successful experience in the south Mr. Alexander was convinced the same ideas would work here, but others who are in the same business apparently are content to send out greeting cards to people who have been with them in other seasons without a thought of the opposition against them in many of the northern States and in nearly all the provinces of Canada.

Mr. Alexander finally threw in the sponge with gesture and words of "tohellwithit," and reluctantly decided to look after his own affairs in about the same manner as all the rest of the district was dong. The idea of organization, it seemed, couldn't make any headway against the self-satisfaction of the caterers to the tourist business in the Kawarthas. Perry is wintering in the "sweet magnolia" country twenty miles from Charleston, and will be staying there until the ice goes out of Buckhorn.

TURKEYS PREPARES

Because of the European war Turkey has turned from its industrialization program to the erection of military and munition plants and improvement of present industrial establishments.

Hard At Work Sorting Christmas Mail

So fast are the hands of mail sorters travelling these days that not even a camera was able to stop them. These men are sorting mail for city carriers. Last night trucks piled high over the cab with mail kept coming in to the Post Office and a rush of work lasted all the night long. Postmaster Charles Lacheur believes this Christmas is going to set a new record for number of parcels and letters distributed by his office. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

SOME GROCERIES TO OPEN.

While Tuesday after Christmas—known as Boxing Day—will see nearly all the stores in the city closed, a few grocery stores have advertised that they will be open for a few hours so that housekeepers may replenish their larders after the week-end holiday.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Mr. Justice Roach on Friday granted a decree nisi in the divorce application of Percival Oakley of Asphodel township against his wife. W. F. Huycke, K.C., appeared for Mr. Oakley and there was no defence. Mr. Oakley was also granted custody of his children.

CULPRITS ARE WARNED

Four small boys who admitted taking 21 bulbs off the Christmas tree in Confederation Square and smashing them were on the carpet before Acting Chief Constable J. F. Reid Thursday night and warned that such conduct would not be tolerated. The damage is being made good.

GRAIN STEALING EPIDEMIC

There seems to be an epidemic of grain thefts in this part of Ontario. Provincial Constable Don Carruthers of Campbellford has had a number of cases to deal with recently and Provincial Constable John A. Rogers, Havelock, reports the thieves have extended their activities into the eastern section of Peterborough county.

A R.C.M.P. CARD

Constable Leo Murphy has received a Christmas card from Constable George Ringer of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Regina, one of the official cards issued by the famous forces and picturing the visit paid by the King and Kueen to the R.C.M.P. barracks in Regina last summer. Constable Ringer was temporarily a member of the local department.

DRIVES OVER BICYCLE

An out-of-town motorist, who backed his automobile over a bicycle belonging to a telegraph messenger boy on George street Thursday and then drove off is being sought by the Peterborough police. The wheel was badly damaged. An eye-witness of the affair was able to catch the number of the car concerned and it was turned over to the police who are checking with the Highway Department.

CHRISTMAS LUNCHEON.

Members of the Kiwanis Club and their wives were guests of C. G. Graham at their luncheon to-day at the Empress Hotel. The Club assumed some of the responsibility of Santa Claus by bringing gifts for the children of the Shelter and St. Vincent's Orphanage. The spirit of Christmas was accentuated by the singing of Christmas carols, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Laurie Mitchell.

NOMINATED AGAIN.

The members of the Board of Education whose terms expire at the end of the years are Mrs. Morris, J. R. Marshall, D. G. H. Melton, H. G. Walker and Dr. G. R. Scott. They were all nominated this morning, but it was reported that Mr. Marshall would be prevented by consideration for his health from accepting nomination, and that Dr. Raymore Scott was likely to retire.

AN ULTRA-SMART WINDOW.

Coleman Brothers, aggressive George Street merchants, have a Christmas window that is a marked tribute to their ability as decorators. They used an imitation snow background, worked black and white throughout the arrangement effectively, and the lighting is perfect. Their neighbors, Phyllis Hall McCullough and Turnbull's Flower Shop, gave the Coleman boys a run for their money, and the three windows just north of Brock on George are well worth seeing.

Bowmanville Pilot Reported Killed

LONDON, Dec. 22—(CP Cable).—The Air Ministry today announced that Pilot Officer A. Cameron, Bowmanville, Ont., reported missing December 5, now is believed to have been killed on active service.

The announcement confirmed that Pilot Officer C. D. Stevens of Annapolis, N.S., and Pilot Officer H. G. Yelland of Winnipeg were killed on active service.

90,188 Letters Sent Out On Thursday

The count of outgoing letters at the post office Thursday was 90,188, approximately 20,000 more than the total of 70,284 on the corresponding preChristmas day a year ago.

Stacks of letters for Peterborough people were packed in forty boxes, each of them about 18 inches by two feet in dimensions, thousands upon thousands of them, an amazing quantity of them, suggesting the extent of the exchange of Christmas greetings and the active spirit of goodwill that inspires all these messages.

The parcel pile-up probably reached its peak last night, and after this morning's delivery there were still other heaps coming and going as fast as the increased could clear them. Many of the letter carriers were only able to make one delivery on Thursday.

Basket Will Be Provided For Every Family

Relief Officer Art Metheral Announces

The tone of this item is not sounded by Relief Officer Metheral It echoes out of circumstances, and is not intended to be critical.

The Examiner called Mr. Metheral this morning as the eve of Christmas was almost here, and asked him how the folks on his basket list were likely to fare.

"You know you put an item in the paper the other day about us going to be short 60 baskets, and we got only two responses," Mr. Metheral said.

"What about the remaining 58?"

"Well, we've got them down to 11 this morning, thanks to the help of a lot of good friends, and everything is going to be all right."

It seems that Mr. Metheral decided yesterday morning to wait no longer for the assistance of chance and inspiration. He went out selling the spirit of Christmas and the need of certain families, and those to whom he went had no sales resistance against those agencies of well doing. They had simply been forgetting things, or feeling that everybody was being taken care of, and the day's effort yielded a fine harvest of goodwill.

And this work by Mr. Metheral and his staff has incidentally been greatly reduced by warm-hearted church workers of every church in the city, quietly helping members of their flocks whose Christmas might otherwise have been rather lean.

From all accounts in this connection today everything was organized and on the move for a happier Christmas than it would have been.

BANCROFT

Santa Is Given Royal Welcome

BANCROFT, Dec. 22 (ENS) — Santa Claus tore down out of the north to this snowy village today on a fast travelling cutter and waved a pre-Christmas greeting to the children.

Old Saint Nick made a brief halt at the community hall after a victorious ride through the streets behind a large parade of cars. Bancroft, one of the village on the fringe of Santa's northern domain, was keeping a watchful eye on the roads from the far north, for they knew that the old gentleman would soon be leaving his summer retreat and starting for civilization to bring joy to millions. They knew, too, that he must pass through Bancroft on his way south. So promptly at 2.30 this afternoon, when a fire siren screamed at the northern edge of the village, men, women and children tumbled from their houses to watch Old Nick pass by on his joyous errand. For that signal had been a prearranged one so that no sleepy-eyed youngster would miss the great man's sight.

Old Nick gave youngsters a treat in the Community Hall, just to show them what the real thing is going to be like. He had village representatives hand out a bag of candy to every one of the near 500 of them, and then they sat the rest of the afternoon in the hall, watching an entertainment specially provided for them. They were a little suspicious, however, about whether Santa or their parents had provided the entertainment. Some older cynics thought it had been arranged to keep them occupied while parents spent the afternoon shopping.

Judgment Reserved In Damage Action

Mr. Justice Roach reserved judgment today after hearing an action for $10,000 brought by Alexander Leeson, 77, of Havelock, against that municipality.

The action was the result of a fall on an icy street suffered by Mr. Leeson on March 17 last, in which he sustained a broken hip.

Witnesses for the defence this morning included Town Clerk Puffer, Town Councillor Everard Chiles, and Postmaster H. G. Matheson for the plaintiff.

W. J. A. Fair of Peterborough appeared for the plaintiff and F. N. Phelan, K.C., of Toronto, acted for the defence.

Peterborough County Only Active Gold-Producing Centre Throughout Eastern Ontario

Smelters poured their first brick of gold at Cordova this morning.

That official announcement is the most grateful and probably the most important news of the year coming out of Peterborough county. Its fullest significance can only be surmised, because there is no accompanying information to indicate the value of the ore Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company has been running through their mill since it was completed and put into operation.

But, the cheering fact emerges that Peterborough county is now producing gold, the only active gold mining centre in eastern Ontario.

Smelters' development of Cordova to the point of turning out its first brick of gold excites fancy and stimulates hope perhaps beyond the actual values of the ore that has already been mined.

What the public is not being told is such interesting details as the tonnage of rock that produced the brick, the weight of the first golden ingot, and other kindred facts upon which sound expectation for the future might be based.

The Examiner asked for permission to take a photograph of the brick as it came from the smelting oven, but that objective detail was also refused.

At any rate this morning's news should bring a great deal of Christmas cheerfulness to the eastern section of Peterborough county. The face value of the information tends to confirm the recurring declarations of confidence regarding the Cordova property over a period of approximately three-quarters of a century.

This was not the first gold taken from the mine that was sunk many years ago by an English company, but it is the first time that Peterborough ore has been treated by present day methods.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(CP).— The 8,053-ton British oil tanker Dosinia reached port to-day listing slightly as a result of a mine explosion. She was accompanied by a lifeboat which took off 40 members of her crew.

BERLIN.—(AP).— Two Germans lost their heads today for high treason, increasing to 41 the number beheaded during the year. They were Erich Scheer, postal official of Witten, charged with inciting the public against the Nazi government, and Bruno Stanik, of Beuthen, accused of providing the Polish intelligence department with select reports.

10 Finns Shot Down.

MOSCOW.—(AP).—A Soviet Russian communique said to-day Red army fliers had shot down 10 Finnish warplanes in scattered air fights.

The communique, issued by the Leningrad military area headquarters on operations yesterday, reported an "intensive artillery duel" on the Karelian Isthmus front but minimized other fighting as only "patrol actions and small skirmishes between scouting groups."

LONDON.—(CP).— The Government announced to-day it would share equally with ship owners in paying the wages of seamen and officers whose ships are torpedoed, mined or bombed, the pay to be for one month or until the crews return to Great Britain, whichever is longest.

BERLIN.— (AP). — The police to-day banned "Reaching for the Stars" by the American author Nora Waln. No reason was given. The book deals with life in Nazi Germany.

PARIS — (CP-Havas). — Crates containing boxes of chocolates sent by Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose as Christmas gifts to French children evacuated from their homes near the frontier arrived at the British Embassy here to-day. The chocolates will be distributed by the National Relief organization.

WELLINGTON, N.Z. — (CP-Reuters). — Group Captain H. W. L. Saunders, who headed the New Zealand Air Mission to Canada, and T. A. Barrow, Secretary of the New Zealand Air Department, arrived back at Auckland to-day.

He Was Alive.

LONDON — (CP). — Mrs. Rose Kent, whose husband was aboard the British merchant cruiser Rawalpindi when it was sunk a month ago in a sea battle with the German pocket battleship Deutschland, dreamed that her husband was alive.

To-day she received a postcard saying he was safe, although a prisoner of war in Germany.

(It was estimated that 259 members of the Rawalpindi's crew lost their lives when the armed merchantman went down fighting off Iceland on November 25.)

BUENOS AIRES — (AP). — British Ambassador Sir Esmond Ovey disclosed to-day that the British Government has decided to accord prior consideration to shipments of merchandise to Argentina in order to hold the market. Speaking before the British Chamber of Commerce, Sir Esmond said the Argentine Government and the British Embassy already had compiled a list of British goods in which Argentina is interested primarily and the estimated quantities required.

Fell On Street Havelock Man Seeks Damages

Residents of Havelock are serious about their weather, is the impression Mr. Justice Roche must have gained Thursday afternoon in the non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario when he was hearing evidence on the suit of Alexander Leeson, 77, Havelock merchant, against the municipality. Mr. Leeson claimed to have fallen on a slippery street in the village on March 17 last, breaking his hip.

The weather came into prominence when two diaries were entered for evidence. One was kept by an aged woman of the village, and the other by a 10-year-old boy, and both set forth the weather from day to day.

The diaries came to light after the plaintiff's solicitor had closed his case. T. M. Phelan, K. C., of Toronto, asked for permission, when he commenced the defence, to enter a diary of Mrs. Effie Williams as evidence. Mr. Phelan pointed out that the diary had been left in the court by the aged woman after she had given evidence in regard to weather during the suit of Mrs. Mae Hill. Mr. Phelan said that in view of Mrs. Willams' age he was unwilling to call her all the way back from Havelock. W. J. A. Fair, acting for plaintiff, said he was perfectly willing to permit entry of the diary on condition that Mr. Phelan, in turn, would permit the plaintiffs to enter a diary of a 10-year-old boy whom he said had assiduously kept an accounting of the weather several come into possession of the book read from the diary. The book reuntil ten minutes earlier and did not have the youngster in the court.

Diaries Entered.

Mr. Phelan agreed to the terms and His Lordship permitted entry of the two diaries as though their contents had been sworn to. Mr. Fair then re-opened his case and read from th ediary. The book revealted that the youngster, Elton Bannon, had kept a recording of the temperature at 8 o'clock in the morning of each day, again at 12.20 o'clock noon, again at 2:20 in the afternoon, and sometimes again at 9 in the evening. He also included comments regarding the nature of the weather—cold, snowing, raining, etc. In the earlier trial, Mrs. Williams' diary was found only to state comments on the weather, without recording temperatures.

The plaintiff closed his case in the afternoon and the defense got well under way. A feature of the case was that Night Constable William Laing, who a day earlier was one of the defence's chief witnesses in a similar action, was this time a witness for the plaintiff.

Insufficient Notice.

At the conclusion of the plaintiff's case, T. M. Phelan made a motion for dismissal of the case on the ground that insufficient notice of the action had been given the municipality. He said that by law one week was allowed in which notice of suit could be filed. He maintained that while a registered letter to that effect had been received by the Havelock post office on April 24—last day on which the notice could be given—it was not received by Town Clerk Puffer until the following day. He said there was no precedent in Canadian law by which a ruling could be made in this case but turned up a case in English law records which he said fulfilled his contention that mere arrival at a post office did not constitute delivery. He further asked for dismissal on the grounds that gross negligence had not been proved by the defence. Mr Justice Roche reserved judgment.

Plaintiff's witnesses included Alexander Leeson who suffered the fall; T. W. Quinn, in charge of sanding the streets; Don Kennedy, an eyewitness to the accident; Dr. Joseph Holdcroft, attending physician; E. W. Warner; Bert McNeeley, eyewitness ;Town Councillor E. J. Leeson, son of the plaintiff; Harold Adley, who testified as to the condition of the sidewalk; and Night Constable William Laing.

Claims Street Sanded.

First defence witness was Ernest W. Seeney, reeve of the village, whose testimony in regard to sanding of the streets contrasted sharply with that of plaintiff's witnesses. Mr. Seeney claimed that sanding had been done on March 15, 16, and 17, although on cross-examination he could not recall the names of the men who had carried out sanding on the 16th—a day on which Night Constable and Adley were agreed to sand had been applied to streets. He also declared the weather had been thawing shortly after noon on both the 16th and 17th, while Night Constable Laing had declared otherwise. The diairy of young Bannon recorded that the temperature on those days, at 12.20 noon, had been 22 degrees above zero on the 16th and 24 degrees above zero on the 17th, with light snow falling on the 17th.

Mr. Fair questioned Mr. Seeney at length on the council's method of doing work. Under by-law any three members are authorized to order sanding or other street work done. He asked if it were not a fact that Mr. Seeney, who said he was in the daily custom of inspecting the streets and conferring with other members of the council as to course of action to be followed had never called Mr. Leeson, the other member of the council, into these conferences. Mr. Seeney said he had conferred with Mr. Leeson at times, but could not state the number of times. Mr. Fair asked if it were not a fact that Mr. Seeney and two other members "were a slique" that looked after such affairs and that Mr. Leeson was never consulted. Mr. Seeney replied that neither Mr. Leeson consulted often with the other members of the council, nor the council with him.

HASTINGS, Dec. 22—(ENS).—The following officers were elected by the Trinity United Young People's Union for the New Year on Monday evening: Hon. president, Rev. J. E. Glover; president, Miss Helen Collins; vice-president, Miss Rhea Preston; secretary, Miss Claudine Hoard; treasurer, Cecil Oliver; pianist, Miss Margery Scriver; worship convener, Mrs. J. E. Glover; Christian Fellowship conveners, Miss Frances Hoard and Miss Doreen Fleming; Missionary conveners, Miss Ruby Fleming and Mrs. Cecil Oliver; Citizenship convener, Miss Helen Glover; Christian Culture conveners, Mrs. Grant Sine and Miss Margery Scriver; Recreation convener, Kitchener Smith.

Arrangements were made to have Robert Spence of Lakefield, president of the Presbyterial Young People's Union, speak at Trinity Young People's meeting on January 22.

An interesting program included solos by Marvyn Preston and Mrs. H. Edwards, readings by Miss Doreen Fleming, and Miss Ruth Oakley. Mrs. Arthur Fleming gave an outline of a chapter from the study book. An impressive candle-lighting service was led by Mrs. Glover and Mrs. E. Hess.

Cantata Is Presented By Lakefield Pupils

LAKEFIELD, De.c 22 (ENS). — The junior members of the Sunday School of the Lakefield United Church, opened the annual Christmas concert on Wednesday evening with the Christmas hymn "Away in a Manger." This was followed by all present singing "Joy to the World," after which the following program was carried through:

Recitations by the Juniors; piano duet, Misses Laura Grylls and Jean Spence; girls' trio, Betty Brown, Alvilda Pearson, and Helen Kelly; piano solo, Grace Millage: piano duet, Miss Laura Grylls and John David Grylls.

Hilda Northey was the winner of a special pin, having written the temperance examinations for five years. Mrs. W. W. Yale, who presented her with the pin, also presented gifts and certificates to the scholars who had written the recent temperance examinations.

The cantata "The Christmas Spirit," was played by Betty Brown as the spirit, and twelve other spirits who visited a children's party and brought the real Christmas spirit of love to them. The cantata was completed with the singing of the chorus "Good-Night," after which Santa made his appearance to distribute the candy bags to the different classes.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

Naval warfare, although it may appear to consist of a series of dramatic incidents such as the destruction of the Graf Spee, follows a consistent pattern and is directed to definite objectives. In this it differs from operations on land and in the air as they have developed so far.

Neither the Nazis nor the Allies have done anything on land or in the air to indicate a settled pursuit of an obvious objective. In both these fields of action operations have been defensive or in the nature of reconnaissance although both sides use their air arm to aid in obtaining the objective set before their naval forces.

Generally the objective towards which British and French naval operations are directed is the complete domination of the seas, involving the elimination of all traffic by sea, to and from Germany. To this end an effort is being made to sweep German shipping, whether armed or unarmed, from the seas.

Germany's naval objective is more modest but its attainment would be no less damaging to the Allies than attainment of the Allied objective would be to Germany because of the greater dependence of the British Isles on sea-borne traffic.

It is the crippling of the British mercantile marine and the intimidation of neutral ships to the end that the food and other supplies reaching Great Britain by sea may be seriously curtailed.

Thus the objectives of the naval operations of the rival powers are obvious. The objectives of land operations are obscure. The Nazis have done nothing to indicate they hope to win the war by sending their armies crashing into France. Neither have the Allies shown a clear intention of a drive into Germany.

Air operations so far indicate no settled policy of proceeding to the destruction of civilian morale by wholesale bombings or the crippling of industry and transport by selective bombings. Both sides have obtained much information which might be useful in such raids through reconnaissance flights.

Anthony H. G. Fokker Critically Ill

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 — (AP). — Anthony H. G. Fokker, 49, internationally known airplane designer and manufacturer, was critically ill in hospital here today of pneumococcus meningitis.

His physician, Dr. Robert M. Cushing said Fokker was "very seriously ill" and that "the most modern methods of therapy" were being employed to combat the disease, which, he said, attacked the lining of the brain and the spinal cord.

Fokker, born of Dutch parents in Kediri, Dutch East Indies, began flying in 1911. He was the head of important aircraft concerns in Germany during the First Great War. He came to the United States in 1922, and formerly was President of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation of America. He resides at Alpine, N. J.

Censors Keep Eagle Eye On All News Leaving Canada, Few Tips To Enemy

By FRANK FLAHERTY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, Dec. 22.—(CP).—Canada, in common with other belligerent nations, takes steps to see that information about its forces and general war activity does not reach the enemy if, it is considered that such information would be useful to the enemy.

Generally speaking all news exchanged between countries passes through a censorship and the censorship on news passing from one country to another is stricter than that on news originating in and published in Canada.

Thus news despatches coming to Canada from the United Kingdom pass the British censors. Those coming from France pass the French censors. Germany and Russia have their own long-standing and effective means of seeing that undesirable informatiton does not leave their shores.

The Canadian censorship authorities keep a watchful eye on news leaving Canada by cable, wireless and mail but put the responsibility for censoring news in Canada on the agencies distributing the news, the newspapers, news agencies and radio stations.

Voluntary Aid.

Thus cenorship of domestic news is a voluntary matter, subject to regulations and instructions in advance, whereas news passing out of or into the country must be approved in advance by some censorship authority, unless it comes from some country like the United States which maintains no censorship.

The proximity of Canada to the United States, a neutral country with no restrictions and large, widely-circulated newspapers and magazines puts Canada in a peculiar position.

Occasionally news originiating in Germany may reach the United States which is objectionable from a Canadian point of view, either because it is false or misleading. Sometimes also news may be published in United States' papers concerning ship movements into or out of Canadian and United States ports or about naval operations which cannot be published in Canada.

United States' publishers as well as Canadian have co-operated with the Canadian authorities. Certain American publications which cannot be named at this stage, but which are widely sold in Canada, for a time carried comment and other material which could not be published in Canada.

On being told that this was unfair to Canadian publishers and injurious to Canada's war effort they voluntarily dropped such material.

Every newspaper office in Canada occasionally receives a politely worded note saying information about such and such a matter should not be published.

The notes come from the chief press censors at Ottawa, acting on the authority of the Defence of Canada Regulations.

So far the press censors have issued 34 such notes but actually they have made little difference to the average newspaper reader. They have not involved the elimination of many items of wide popular interest. They have prevented the publication of items which might have been interesting to the German intelligence service.

In its New York bureau The Canadian Press assembles news from all parts of the world. It is the concentration point for all news of events outside Canada distributed to Canadian newspapers by their nation-wide co-operative news service. To it come all despatches furnished United States papers by the Associated Press.

On the average about 1,000 despatches move out of the New York bureau of The Canadian Press to newspapers in Canada each week and on the average only four to six despatches have to be discarded or altered to conform to censorship regulations. With this small exception Canadian newspapers may publish all news of the outside world as freely as do United States newspapers.

Of the 34 directions issued by the press censors so far some 12 related to information on a general subject such as the movement of troops, the arrival and departure of ships, the internment of enemy aliens.

Bancroft

Miss Selena Thompson who has been a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wiggins, Bancroft, returned to Toronto to spend the Christmas holidays with relatives.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Allan Loney of this village on Saturday evening, a son.

The annual Christmas tree concert of St. Paul's United Church was held Monday evening in the basement of the church and was enjoyed by those attending.

Mr. Roy Downey received a broken ankle Saturday night when he fell on the icy street. He was attended by Dr. Anderson.

Cars Collided On Bancroft Road

BANCROFT, Dec. 22.—(ENS)—An accident occurred on Highway No. 62 south of St. Ola late Wednesday afternoon, between John Hinze of the Township of Monteagle and Mr. Crosby of Toronto.

Mr. Crosby, proceeding towards the northern village, was stopped on the side road cleaning off the windshield of his car. Ernie Hinze, driver of the other car also proceeding north was just about to pass the Crosby car, when a lady stepped from the running board on the Crosby car into his path. Hinze hadn't any chance of avoiding an accident then, due to the icy condition of the highway and chose hitting the rear of Crosby's machine rather than striking the lady. Considerable damage was caused to the front end of the Hinze car. Crosby's car seemed to bear the accident much better. County Constable G. P. Wells investigated the accident.

Tobacco Stolen From Garage

TWEED, Dec. 22.—(ENS)—Robbers broke into McCauley's garage at Marysville after midnight on Wednesday and stole a quantity of tobacco, gasoline and oil. The lock on the door leading into the office and the locks on the gasoline pumps were pried off and were still missing upon arrival of provincial police, to investigate the robbery.

Stolen from the canteen was some $35 worth of tobacco and cigarettes, a quantity of chocolate bars and salted peanuts, a case and one-half of oil, batteries and a flashlight. No money had been left in the cash register when Mr. McCauley closed his place of business on Wednesday night.

After looting the premises the marauders procured the gasoline pump handle from inside the office and after breaking off the lock on the pumps stole about ten gallons of gasoline. Constable McBrien could trace the tire tracks of a motor car as far as Marysville only. Police are of the opinion those responsible for the robbery also possess knowledge of the theft of a motor vehicle in other parts of the county.

Christmas Gift

CALIFORNIA, Mo., Dec. 22—(AP)—The Board of Public Works marked "paid" on December electricity bills and mailed them to the 800 consumers as Christmas presents. F. H. Hert, officer manager, said the bills totalled about $3,000.

TWINS CELEBRATE

VANCOUVER Dec. 22—(CP). — Four consecutive sets born in five years to Mrs. Jack Dye and her husband, a service station operator —celebrated Christmas early this week with a big tree and all the trimmings. All strong and well, but one of them was away from home when the celebration was held early this week.

Millbrook St. Thomas Sunday School Holds Jolly Christmas Concert

MILLBROOK, Dec. 22 (ENS).—The Parish Hall of St. Thomas' Church was the scene of a happy party on Tuesday evening, when the teachers and officers of the Sunday School gave their annual Christmas supper and tree for the pupils. A seasonable atmosphere was emphasized by the gaily-trimmed Christmas tree on the platform, laden with gifts, and by the red and green runners and other decorations for the three long tables at which the guests were seated, shortly after 5.30 p.m.

The outstanding item on the first part of the menu was hot creamed chicken, and for dessert, ice-cream and cake in generous quantity. Following the clearing of the supper tables, the program was proceeded with, the welcome being extended to parents and friends by the superintendent, E. H. Barnes, who then turned ther gathering over to the rector, Archdeacon William Simpson.

Francis Handley gave a "welcome" recitation, and the members of Miss B. McCorry's Primary Class, Irene Trick, Joan Yelland, Frances Handley, Joan Wright, Barbara Patton, Ivan Wright, and Grace Fickling, sang "Rock-a-bye, Baby," the accompanists of the evening being Miss M. L. Collins, and Miss McCorry. R. Graham's class followed with "Christ is born To-day," the members being Lyal and Melville McMahon, Donald Trick, Allen Molyes, and Harold Trick. Each read a joke that caused a hearty laugh before leaving the stage, and three little girls, Irene Yelland, Helen and Ivy Fickling, sang very sweetly, "Little Words of Kindness."

Barbara Patton recited "A Letter to Santa Clause," after the Primary Class had again sung a carol, and Gordon Trick's Class, Benny Handley, Gerald Lowery, George Smith, J. Fickling, Alvin McMahon, and Donald Fickling, gave "Jingle Bells," after which two classes, those of Mrs. P. Handley and Miss Mary Smith, sang "The Boys are Marching." The members are: Barbara Handley, Jean Smith, Barbara Harkness, Rosemary Stainson, Helen and Irenet Yelland, Ivy Fickling, and Anne Stinson.

A piano duet by Misses Collins and McCorry was much enjoyed, and Mervan Trick's class, George Lowery, Harold Trick, Dick Fickling, David and Albert Brooks, sang "The First Noel."

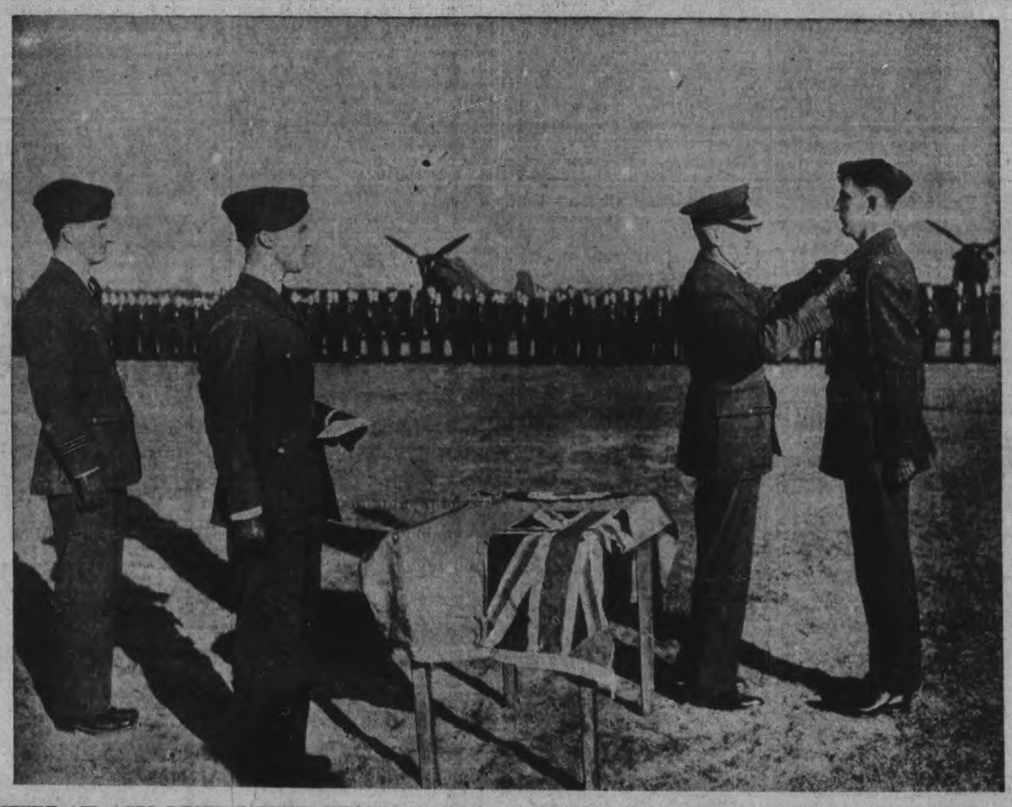
"Rose Green" was the song chosen by Mrs. L. J. Morton's Class, those taking part being: Betty Smith, Joy Howson, Maretta Graham, and Lillian Fickling, and after one or two other selections by various classes, Bennett Handley gave the concluding recitation with a "Happy New Year" wish.

Much stamping of feet and ringing of bells near the entrance door gave notice of the arrival of Santa Claus and the distribution of gifts from the tree, with the National Anthem, completed the entertainment.

CANADA RALLIES TO MOTHER COUNTRY'S SIDE

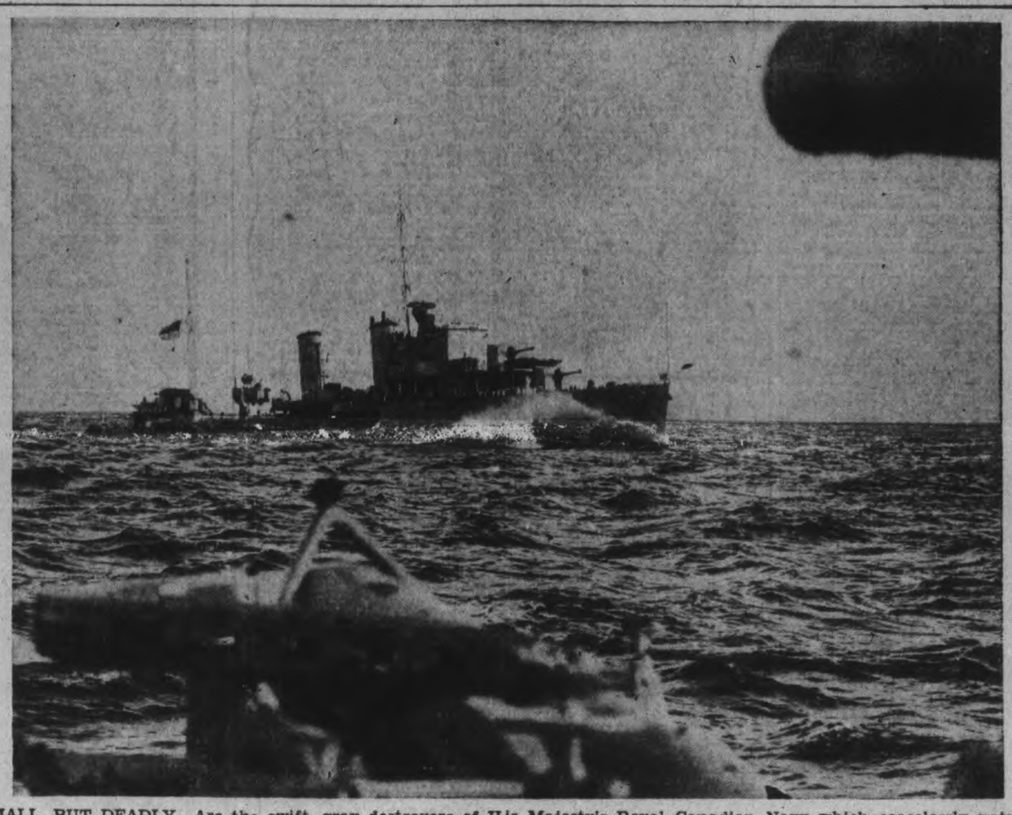
REMINISCENT OF 1914—Were the scenes as soldiers of the 1st Division of the Canadian Active Service Force boarded trains for the journey to the boats that carried them over the Atlantic.

AFTER A HARD DAY'S DRILL—Good fellowship is the keynote for the men who have answered Canada's call to the colors. From all walks of life, Canada's sons responded when word went out from Ottawa that fighting men would be needed for duty at home and abroad. These men, gathered around the piano for an evening's entertainment, are true representatives of those stalwarts of the 1st Division of the Canadion Active Service Force.

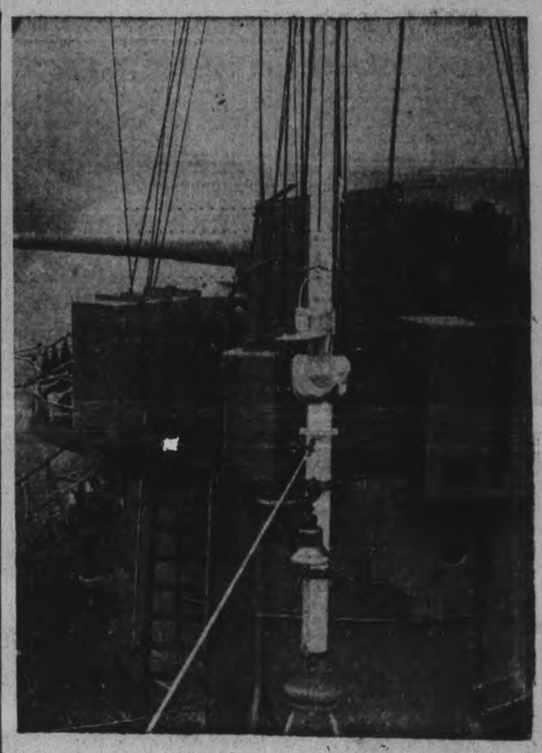


FUTURE AIR ACES RECEIVE THEIR WINGS—At various air training stations throughout Canada, which are hives of activities as Canada's fighting airmen are rapidly being taught to handle various types of fighting and bombing planes. In the near future pilots from England, New Zealand and Australia will come to Canada for advanced training as the gigantic British Commonwealth Air Training Plan hits its stride to turn out the world's greatest air force.

THOUSANDS MORE—Pilots like these three will be turned out in Canada as the new British Commonwealth Air Training plan begins operations. Under this plan airmen from England, New Zealand and Australia will receive advanced training in Canada.



SMALL, BUT DEADLY—Are the swift, gray destroyers of His Majesty's Royal Canadian Navy which ceaselessly patrol Canadian coastal waters, on guard for marauding enemy warships and submarines. Canada's harbors are kept free of enemy mines by ships of the Canadian navy, which also play an important part in convoying Allied and neutral shipping through perilous waters



GUNNERS OF THE CANADIAN NAVY—Are efficient and accurate in handling the guns which form the most important armaments carried by Canada's greyhounds of the sea. In addition to these guns, however, Canadian destroyers are also equipped with other deadly armaments.

Organist And Choirmaster Honored By Presentation

The annual Christmas party of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Choir was held on Thursday evening, with forty members and friends gathering to exchange greetings with their organist and choirmaster Martin B .Chenhall, A.R.C.O., and Mrs. Chenhall. Practice was held as usual, followed by an exodus to Mr. Chenhall's home on Water Street. Around an illuminated Christmas tree a program of songs and choruses was enjoyed, and afterwards President Marion Armstrong, in a short address, presented Mr. and Mrs. Chenhall with an occasional chair, a mark of appreciation from the choristers. Mr. Chenhall expressed thanks for the gift, and his gratitude to the choir for their support and loyalty. The choir librarian, Mr. Horace Hope, was also remembered, his gift being a dressing gown.

Miss Orma Lacheur and her committee were in charge of a delightful lunch.

Cunningham; card secretary, Mrs. P. Webb; supply secretary, Mrs. R. J. Kearns; Literature secretary, Mrs. D. E. Bell; Strangers' secretary, Mrs. T. H. Rehill; pianist, Mrs. A. Fife.

Mrs. G. N. Moncrief read the report of the nominating committee as submitted by the convener, Mrs. H. Martin, and the installation of officers was conducted by the pastor, Mr. G. S. Easton.

Mrs. J. W. Pierce led the opening devotions. The meeting opened with an Advent hymn, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. A. B. Cunningham read the scripture lesson, and prayer was offered by Mrs. Carver.

Encouraging reports were given by the department secretaries. The Strangers' secretary, Mrs. MacMorran, reported many calls made on the sick and shut-in members. A letter from Miss Margaret Halliday, a missionary en route to Africa, was read by Mrs. J. A. Bannister.

Mrs. A. B. Gates made a request for new subscribers and new subscriptions to the Missionary Monthly. Thirty "World Friends" are to be ordered for the Mission Band children.

Appreciation of the support of the executive and members of the Association was expressed by the retiring president, Mrs. Carver.

An appropriate solo, "The Holy Child" was sung by Mrs. L. R. Mitchell, with Mrs. H. V. Dobson at the piano. An inspirational Christmas message was presented by Mr. Easton. The service concluded with the Christmas Hymn, "Silent Night," and prayer led by the pastor. A social hour was enjoyed, during which tea was served by the executive.

Anglican Choir Leads Delightful Carol Service

A delightful carol service was held by St. George's Anglican Church Choir on Wednesday evening, under the direction of Mr. Jack Branson, choir leader, assisted by Mrs. R. King organist. Bible readings were presented by Rev. T. H. Floyd, pastor of the church.

Words of commendation for the fine work of the choir throughout the year were spoken by Rev. Floyd, who also expressed appreciation of co-operation given the members by the congregation. Favorite carols and Christmas hymns, led by the choir, were enjoyed by the congregation, and included "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing"; "All My Night This Heart Rejoices" "Carol Sweetly Carol"; "The First Noel"; "Joy to the World"; "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear"; "Hark! What Mean Those Holy Voices"; "We Three Kings"; "Holy Night"; "See Amid the Winter's Snow" and, "O Come, All Ye Faithful." The service concluded with "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks By Night," and the benediction.

Canoe Company Sponsors Children's Christmas Tree

The first Christmas tree of the Peterborough Canoe Company for the employees' children, held in the Paragon Hall, was a decided success. It was sponsored jointly by the company and the Watercraft Athletic Association.

Before the arrival of Santa a short enjoyable program was arranged. Mr. Homer Lundy, president of the Athletic Association, carried his duties well as chairman. The program opened with the song, "Jingle Bells." Miss Eleanor Taylor played a delightful piano solo and Mr. Douglas Mitchell gave a humorous recitation. Pretty little Miss June Bullied entranced her audience with a clever tap dance, and following the carol, "Hark, the Herald Angels sing," sung by all, a trombone solo was given by Jack Taylor, with Miss Eleanor Taylor at the piano. Miss June Ego, was enthusiastically received in a Christmas recitation, and Miss Katherine Hendry was heard in a fine piano solo.

Joyous and gleeful shouts of the children heralded the entrance of Santa Claus, who was welcomed on behalf of the W.A.A. by Mr. Lundy. Words of welcome on behalf of the company were added by Mr. Taylor and Mr. Hendry. Toys and candies were distributed b Santa Claus.

The Watercraft Athletic Association turkey was drawn for and won by Mr. Percy Bullied with number 262. The committee in charge of all arrangements were Mr I. Oesch, Mr. J. Bullied, Mr. E. Cheel. Mr. A. McQuarrie, and Mr. S. Clark.

SKIRTING THE STYLES

By ALICE ALDEN

SKIRTS aren't as simple as they used to be. Some are balloon, full above the knees in daytime styles and above the ankles in short, dancing-length dresses. The hobble, split and harem skirts are other newcomers, the last being a feature of the very wearable erepe pictured. It's a modified adaptation at that, giving more of an impression of front fulness than of the harem hem. Bands are criss-crossed for pretty sleeves, a narrow girdle, wrapped twice and tied at the waist, contributing further softness. Such frocks for afternoon and cocktails cry for uplifting hats like the rose - trimmed model shown.

A Shopper Pauses To Recall The Christmas Spirit

This is a true little story, folks, and one that made us pause for a moment in our rush of last-minute shopping to recall the deep-down meaning of all this Christmas business.

She was such a tiny little figure to be hustled about by the crowds, and except for the unusual look of inward "gloviness" reflected on her face, such an insignificant one. Our own preoccupied attention was drawn to her while we waited for a clerk to finish wrapping our purchase at the lingerie counter. Unnoticed by the busy clerks, she was caressing gently the gleaming bits of Satin that went into the making of expensive finery some pretty girl would acknowledge with careless "thank you" a Christmas morning.

Turning away, she threaded a path through the crowd of George street shoppers to the "fifteen-cent" store, where pennies were carefully counted out for a cheaply manufactured, but dainty bit of lingerie From there we followed her poorly cad little figure to the window of a jewelery store, where again a smile touched her lips as she gazed upon an expensive display featuring exquisite cameo pieces. Once more she retraced her steps to store where fifteen pennies would buy her gift —an imitation cameo ring. A tiny paper bag of old-fashioned peppermints, and her Christmas shopping was finished—but when some girl, her daughter, perhaps, unwraps the gifts oh Christmas Day, that little old ladies' eyes will see—not the cheap purchase, but the lovely satins and jewels that were her first choice.

We hope the Christmas spirit of the recipient will be strong enough to recognize the tremendous love and care that lay behind the choosing of the gifts—a love of giving that we fear is far removed from the careless, last-minute purchase made by many whose worldly means are greater than their realization of the true spirit of Christmas.

Caledonian Club Entertains

The annual Christmas tree entertainment of the Caledonian Club was held in the Moose Hall Thursday evening. A happy band of children gathered at 7.30, when the ladies' executive was ready to greet its little guests. The hall was decorated in Christmas colors and favors, but the large decorated and lighted tree was the chief centre of attraction. The ladies' executive, Mrs. O. Sugden and Mrs. K. Shadgett, had the gifts attractively done up in gay wrappings and ready for Santa Claus to distribute. Before his arrival the children put on a program of songs and recitations, which was enjoyed by the parents, as judged by the gales of laughter which they called forth. Santa (James Miller) arrived in the conventional costume, and to a merry jingle of bells. The children hailed him by singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." After suitably addressing his little guests, Santa presented each one with a toy and a bag of fruit and candy. Refreshments, provided by the mothers, were served to all present by the committee.

The following was the program, which was in charge of Mrs. J. Wyllie, with the assistance of Miss Edna Borland, who presided at the piano. Mr. W. May acted as chairman:

"Hark! The Herald Angels," everybody sang; song, "Winds Through the Olive Trees," by Joan Park; piano solo, "The Merry Bobolink," by Marion Julian; Sword Dance, by Edith Miller; recitation by Ross Tarkington; recitation, "Christmas Bells," by Bobby Sugden; song, "Sleep, Baby, Sleep," by Margaret Tarkington; song, "My Cup Full," by Esther Brown; piano-accordion solo, "Silent Night," by Clifford Pirie; recitation, "Christmas Shopping," by Jean Shadgett; recitation, "Snow Man," by June Tarkington; song and tap dance by Marion Brown; recitation by Jean Tarkington; song, "South of the Border," by Verne Tarkington.

A happy evening was brought to a close by the playing of musical chairs and other games, with Mrs. J. Harrison at the piano.

Mass gymnastic exercises are being introduced into Japan.

With The Girl Guides

2nd St. Peter's will be pleased to hear that meetings will be resumed in the New Year, commencing Thursday, January 4.

3rd St. George's closed the year with a supper party on Monday. Supper was suplied and served by the Mothers' Auxiliary to both Guides and Brownies. Rev. T. H. Floyd and Mrs. Floyd, Mrs. King, and District Captain, Mrs. R. Whalon, were guests. An entertainment followed, and gifts were exchanged. The Guides presented their Captain, Mrs. Douglas, with a cut glass dish set in a silver plate. The bread served at supper was a gift from Purity Bakeries, which was much appreciated.

Brownies of both packs ended their year with enjoyable Christmas parties and an exchange of gifts. Will all Protestant Guides and Brownies please remember church parade on Sunday, December 31, at Salvation Army Temple, 10.45 sharp.

Wishing you all a happy Christmas and "good guiding" for the coming year.

"The Scribe."

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

DOROTHY DIX

A Word Of Praise Now And Then Will Do a Great Deal To Make Home a Happy Place And Keep The Wife Contented With Her Lot.

A MAN wants to know what's the matter with wives, and why so many married women who apparently are sitting pretty on top of the world, with every comfort and luxury provided by a devoted husband, are peevish and fretful, disgruntled and given to lamenting their sad lots.

Well, perhaps the first reason why there are so many disillusioned wives is because such a number of them have been sold pieces of blue sky by glib talking youths who represented marriage to them as a perpetual petting party. They were led to believe that they were securing great lovers as life companions who would spend their time telling them how beautiful and wonderful and how different from all other women they were, breathing vows of passionate adoration into their ears.

And when they find they are united to just plain, ordinary citizens who are about as romantic as a ham sandwich, who drop all love-making at the altar and never mention the temperature of their affections again; who take them for granted and who hand out more knocks than bouquets, why, they just naturally feel that they have been gyped and are sore about it.

Another thing that is the matter with wives is that they have not fitted themselves for the career to which they have elected themselves. They haven't learned their trade. They don't know how to keep house, cook, market or run a budget. They are just as ignorant of how to housebreak a husband as they are of how to tame a lion. They are bungling amateurs in the most complicated of all professions. And so it is no wonder that they wear themselves out and get discouraged, nervous, cross and fretful, wrestling with a task that an expert could turn out with one hand tied behind her.

Another thing that is the matter with wives is that their husbands so seldom give them the glad hand. No other laborer on earth toils so many hours a day as does the domestic woman who does her own cooking, washing, sewing, mending and baby-tending, but her husband rarely gives her any credit for performing herculean tasks that would give him a case of nervous prostration.

On the contrary, he assumes that she leads a life of idleness and ease, and often expresses the wish that he had it soft as she does. Now it is human nature to long for appreciation, to want the stimulus of praise for work well done, as the reason many a wife slacks down in her housekeeping and sets the same soggy food on her table day after day is because she has got tired of stewing over the kitchen stove preparing a scrumptious dinner for a man who will gobble it down like a pig, without even giving a grunt of satisfaction

The reason that many wives slump and lose all the charms for which their husbands married them is because their husbands do not play up to them. A wife cant go on being romantically in love with a man who treats her as if she were just a useful household gadget. Nor can she put much enthusiasm into a kiss that she has to proffer herself and that lands on his cheek or the bald spot on his head instead of his lips.

Nor can she be sparking and entertaining when her wittiest sallies only bring forth an "umph" from the stuffed shirt behind a newspaper. And what's the use of dressing up for a man who never knows whether she has on a Paris frock or a sloppy kimono? Ninety-nine times out of 100 it is only after husbands have ceased to regard their wives as Lady Loves that they give up the fight to keep themselves attractive and to make marriage something more than an endurance contest.

Finally, of course, there are many wives who are lazy and trifling and selfish, who are that way because they know that marriage is a job from which it is extremely difficult to fire a wife. They treat their husbands with an insolence with which they would not have dared treat their bosses in the days when they worked in a store or office. They do no work to earn the money they waste. They do not try to make their husbands comfortable or happy. They are grafters because their husbands cannot rid themselves of them without scandal and divorce.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am engaged to a young man and I wish to be married, but my mother refuses her consent as he does not make enough salary to satisfy her that he can support me, although I am sure that we would both live on what he makes. And, besides, I work and make a very good salary and intend to keep on doing so after we are married. My mother has always been ambitious for me and she feels that I should not marry a man who isn't well fixed financially. What can I do in a case like this. I do not want to marry without my mother's consent, but I am of age and I feel that I cannot give up this boy, who is the dearest thing in the world to me, and who has every good quality that you could ask for in a man. My mother says that if I marry him without her consent she will have nothing further to do with me.—BEWILDERED.

ANSWER:

I do not think that you should give up the fine young man with whom you are in love just because of your mother's foolish ambition to see you marry a rich man. Many a mother has forced her daughter to do that then seen the rich husband come to poverty, while the poor boy fought his way to riches.

DOROTHY DIX.

Conducted By Miss Mary Moore.

Question: Just a few words to tell you that I enjoy very much reading your recipes and find them so flavorful. I would be more than glad if you could send me an Christmas cake recipe using honey instead of sugar and molasses.

I had this favorite dark Christmas cake recipe of yours for years, but this year can't find it, for which I am very sorry. Mrs. J. B.

Answer: Thank you for such a pleasant letter.

Christmas Fruit and Nut Cake. (Using Honey).

One and one-half cups honey, ½ lb. butter, 6 eggs beaten without separating yolks and whites), 1 lb. seeded raisins (mixed with ½ cup of the flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder (in the flour), 1 lb. flour (sifted), 1 lb. nut meats (preferably pecans not chopped). Combine the ingredients in order given. Spices such as mace, grated fresh nutmeg, and some grated fresh lemon rind may be added to this cake if preferred. This makes about 5 lbs. of cake when finished. Bake in 2 pans lined with at least 2 thicknesses of heavy greased paper, for 3 hours, at 300 deg. Fahr. This is an excellent a highly recommended cake.

Question: I think two years ago you printed a recipe for a deep meat pie containing oysters and mushrooms. It was very rich and delicious and too expensive for other occasions—but I served it on the Sunday before Christmas and found it a great success, but alas I did not use it last year and in the lapse of time have lost it. Is it too much to ask for it again— I will glue it to my favorite recipe book this time. Thanks for all the good Christmas recipes. Annie R.

Answer: We are going to have this too on the Sunday before Christmas—so glad someone else agrees with me on its deliciousness and appropriateness as a near Christmas dinner.

Deep Beefsteak and Mushroom Pie.

This particularly delicious meat pie may be made the day before eaten and served either hot or cold. If it is to be reheated, take care to cover top of pie with greased brown paper so that pastry does not get too brown during first baking.

Two pounds of tender beefsteak, 1 cup plump oysters, rich pastry (amount required uses about 1¼ lbs. flour), salt and cayenne pepper, mushrooms, 2 hard cooked eggs, 1½ cup cold water. Pound steak to break up tough fibers, and cut into 2-inch squares about 1 inch thick. Place in bottom of deep pie dish—11 x 8 x 3 approximately. Season meat to taste. Cover with the water. One cup of mushrooms are enough but more may be added if desired. Wash and slice these or leave whole if desired. Add to pie, and cut eggs in ¼-inch slices and lay them on the mushrooms, and place oysters around edges. Roll out rich paste to ¼-inch thickness. Paste must be very rich, preferably puff paste. Wet rim of dish with cold water. Insert funnel in centre of pie,—an egg cup will do. Cover top of pie with pastry. Moisten edge of pastry and put on a band of pastry around outside edge, press down lightly flute edges. Brush paste with beaten egg to give color when baked. Make one or two incisions in top of pie. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 1½ hours. Lowering temperature to 324 at half time.

Birmingham Bus Conductors At War

But the girls they left behind them are carrying on. Shown in session here is a class for women bus conductors. The lady making change is wearing the official uniform. Incidentally, she is Mrs. Molly Ashton, wife of a survivor of the aircraft carrier Courageous, which was torpedoed in the early days of the war.

Cavan Couple Is Honored On Golden Wedding

CAVAN, Dec. 22—(ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. Creighton Carr were guests of honor Wednesday at a large gathering of friends and relatives in Cavan Community Hall, it being the celebration of their golden wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Carr have spent entire lives in Cavan, and have a host of friend who gathered to offer congratulations on their having spent fifty years of married life. They have four sons, three of whom were present, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Carr, Merle and Maizel, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Carr, Rex and Frazer of Cavan, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Carr, Creighton and Marie of Bethany.

The youngest son, Clifford and family of Detroit were unable to be present and sent a letter of congratulation.

The Rev. W. E. Honey, pastor of Cavan United Church was the efficient, genial chairman for a good program.

The Misses Beatrice and Nan Fallis sang a duet, with Miss Elaine Argue as accompanist.

Rex and Frazer Carr rendered a vocal and instrumenetal duet.

The Misses Norma and Jean Gillis and Bernice Richards sang a vocal trio, with Miss Elaine Argue at the piano.

Presentation Made.

Mr. and Mrs. Carr were invited to take seats on the platform, also James Paul, when Oakley Carley read an address of congratulation and best wishes from the family, relatives and friends and James Paul presented them with a substantial purse as a tangible token of appreciation. Their small granddaughter, Maizel Carr presented Mrs. Carr with a beautiful bouquet of "mums."

The chairman then called on James Paul, T. Newton, H. Snider, F. M. Staples, R. Matchett, and R. S. Staples for short speeches.

Luncht Served

The National Anthem was sung, after which a sumptuous lunch was served in the basement which was nicely decorated for the occasion.

Two long tables were spread in front of the bridal couple, which was placed a beautiful three-story wedding cake baked by their daughters-in-law.

The committee were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. J. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tinney, Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Carley.

More than one hundred and fifty were present.

Those from a distance included, Mrs. Bertha Howson and Mrs. Hutchison of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Roe and family of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hutchison of Newtonville, Mrs. Carley, Bolton; Mr .and Mrs. Newton, Burkton; Mr. and Mrs. G. Gow, Bridgenorth; Miss A. Gow, Peterborough and Mr. Jack Newton of Toronto.

Several letters of congratulations were receieved by the committee from friends at a distance who were unable to be present.

FASHIONS

SIZES 14-48

The discriminating woman wears the correct clothes for her figure and her activities. This button-front dress has an air of distinction that is important. A gently flaring skirt, smooth shoulders and becoming ease at the waistline are essential points that every smart woman looks for in her clothes. This is a design that you will use many times, for different types of frocks. Make it in cotton to wear at home; in silk or rayon crepe for town; and pastel woollen or crepe for your winter vacation in the South.

Style No. 3040 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material.

DINNERS OF THE WEEK

By MARY MOORE

Sunday
Hot Boiled Cottage Roll (see note)
Brussels Sprouts
(Cooked in meat broth)
Buttered Spaghetti
Radishes and Mustard Pickles
Butterscotch Pie Coffee

Note—When finished with cottage roll return it to the water in which it was cooked (the flavor from cooking the Brussels Sprouts in the same water does not seem to be noticeable) and let stand in this water until next day. Then remove and slice cold for Monday's dinner—this standing in the water keeps it moist.

Monday (Hasty)
Sliced Cold Cottage Roll
Celery Relish
Creamed Canned Corn
Cubed Squash with Drawn Butter
Chopped Fruit Cup (Pineapple Maraschino Cherries, Orange, Banana)
Coffee Cake

Tuesday (Vegetarian)
Cream of Tomato Soup
Macaroni Baked in Spanish Sauce (See Note)
Baked Crumbed Parsnips Slices
Chopped Buttered Spinach
Asparagus and Lettuce Salad
Lemon Snow Pudding with Soft Custard Sauce
Coffee

Note: Boil macaroni 7 minutes. Drain. Put in buttered casserole. Pour over sauce made of tomato juice sauteed mushrooms, celery and onions, and flavored with cheese.

Wednesday (Oven Dinner, Economical)
Scalloped Potatoes with Crust of Sausage Meat
Boiled Shredded Cabbage with Parsley
Indian Pudding (cornmeal) with Lemon or Molasses Sauce
Tea

Thursday
Chili con Carne with Rye Toast
Fluffy Boiled Rice
Cabbage and Tomato Slaw
Pineapple Ice Box Dessert Coffee

Friday (Guests)
Baked Stuffed Whitefish

Statistics Only Add Fuel To Confusion

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 22 — (AP). — Those conscientious souls who like to be called "football statisticians" might as well throw away whatever they use in doping out football games, because the Tennessee-Southern California Rose bowl engagement won't stand still for any yardstick.

Take the respective gains of the two teams. Tennessee advanced the ball 2,978 yards by land and air in 10 games and scored 212 points. Southern California gained 2,733 yards and scored 167 points against nine opponents.

That's fine, but all it means is fuel for more confusion, because a Trojan rooter will loudly bellow that Tennessee "didn't play but two good teams all year, Alabama and Louisiana State."

And the volunteers very mechanically can hold their respective noses at two tie games and a close shave marring the Southern California record.

The war is reported not to have affected the activities of the Hitler Youth Movement in Southwest Africa.

Perhaps You Too Make These Bridge Boners

By Samuel Fry, Jr.

The bidding mistakes that infuriate partners, lose games—what are they. Well, here are a few of them. Check and see if you are guilty.

☆ ☆ ☆

Your opponents make a three-no-trump bid, you have a smattering of honor strength—and you double! That's hair-trigger doubling — and it's risky.

Chances are your opponents redouble and make several overtricks, because in addition to having all suits stopped they probably have a long six-or-seven-card minor suit not stressed in the bidding.

You hold Spades the Ace, Jack, 6, 4, 3—in Hearts, King, Jack, 7, 2—in Diamonds, nothing—in Clubs, King, Jack, 10, 5.

Yet you pass! A bad piece of under-bidding. Though you haven't 2½ honor tricks, your 5-4-4 distribution, plus jacks and one 10, makes a bid compulsory.

☆ ☆ ☆

And do you make unnecessary jump bids? Do you falsecard when you shouldn't? See your bridge faults as others see them. Our 32-page booklet tells what to avoid, what to do in bidding at bridge. Helps you to win games, be a popular partner.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR BRIDGE to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, December 23.

Particularly lively and pleasant activities are spurred into regulation holiday enterprise by the predominant planetary configurations. In all departments of living a spirit of enterprise and good will is shown with much stirring about, commotion, excitement, but nothing to mar or becloud. High romance and adventure abound, with mystical corollaries not wanting.

Those whose birthday it is have the happy augury of a prosperous, progressive and successful year, with new as well as old matters under fine stimuli for achievement. Change of importance, with romantic adventure, looms large, although the accent seems to be on domestic, social, artistic or sentimental occupations and preoccupations. It should be a joyous year.

A child born on this day may be endowed with all the factors and endowments for a successful, happy and useful life. It may be enterprising, constructive, adventurous, and audacious, as well as having all the finer graces and aspirations

ABANDON THE RULES

WE ALL have rules for leading, classing some leads as desirable and others as undesirable. These are meant to guide us when we are in the dark and have not seen the dummy. But when we have had a good look at it and also learned sundry things about the situation, our job is to substitute plain ordinary common sense for those rules.

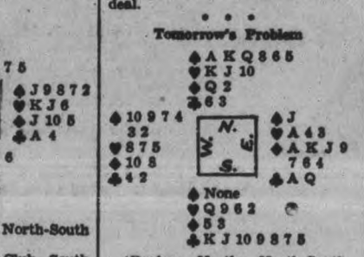
(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Here North bid 1-Club, South 1-Spade, North 1-No Trump and South 3-No Trumps. East led the diamond jack to the ace and then took the second club trick. He returned another diamond, whereupon the declarer took the rest of the tricks.

It should have been perfectly clear to East that a second diamond lead was futile and that the same was true of a spade lead. The side's only chance to accomplish anything was in hearts. The return of a small heart, hoping to find West with the ace, would have prevented overtricks on the deal.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

If East doubles North's opening spade bid and then gets into 4-Diamonds, which North doubles, what should South lead?

Censorship Felt Lightly By Canada As It Protects National Interests

OTTAWA, Dec. 22 — (CP). — Wartime censorship rests lightly on Canadians, but, backed by the force of law, it stands ready to protect who unconsciously or deliberately might betray vital secrets to the enemy or undermine the country's war effort from within.

Generally the purpose of censorship is to prevent information which might be of value from reaching the enemy and to prevent the dissemination of information in Canada which may adversely affect the nation's war effort.

With these ends in view the Government moved quickly to provide a censorship at the outbreak of war. General principles regarding the type of information which might be prohibited and the measures to be taken were laid down in the defence of Canada regulations.

With a view to providing a speedy means of enforcing the regulations and also of interpreting them the Censorship Co-ordination Committee, consisting of Government officials representing different departments was established.

Many Different Problems.

Each of the different agencies for transmitting information, the press, the radio, the mails, the movies, cable, telegraph and wireless, presents its own problem to censorship authorities. Each is attended to by officials representing different departments of Government who meet on the Co-ordination Committee for exchange of information and settlement of questions of policy. First chairman of the committee was Walter S. Thompson, director of publicity for the Canadian National Railways, who has now become Director of Public Information. The present chairman is Lt.-Col. Maurice Pope, who has represented the Department of National Defence on the committee since its inception.

Cable censorship, as distinguished from other forms, involves the reading of practically all messages leaving Canada.

In press censorship, there is no prior reading of news despatches or editorial matter. Publishers, editors and writers have been advised of the regulations and are presumed to know what material is forbidden.

They are expected to and do co-operate with authorities by acting as their own censors. When they are in doubt as to whether a given item contravenes the regulations they may consult the chief press censors for Canada at Ottawa or local press censors at Toronto, Montreal and Halifax.

All Experienced Newsmen

Practically all the people having to do with press censorship are experienced newspapermen. The chief press censors, L. Claire Moyer and Claude Melancon, as well as the local censors know the newspaper business from the inside.

In radio censorship again the operating principle is co-operation. Knowing the regulations the people in charge of broadcasting are relied upon to govern themselves accordingly and when in doubt consult Lt.-Col. R. P. Landry, the radio censor on the censorship co-ordination committee.

Whatever censorship of mails is required is attended to by Post Office Department officials. John A. Sullivan, Deputy Postmaster Geeral, represents the department on the committee.

Wireless communication generally falls under the jurisdiction of the Transport Department and Commander C. P. Edwards, chief of Air Services and former chief of the radio branch, represents that department on the committee.

Practically all Canadian provinces maintain machinery for censorship of moving pictures and these authorities are relied upon to see that no undesirable matter reaches the public on the screen.

Heat-Warped Hulk – Sole Remains Of Former German Sea Terror

A heat-warped hulk, sticking up from the muddy bottom of the River Plata estuary, off Montevideo, is all that remains of the Nazi battleship Admiral Graf Spee, which was scuttled by her crew rather than give battle to the British warships waiting for her to come out of the harbor. Captain Hans Langsdorff, skipper of the former pride of the German navy, shot himself after the scuttling of his ship. Chancellor Hitler was reported to have personally ordered the scuttling of the Graf Spee when faced with the choice of either having the ship interned, scuttled or sunk in battle.

2 Sunday Schools In Marmora Hold Christmas Concerts

MARMORA, Dec. 22—(ENS). — The Sunday Schools of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's held their Christmas concerts on Wednesday with fine attendances of scholars and parents.

A supper was served in St. Andrew's Hall at 6.30 p.m. by the Women's Association. When all were amply fed, a program was given with Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher acting as chairman.

Santa Claus then arrived for the distribution of Christmas goodies and to make and renew acquaintances with the younger folk.

St. Paul's Concert

At St. Paul's Parish Hall Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell, presided over a splendid program given by the children and others as follows: Carols, school; recitation, Margaret Ann Smith; step dance, Ivan Lavender; recitation, Phyllis, Hickey; song, Gwendolyn Rundle; recitation, Anne Lavender; song with guitar accompaniment, Sam Gifford; recitation, Audrey Lummiss; tap dance, Keitha Pressick; recitation, Frieda Ash; carol, school; song, Eleanor Regan; recitation, George Kennedy; recitation, Gwendolyn Scott; violin solo, George Rice; recitation, Jack McLaughlin; song with guitar accompaniment, Sam Gifford; carol, Mrs. P. Gray and Mrs. L. R. Rundle.

14 Proposed To Contest City Council

Only 20 Citizens Are Present At Civic Nomination

One woman and thirteen men were nominated for the five aldermanic vacancies in the City Council at the City Hall last night.

Mrs. (Dr.) C. M. Scott, proposed by John J. Turner and Alderman G. N. Gordon, was the solitary representative of the distaff side of the community's life in the list of possible candidates for the municipal elections on New Year's Day. Her nomination was a reminder and recognition of the equal right of women to aspire to sharing the honor and responsibility of sharing in the trust of civic service.

The five aldermen whose terms are ending with the old year were all proposed again: Robert S. Cotton, Walter Stocker, G. N. Gordon, K.C., R. M. Glover, and James Juby.

Aldermen Cotton and Gordon announced their intentions of accepting nomination; Aldermen Stocker and Juby were not present at the public meeting following the close of the hour from 7.30 to 8.30 for filing nominations with City Clerk Armstrong; and Alderman Glover repeated his earlier decision to retire from the Council without offering himself again for re-election.

Norwood Fails To Get Council

NORWOOD, Dec. 23—(ENS).—The worst collapse of municipal nominations ever experienced in this village resulted last night when Norwood was left without a Reeve, Council or School Board.

Only nomination to stand was that of B. W. Squire, who was nominated to the hydro commission. Only one nomination for council was received, that of Rev. J. U. McIntosh, who declined to accept it because he is now associated with the Prince of Wales Rangers and feels that he might not be able to complete his term of office before mobilization comes. There were no other nominations for Reeve, Council or School Board, and another meeting was called for a week from Wednesday.

We Would Hear That Song

Editorial

SANTA CLAUS did not start Christmas. It may seem strange to see that assertion but it seems to be necessary. Looking over the plans for this season Santa Claus seems to get the front seat and the preferred place. It is even so in nearly all the thoughts and expectations of our children. They live in a feeling of expectation about what Santa Claus is going to bring them; they write letters to him and they believe in him. We are not attacking Santa Claus; not for a minute. Fact is we like him.

But Santa Claus is not Christmas. Neither did he originate the event. It is on this day we pause to remember the birth of Christ. Whether we have exactly the right day is something about which scholars and men of much learning can argue if they wish, but the larger idea is that we shall let nothing come and usurp the basic meaning of Christmas.

* * *

THE first Christmas was a primitive sort of affair; it was staged out in the open and at night. There were shepherds abiding in the field keeping watch over their flocks by night. They first knew about it when they heard the heavenly host break forth into song and the burden of the song was that the Christ Child had come. There never was an announcement made that way before, and there has since been no parallel. It must have been something which was reserved for a great occasion, a method used only to herald Heaven's Greatest Gift to this world.

One thinks of such things in a strange way in a year when Christmas finds the world at war. Perhaps it causes one to wonder if the Heavenly song could be heard above all the noise the world is making, noise which is so far removed from that first Christmas song.

The loud report of great guns, the droning of bombing planes in their mad flight, the whining of shells on their message of destruction. God! What place is there in all this for that song about "Peace on earth . . . and something else which told of good-will toward men?"

There does not seem to be any place where these two ideas and agencies can meet. They have nothing in common, and it is hard to find space for them both because they do not agree. Can we have peace and war at the same time? Can love and hatred find common roof, and can there be mutual shelter for good will and destruction?

* * *

AND yet there is something of which we are so sure there can be no mistake about it. Just this—there never was a time when this weary old world longed and yearned more urgently for the fulfilment of that Christmas song than right now. We want that peace of which the choir of Heaven sang, and we want that good-will which was included in the great oratorio of Heaven. Want them as we have never wanted anything else; yearn for them with a longing too deep for utterance.

We would as it were brush all else aside; we would unstop our ears so we might hear; we would raise the head from the lesser tasks of the day in order that we might see aright; we would recapture and hold fast to the first Christmas message which broke through the stillness of the Palestinian night 1939 years ago.

War Outlook Finds UK Confident

Colonies, Dominions Maintain Stream Of Vital Supplies

LONDON, Dec. 23 — (CP). — Backed to the limit by the Empire's tremendous resources of men and material, Britain looks forward confidently to the New Year and whatever it may bring in the way of Nazi war terrorism.

Since war was declared September 3, the great Empire war effort has been gaining momentum. Vital supplies have poured into Britain from the far corners of the earth and the Dominions and Colonies have put themselves on a war footing.

Support has come from strange places too—the Singapore rickshaw owners contributed $1,000 to the Malaya Patriotic Fund to express "our gratitude for the kind treatment we have received at the hands of the British Government."

The gift is slight in this most costly of all wars—in which Britain alone is spending about $30,000,000 a day—but it's typical. So are the fabulous contributions by Indian Princes and the campaign of 300,000 South African native mine-boys to contribute a shilling a month for the purchase of a battleship.

50 Germans Die In Another Train Wreck

KARLSRUHE, Germany, Dec. 23—(AP).—Fifty dead were removed today from the wreckage of two trains which collided head-on at top speed last night, it was announced officially. Thirty persons were injured.

The accident, involving a freight train and a passenger train, occurred about 10 p.m. (4 p.m. EST) and was the second in one day and the 10th in a series of railroad disasters since the war began.

Total dead in the series was raised to 319, and the injured to more than 311.

Two express trains collided in the station at Genthin yesterday morning, killing 132 persons and injuring 109.

Last night's wreck occurred between the stations of Marksdorf and Kluftern, on the Friederichshafen-

Nazi Scuttlings, British Air Raid Successes, Canadian Troop Arrival In England Lend Cheerful Tone To Week Of Conflict

By DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Cable Editor.)

British naval power, favored in the changing tides of war, crowded the German sea forces along the road of self-destruction in the 16th week of hostilities and held Britain's own maritime losses to small proportions.

On orders from Berlin, the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, defeated in battle by three lightly armed British cruisers, was blown up by her crew in the estuary of the river Plata. In Buenos Aires three days later, the ship's commander, Captain Hans Langsdorff, fired a revolver bullet through his temple.

The Nazis' determination to prevail or to destroy their ships by their own hands was carried a step farther when the crew of the 32,000-ton passenger liner Columbus, approached by a British naval vessel in the North Atlantic, opened the seacocks and set fire to the ship.

Other scuttlings brought German sea losses for the week to more than 50,000 tons, while the Nazis, seeking revenge in air attacks on unarmed British fishing boats in the North Sea, were able to sink less than 20,000 tons of Allied shipping. Neutral losses, mainly Scandinavian, totalled 30,000 tons.

In Finland, the Red invaders were reported in full retreat in the north, defeated by the unyielding Finns and by the severity of the arctic winter. The Petsamo nickel mines, developed by Canadian engineers and Canadian capital, were said to have been recaptured. On all fronts the Finns fought stubbornly, captured or destroyed Russian tanks and other military equipment, and raided the enemy lines from the air.

While the Soviet commander on the Karelian front was said to have been removed and the Red air force bombed Finnish hospitals in Helsingfors, Joseph Stalin deep within the walls of the Kremlin observed his 60th birthday, denied the birthday gift his lieutenants had promised—the capture of the Finnish capital.

There was a message of felicitation, however, from the Nazi leader of Germany, Adolf Hitler, who retired to Obersalzburg to pass a solitary Christmas, perhaps in reflection on Germany's most disastrous week of the war. A glimpse into this mountain retreat of Hitler's was given in documents issued Thursday by the French government, in which a French ambassador described it as an "eagle nest suspended in space" where the effect was "grandiose, savage, almost like an hallucination."

In contrast to the gloom in the Reich, Britons approached Christmas happy over the Royal Navy's successes and arrival in England of the first contingent of Canadian troops. The British press pointed with pride to the fact Britain's cause was such that men crossed oceans voluntarily to stand at her side.

In Ottawa the Empire air training agreement, designed to provide the Empire with a well nigh inexhaustible supply of airmen, was signed. In Paris the Allied supreme war council met and was reported to have formulated plans to aid Finland in her struggle against Russia.

Off Heligoland in the North Sea the largest air battle of the war was fought between British and German craft. Berlin claimed more than 30 British planes were shot down, but the Air Ministry in London said the total really was seven, with the Germans themselves losing about a dozen.

Glancing back 25 years:

In the week of Dec. 17-23, 1914, the first of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, the Princess Pat's, landed at Le Havre. In Belgium the Allies attacked strongly and regained some territory while in southern Galicia and the Carpathians the Austrians suffered reverses.

Greetings To Troops

Paris, Dec. 23 (CP Havas)

THE following Christmas message was sent today to the British forces by General Gamelin, commander-in-chief of the Allied forces on the western front:

"Soldiers of the British Empire, and particularly you who are serving in France under Lord Gort, I send you very warm Christmas greetings from your comrades of the French armies.

"This festival stands for the future, and our effort in this war is creating the future. That future will be what we all mean it to be, for the courage of our men is unconquerable."

Russian General Reported Stripped Of Command As Soviet Drive Bogs Down

Red Bombers Renew Air Raids On Finn Cities

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 23 (AP) — Soviet Russian bombers were reported today to have renewed air raids on Finnish cities shortly after midnight for the fifth successive day.

Unconfirmed reports reaching here said bombs had fallen on the Finnish seaport of Turku (abo) and Pori and the ammunitions centre of Tampere, 100 miles north of Helsingfors.

The Red army's retreat from far north Finland was reported still visible fro mthe Norwegian frontier, meanwhile, as Finnish troops launched an offensive against the invaders on the Karelian Isthmus in the south and hurled them back along the central Finnish "waistline."

The report said several Russian battalions in the Arctic sector had been surrounded at Salmijaervi, centre of the nickel mining district which was burned by the Finns when they retreated.

Finnish reports also said the army had cut off highway communications with Petsamo, Arctic port, forcing the Soviet forces to continue eastward toward Kola, across the border in Soviet Russia.

In the central Salla district, the Finns were reported pounding at the retreating Russians so relentlessly that the forces had been thrown into confusion.

The Finns declared there was no longer a "living Russian" south of Salmijaervi on the Arctic front—but that thousands were dead, victims of a bitter blizzard and sub-zero weather.

Spirited counter-attacks by the Finns were reported from the isthmus frontier.

Rail Supply Line Cut

One report from Oslo said the Russian withdrawal in the Arctic was forced by the bombing of the Murmansk railway, cutting off a supply source for the Russian expedition.

On the Karelian front, a Finnish communique said, an attack was repulsed between Kuokjaervi and Muola "after especially intensive artillery and aerial bombardment."

The Finnish air force carried the attack to Terijoki, Isthmus frontier town and seat of the Kremlin-recognized "people's government" of Finland.

One Soviet plane was shot down over Helsingfors yesterday out of a group of seven which sent 20 to 30 bombs raining on the Finnish capital without causing any reported casualties or heavy damage.

The army said more than 350 Red air force planes had engaged in raids over Finland during the day, but casualties of only 16 dead and 43 wounded were reported. Eleven enemy planes were brought down by anti-aircraft guns, the Finns said.

Moscow Press Claims Army Doing Well Under Circumstances

MOSCOW, Dec. 23—(AP).—Failing for the third successive day to report any important gains against Finland, Soviet Russia declared today the Finns' natural and constructed defences made impossible a "lightning blow."

Although the Russian communique contended the Red army was doing well under the circumstances, unconfirmed reports circulated here that General G. A. Meretskoff had been relieved of his post as commander of the campaign against Finland.

Summarizing activities since the war began Nov. 30, the communique said "important successes" had been scored in this period.

"The territory of Finland presents most serious difficulties for movements of troops," it said. "Lack or roads, rugged terrain, impassable forests, innumerable lakes divided by innumerable isthmuses spanned by several lines of defence consisting of concrete gun and machine-gun emplacements with concrete refuges for troops—these are conditions hindering the rapid advance of troops on Finland's territory."

Germany Orders 50 Ships 'Try Dash Home'

PARIS, Dec. 23 — (AP).—French naval sources said to-day the Allies are keeping close watch for approximately 50 German ships reported to have received orders to return "by all possible routes" from neutral ports to the Reich.

These vessels have been immobilized since the start of the war with an estimated total cargo of 1,800,000 tons.

Authoritative sources said Germany apparently is making a great effort to get raw materials which the ships carry.

Allied Navies, these sources said, have seized 750,000 tons of merchandise since the start of the war without counting 157,000 tons which the Germans have sent to the bottom by scuttling their own ships.

Cruiser Bagged At Four Miles

LONDON, Dec. 23 — (CP). — An official account today of the sinking of a German cruiser of the Koln class by the British submarine Ursula at the mouth of the Elbe river said the raider dived under six protecting destroyers to get to within the range of her quarry.

The cruiser was sighted four miles away.

"The commander then snatched a quick periscope sight at the cruiser and fired and dived," the account said. "The Ursula was shaken by a tremendous explosion then another indicated a second torpedo hit."

British Army, Navy, Air Chieftains Offer Empire Cheer In Pledges

LONDON, Dec. 23.—(CP)—Christmas message from Viscount Gort, commander-in-chief of the British forces, Admiral Sir Charles Forbes, commander-in-chief of the home fleet, and Air Chief Marshal Sir Cyril Newall, chief of the air staff, were issued here today.

Lord Gort said:

"Once more within the memory of many of us, a British expeditionary force is spending Christmas in France, the Allied armies stand united to resist aggression.

"In the year that lies ahead, difficulties and dangers will undoubtedly arise, as they have done in the wars of the past, but they will be surmounted,owing on the one hand to the close understanding which today exists between the French nation and ourselves, and on the other hand to the knowledge that your thoughts are with us at all times, whether the weather be fair or foul.

"In whatever part of the Empire you may dwell, I extend to you all cordial good wishes for Christmas and New Year."

From the Navy

Admiral Forbes said:

"Men and women of our home country and empire, the officers and men of the fleet I command send you their best wishes for Christmas.

The Daily Herald said that while no one would hope or wish to forget the war during Christmas that was no reason for a lack of laughter and cheerfullness, virtues against which "Nazism sends its dark and horrible challenge."

Humor was not forgotten. The Herald illustrates a story on home defence "archies" being manned throughout Christmas with cartoons of a sky-riding, fretful Santa Claus dodging shells and shouting: "Unidentified aircraft be blowed! Those gunners will be sorry for this when they look at their stockings."

The Daily Mail carries a Christmas ABC nursery rhyme which starts by lampooning "A is for Adolf" and includes:

"C stands for Churchill,
"You all know what he does—
"He rounds up the U-boats

Britons Out For Merry Christmas In Spite Of War And Blackouts

LONDON, Dec. 23—(CP Cable)—The shroud of war is hanging darkly over the country, but under the blackout in front of the friendly holly-laden hearthsides, Old England is preparing for a "Merrie Christmas."

Behind the front pages creaming with war news, this morning's newspapers reflect the Yuletide theme in their last publication until after Boxing Day (Tuesday).

They carried the usual special Christmas features including the Bible story in places where military experts usually hold forth and laid emphasis on the Christmas Day broadcast which will bring the Commonwealth to the Royal Family fireside at Sandringham.

The Daily Mail, searching for a cheery message to its readers, added to its seasonal greetings the comforting thought that since yesterday was the shortest day of the year, the blackout will be getting shorter "if only a few seconds each day."

The Mail editorial called it a "Christmas of war which isn't a full war. A Christmas of Peace—and there isn't peace," and prayed: "That by this time next year millions will be released from the bondage of a regime whose ideals are the very mockery of Christmas."

King Confers Honors On Members Navy

LONDON, Dec. 23.—(CP)—Deeds of heroism by officers and men of the Royal Navy were acknowledged by the King in the announcement today of a number of decorations.

The list of awards occupies a whole supplement to the London Gazette. Special mention is made of the gallantry of Commander Richard Frank Jolly, who though mortally wounded in an attack by German warplanes, brought his ship—the Mohawk—into port. He died five hours later, and the award of the Military Medal of the Order of the British Empire is therefore made posthumously.

Flying Santa Claus Tunes Up Airplane

BOSTON, Dec. 23.—(AP).— New England's flying Santa Claus tuned up the motor of his airplane to-day, preparing for renewal of his annual Christmas visit to the lonely lighthouse keepers along the bleak northern United States coast.

Captain William Wincapaw will take off at dawn to-morrow to begin his 126 Yuletide calls upon the isolated posts which watch and wait for him eagerly. At each lighthouse he will drop a package containing candy, cigars, newspapers, magazines and copies of the Old Farmer's almanac.

Canadian Harbor Sub-Proof Strung With Nets Of Steel

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Dec. 23.—(CP). — Nets of steel cable stretch across the mouth of this part, vital in Canada's war effort, to spell quick death to any German submarine that might seek entry.

This reporter went out to the safety boom to-day aboard a tiny tender boat of the Royal Canadian Navy and watched the workings of the snare set for undersea marauders. To see it is to be assured.

The port may hold ships laden with the supplies necessary to the Empires war effort. Ships of war responsible for keeping open the Atlantic might call for refueling and restocking. So nothing can be left to chance and Canada's men in navy blue are doing their job with traditional naval thoroughness.

The anti-sub nets cover every inch of navigable water across the mouth of the port channel. They are kept afloat by stout steel drums and drop to the sea floor.

Two mine sweepers of First Great War vintage operate an ingenious "gate" to permit entry or departure of ships.

The officer in charge of the gate when he called was Skipper James O'Hearn of the Royal Canadian naval reserve and he was as proud of the arrangement as he was certain of its effectiveness. He blew for the gate to be closed while we braced our landlubber legs on his mine sweeper and the job was done in little less time than it takes to swing shut the door of a vault.

His signal still echoed on the smart breeze blowing out to the sea when a winch on the second minesweeper, stationed at the opposite side of the gate, rasped into action. The winch held one end of a cable on its teeth while the other end ran along the seafloor to the open end of the two nets.

Wing To Wing R.A.F. 'Charge' Heligoland In Light Brigade Style—And Go Through

LONDON, Dec. 23 (CP Cable) —A stirring tale of British air bravery—virtually a 20th century charge of the Light Brigade—was related by an authoritative source today as details of the North Sea air battle last Monday were sorted out from reports of individual airmen.

It was a story of British Wellington bombers flying wing tip to wing tip and maintaining their formation despite the withering fire of crack German fighters, which were mostly superfast Messerschmitts.

"I should think there were were about 80 to 100 aircraft engaged," he related. "We were greatly outnumber and outmanoeuvred because of the higher speed of the fighters. The crews fired shot for shot and gave better than they got. Most of the crews were under fire for the first time."

As the British formations entered Heligoland Bight they were almost immediately met by enemy fighters which were easily knocked off. The skies began to fill with German fighters when the formations neared their objective at Wilhelmsafen and they were attacked from all directions.

The full blast of anti-aircraft guns was an additional hazard as the Germans sought to force the British formations to open out so the German fighters would be able to deal with them individually.

The main attack came after the British planes completed their task and turned away from the objective. The Germans attempted to attack the formations by beam-sweeping them with fire from stern to stem, but many Germans were shot down.

One British plane shot down five fighters. Although attacked continuously for nearly 40 minutes and chased 60 miles to sea the plane was brought home safely. When two gunners were wounded the second pilot ran from one gun position to another to meet attacks from different directions.

Another pilot related he was fighing a Messerschmitt 110 type when a Messerschmitt 109 "flew straight into our cross fire and blew up in the air."

The bottom front turret of one British plane was blown away by shells and ignited. The gunner extinguished the fire with his gloved hand. This plane was forced down near the English coast and the crew rescued.

Ottawa To Tread Lightly In Mine Tax Changes

OTTAWA, Dec. 23 (CP)—The government will give full consideration to the value of the gold mining industry in wartime in any proposed revision of the profits tax.

This, in effect, was the word given representatives of gold mining companies of Northern Ontario and Quebec in an interview with Finance Minister Ralston, it became known today.

The mining representatives met the minister Thursday and discussed the problem of the wartime excess profits tax on new mines and other mines beginning to expand in production.

The minister was told by spokesmen for the companies that the system of taxation established at the wartime parliamentary system in September worked unfairly against gold mines which recently came into production and those ready to produce.

Few long-established gold mining companies would elect to be taxed under the sliding tax on profits, the delegates said. This provision calls for a 10 per cent tax where profits are between 5 and 10 per cent on capital and up to 60 per cent where profits on the capital are in excess of 25 per cent.

The cheaper alternative would be to choose taxation of 50 per cent in 1940 profits in excess of the average for 1936-39 inclusive. New gold mining companies, however, are restricted by the legislation to the sliding scale basis of taxation.

In the four-year taxation basis provided as an alternative were stricken out it would affect many "key" industries falling under the act other than gold mining. The minister was reported to have told the mining men.

"This whole question of the sliding scale basis will be carefully considered from the viewpoint of their effect on new gold mining companies, however," the delegation was told.

Neutral Zone Meeting Opposition

Congressmen Fear Enforcement May Lead To War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Opposition appeared today to be crystallizing in the United States Congress against attempts of 21 Latin-American nations and the United States to maintain a 300-mile neutrality zone in the oceans around their shores.

Voicing an opinion in which some of his colleagues concurred privately, Senator George Norris, Nebraska Independent, told newsmen he thought that establishment of such a zone had no substantial basis in international law. He also indicated belief that the program might even lead to involvement of some of the American republics in war.

Norris disclosed his views as officials of the American republics drafted a joint declaration to belligerents, protesting that the 300-mile zone has been violated.

The declaration, prompted by incidents such as the fight of British cruisers with the German pocket battleship Graf Spee near Uruguay last week, may be issued this evening.

1,000 Canadians On Leave 'Scout' London

LONDON, Dec. 23.—(CP Cable)—Off on a five-day leave, more than 1,000 members of the Canadian Active Force got their first daytime look at London today after a week aboard ship and a week shivering at Aldershot in the coldest weather in England this year.

News photographers covered the Canucks wherever they appeared and citizens cheered their passing. Even in the bustle of London's millions getting home for Christmas the husky lads from the Dominions did not pass unnoticed.

Scores for the first time in this city took the opportunity for bus jaunts around the Empire capital before leaving to spend Christmas with friends.

Canada House was visited by almost every soldier. Corporal Robert McDowell, the red-jacketed Mountie at the door, was amused to see several former Mounties in the khaki battle dress of the C.A.S.F. They are members of the No. 1 Provost Company.

"Where's Buns King?" McDowell asked of the former Mounties.

He was told that "Buns" was holidaying over the New Year.

McDowell, a hero of 1931, took Lance Corporal A. W. King, now of the Provost Company, 80 miles in dogsled to Aklavik, on the shores of the Arctic Ocean, after he had been wounded by "the mad trapper" of Rat River.

A Real Battle

("The Mad Trapper," Albert Johnson, was sought for questioning about interference with traps and fur thefts, and started a hunt that lasted three months at the end of 1931 and early in 1932. Constable King was wounded when he approached Johnson's cabin, 80 miles from Aklavik. Johnson's knowledge of the north enabled him many times to escape the mounties, but he was finally killed in a gun battle at a bend in the Rat River.)

Prior to leaving for camp Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, general officer commanding the C.A.S.F. announced that every member of the force would be provided with a facsimile copy of His Majesty's message to the troops on their arrival last Sunday.

There is a possibility that Harringay arena may be used by the troops, according to Duncan A. L. MacDonald, of Montreal, representing Brig.-General A. C. Critchley of Calgary. Five hundred tickets to next week-end's hockey game are being offered to the troops on leave.

A Division Team

The arena will be available to troops for special competition. MacDonald hopes the division may raise a hockey team for a game versus an all-English team for the benefit of the Red Cross.

At Aldershot in the Christmas camp red and green decorations of the Yuletide already were hanging and programs for Christmas were being arranged. The boys are beginning to look forward for their first Canadian mail, and divisional staff officers are agreed that the most welcome Christmas box would be a piping hot bath and a letter from home.

Arrangements have been completed for the camp to hear on New Year's Eve the famous Knellers Hall military band, the Empire's master showband.

Over the New Year holiday it is expected 1,500 troops will be granted leave. All members of the Toronto Scottish who can get away are passing up Christmas leave in favor of Hogmanay, and many plan to go all the way to Scotland.

Skipper O'Hearn explained that even while the gate was open a U-boat could not get between the guarding minesweepers without showing her periscope. The channel is not deep enough at any point to permit entry of an entirely submerged marauder.

As our tender chugged back toward shore a winch on Skipper O'Hearn's command went into action and the nets started reopening. A modest little fisherman under sails had come out of the Atlantic mist, heading for port with supplies.

Nomination Day Starts Score Of Election Wars

(By The Canadian Press.)

Election talk mingled with last-minute Christmas shopping and the first heavy snow of the winter to bring the proper seasonable atmosphere to rural Ontario today.

It didn't seem like Yuletide until the snow and then the municipal nominations came along yesterday for most of the rural municipalities of the province But from now until election day, Jan 1, there will be no lack of "atmosphere."

Some cities and towns joined the villages and townships in nominating candidates yesterday, though most of the more thickly populated municipalities held elections the first Monday in December.

Peterborough returned James Hamilton as mayor for a third term and Sault Ste. Marie named W. J. McMeekin to the mayoralty for a fifth term. At Owen Sound the names of George Marron and Clifford Case were submitted along with that of Mayor Alan S. Stewart.

Port Arthur held nominations for election next Friday. Grenville Walsh withdrew from the mayoralty race almost immediately, leaving Alderman George Wardrops opposed to Mayor C. W. Cox, Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature and former cabinet member.

An Acclamation

A. T. Brander was re-elected Mayor of Wallaceburg, where every office was filled by acclamation. David T. Hay was returned Mayor of Listowel and F. T. Rowe Mayor of Whitby.

The names of Mayor J. R. Joyce and Alderman T. H. Lewis were submitted for the mayoralty at Welland. Four were named for the mayoralty in Orillia and Lindsay, and six in Port Hope.

Particular significance was attached to the elections through the fact that office-holders elected on New Year's Day likely will sit for the duration of the war. That is the intent of a wartime economy measure to be submitted to the Ontario Legislature next month by government leaders.

Two candidates, qualified for the mayoralty and seven for the four seats on the Board of Control when the qualification dealine for Toronto election was reached last night. Mayor Ralph Day, seeking re-election to a third term, will be opposed for the second year by Lewis Duncan.

All For Nothing

Woodstock, Ont., Dec. 23 (CP)

TWO MEN had a lot of work for nothing last night. Driving their coupe into the lane on the farm of Valentine Vollmerhausen, north of Innerkip, they made their way silently into the barn and filled 13 sacks with No. 1 hard wheat from the bins there. Then they carried out six bags of the grain and placed them carefully into the car, five in the rumble-seat and one in front, presumably intending to make a second trip to transport the rest of the bags.

All ready to leave, they found that the starter of the car would not work and as they sought to discover why, out of the garage stepped three policemen who had witnessed the whole visit. Provincial Constable Jack Clark, of Woodstock, Provincial Traffic Officer Lawrence of Ingersoll and County Traffic Officer Culley of Woodstock, had been tipped off. They arrested Ralph Martin, 23, and Gordon Kropp, both of Kitchener, on charges of theft.

British Leaders Take Time Off For Christmas

LONDON, Dec. 23—(CP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain and other government officials turned to their country retreats today for the Christmas season.

They remained in close touch with the British fighting forces, however, as there appeared to be no lull in the war at sea and in the air.

New shipping losses included the Norwegian steamship Rudolf, 924 tons, which struck a mine and sank in the North Sea, and the 1,562-ton British steamship Longships, which struck a reef. All members of both crews were reported rescued.

The 1,254-ton Danish steamship Jaegersborg, which left Copenhagen December 14 for a Scottish port, was long overdue and feared lost with her crew of 18.

The British steamer Gryfevale, 4,434 tons, was towed into a northeast port today after being damaged by a mine. Part of her crew remained aboard but 17 took to lifeboats and were rescued by another vessel.

In a Western front aerial battle, the Air Ministry said last night, two British planes and four German Messerschmidt aircraft were shot down.

The Ministry announced the Royal Air Force had suffered 512 casualties, including 380 known dead, during the war. The list did not include Navy Air Division casualties, and no record of plane losses was available.

Christmas Concert At Warkworth

WARKWORTH, Dec. 23—(ENS).—Thursday night in the Sunday School room of St. Paul's Church, the annual Christmas program was presented.

P. S. Ewing acted as chairman. The program was as follows: Illustrated Christmas Story, Dr. J. R. R. Cooper; reading, Lookout Man, Mrs. Don Massey; song, Shirley Grills; recitation, Zella Gummer; song, Helen Stinson; recitation, Ronald Isaac; song, Silent Night, Gwendolyn Churchley; song, London Bridge, Laura Hutchison; recitation, Allen Laver; piano duet, Frank Churchley, John Trotter; reading, The First Christmas, Margaret Simpson; song, The Toymakers Dream, Walter Clarke; reading, A Visit from Santa Claus, Deborah Insley; song, Santa Claus Is Coming to Town, Phyllis Higham; reading, Kenneth Clarke; piano solo, Mary McCleary; reading, Mrs. W. G. McLaren.

HEAVY FINE ON HOTEL

One hotel in Berlin was recently fined $140,000 for serving meat without receiving a government meat ticket in exchange.

Reaboro Man Is Given Full Pardon

LINDSAY, December 23 (ENS).—Harvey Flemming, of Reaboro, who on October 24, 1938, was convicted of stealing chickens from a farmer named McNevin, has received a full pardon from the Governor-General. The document, bearing the official seal of Lord Tweedsmuir, was received to-day by L. M. Frost, K.C., M.P.P. The case on which Flemming was convicted followed a series of chicken thefts in the district, and it was watched with interest by many people. Flemming. It was charged at the time, sold the chickens to a local poultry dealer. He pleaded innocence, but three members of the poultry firm identified him as the man who sold the checkens. Some weeks afterwards a young man named Bacon confessed to the theft for which Flemming had been convicted, and this resulted in the case being reviewed and the subsequent parden.

Suspended Sentence.

A Carden Township farmer was found guilty of the theft of four cedars from the property of J. O. McGinnis, hardware merchant at Kirkfield, in Police Court yetserday and was placed on suspended sentence for two years by Magistrate Gee. "I know that the whole case has been distasteful to Mr. McGinnis," said County Crown Attorney Anderson, "and the whole responsibility for prosecuting it has been mine. When a matter like this is reported to the police and investigation is made, we have no other alternative but to proceed with the case."

A fifteen-year-old Omemee youth charged with the theft of a tire, was yesterday remanded for one week. County Crown Attorney Anderson requested the remand to enable the father of the youth to be present. The accused was placed in the care of the Children's Aid Society.

A Triple Birthday.

A unique celebration took place at Camoray this week when Wesley Terrill, of Ops, Mrs. Grant Terrill of Lindsay, and her three-year-old daughter observed a triple birthday. The three were born on the same date.

A 400-pound bear is on exhibition at a local butcher shop. It was bagged by Bruce Davey of Gooderham while on his trap line near the village. It measured about five feet in length and four at the shoulders.

Percy Veale of Woodville was brought to the Ross Hospital on Wednesday suffering from serious internal and body injuries. He was working in the field with a team of horses whe nthe animals bolted. He became entangled in the lines and was dragged some distance.

HONORS FROM IL DUCE!

ROME, Dec. 22—(AP).—Premier Mussolini to-day distributed 1,460,000 lire (about $65,700) and awarded medals to 188 wives of industrial workers for having borne the greatest number of babies in the past 10 years. All had 7 or more children.

Words Twenty Centuries Old No Room Here Drive Danzig Jews To Haven In Canada

HALIFAX, Dec. 23.—(CP)—"There is no room for you here." It is almost 20 centuries since a weary, sick Jewish woman had these words hurled at her from the inns of Bethlehem.

Yet today, not one but thousands of mothers—most of them Jewish—have trembled at that same sentence. They have relieved the suffering and persecution of those olden times.

Some of them, like that other Jewish mother, have found a refuge.

The mail box in front of a farmhouse 30 miles from Halifax bears the name Hecht. In the house, with her husband and two children, lives Mrs. Sarah Hecht. She's been there since early in the fall.

This Jewish mother fled from her home in Danzig when men bearing swastikas told here there was no room for her there. Before the scourge of this modern Herod, she and her family started a flight which brought them to Canada. They brought enough money to buy a farm

The next mailbox down the road bears the name Offman. In that farmhouse lives a 70-year-old Jewess who fled from Poland before the Nazi invasion. She left four husky sons at the front with the Polish army. She hasn't heard from them since.

From their Nova Scotia farmhouses, these other Jewish mothers can see warplanes flying over Halifax—Canadian airmen training to fight the common foe. They hear of protecting ships of war off the coast. They have seen troop trains go by—Canadian fighting men who will avenge the wrong that has been done their people.

These sorrowing Jewish mothers have found more than a sanctum, for men—nearly all of whose beliefs, not parallel with theirs, grow out of that other Christmas night—all calling to account those who, 20 centuries after, said:

"There is no room for you here."

CAMPBELLFORD

Mayor F. F. Long Is Returned By Acclamation

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 23 (ENS)—Three acclamations featured the annual nominations for this municipality held on Friday evening. Mayor F. F. Long, who for the past five years has been serving in that capacity, will begin his sixth term in 1940, while J. O. Benor, who was returned to the Water and Light Commission, will begin his eighth year on that body. Charlie Calver was the third to receive acclamation and will be returned to the County Council as Reeve with a chance of bringing the Wardenship to this town in 1940. There were eleven nominations to fill the six seats on the Council, with all of the 1939 Council being nominated and Deputy-Reeve P. M. Locke receiving nominations both for Councillor and for his former post, Councillor Harvey Donald may oppose him as Deputy-Reeve since Mr. Locke has stated it is not his desire to return to County Council again owing to the demands made by his own business.

Following the customary procedure the Mayor was first called upon by the chairman, J. MacGregor, to give an account of his stewardship. He declared that though his six terms as Mayor were by no means unprecedented, they at least gave evidence of the fact that the people were behind his administration.

"We have had changes in the Council during the year," began Mayor Long. "Mr. Lynch, who was the town solicitor for many years, has retired and former Councillor N. Alex. McColl has taken his place. Mr. McColl was a member of the Council 10 years and has had county Council experience as well. Councillor Maguire was elected by acclamation to take his place in the Council.

"I will say in reference to our finances that in spite of the fact that we built sidewalks, made additions to sewers, oiled about seven miles of streets and carried out other improvements as well, amounting in all to about $4,000, which was never budgeted for, and also considering the fact that the tax rate was reduced by the Council (the other half mill was made by the Government) we have reason to take pride in the statement given out to-night showing that we will end the year with a balance of over $2,400 if the cheque from the counties comes in by that time.

Deputy-Reeve Locke reported as chairman of the Relief Committee, claiming that the cost of this department was down $500 from last year; and P. H. MacMillan gave his report as chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee.

Principal points brought out in the remarks of Chairman Benor of the Water and Light Commission were that the revenue for the year was up $3,000, and that the guards at the power plant an additional eight per cent. tax were causing the Commission to be most seriously affected by the war. The additional expense will cost that department close to $5,000 a year, he said. He reminded citizens that the problem of water storage had still to be dealt with. Major G. H. Free, dealt with.

Major G. H. Free, chairman of the School Board, reported for that body. Others who addressed the meeting were Councillors Harvey Donald, S. A. Maguire and J. R. Battisby. John O'Sullivan was the only one of the other nominees for Council to speak.

Following were the nominations:
For Mayor—F. F. Long.
For Reeve—Charles Calver.
Deputy-Reeve—P. M. Locke, Harvey Donald.
Councillors — Messrs. P. H. MacMillan, James L. Dorie, J. R. Battisby, H. M. Donald, A. H. McKeel, S. A. Maguire, A. E. Burgiss, P. M. Locke, J. A. McArthur, John O'Sullivan, Harry Atkinson. be elected)—Dr. H. O. Richardson, J. A. Irwin, H. A. MacArthur, Wilbert A. Kingston.
Water and Light Commission — Public School Trustees (three to James O. Bentor.

Dutch Line Scholars Stage Fine Concert

HASTINGS, Dec. 23 (ENS). — The pupils of the Dutch Line School held their annual Christmas concert on Wednesday evening, the school being filled to capacity despite the icy condition of the roads.

The program was under the direction of the teacher, Miss Donna Nelson, and Mr. Hazel of Campbellford, the musical instructor, directed the singing. William Thompson was the chairman.

Decorations, including wreaths, bells, and streamers in red and green and a well-laden Christmas tree made the school room most attractive. The program was as follows: Chorus, "God Save the King"; chorus, "Dear St. Nicholas"; chorus, "The Toy Maker's Dream"; chairman's address, Mr. Thompson; solo, "Tattle Tale" by Glen McMasters; orchestra, Mr. and Mrs. Rae Archer; recitation, Arnold Thompson; chorus, "Heigh-Ho"; solo, "Some Day My Prince Shall Come," by Mary Dunlay; play, "In May with June," with the following characters: Gordon McGee, Angus Smith, Marguerite Faux, Olive Varcie, Kathleen Skinkle Madeline Convey; Philip Convey, and James Convey; song, "Spring Onions" by Rita Barry; recitation, Gwendolyn McGee; solos, Carolyn Archer; pantomime, "The Terrible Catastrophe," by Gordon Dunlay, Glen McMasters, Arnold Thompson, Martin and Vincent Faux; duet, "Sally and Josie have a Spat," by Mary Dunlay and Rita Barr; dance, Cozette Archer; dialogue, "The Train to Mauro"; solo, "Just a Prayer at Twilight" by Noreen Dunlay; chorus, "The Farmer's Holidays"; recitation, "On Christmas Eve," by Faye McGee and Eunice Thompson.

Six Of Eleven

(CP-Reuters).—Six survivors of a missing British airliner were rescued by a ship today and were taken to Malta.

The Lockheed plane, en route from Egypt to England with six passengers and a crew of five, left Sollum Thursday morning on a 730-mile flight to Malta and had been hunted by British warships and other vessels. Sollum is 300 miles west of Alexandria.

Reuters learned that Capt. Peter C. Fair, of Kingston, Ont., the pilot, was among those picked up by the British ship.

70-Million-A-Year Corset Business Lets Experts Peek At 1940 Models

By CHARLES E. HORNER
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP)—They got right down to fundamentals in a Fifth avenue demonstration of a $70,000,000-a-year industry.

It was a showing this week on seven models of "Foundation Garments," meaning corsets.

The models weren't a bit embarrassed. Each was getting $10 an hour.

They were showing what women will look like next spring to the select few who have to find out for reasons of business.

And what a business! It is 1.6 per cent of the total volume of department and specialty stores throughout the United States.

"The reason," commented Gertrude Brows, stylist, who was present, "is that they make the inner woman look like she thinks she looks."

Miss Brows estimated that 98 per cent of all women buy cors—foundation garments. Mary Elizabeth Plummer of the Associated Press, something of an authority herself, guessed it at around 75 per cent. In any case, it's a lot of women.

The models represented the "seven basic figure types" in which all women, it was alleged, are divided. They are: Grecian, Renaissance, Parisienne, Egyptian, Debutante, Empire and Moyen age, whatever that is.

The experts present discussed the amazing way in which the creations eliminated the "spare tire," then explained pityingly that an... ought to know a spare tire is a midriff bulge. It didn't seem to be an inept expression, at that, and they were certainly eliminated.

"Together with the other two officers and men of the Royal and Dominion navies, our comrades in the Army and Royal Air Force, and our gallant French and Polish allies, we are denying use of ocean highway to the enemy and keeping them open for our magnificent merchant, navy and fishing fleet so that they can maintain supplies which are essential to our existence and which, with your help, will enable us to win this war against a ruthless and unscrupulous enemy.

"Such a task is not spectacular, but it is the essence of our history and the foundation on which our Empire has been built. To those who have lost their loved ones in this struggle, we offer our sympathy, but we believe their consolation will be the knowledge that those who died were doing their duty in the service of their country and in righteous cause.

"There is no easy road to victory, but, confident in the assurance of your support, I ask you to believe that we who go down to the sea in ships shall not fail in our task during the year that lies ahead."

From the Air Force.

Air Chief Newall said:

"Times are changed this year, but not the spirit of Christmas nor the traditions of the Royal Air Force who, with vigilance and determination, are constant in service in defence of the Empire.

"Wherever they may be, members of the Royal Air Force are united this Christmas in one aim, confident of victory."

COME to CHURCH Christmas

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins By Rev. E. R. James

THE BABE.

The Shepherds said one to another: Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us. —St. Luke 2, 15.

The shepherds, working people, were keeping watch over their flocks by night when they received the Angelic Message. "Just common people" some would say. It is the so-called claim of Communism that they alone think of the common people—the Proletariate, the technical term. "To workers" is their appeal, as if they alone were workers.

Can you blame the Communists for placing stress upon the multitudes, the common people, when the Church to a very large extent has forgotten them? The nineteenth century was the age of the industrial revolution, when the middle classes became rich and wealthy and calmly looked upon the slums and the poverty and degradation of the masses as a necessary evil. The marvel is that God has not punished us more than He has through the Great War; the depression and this war. It is an unpleasant truth to remember that the slums and poverty were largely created by our forefathers and ourselves. We and our fathers have sinned when we forget that the shepherds, representing the common people, were the first to hear the Good Tidings of the Lord Christ and that the Christ was born in humble surroundings and was a working Man trained to a trade.

To these workers in the fields came the Message. They could have continued watching their flocks. Would you have blamed them? "Business first" is a plea glibly offered by many as an excuse for their not attending to their church and religious duties. These plain men of the fields, despised by Pharisees and Priests as "unclean" technically, were devout men. Very probably they had been thinking and talking of "The Hope of Israel." It was in the air. So unconsciously they had "tuned in" for the Heavenly Message. Is your mind and heart tuned in to hear the Christmas Message. Then you also will cry: "Let us go even unto Bethlehem"—the House of Bread. Does it thrill you to realize that the Christ was born in "the House of Bread" and how appropriate that in the fulness of time He cried: "I am the Bread of Life."

The shepherds went of their own accord. God's messengers did not tell them to go. They went because they could not remain in those fields that night. It was unthinkable, impossible. Their minds and hearts were filled with the thoughts of the King. They came, they saw and they worshipped. They made the great discovery, they pierced the disguise. It is the proof of their spiritual insight. Many there are who say: "He is Prophet"; perhaps the greatest of the prophets; a man Who lived before His day and was martyred for His spiritual ideals. Is this your opinion?

Christian men of all generations and tongues have pierced the disguise. They looked below the surface and they thankfully cried: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."

It is interesting to trace this truth through the ages. First they saw a human child in need; later they saw a poor man; still later a leper, the most unlovely of humanity. They pierced the disguise and discovered that the outcasts are His Brethren. This is the great fundamental truth of Christianity. Christ came to save the unfit, the depressed, the outcast as well as the wise and prudent, the intellectuals of every age. Thus we find the wise men from the East offering their gifts at His Cradle.

Have you eyes to see this truth and will you do your bit in helping the poor, the maimed, the unfortunate? Then only will you receive the joy which comes from giving without expectin gany return.

"INASMUCH AS YE HAVE DONE IT UNTO ONE OF THE LEAST OF THESE MY BRETHREN, YE HAVE DONE IT UNTO ME."

The Golden Text

Holy Night

Isaiah 11:6—"A little child shall lead them."

Christmas Is First A Child's Day

O come let us adore Him—let us adore the Child and King of Bethlehem.

—let us adore the Christ who waits us in the church of our own desire.

Christmas is first of all a child's day. Its urgent beauty arises from the simple fact of a child's birth. Its strange attraction lies in world-wide changes wrought by that simple fact. Difficult it is to conceive of three worldly wealthy kings betaking themselves on an arduous journey —to comingle with rough, impoverished sheep herders— to offer as tokens of humility and adoration their own beings to a small and helpless babe. But this was no common child. This was Christ.

This is a child's day. It is a day when your own child should experience the enrichment of knowing Christ. Attending the church of your own desire—with your family —is the finest offering of your own humility and adoration you can make. As children of God, you and yours must help make warm the hospitality of the House of God. Come to church Christmas!

Highlights Of S.S. Lesson

THE CHILD AND THE KINGDOM
By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 24 is Matthew 1:18-25; 18:1-4; 19:13-15, the Golden Text being Isaiah 11:6, "A little child shall lead them.")

TOMORROW will be Christmas Day, and our minds and hearts will be full of the story of Jesus' birth and the events that preceded and followed it.

In Matthew 1:18-25, the story is told of Joseph learning of the coming of a son of miraculous birth The Angel of the Lord, says Matthew, came to Joseph in a dream and told him that Mary would soon bear a son, "and thou shalt call His name Jesus, for He shall save His people from their sins."

Also, "they shall call His name Emanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us."

They called the Blessed Child Jesus and, as you know, shepherds saw a great light and heard angels singing of His birth. Also you know the story of the three Wise Men who followed the star in the east and came to worship Him, bringing Him gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh.

Jesus grew up among His brothers and sisters in a humble home, learning the trade of a carpenter. He seems always to have loved children and understood them.

Disciples Rebuked

Once, when His disciples were disputing amongst themselves as to who would be greatest among them in the Kingdom of Heaven, Jesus rebuked them by taking a child, setting him in the midst of them and saying, "Verily I say unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. Whosoever, therefore, shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven. And whoso shall receive one such little child in My Name, receiveth Me."

"But whoso shall offend one of these little ones that believe in Me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea."

Christians should be humble, not trying to gain the high places, but content to do their jobs and live their lives well in their own walks of life, knowing that no matter how clever they may be, they cannot know so very much and must trust to the Father to guide them.

Do you remember the story of Jesus coming to the temple—the Holy Place in Jerusalem — and finding it filled with money changers and people buying and selling? He was so angry that the Lord's House should thus be made into a market place, that He took a whip and drove the man out of the temple. After that the blind and lame came to Him, and He healed them, and the children cried, "Hosanna to the Son of David!" But the scribes and chief priests were angered and said to Him, "Hearest thou what these say?" And Jesus answered them, as He had the disciples, "Yea; have ye never read, out of the mouths of babes and sucklings thou has perfected praise?"

Common Folk Loved Him

The common people, who dearly loved Jesus, wondered and worshiped at the miracles, and one day many mothers came to Him and brought their children that He might lay His hands on them and they might be blessed by Him. The disciples were provoked and rebuked the mothers, but Jesus said, "Suffer little children and forbid them not, to come unto Me: for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven. And He laid His hands on them, and departed hence."

The whole lesson, you see, shows Jesus' attitude toward children. He loved them and thought anyone who would treat them cruelly should be punished severely, and if any want to really succeed in Christian living, they should be humble, obedient and trustful, as a little child it.

Said Isaiah, "A little child shall lead them." Jesus tells us very clearly that He thought so, too.

Early Association Christmas Carols

Originally Christmas carols were associated with dances and ballads thees were in some cases profane in others sacred. Readers of Scott's Talisman will remember how Richard used to welcome the travelling poet and singer.

This style of song wa seventually taken by the Christian church to celebrate Christmas. Francis of Assisi began the practice in the 12th century. He sent his friars out into the remote districts of his native Italy to sing the Christmas songs in crude verses. The practice proved a most powerful form of evangelism and large numbers of converts were made.

The Christmas season was originally a pagan festival with its rejoicings in the middle of winter. The Christian church laid hold of these ideas and gave them a secred content in celebration of the birth of Jesus. The Reformation is the 16th century led to a new seriousness in religion, and practices which had formerly been frivolous became serious and religious. Even those who did not embrace the Reformation were themselves profoundly influenced by its spirit and teaching.

Christmas carols will be sung by the choir of St. Andrew's church on Next Sunday night.

The minister will give a brief address on "Carols and Their Messages."

Story of Christmas

Tell again the Wondrous Story
Of the Christ of Bethlehem.
How He left His home in Glory
Out of love for sinful men.
How He came a little Stranger,
Gift of Gifts from God to man,
Cradled in a lowly manger—
Oh, what love conceived the plan!
Tell again of how the shepherds
Heard the choir of angels sing;
God had now fulfilled His promise,
Christ was born a Saviour King.
Wise men from the East came, bringing
Gold and frankincense and myrrh,
Seeking Him the King of Israel,
Following His guiding star.
Prince of Peace: We too would seek Thee,
Bowing humbly at Thy feet,
Seek Thy pardoning love and friendship,
And to Thee our vows repeat.
Grant us now, we pray, Thy blessing,
Bid the wars of hatred cease;
Let Thy love like dew caressing,
Bring the world Thy promised peace.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Dec. 23.—(AP). — You can't scare buffaloes with scarecrows. Alaska's only herd, nearly 200 animals, raided supplies piled in the open in the Upper Tanana Valley. Damage was hundreds of dollars. Scarecrows set up to frighten them off narrowly missed being trampled.

ChristmasSmiles

Christmas smiles are breaking
Through the winter haze
Memories awaking
Of happy holidays;
Every face is beaming
Giving out good cheer
Ev'ry one is dreaming
Of dear ones, far and near.

Christmas hearts are lifting
From a year of strain,
From Life's uncertain drifting
To Peace on earth again;
The Guiding Star brings healing
Where sorrow left a thorn,
The joyous rays revealing
The truth of love new-born.

Then let us keep on smiling
Throughout the coming days,
Through future years beguiling
The world from wicked ways.
Let nations from their brawling
Join hands in work and play,
The Christmas message calling—
"Peace On Earth for Aye."

The Child and the Kingdom — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 1:18-25; 18:1-14; 19:13-15.

Before Jesus' birth, Joseph had a dream that an angel came to him and told him that Mary was going to have a son and they should name Him Jesus, "for He shall save His people from their sins."

When His disciples disputed as to who should be the greatest. Jesus took a child, set him in their midst, and said, "except ye become as this little child, ye shall not enter the Kingdom of Heaven."

The women brought their children to Him to be blessed, and when the disciples forbade them. Jesus rebuked them, saying. "Suffer little children to come unto Me and forbid them not."

After Jesus had driven the money changers out of the temple, children sang Hosannas to Him, which vexed the priests. Jesus said, "Out of the mouths of babes thou has perfected praise."

United States Must Answer

Representatives of Finland in United States have been trying to see what they could do in Wall Street, New York. They want to raise a loan of $50,000,000 to finance the purchase of war material and Wall Street is the natural place to look for money. But they didn't get it.

Now they are asking the government of United States to do something about it. The government is sympathetic and some of the leaders have already stated they would support such a loan to Finland "for governmental purposes." They all say there must be a good deal of caution used in approaching such a matter. United States is a neutral nation and does not want to be drawn into any war.

A nation can be cautious and diplomatic, but the stubborn fact is that Finland does not want or need $50,000,000 for "government purposes." It needs that amount of money to purchase planes and light artillery, rifles and small arms so it can fight Russia. So it comes down to the pointed question of whether United States is going to supply money in order that Finland may have a chance for its life. And United States will have to furnish the answer—and also live with it for all time to come.

Can't Get Away From It

Ald. Smith of Toronto is an avowed Communist, and he was known as such when voters in Toronto placed him in city council. He seeks to step up now and has been nominated for Board of Control.

There were a number of his supporters present when nomination meeting was held, and they broke out in protest when one of the candidates referred to the Communist Smith as a representative of Stalin. They did not like that and were quick to resent the charge.

A charge like that puts a man on the well-known spot. For a long time we have heard about Communism, and those who have been leading the movement in this country all took their buckets to the well in Moscow. They urged that the people in Canada would be well advised to have a form of government such as they had in that country. Not at any time was there any inclination to draw a line between Stalin and Communism.

Today it is different. Stalin has changed from the man who was working out some scheme in Russia to the man who has moved outside his own boundaries. His most ardent defender and disciple can no longer look upon him as being benevolent or much concerned in the fate and happiness of the common people, nor can they speak of him as a man who abhors war and desires nothing but peace.

The manner in which he raised the cleaver to take his share of Poland and his method of taking independence away from the little states of the Baltic is fresh in the minds of the people. His brutish invasion of Finland has finished Stalin as a leader of any great movement to convert the world to his system.

So it is the Communists in Toronto resent the charge that they are friends or representatives of Stalin. They would be much like men who would wear the khaki and yet deny they were soldiers of the King.

Putting the most kindly interpretation on the situation we believe it would be well for Communists in Toronto and elsewhere to admit they have been hoaxed, fooled, mistaken or some such thing. Communism is Stalinism and Stalin is Communism. The thing has been brought out in the open and people have seen they are one and the same thing. So it is that a Communist is a representative of Stalin whether he likes the designation or not.

Doing The Impossible

There are sections of the battle front where the Finns are actually driving the Russians in retreat. A few weeks ago we would have said it was something which could not be done. Today it is chronicled as something which is being done.

If one can reconstruct the story it is about like this: The Russians in their drive into Finland's north made a fairly rapid advance, but found that the country through which they passed had been made waste. All places of shelter had been destroyed or burned by the retiring Finns.

When the weather turned bitterly cold the Finns were in prepared positions where they made their stand. The Russians were not able to move their mechanized units, and when they were attacked they began to retreat. On their retreat there was no shelter; no buildings to which they could turn. They were in a temperature of about 20 to 25 below zero for 24 hours each day. There had been no careful planning to take care of the soldiers and retreat was the only way to stave off destruction.

The one thing Russia seems able to do is bomb Finlands' few southern cities and towns, and they can do that owing to the short air distance between Leningrad and Helsingfors. If the Finns had an air force comparable to that of Russia, and if they were as capable in the air as they have proved themselves to be on the land, Russia would be wallowing in deep trouble.

As it is Stalin has been giving a poor exhibition. The Finns are proving every day they fight that there is something very much out of sorts in Russian land strength, and the Russians themselves have demonstrated that their tactics are pitifully mediocre. One has to turn back a good many pages in history to find a parallel case. A little nation of 3,500,000 putting up so gallant a fight that the army from a nation of 180,000,000 people is actually in retreat.

The Germany Of Today

During the previous world war Martin Niemoeller was captain of a German submarine. According to records of war he had a good rating. He quit the service and went into the Lutheran ministry where his work was more outstanding than it had been in years of war. He was a great preacher and a fearless man. His one error in the sight of the Nazi government was that he refused to place Nazi doctrines above Almighty God. He was warned and the Nazi people said he was stubborn and defiant, and that is why he was taken from his pulpit and sent to a concentration camp. What he does there no one knows for concentration camps in Germany have no publicity department.

His name is again in the news because his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Johann Heinrich Niemoeller, were celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. In their declining years the parents desired all the children and their families to be present on this occasion, but Martin was absent. He remained in the concentration camp.

We learn that naval officers went to those in authority and offered to be held as hostages if Martin were allowed to leave for a few days and go home, but the answer was the same—No.

The naval officers submitted there never had been a mark against Niemoeller in his career with the navy, but that made no difference. He has not the right to appeal; he cannot ask to have his case considered in court; he cannot tell when his period of incarceration will cease. The Germany of today has reverted to a state somewhat similar to that of Britain in the days when people were hanged for thefts of trifling amounts.

No One Seems To Know

On a Christmas card received at the Examiner office there is an excellent picture of Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris, together with an explanatory note telling that the corner stone was laid in 1163. Reference is also made to the beauty of some of the original windows. And beautiful they are.

Much has been published regarding Notre Dame, and the varying fortunes through which it has passed. One can—and does—admire the gothic architecture of this great place, and it is then he may inquire regarding the name of the architect. He knows Sir Christopher Wren designed St. Paul's in London, but he does not know who designed Notre Dame, and as far as we can learn he will not find out.

It is strange. Paris has many memorials to generals and marshals of the days of war, its Invalides with the tomb of Napoleon, but Paris cannot give the information as to who designed that great cathedral, Notre Dame. Had the architect achieved similar success as a warrior his name would have been passed on even to present and future generations.

As It Was On The Tenth

A correspondent who wrote to the Examiner telling of life on the Tenth Concession of Cavan mentioned that she looked out of the window the other morning and noticed that the frost had worked a little pattern on the glass which looked like lace.

Undoubtedly it would, but that would be a very delicate pattern compared to what used to happen to the bedroom window on Lot Four, Concession Ten. We have no distinct recollection of the lace pattern left by the frost because the design used to be worked in heavier scheme. Even to the point of obliteration.

There was a stove pipe and a drum going through the room immediately above the combined kitchen and dining room, and there was no pipe in the room across the hall and it is of that room we think at the moment particularly in seasons when winters were things worthy of the name.

When one rose in the morning he desired to know what the day was likely to bring forth; whether the lane had drifted in over night, and whether the Tenth itself was blocked. There was oilcloth on the bedroom floor and recollection asserts with certainty that it was a cold landing place for the bare feet. In order to make the outdoor survey it was necessary to blow a hole in the frost on the window by breathing through the cupped hands, or perhaps one could scratch a peep hole with a jack knife. There was so much frost that we possibly never had much chance or inclination to marvel about the particular design. After one had surveyed the outside world the making of an abbreviated toilet proceeded. The general atmosphere did not lend itself to much preparation. The water in the pitcher had a bit of ice on top of it and it was necessary to tap this with the handle of the hair brush before there was opportunity to wash the billy winkers from the eyes.

At that time of year the stairs always seemed to creak more than usual when one went down in early morning. The serious business of putting on the fire in the kitchen range had within it a bit of hope because heat would radiate quickly. The kindling had been placed in the oven the night before and it might sizzle and object at the start but ultimately it would fall in with the spirit and desire of the day and burn. The porridge had been cooked the night before and it would be moved to the front of the stove and the tea kettle would take up a front line position abreast of it.

It was difficult enough to see out of the kitchen windows. There had been newspapers placed there behind the potted geraniums, and often enough behind the newspapers was a frosted window. Visibility of the outside world was bad upstairs or down. That is probably why we never did notice much the peculiar and exquisite designs upon the window panes in winter time. The Frost King out there seemed more concerned with using strokes which one might employ when painting a barn.

NOTE AND COMMENT

May you look forward steadfastly to the coming of a Christmas when there will be peace on earth.

Child in Hamilton drank some white shoe polish in mistake for milk, but the doctor reports the condition O.K. Strange how little folk will take a shine to something like that.

Police car was stolen in Belleville, and at the time it was standing right smack in front of the police station. It is understood that both the policemen were busy at the time.

Campbellford Rotary Club listened to an address on the war on pests. It had to do with bugs and flies and such things, and not with a couple of undesirable citizens in Europe.

Ald. R. M. Glover is dropping out of civic life. If it were for any other reason than health citizens would object. He has been a fair, honorable and competent representative, and when he is again ready for service the people will be ready to again place him in office.

Unemployed men in Toronto who are good car drivers have planned to make their services available to those who on Christmas eve will not be able to drive themselves home. The reason for that is they expect them to be too drunk, giving one good enough reason to wonder just where in this sacred season they find anything which calls for getting drunk.

LAST MINUTE

(By A.R.K.)

¶ When I get Christmas cards all done, then mail the parcels one by one, I feel a sweet content; I know they went away on time, 'tis then that I relax my spine, have feeling of content.

¶ For I've remembered all my friends, and I won't have to make amends, a pleasant way to feel; I gaze at messages once more, and like them better than before, and friendship seems so real.

¶ But then the postman's at the door, he's really bringing something more, a card from Cousin Lou; she sends a pleasant sort of word, seems strange from her I never heard, must be a year or two.

¶ There's one from Uncle Zeke out west, by wind and drought he's been distressed, went there in twenty-nine; I'd clean forgot him on my list, it's easy that he should be missed, he never drops a line.

¶ And there is one from Clem McStew, a dandy chap whom once I knew, he left here years ago; and where he's been to all this time, or why his path has not crossed mine, is something I don't know.

¶ This then I bounce from out my chair, and brace again the winter air, and drop my restful state; a little guilty too I feel, can't move quite fast enough to deal—with those that come in late.

To The Editor

WHEAT

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—If one may be guided by price-trends, as indicated by market reports in The Examiner over the past two weeks, there are more generous times ahead for the wheat farmer?

Apparently weather conditions are co-operating with war in Europe, to induce a fairer valuation for the heavy supply of the breadgrain in Canadian bins, than most of our economists anticipated. If so, this development is of first-class significance for Canadian economy — and will help to lift the rural dollar to something nearer equality with the purchasing-power of the urban dollar.

Your temporary The Tribune (Welland) deals with this problem from the same angle and concludes: "If there should be a long war in Europe, the farm industry in Canada will boom again. What the farmers will have to learn is how to handle a boom without incurring the usual devastating aftermath."

Of course, "a long war in Europe" is too high a price to have to pay for a better deal for "the farm industry," and the less we have of "a boom" the better.

I observe the price of wheat moving upward again. One way to effectively nip unduly high prices for wheat, would be for the Dominion Government to follow the advice already tendered by the organized wheatgrowers of Western Canada, and order a "blackout" on speculative trading in the cereals. This is precisely the situation the Canadian Wheat Board was designed to handle. We have had enough of experience of the effects of $2.20 wheat in the last war to want to do better this time—and to know how!

• How German People Are Living

RATIONING of food is the most apparent feature of the price civilian Germany is paying for participation in this war. "The normal food rations," says the writer, "while sufficient to avert actual hunger, nevertheless are admittedly so scant, according to official medical judgment, that if continued for long they are certain to produce deleterious effects on the national health. In view of the approach of Christmas, German people will receive a special food bonus of 125 grams of butter, 125 grams of artificial honey, one egg and some chocolate cake and candy."

Let us inspect the "normal" ration on which the Nazis insist the table-loving German burgher must live and content himself. The week's supply permits 300 grams of meat, 200 grams of meat products such as sausages, 125 grams of butter, 62.5 grams of lard, 80 grams of margarine, 100 grams of marmalade, 250 grams sugar, 62.5 grams of cheese, 150 grams of coffee substitute, and one egg. To measure this accurately one must realize that 1,000 grams equal 2.2 pounds avoirdupois. But Germany has large supplies of grains on hand and the rationing of bread is described as "ample."

Milk is given only to children under 10 years of age and to prospective mothers. Men doing heavy manual labor are given extra food cards. In normal times the German adult consumes more than three pounds of meat weekly. There is, however, a large supply of cakes and pastries, one result of which has been that even the most masculine of men have developed into "cake eaters." German Fraus and Frauleins who have done the same thing are reported to be showing the effects in greater plumpness and weight.

Clothing rations are stringent. Unless the war ends soon Germans face the prospect of going in rags. Individual clothing cards are issued. They are good for the clothing needs of one individual for 12 months and contain 100 "points" which the owner may spend at his discretion. However, it takes 60 points to buy one suit of clothes for a man, eight points for a pair of socks and from 27 to 35 points for a suit of underwear. Women are treated more generously because Nazi authorities consider their clothing wears out quicker than a man's. A suit of clothes for a woman costs only 45 points and a pair of stockings four points. Berlin, sensing that the women are apt to raid the clothing allowances of the male members of their families, issues different colored cards for men, women, boys, girls and infants.

Soap, naturally, is extremely scarce. Germany needs all the oil she can acquire and much more for her purely military needs. In this situation the National Socialist Women's Organization offers advice on the saving of soap. How would Canadian housewives care to be told they are wasteful with soap because "30 per cent of all washing is avoidable by greater care in not dirtying anything; that 40 per cent of all spots on clothes are due to improper brushing; that 30 per cent of spots are due to carelessness in eating and drinking." Finally, if they lived in Germany today, they would be informed that when washing of clothing is necessary, a good job could be made with the use of wood ashes or various substitutes made from sea sand.

• Things A Business Man Learns

Business life is a mixture of good days and bad, victory and defeat, give and take. It is poor business to be too sensitive. Some troubles must be allowed to pass, to slide like water off a duck's back. A business man finds that he cannot afford to indulge in outbursts of temper if such is one of his weaknesses. He learns that it is not at all difficult to get into battles that could have easily been avoided—fights that result in loss even though he may have won his point. He learns not to take the other fellow's grouch too seriously, that all men get burned toast for breakfast occasionally. He learns that it doesn't matter so much who gets the credit so long as the firm prospers. He learns that buck-passing does not pay. He learns that all, not excepting the janitor, are human and that it does no harm to say "good morning" even if it is raining.

"The business man learns, or should learn after a few years in harness, that other men are also ambitious," says the Friendly Adventurer. "He should learn that his competitors are hard working and have the ability to think as clearly as he does and that persistent conscientious work and not cleverness is the real foundation of success. The veteran business man has sympathy and is helpful to younger men starting their labors. He has learned that his associates are no harder to get along with than are those in any other firm and that's 'geting along,' after all, depends about 90 per cent on his own behavior."

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue and taught: and there was a man whose right hand was withered. And the scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day; that they might find an accusation against him. But he knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up, and stand forth in the midst. And he arose and stood forth.

Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you one thing; is it lawful on the sabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy it? And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he did so: and his hand was restored whole as the other.—Luke vi, 6-10.

No Love-Stealing Says Judge In Etting Case

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23—(AP).—Mrs. Alma Alderman, second wife of pianist Myrl Alderman, lost her heart balm suit Thursday against torch singer Ruth Etting, Alderman's third and present wife.

Ending nearly five months' deliberation, Superior Judge Samuel Blake held that, Mrs. Alderman during the trial of her $150,000 suit, failed to prove that the love of her husband had been stolen by Miss Etting.

The trial was enlivened with the names of such luminaries as sarong-girl Dorothy Lamour, actress Edna Torrance and radio singer Dorothy Page.

Neither Alderman nor Miss Etting attended. Miss Etting's first husband, Martin (Moe) Snyder, testified against her. Alderman's first wife testified against the second Mrs. Alderman (Alma) and for the third Mrs. Alderman (Ruth).

Alma Alderman sought to show that Miss Etting stole her husband's affection by wealth and prominence.

Alderman's first wife, Mrs. Helen Warne, accused Alma Alderman herself of having stolen Alderman's love. The defence, in an effort to show that Alma Alderman did not have her husband's love, called witnesses who told of seeing Alderman kiss and caress Miss Lamour and other women and keep frequent company of Miss Torrance, Miss Page and others.

Miss Lamour denied the testimony. She said her relationship with Alderman had been strictly professional.

Marmora Orangemen Elects Officers

MARMORA, Dec. 23 — (ENS). — The annual election of officers of Marmora L.O.L. 319 was held in the Orange Hall on Thursday evening with District Master Orris Barton occupying the chair. The following were elected and installed later by County Masters John Morrison:

W.M., Orville Leonard (re-elected); D.M., W. Robertson; chaplain, W. J. Cottrell; recording-secretary, J. R. Hart; financial secretary, J. H. Wright; treasurer, D. Robertson; Marshal, E. Leonard; first lecturer, W. Smith; second lecturer, J. Scott; tyler, D. B. Sanderson.

The committee will be appointed later. The following were appointed as sick committee: J. R. Hart, W. J. Cottrell and H. Jones.

Following the installation appropriate addresses were given by the newly-elected officers as well as by the county master, district master and visiting brethren from Wellman's Corners, Springbrook and Tanner lodges. Refreshments were served at the close of the lodge session.

Architect's Drawing Of Peterborough's New Federal Building

This is an architect's drawing of the new Post Office and Customs House that will soon be raised in Peterborough. Of grave beauty, it will probably change the entire face of Charlotte Street and make it an even more important business section of the city than it now is. The building will be approximately 190 feet long and its two wings will travel back about 90 feet. It will be set 20 feet back from the sidewalk, with a grass lawn all around the front and sides.

The government proposes to widen Louis Street by some 20 feet in the process of building the new Federal structure, and will give that land to the city. At the other end of their property—next to the Greene building—the government will also construct a laneway. The building itself is expected to be Peterborough's most beautiful structure. It will house both Customs and Post Office, with a rotunda connecting them. It is anticipated that tenders will be called for about the first of the year.

Nazi Sea Losses Twice Britain's

(By The Canadian Press.)

Germany's mercantile sea losses in the week ending Dec. 22 were more than twice as great as Britain's.

Pursuing the Nazi policy of self-destruction, more than 40,000 tons of shipping was scuttled, included the 32,581 ton passenger liner Columbus, which was sunk by her own crew when a British warship hove into sight in the North Atlantic.

In addition to their merchant losses, the Germans blew up the 10,000-ton pocket batleship Admiral Graf Spee after it had been defeated in a sea battle with three British cruisers.

Britain lost 14 merchant ships during the week, but most of them were of only a few hundreds tons. Total tonnage lost was 18,654 tons. Neutral losses amounted to nearly 30,000 tons. The week's sinkings of merchant ships:

Nationality	No. of Ships	Tonnage
German	4	40,927
British	14	18,858
Norwegian	6	12,393
Swedish	4	5,860
Greek	1	5,217
Italian	1	3,482
Danish	3	4,345
Estonian	1	1,050

Officers Re-elected By Roseneath W.A.

ROSENEATH, Dec. 23—(ENS).—The annual meeting of the United Church W. A. was held on Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. M. Davey.

The vice-president, Mrs. C. Sandercock, was in the chair, with Mrs. E. Beech conducting the devotional period and Mrs. M. Davy reading the Scripture.

The treasurer, Miss Mary Braithwaite, presented a partial financial statement, which will be complete for the January meeting, as all receipts are not in. Mrs. Elizabeth Braithwaite, secretary, presented the following report: Number of members, 22; 12 regular meetings held with an attendance of 250; average attendance 20; devotional readings, 34.

Votes of thanks were tendered the hostess, the retiring officers for their faithfulness during the past year, and to Mrs. Ella Brown and family for extra labor attending the filling of a special Christmas order for quilts, when three fancy quilts were pieced, quilted and delivered within a period of ten days.

Rev. Eugene Beech presided for the election of officers, all being re-elected as follows: President, Mrs. A. Nill; vice-president, Mrs. C. Sandercock; secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Braithwaite; treasurer, Miss Mary Braithwaite; pianist, Mrs. Ella Brown; assistant pianist, Mrs. L. Tucker; parsonage committee, Mrs. Andrew Brown, Mrs. M. Davey and Mrs. E. Sandercock; devotional committee, Mrs. M. Davey and Mrs. E. Beech; sunshine convener, Miss Irene Brown.

It was decided on motion to remember Miss Verna Radley, a patient in Gravenhurst Sanatarium, with a Christmas gift. Mrs. L. Tucker offered her home for the January meeting and Mrs. C. Grigg and Mrs. C. Sandercock volunteered as a program committee.

Mrs. W. Robins, program convener, presided over the following program featuring a musical contest: Christmas reading by Miss Mary Braithwaite, and the singing of Christmas carols. The Rev. Mr. Beech closed the meeting with prayer and the hostess served refreshments.

Richard Tinney Surrenders

BANCROFT, Dec. 23—(ENS). — Richard Tinney, 27-year-old farmer near Coe Hill, who fled from police into a desolate swamp on Wednesday afternoon when they were questioning him in regard to the shooting of his team of horses, surrendered at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Tinney is said by Provincial Constable Palmateer to have confessed to shooting the animals himself, and to having fired shots a few weeks earlier through the windows of his own home, where he lived alone. At that time Tinney reported the shooting to police, intimating someone was trying to murder him.

He is being held in custody at Bancroft on charges of vagrancy and of giving false information.

Tinney apparently left the bush and reached the home of his father, James Tinney of Rose Island, about ten o'clock last night. His father brought the young man to Bancroft yesterday afternoon.

Major J. N. McGill Is Presented With Agricultural Diploma

MILLBROOK, Dec. 23—(ENS). — An enjoyable event of Tuesday evening took place at the home of Major J. N. McGill and Mrs. McGill Park Roadway, when they were host and hostesses for officers and directors of the Millbrook Agricultural Society, the organization being well represented considering the unfavorable weather conditions, and the icy state of the roads.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation to Mr. McGill of the handsome, illuminated diploma sent out each year by the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, to be given the member of individual Agricultural Societies who has been longest connected with the organization, and who has given to it the most outstanding service. Last year was the initial time when this important 'award of merit' was donated by the Department.

Made Presentation

The presentation on Tuesday evening was made by Thomas Donaldson, recipient of last year's diploma, and who is the veteran in age, experience and service of the local society, reaching his ninetieth birthday next June, and for more than sixty consecutive years a director of the Millbrook Fair board.

Mr. McGill made suitable acknowledgement of the honor conferred upon him by his fellow members in the Agricultural Society, and recalled many incidents of interest during the thirty years he has served as secretary-treasurer of the fair board; for five years previous to his election as secretary, which was on motion of the late ex-Warden Sandy Kelly, and the late Foster William Vance, he had been one of the directors of the society. He succeeded the late Major C. H. Winslow in the office of secretary-treasurer, and in the long years of his service, has seen many changes in the nature and conduct of the fair, in the personell of the board of directors, as well as in the village itself.

Short Addresses

Among those who spoke, expressing appreciation of Mr. McGill's fine record, were past presidents, ex-Warden Percy Stinson, L. W. Smith, G. A. Fair, and James L. McManus; the present president, I. W. Larmer, also made a brief address, and Mrs. McGill was presented with a large box of chocolates by Mr. Fair on behalf of the society.

Card games, and music, with the service of lunch by the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. H. Moncrief, rounded out an evening that will long remain as a red letter occasion in local Agricultural Society history.

Hunt Lost Plane

NOME, Alaska, Dec. 23 — (AP). —By airplane and dog team rescue parties searched for a stranded aerial party of two men, a woman and her 15-months-old son on the snow-covered Western Alaska tundra to-day.

Another pilot, Hans Mirow, was unreported since Wednesday, but, because of his long experience in all kinds of flying weather, no one feared for his safety.

Those Suspects

Ottawa, Dec. 23 (CP)

IF IT'S A "green" Christmas in your town and the kids are disappointed, blame it on the sunspots.

The sunspot expert at the Dominion observatory here cocked a weather eye today at his records and said the prominence of this solar phenomenon is making a major contribution to mild, cloudy, snowless weather in many parts of Canada.

The most recent maximum period of the sunspot cycle was during 1937-38 and the winters were not as cold and snowy as usual. This year is only a little below maximum.

So if your young son complains about the lack of ice to try out those new skates or daughter can't ski in the new outfit, tell them about the sunspots.

Bensfort Community Honors Bride-Elect

BENSFORT, Dec. 23.—(ENS)—The large and hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beebe on Tuesday evening was the scene of a happy gathering when a large number of friends gathered there to bid farewell to Miss Emma Edgerton who leaves in the near future for Edmonton. Emma is to be married to Arnold Cinnamon, who formerly lived here. When all had assembled, Harold Beebe invited Emma to come forward when she was presented with a pair of woollen blankets, flannelette blankets, bedspread, pillows, etc., to which Clifford Patton read the address. Emma very graciously replied and all joined in singing "For She's A Jolly Good Fellow."

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing progressive euchre. Melville Patton and Isobel Dawson received the first prizes while consolation prizes went to Mrs. Herb Dawson and Cliff Patton. After lunch was served a few enjoyed community singing.

No Censorship

OTTAWA, Dec. 23 — (CP). — Parliament will be an oasis in a country under wartime censorship when the session opens on January 25. Members of the House of Commons and the Senate will be able to speak their minds freely on Canada's war effort without contravening the Defence of Canada regulations, it was learned to-day.

Speeches of the members will be fully covered by the official Hansard reports and published without the mark of a censor's pencil in the official Journal of Debates. Newspapers will report the speeches also without interference from the Board of Censors.

A new million-dollar company in Japan will gather waste material.

Red Bombers Rain Death And Destruction On Finnish Capital

Their homes a blazing inferno behind them, inhabitants flee through the debris-laden streets of Helsingfors, LEFT, fleeing the terror and death sown by Red Russian bombers as they roared over the Finnish capital unloading their cargo of death-dealing bombs. Small Loan Law Effective Jan. 1

OTTAWA, Dec. 23—(CP). — A new law designed to protect the public from so-called "loan sharks" and to place the small loan business on an efficient basis becomes operative Jan. 1.

This measure has been subject of long and, at times, bitter debate in the House of Commons. It was passed last regular session of Parliament, being initiated in the Senate.

Under the new regulations for small loans—those not more than $500—the cost of the loan to the borrower must be shown plainly and must not exceed two per cent per month for a 15-month loan on the amount actually placed in the hands of the borrower.

The cost is chargeable only on the amount advanced and payable only on the amount remaining as repayments are made. The rate is reduced if the loan goves over 15 months.

During consideration of this and previous measures complaints were heard of lenders charging enormous costs for such loans although the announced interest rate might appear low.

The Act is under jurisdiction of the Finance Minister and under direct supervision of G. D. Finlayson, Superintendent of Insurance.

For violation of this loan cost restriction the penalty is imprisonment up to one year and a maximum fine of $1,000 or in the case of a corporation a fine of $5,000.

Money-lenders whose maximum cost for loans exceeds 12 per cent per annum on the amount actually received by the borrower must obtain a yearly license from the Finance Minister.

Licensed lending companies shall be inspected at least once a year by the Superintendent of Insurance.

Three companies deal in small loans under a Dominion charter and in 1938 their total loans were $9,700,000.

When the bill was under consideration it was known that at least 46 companies were operating under provincial charters and their combined 1938 loans amounted to $6,500,000.

A ROYAL VISIT.

CALCUTTA — (CP-Reuters). — Lieut.-General His Highness the Maharajah Sir Joodha Shumshere Jung Bahadur, Prime Minister and Supreme Commander-in-Chief of Nepal, arrived here to-day on an official visit to the Government of India. Preneveau School Hold Jolly Party

HAVELOCK, Dec. 23 (ENS)—The Belmont township hall was jammed to capacity on Wednesday evening as the pupils of Preneveau School held their annual Christmas entertainment. The concert proved a decided success in quality as well as attendance, an excellent variety of numbers being presented by the pupils under the direction of their teacher, Mr. Maurice Williams.

A joyous moment came for the children towards the conclusion of the program when jolly Santa Claus paid Preneveau a short visit and after greeting them one by one and distributing loads of gifts departed again amid a loud chorus of good-byes.

During the evening the Belmont branch Women's Institute conducted their prize draw for their Christmas cake on which they have sold tickets. Mr. Fred Wrightly of Havelock proved to be the lucky winner when the draw was made by Mr. G. M. Kirk.

The opening chorus, "Good King Wenceslas" by the whole school was followed by a short play entitled "Christmas at Uncle Jerry's." Recitations were given by Albert Smith and Myrtle Althouse, then a vocal duet by Garnet Brooks and Thelma Althouse and two more recitations by Jimmie Deline and Lorine Yeomans.

"Good Christian Men Rejoice" was the school's second choral offering, and following recitations by Jack Scott and Betty McMillan the Belmont Women's Institute presented a musical number as their contribution.

A humorous skit "Josiah's First Courting" portrayed by four Preneveau young folk, Miss Mary Anderson, and Messrs. Clifford Kennedy, Jesse Anderson and Maurice Williams provided a good many laughs.

Among the other numbers presented were: A recitation by Elmer Hartin; vocal trio, the McMullen sisters; recitation, Betty Ellis; monologue, Jim Scott; recitation, Thelma Althouse; recitation, Garnet Brooks; monologue, Iola Hartin; recitation, Jack Scott; vocal solo, Thelma Althouse; flag drill, (songs, Long Way to Tipperary, Pack Up Your Troubles, and We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall); nvoelty dance, Misses Vivian Gordon and Marguerite Brown of Havelock.

Following the program a pleasant period of both round and square dancing was much enjoyed.

Warsaw Institute Packs Gift Boxes

WARSAW, Dec. 23—(ENS). — A number of Institute ladies met at Mrs. George Taylor's home on Monday afternoon and packed twenty-two boxes for shut-ins in the neighborhood. Several who could not attend sent cake, candy or fruit.

Sunday School Concert

The annual entertainment for the Presbyterian Sunday School was held in the town hall on Monday evening, December 18. The school was well represented, and the children thoroughly enjoyed their parts. Besides the little ones' songs there were two number by the larger children's orchestra. Donald Payne, banjo; Mary Hendren, guitar; Mary Watts, mouth organ; Raymond Clements, violin.

Every child in the school had some part. Seven of the children had a candle drill. They were garbed to look like large red candles with yellow tops, and a hole in one side of the top just large enough to show eyes and nose. They marched around singing. Mr. Hector Munro delighted the audience with his violin selection. Dr. Munro, Sunday School superintendent, said a few kindly words and sandwiches, tea and cake were served by the ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson, Selwyn, were Sunday guests of their daughter, Mrs. Clarence Payne and Mr. Payne.

Mrs. Thomas Greystock, Otonabee, was a Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Greystock and is now staying with Mrs. T. H. Crowe.

Miss Margaret Sanderson, Miss Clare Kidd, Miss Bernice Carveth, Lakefield, called on friends in Warsaw on Monday.

Mrs. Lymburner (nee Jean Munro) and little son are spending the holidays with Dr. and Mrs. Munro.

FEAR MINERS DEAD

STAVELY, England, Dec. 23. — (CP).—Rescue crews working in relays struggled today to save a coal-miner artist and five companions entombed by the collapse of the roof in a mine.

After 18 hours of digging, little hope was held that they still lived.

The artist-miner, Gilbert Daykin, 53, once sold several pictures to the late Ramsay Macdonald. In 1931 he spent a fortnight in London at the invitation of the Duchess of Portland to study masterpieces.

INCREASED LINEN EXPORTS

Northern Ireland shipped linen valued at $6,774,610 to the United States in the first nine months of 1939, an increase of about 40 per cent over the like period of the preceding year.

Havelock School Stages Concert

HAVELOCK, Dec. 23—(ENS). — Parents and pupils assembled on Wednesday evening at 'Old Havelock' school to participate in the annual Christmas concert. The schoolhouse presented a gay appearance, with a Christmas tree, candles and colored streamers forming a most effective background for the evening's entertainment. Under the direction of their teacher, Miss Gena McNeely, the pupils presented a varied and interesting program. At its conclusion the most exciting moment arrived when Santa Claus appeared to distribute candies and other gifts to the eagerly awaiting children.

Acting as chairman, Mr. Austin Wilde called upon the following numbers: "A Welcome" Conya Ronald and Ronald Hunt; 'A Christmas Acrostic,' group of nine pupils; dialogue, 'Uncle Hiram's Cold'; recitation, Ethel Menzies; musical selection, Velma and Charles McNeely; "Doll Drill"; junior chorus, "Up On the Housetop"; dialogue, 'The Dull Class; duet, Ferne and Mildred McArthur; recitation, Marion Hubble; boys' chorus, 'The Mermaid'; 'Alice Blue Gown' drill; dialogue, 'The New Hired Man'; recitation, Beety Stewart; solo, Colleen Nicholson, patriotic song; recitation, Cora McAdams; solo, Pearl Lewis; choruses, 'Good King Wenceslas' and 'Good Christian Men Rejoice'; musical selection, Velma and Charles McNeely; dialogue, Uncle Jona's Whiskers'; Christmas exercise, 'The Gifts of the Stars'; closing chorus, 'Evening Hymn.'

Heads Merchantmen

Henri Morin de Linclays, managing director of the French Line, will assume control of the French maritime transport in the United States and Canada. The maritime transport is a newly created department of the ministry of marine, arising out of the exigency of the war, the purpose of which is to co-ordinate all the services of the merchant marine of France.

Nazi-Latvia Pact

BERLIN, Dec. 23 — (AP). — Germany and Latvia concluded an agreement to-day for the exchange of goods in 1940 whereby exports from both countries will be increased. Details were not disclosed.

The Germans also have concluded a trade agreement with Rumania, the details of which are expected to be published later.

Forty-five Families To Get Baskets

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 23. — (ENS)—Presents will be distributed among nearly one hundred children on Christmas Day according to plans made at the joint meeting of local charitable organizations which was presided over by Rev. T. S. Gault. There are forty-two families on the list of those who are to receive baskets. Each child under twelve is to receive a small toy and it was recommended by the committee that these should be purchased locally. Results of the theatre night made public at the meeting were disappointing owing to the inclement weather but according to Mayor Long a substantial donation is to be made by the employees of the shoe factory, woollen mill and paper mill. Adding to this donations already tabled from the council, water and light employees and Rotary Club the amount is expected to be adequate to take care of the baskets.

Roseneath Students Hold Entertainment

ROSENEATH, Dec. 23.—The anal concert and Christmas tree of Roseneath public school was held on Wednesday night. The senior room, attractively decorated for the occaion, was crowded to capacity.

The lighted tree was laden with ifts, including a treat of candy and ranges for the pupils from the eachers, Miss Lois Talling and orne Anderson, which were distriuted by Santa at the close of the rogram. Trustee R. Crego was chairman and at the conclusion of the concert presented a gift to the teachers from the section.

The program was as follows: Chorus by the junior room pupils; brief address by the chairman; drill by the senior room; recitation by Gene Brown; song, "South of the Border," by Oral George with guitar accompaniment; senior room chorus, "God Rest You Merry Gentlemen"; chorus by junior room, "Good King Wenceslaus"; recitation by Elsie Yale; dialogue, "The Grasshoppers and the Ants"; "December Play" presented by junior and senior room pupils; chorus by senior room, "The Santa Claus Express."

Rev. Eugene Beech, on invitation, spoke briefly.

May Mediate In Indian Problem

Sir Stafford Cripps, prominent British jurist and member of the Labor party, shown with his wife, is reported to have departed for India to attempt to iron out the Indian problem with regards to Dominion status. Cripps is said to be working without official sanction, but with the sympathy of the British government.

Bathrooms Are More Colorful

The swing today in bathroom design is toward color. Particularly is this true in fixtures; and undoubtedly one of the contributing factors is the beautiful color selection offered by the leading manufacturers of plumbing fixtures. Warm Sun Tans and Citrus Yellows add a cheery note to the room with a northern exposure while Cool Jade Green and Lucerne Blues make a refreshing contrast in the sunny southern room. For those who prefer more pastel shades, there are Ivory or Orchid Pink; while any bathroom or powder room can be highly dramatized with fixtures in Persian Red or Black.

Walls and floors, too, permit many color treatments and with the new and interesting materials that are now on the market it is a simple matter to plan a beautiful bathroom to suit every purse. Many of these materials are permanent or semi-permanent in nature, such as glass brick and tile, while others including linoleum and composition boards, may be changed to suit changing taste.

A basic part in the planning of any bathroom is the number and size of the fixtures to be included. Bathtubs may be had in a variety of sizes and styles. In choosing a lavatory, too, there is a latitude that gives scope to individual preference; a choice might lie between a lavatory of vitreous china or porcelain enameled iron, supported on gleaming chromium legs or on a sturdy pedestal. Where space is limited a wall lavatory which is specially designed for confined areas may be more suitable. Closets too are made in styles to suit every purse and to match the other bathroom fixtures. Your architect or master plumber can supply detailed information.

Five Have Qualified For School Board

Of the thirteen nominees for the five vacant places on the Board of Education, five had filed qualifications with City Clerk Armstrong at 11 a.m. today. One more would precipitate an election in that department.

The five accepting nomination were Mrs. Morris, D. T. Diplock, Alex Sollitt, D. G. H. Melton and T. J. Carley, K.C.

Successful Concert In Fairview Church

FAIRVIEW, Dec. 23.—The annual community Christmas entertainment of the Fairview district including the two schools, S.S. No. 4 and 11 was held in the Fairview church. In spite of the inclement weather and icy condition of the roads, the church was filled for the occasion.

The concert put on by the pupils of the two schools under the capable direction of their teachers, Miss Olive Day and Miss Mary Golden was of a very high quality.

Much credit is due W. R. Potter of Peterborough, the musical instructor for the way he led the children in their choruses, both schools singing together and separately in two part songs.

At the close of the program Santa Claus arrived to distribute the presents from the well loaded tree. Bags of candy were given the children and everyone received candy.

In the absence of the minister, Rev. J. R. Trumpour, the Sunday school superintendent, Harold Lewis acted as chairman for the following program: Opening choruses by both schools; recitations, Patsy Jackson, Bobby Cockburn, Glen Brown, Allan Patton; song by No. 11 girls, Infant Holy; recitations, Reggie Fowler, Glen Fowler, Russell Boyce, Neil Fowler; dialogue, The New Hired Man; choruses, 'White Coral Bells', 'Jumping Jack'; pantomine, 'The Sick Doll', No. 4; Recitations, Mary Milburn, Dorothy Nicholls, Barbara Mullen; drill, 'The March of the Christmas Bells', by No. 11; duet, Joyce Godfrey and Jackie Burns; dialogue, No. 4, 'Christmas Cookies'; piano solo, Phyllis McKee; cornet solo, Harry Lockington'; coral reciting, No. 4 pupils; choruses, 'Christmas Joy'; dialogue, 'There's Always Santa Claus'; piano solo, Thomas Milburn; guitar solo, Mildred Bulmer; piano solo, John Lewis; dialogue, 'Selling Sally'; recitations, Jean Heard, Joyce Godfrey; closing chorus, 'If You Should Go to Venice'.

Havelock Gives Reeve Seeney His Fifth Term

HAVELOCK, Dec. 23.—(ENS)—Ernest W. Seeney was accorded an acclamation to the reeveship of Havelock at the municipal nominations which were held last evening in the town hall. Reeve Seeney thus begins his fifth consecutive term of office and should the provincial government's proposal to suspend all municipal elections the following year be passed, he will continue in office for still another year. Three other candidates for the reeveship withdrew in favor of Mr. Seeney, who was nominated by Councillors James Wilde and James Ketchen. Those who stepped out were Messrs. T. P. Lancaster, Richard Sanderson and Councill E. J. Leeson.

It is more than probable that all the municipal officers will be elected by acclamation, thus eliminating the need for an election on New Year's Day. Following last evening's nominations, only four of the nine candidates for council qualified, and it was believed that none of the remaining five (one of which was E. W. Seeney) would make his official declaration, although they have until tonight at 9 o'clock to do so. Candidates who qualified were Jas. Wilde, James Ketchen, and E. J. Leeson, all members of the present council and Fred Pollock, who was defeated when he ran last year.

No Trustee Or Hydro Fight

Only the required number of members for school board and Hydro Commission were nominated, so it depends upon the other four candidates for council, whether or not Havelock shall have an election.

The list of candidates and their proposers are as follows:

For Reeve

E. W. Seeney—By James Wilde and J. W. Ketchen.

R. Sanderson—By R. A. Buchanan and Elizer Yeomans.

E. J. Leeson—D. A. Forde and Fred Pollock.

T. P. Lancaster—D. A. Forde and J. A. Davidson.

For Council

Fred Pollock—By John McQuigge and Anson Seabrook.

James Ketchen—By B. A. Curtis and Anson Seabrook.

James Wilde—By Elizer Youmans and E. W. Seeney.

E. W. Sweney—By James Wilde and S. Peters.

Everard Chiles—By James Wilde and D. F. Miller.

William Martin—By R. A. Buchanan and A. E. Clarke.

Lawrence Sanderson—By James Ketchen and R. A. Buchanan.

E. J. Leeson—J. A. Davidson and Frank Parcells.

D. A. Forde—by T. P. Lancaster and E. J. Leeson.

For School Trustees

Donald Anderson—By Fred Pollock and S. Peters.

Mrs. Walter Nobes—By James W. Wilde and E. J. Leeson.

Hydro Commission

D. R. Brennan—By E. W. Seeney and William Platt.

Although there was only a handful of ratepayers present for last evening's meeting, an enthusiastic session was held with some hot debating by several of the candidates. Clerk H. Bruce Puffer presided during the nominations and was afterwards appointed as chairman to conduct the meeting. Every municipal body was thoroughly discussed throughout the evening, much constructive criticism being offered, from all sides.

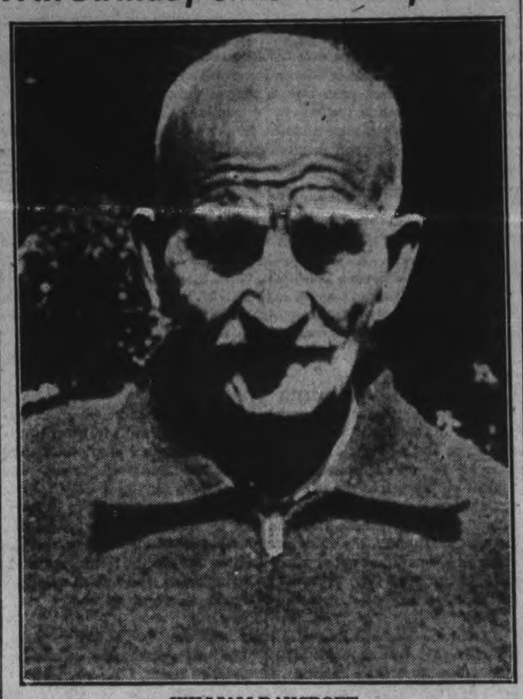
Hastings Oldest Resident Marks 97th Birthday Christmas Day



WILLIAM RAYCROFT

HASTINGS, Dec. 23.—(ENS)—Another year has rolled around and William Raycroft, Hastings' oldest resident will reach another milestone approaching the century mark when he observes his 97th birthday and Christmas day on the same occasion. To have reached this ripe old age might be the most anyone could expect. Mr. Raycraft is grateful to have reached this advanced age but expressed the desire that he may live to be 100 years old at least. Good habits and plain living is his recipe to reach a good age, but his family history will indicate that his ancestors were a group of hardy people too.

His father, John Raycraft of Morganston near Warkworth, attained the age of 102 years while another son, Richard reached the advanced age of 98. He died a few years ago at Highgate, Ontario. Townfolk speak of Mr. Raycraft as "the jolliest man in the village", a title he has earned through his witty and sly remarks. This fine old gentleman of almost five score year shas never been sick a day. This fact he justly boasts of as a record. Twice each week, he walks down town four blocks away to the barber shop and climbs a steep hill on his return.

Years ago, he was a popular stepdancer at all the dances in the Morganston - Orland district and friends say he is still able to "shake a hoof" and that possibly he may dance a jig for them on his birthday. He has full use of all his faculties and has particularly good eyesight without the use of glasses. His daughter, Mrs. Harry Dodd with whom he now resides, told the Examiner he has an excellent appetite and will enjoy his Christmas dinner as much as anyone.

Time has not dimmed his memory of boyhood days in Cramahe township where he grew up to be a succesful farmer and, on his retirement a few years ago, he owned considerable tracts of land.

Mr. Raycraft takes an interest in all news coming over the radio concerning the war but he refrained from passing any comment. "Let some of the younger fellows tell you what they think of it," he said. His favorite pastime is to sit in a rocker and hum tunes of bygone days and let his clear memory carry him back to days of his youth when a less troubled world was the lot of the young men who were taken up with moulding Canada into the country she is today. There were no labor troubles in those days. It was a case of when the men could get their work done.

Mr. Raycraft has five children living: Mrs. Harry Dodd and Mrs. Joseph Trotter of Hastings, Mrs. Peter Kettleson of Detroit, Charles of Morganston and Walter of Orland.

Treat For Horses

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Needy horses were visited by Santa Claus today. About 1,000 bags containing mixed apples, carrots, cracked corn, pressed oats, coarse wheat flour and bran, with a pinch of salt were dispiubs. It was the Anti-Cruelty Society's way of dramatizing the tributed to the hungriest looking horses whose owners fail to give them proper care.

PORT COLBORNE DEFEATS GOODYEARS 6-1 IN GRUELLING BATTLE

Although At War Canada Still Watches Sports

By JACK CAMPBELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Canadian sport sped through a kaleidoscope of workers in 1939, from the running of the King's Plate before the King and Queen to the rapid adjustment of athletics to wartime conditions.

In a world rocked by international hostilities, Canada still could thrill to the sight of Syl Apps gnosing down the ice lanes or Fritz Hanson dancing over a frozen football field. A nation that turned grimly to war still could take time for play.

Track and field underwent the greatest hardships, for the war automatically cancelled the Olympic Games and no men's national track championships were held. But early in the year two Canadian intercollegiate stars, Larry O'Connor of the University of Toronto and Bill Fritz of Queen's, defeated some of the best runners in the United States. When the women's championships came up, Jeannette Dolson of Toronto ran as brilliantl yas ever to the senior sprint titles.

Hockey Champions.

Trail Smoke Eaters captured the word amateur hockey championship in a tournament at Basel, Switzerland, and Port Arthur Bearcats qualified to go to the doomed Olympics by taking the Dominion senior amateur prize, the Allan Cup. Oshawa Generals were led to the junior championship by Billy Taylor, who immediately graduated to Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League. The Leafs reached the world professional finals against Boston. Leaders in women's hockey for the third straight year were the Rivulettes of Preston, Ont.

Mary Rose Thacker, 16-year-old Winnipeg starlet, and Montgomery Wilson of Toronto stepped to the North American figure skating crowns. Dick Birch of Vancouver and Marjorie Delaney of Quebec took the Dominion badminton championships at Toronto, while the 1938 women's titlist, Mrs. Dorothy Walton of Toronto, won the all-England crown.

The King's Plate for Ontario-bred three-year-olds, the oldest continuously run horse-racing classic on the continent, was won by George McCullagh's Archworth as King George and Queen Elizabeth and 30,000 others looked on at Toronto.

Western Canada a Winner.

Four top team awards went to Western Canada. Winnipeg Blue Bombers, led by the swift-footed Hanson, defeated Ottawa Rough Riders 8-7 in a thrillin gfinish to the Dmoinion senior football final on a snow-covered field at Ottawa. Victoria Dominoes took down the national senior championship in basketball, New Westminster Adanacs in lacrosse, and Vancouver Radials in soccer for three significant British Columbia successes.

Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, Ont., drove his craft to supremacy at Washington in winning the annual President's Gold Cup race. Hamilton Leanders won the Canadian Henley event for eight-oared crews over the United States champions, Buffalo Westsides. Later in an exhibition the Leanders defeated Toronto Argonauts, who had reached the final against Harvard University in the Royal English Henley, but did not compete in the Canadian meet.

Jug McSpaden, of Winchester, Mass., took down the Canadian Open Golf championship at St. John, N.B., but Ken Black of Vancouver won back the National Amateur Golf award for the Dominion at Montreal.

Four youngsters—Bill Pedlar, Phil Pearson and Bruce Hall of Toronto and Ellis Tarshis of Montreal—were named by the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association to represent Canada in the Davis Cup matches and they went down fighting to Cuba in the hot sun at Havana. Morey Lewis of Texarka, Tex., took the men's singles title at the Dominion tennis championships at Windsor, Ont., and Elizabeth Blackman of Detroit the women's prize.

Bob Pirie of Toronto, with a string of successes in Hawaii and New York, was the country's No. 1 swimmer.

Calder To Consider Complaint Of Ross

MONTREAL, Dec. 23 — (CP). — President Frank L. Calder of the National Hockey League said yesterday Manager Art Ross of Boston Bruins had lodged a complaint with the league against a "certain action" of Conny Smythe, Toronto Maple Leafs' manager.

"A complaint has been laid against Conny Smythe by Art Ross," he said. "Mr. Smythe will now be given a chance to state his defence for the alleged action."

Violates Clause

Mr. Calder said the complaint claimed Smythe had violated a clause in the constitution of the league, but declined to discuss the nature of the complaint.

(In an interview here Thursday night, Ross claimed Smythe had violated the league constitution by inserting an advertisement in a Boston newspaper which he said constituted "adverse publicity" for the Bruins. He said he had asked the league to fine Smythe.)

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Let us extend to readers of this pillar de piffle our hearty wishes for a most merry Christmas. We wish ya all a gorgeous gorge a bunch of presents and a lot of fun over the long holiday week-end. And we wish to say thanks to a host of friends for nice Xmas cards. They came from the city and district, from various centres throughout the province and several from south of the border. A number of leagues remembered us, quite a few officials, some athletes, former athletes and the different sports scribes around and about. Undoubtedly, we missed sending a lot of folks cards, but our best wishes to 'em all—and we hope you people will continue to wade through this column during the winter months.

* * * * * *

Up at the Y.M.C.A. tonight, an exhibition senior men's basketball contest has been lined up, about the only local sports activity this p.m. It's between the Simpson Ave. Grads of Toronto and the Peterborough All-Stars. While the visitors are supposed to be about tops in smooth cage activity, the local gang might crowd 'em plenty—and even yank out a close verdict. Anyway, it promises to be an interesting tussle for followers of the lively hoop sport here.

Changing The Rooms

Arrangements have been completed between the Brock St. rink management and Hockey Club officers to change the Petes' and Colts' dressing rooms around right away. The intermediates will keep their own room at the west end upstairs but it'll be a little larger this winter. The juniors will move into the remodelled middle hallway up there—the open space where smokers used to gather to swap gossip between frames. There'll be a door leading from the balcony directly into the band-room, too, we understand. The visiting club's room at the extreme east end upstairs will remain about the same, and the little extra room next to it, also. Lighting has been improved up at the arena, and they're busy now putting down flood after flood to get a solid foundation of ice.

Trenton Fliers' last lineup, in their VanHorne Cup semi-final game, went like this: Goal, Gibson; defence, Cameron and Higgins; centre, Legris; wings, Dryer and Baldwin; subs, McNab, Irvin, Dunning, McLeod, Lemieux, Day and Gathercoll. With troops being shifted frequently now, the Airmen's lineup changes a bit from week to week—and this is permitted by the O.H.A., owing to the war. Lemieux and Irvin of R.M.C. and Ottawa were the latest additions to Coach Toots Holway's puck squad.

Trouble In Belleville

We're told by a guy who hails from Belleville that Manager Eddie Thomas of the Redmen is really mad enough to bolt the O.H.A. intermediate "A" group. He's peeved at the O.H.A. decision—or is it final yet?—that Gow and Hastie must play for Gananoque, rather than Belleville. We're also told (but dunno how true this is) that Sandy Burrows of Bella Villa, an O.H.A. executive member, made the statement some time ago that Gow and Hastie would not be allowed to play for the Redmen. This was supposed to be before the O.H.A. persuaded Gananoque to enter. And this is what is burning up Skipper Thomas, 'tis said. Now, it's too bad if the Redmen are wrecked under these circs — and just when they have a good squad lined up—but of course the main fault lies in lack of young material developed in Belleville from which to draw good intermediate prospects. Possibly, the Redmen and the O.H.A. could get together on the matter for this winter yet.

* * * * * *

Looks like the Church Hockey League, with a big entry list again, will start playing in less than a week. A number of inquiries have been received by executive men so far and the list closes at a meeting next Tuesday eve at seven in the "Y". Entry fee and forms should be sent at that time, or at least a delegate from each team. Squads wanting to commence play next Thursday will likely be accommodated. An optimistic note is struck by promised entries from St. Andrew's and St. James —church puck absentees for several years. Other teams will be much the same as last season. St. Paul's will have junior and bantam teams, Trinity a juvenile, and probably George St. and All Saints squads in all divisions. Murray St., Mark St., Park St., Knox and St. John's will likely line up as before.

About The Juveniles

Next Wednesday e'en from six to eight at the Sacred Heart rink, the Grads—the Peterborough entry in the Ontario Juvenile Puck Assoc.—will hold an open workout and boys under 18 are invited to try for berths. Those having birth certificates should bring them along. It is reported another local team may seek a bye into O.J.H.A. playdowns—and is it the St. Peter's squad? We haven't heard officially. Norwood is another district O.J.H.A. team, the next nearest being Bobcaygeon. Last day for entries is next Wednesday; send word to J. H. Stafford at 24 Hayter St., Toronto. The O.J.H.A. isn't connected with the O.H.A.

Our friends in Hastings, as well as local hockey followers, will like this item from Montreal: "Art Ross can thank Aubrey (Dit) Clapper that his Boston Bruins are riding along at the top of the National Hockey League standing. Clapper, a one-time forward star and rated as highly now that he occupies a defence post, sparked the Bruins to a 3-2 victory here last night before 5,000 fans over Montreal Canadiens. Coupled with a Toronto loss in Chicago, the victory put Bruins in sole possession of first place for the first time this season. The burly Clapper, whose brilliance on defence has long been dimmed by the one and only Eddie Shore, scored the opening and closing goals for the Bruins. His second and winning tally came only a minute after he had returned from a penalty that had allowed Canadiens to tie the score at 2-2. There was an element of luck to the winning goal, but there was nothing wrong with Clapper's first score near the start of the second period."

Dese, dem and dose: National ball league yearly records will be released next week....And all divisions of the O.H.A. are due to swing into action for the first time this season next week....Again Prexy Fred Dufton of the Cobourg gridders (1939 O.R.F.U. intermediate "B" champs) puts out a nifty Xmas card, showing an action scene by the squad....We should have bracketed the name of Fred King of Bridgenorth with Jack Holland when mentioning the contractors for the local Ski Club chalet job....Baltimore Orioles have climbed to third place in their loop with a win o'er River Vale....Oshawa's junior "B" club has one import at least, a guy named Hewson of Brantford....City Cage Loop will complete its re-organization work at a meeting next week....Petes hope to have a couple more workouts ere starting the season 'gainst Belleville here a week from yesterday....No word lately of the Industrial Hockey League's schedule....And so this week-end there is peace on earth goodwill toward men everywhere—except on the Western Front, the Finnish-Russian border, parts of Poland and the Czech country, as well as the Far East! ....But anyway, a merry Christmas to all readers of this column.

Still Happy

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., Dec. 23.—(AP)—Despite eigth years in an iron lung, 21-year-old Birdsall Sweet grinned today and wished "as merry a Christmas to everyone as I expect to have." He is confident this Christmas and the coming year will be his happiest—nearly a decade since he took to the artificial respirator with infantile paralysis.

Canada's Top Athletes For 1939

Voted by Canada's sports editors, in a consensus collected by the Canadian Press, as Canada's outstanding athletes for 1939, fast coming to a close, were the athletes shown here, faces you no doubt will recognize. Top place went to the ball-toting young man in the CENTRE, Fritz Hanson, spearhead of Winnipeg Blue Bombers' attack in their drive to the Dominion rugby crown. Second place was taken by Toe Blake, LEFT, N.H.L. scoring champion of 1938-39 and voted the most valuable player ta his team in the circuit. Behind Blake came Syl Apps, centre for Toronto Maple Leafs, and more recently centre of a greatest-player-of-all-time controversy. Fourth on the list was Vancouver's Ken Black, RIGHT, who had a great year on the golf links, capped by his feat of winning the Canadian amateur crown.

Bucky Walters Ace Pitcher

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—(AP)—The National Baseball League pitcher of the year was and is William Henry (Bucky) Walters, Jr., of Cincinnati Reds.

The baseball writers who chose him the most valuable player in his league had the same idea several weeks ago, but it took the pitching averages announced today to show what a great slinger the langy right-hander really was during the 1939 season.

He led all hurlers in his league in earned-run rating with an average of 2.29 a game; won the most games, 27; pitched the most innings, 319; most complete games, 31; faced the most batter, 1,283; tied with one other for the most strikeouts, 137; tied with two others for starting the most games, 36; and tied with two others for allowing the most sacrifice hits.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

By Central Press Canadian

Waging a close race with Boston's Frank Brimsek as youngest goalie in the National league, both in point of years and experience, is Claude Bourque, who kicks 'em out for Canadiens. Bourque is half a year older, but 16 days by the calendar and 20 games in the league schedule less-experienced than Mr. Zero. The Frenchmen, who were anything but flying last year, started that melancholy season off with Wilf Cude in the nets. After only five games had been played Cude was forced out of the line-up on doctors' advice, and Bourque, then with a senior amateur team in Quebec, was signed to a pro contract and made his debut a year ago last Nov. 20. Cude came back later to play another string of games, his last on Feb. 19, since which date Canadiens' regular twine-tender has been Master Bourque. The youthful star was born at Oxford, N.S., March 31, 1915, sharing maritime rooting support with Gordie Drillon of Toronto. On his first trip to Montreal to play amateur hockey he found all the positions he sought occupied, and returned home with no great ambition for further puck pursuits. An emergency call took him back and he clicked immediately, remaining in the neighborhood until signed by Canadiens. He's a lightweight, not scaling over 150 pounds. Full name, Claude Hennessey Bourque—which was Burke until he'd been with the Frenchmen a while.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
(Pinch-Hitting for Eddie Brietz)

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 23.—(AP)—Not all the mail arriving at the Tom Stidham home in Norman, Okla., these days is Christmas cards ...Some of it is coming from Houston, Tex., and its Rice Institute...

Steve Pspisil (correct), high school coach at Bertrand, Neb., wins a bag of slightly damaged Christmas tinsel with this alibi: "My kids misinterpreted my pep talk at the start of the year. I told them to go out there and give it to them. They thought I meant the games, too."...

No wonder Nile Kinnick rang the bell. Bob Feller, the pitcher; Buck Shaw, Santa Clara's coach; Earl Walsh, Fordham backfield mentor, and Kinnick all played in the same Iowa cornfield...Papa and Mama Baer lived in the same sector before the birth of their son, Maximilian Adelbert...

Feller recently played the role of a sports writer in a home talent minstrel...He spent the time interviewing a newspaperman...who was cast as Bob Feller...You can get insurance with your ticket that will pay your estate $5,000 if your ticker stops while viewing a national semi-pro baseball game.

CAMP'S NAME APT

PUCKAPUNYAL, Australia—(CP)—The name of this Australian army training camp is particularly apt, it has been pointed out. An aboriginal transcription, it signifies "Death to the Eagle"—in the present case the German eagle.

Pugilistic Practice Replaces Puck Pursuing

Feelings on more than one occasion have run high this season when those two speedy National League crews, Rangers and Canadiens, have met, and here is a scene of fisticuffing from their most recent encounter, won by Rangers, 5-2, giving them a two-to-one edge (with a tie) on the season so far. Dutch Hiller, Ranger left wing, is the party leading with his left, object of the punch being Canadiens' centre, Polly Drouin, who appears to be slapping in retaliation. Bryan Hextall, right wing on the line with Hiller, wards off any possible blows at the left, while getting a close-up at the other side is Doug Young, of Canadiens.

Two Kids Make Tennis Ranking

NEW YORK, Dec. 23 — (AP). — Two youngsters from opposite sides of the North American continent, Welby Van Horn of Los Angeles and Helen Bernhard of New York, were given prominent positions in the top 10's of tennis ranking for 1939 as announced today by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Van Horn, a broad-shouldered kid with much of the power if not all of the control of Don Budge, went to the final round of the men's singles championship at Forest Hills last September and thereby won fourth place. No. 1 position, of course, went to Bobby Riggs of Chicago, United States and Wimbledon titleholders.

Miss Bernhard, a diminutive Miss, who, like Van Horn, is barely out of the junior division, spread her accomplishments more generally over the season to advance from 17th place in 1938 to fourth place in 1939. The women's singles rankings also accorded top position, as a matter of course, to Alice Marble, the California blond who likewise won both at Wimbledon and Forest Hills.

Here are the rankings:

Men: 1, Bobby Riggs, Chicago; 2, Frankie Parker, Pasadena, Calif.; 3, Don McNeill, Oklahoma City; 4, Welby Van Horn, Los Angeles; 5, Wayne Sagin, Portland, Ore.; 6, Elwood Cooke, Portland, Ore.; 7, Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant, Jr., Atlanta, Ga.; 8, Gardnar Mulloy, Coral Gables, Fla.; 9, Gilbert A. Hune, Jr., Washington, D.C.; 10, Henry J. Presoff, Seattle.

Women: 1, Alice Marble, San Francisco; 2, Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Calif.; 3, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, Cambridge, Mass.; 4, Helen Bernhard, New York; 5, Virginia Wolfenden, Santa Monica, Calif.; 6, Dorothy May Bundy, Santa Monica; 7, Dorothy Workman, Los Angeles; 8, Pauline Betz, Los Angeles; 9, Katharine Winthrop, Boston; 10, Mary Arnold, San Francisco.

Niagara Falls Blanked By St. Catharine

(By The Canadian Press)

It's going to be a happy Chri mas for Port Colborne Sailors a there's a lot of rejoicing arou the canal town today in keepi with the Yuletide spirit.

For two seasons the Sailors ha been attempting to defeat Toro Goodyears during the Senior schedule of the Ontario Hock Association. They did the trick l night before a wildly-cheering hor folk, winning 6-1 in a gruelli battle. It was Goodyears third l this year.

St. Catharines Saints and Ham ton Dominions also have cause f a little Christmas celebration. T Saints—only other team to be Toronto—blanked Niagara Fa Cataracts in the Falls 3-0 to st in first place, while Dominio walloped the winless Galt Moos men 8-4 at Hamilton.

Goodyears' ganging tactics co tributed to their downfall. Behi 2-1 in the final period, Edd Powers' Goodies sent every man the attack and the Ports show they were great opportunists breaking away for four clean goa The game ended in a melee players when Toronto claimed have scored a second goal just the final bell rang. The goal disallowed and a few punches we swung before the players left t ice.

Goney McGowan and Lloyd Fit gerald led the Tars' attack. M Gowan scored two goals and earne two assists. Fitzgerald had thr assists and two goals. Earl Laroch and Tommy Thompson were t other Sailor scorers. George Imlac punched home the Toronto goal.

Seventeen penalties, including misconduct to Steak Morrison the Falls for arguing and a majo to Mac McCracken of the Falls, en livened the Niagara game. Th Saints suffered a setback whe Harry Doran, clever forward, frac tured his wrist when he ran int the boards in the second period.

Pete Backor started the Saints o victory road with a first-perio goal while the league's leading he man, Jack Astle of Cataracts, in the penalty box. Bill Mocha an Jack Boyd were the other scorers

Despite the presence of Walte Greig of Brantford and Jack Hogar formerly of Detroit Pontiacs of th Michigan-Ontario league, Ga could not get going against th Dominions. For the past severa days, Dominions have protested that Greig should be their pro perty.

Senior Hockey In Manitoba Tries For Comeback

WINNIPEG, Dec. 23—(CP)—The weatherman has treated Western Canada's hockey leagues roughly so far this year, hitting small town teams especially, cutting down practice sessions and hurting financial resources through lack of home games.

The mild weather has had its effect on the standings of the Alberta and Saskatchewan senior leagues, both of which opened schedules more than a month ago.

In both leagues the "big city" tams are on top, with the towns trailing.

Senior hockey in Manitoba is attempting a comback after laxing in the doldrums since 1932. Raids on the Manitoba hockey crop by the Maritimes started hockey around Winnipeg on the downgrade and later excursions to England kept it down. At one time there were about 60 players from Manitoba playing overseas.

The first game of the reformed league was played Wednesday, Clarks defeating Lombards 2-1. The other two teams in the circuit are Stonewall and University of Manitoba. Varsity also intends to play in the Western Intercollegiate league.

Most of the action in British Columbia West Kootenay league has been between Nelson Maple Leafs, Trail Smoke Eaters and Gonzaga University of Spokane, Wash. Kimberley stands at the head of the league with a victory in its only game played, Nelson second and Trail third. Gonzaga has lost all its eight games.

The Lakehead's Thunder Bay league which last year produced the Allan Cup winning Port Arthur Bearcats, is scheduled to open on Christmas Day.

Saskatchewan has produced the best balanced league so far. Regina Vic-Aces now hold a one-point lead in the standings over Saskatoon, with Moose Jaw, Yorkton and Flin Flon trailing in that order. Although Flin Flon has —— out of five played, it has scored 13 goals to their opponents' 20.

Winnipeg Girl Is Acclaimed By Writers As Leading Canadian Woman Athlete

TORONTO, Dec. 23.—(CP)—Like many another athlete, Mary Rose Thacker may never get a chance to show her real ability because of cancellation of the 1940 Olympic games. For the moment, she will have to be content with laurels to be won on this continent.

Pretty Mary Rose, at the age of 16, won the Canadian and North American figure skating championships this year in her first attempts. There seems to be no other fields for the Winnipeg girl to conquer right now, for South America doesn't go in for that sort of thing and other continents are otherwise engaged.

Sports writers across the Dominion, polled by The Canadian Press, agreed yesterday that Mary Rose was the leading Canadian woman athlete of 1939. Some marked their ballots for her alone, though they were given three choices.

Mary Rose gained the title by four points over Jeannette Dolson, Toronto's 21-year-old sprinting star. Miss Dolson held supremacy over all others in the Canadian track and field championships for the fourth straight year, after bowing to Helen Morrison in Toronto in the Ontario meet.

190,000 Finns Holding Russian Army

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 — (AP) —Finland, by authoritative neutral estimates, probably has only 190,000 combat troops opposing the Russians on all fighting fronts.

Military men closely following the Russian invasion said to-day that this was a liberal estimate, based on a rule of thumb calculation of five per cent. of the population.

For every soldier at the front there are normally several behind the lines, and Finland is credited with only 400,000 men in uniform. Men of 40 were summoned to the colors this week.

Hammering at the Finns are considerably larger forces of Russians, but authoritative estimates are lacking as to their numerical superiority. By one report 17 divisions, or upwards of 300,000 Red troops, have been massed against the so-called Mannerheim Defence Line alone, but experts discount the figure because the narrow Karelian Isthmus limits the number that may be employed.

Soviet Russia has perhaps 18,000,000 troops and at least partially trained reserves, forming the world's largest store of military manpower. Some authorities believe that only 2,000,000 or so now are in actual service. They are divided into three main armies, only one of which is employed against the Finns.

3 Million Each.

By contrast, Germany and France are each believed to have 3,000,000 men in uniform, with a third or fewer manning the western front defences.

Wartime censorship and the rapidly shifting military picture make naval tonnage and warplane production as difficult to estimate authoritatively as the size of land forces. These figures, revised from the best available semi-official sources, present a composite picture of the military might of the major European belligerents and of Italy, largest European power on the sidelines:

Men Under Arms—Great Britain, 900,000; France, 3,000,000; Germany, 3,000,000; Soviet Russia, 2,000,000; Italy, 900,000.

Naval Tonnage (as of July 1) — Great Britain, 2,079,863; France, 815,531; Germany, 541,023 Russia, 290,589; Italy, 717,920.

Firts Line Warplanes — Great Britain, 4,500; France, 1,000; Germany, 7,000; Russia, 4,000; Italy 3,000 to 5,000.

Monthly Plane Production Rate—Great Britain, 1,000; France, 300; Germany, 1,400 to 2,000; Russia, 500; Italy 500 to 1,000.

Cobourg Road School Concert Big Success

HASTINGS, Dec. 23—(ENS)—The annual community concert of the Cobourg Road School, under the direction of the teacher, Miss Kathaleen Crosson, was held on Wednesday evening before a large and appreciative audience. Donald Beamish made a capable chairman.

The first part of the program was provided by the school pupils, with their songs, recitations and choruses.

The second part was the presentation of three-act comedy, "Deacon Dubbs," by the young people of the section. The performers kept the audience in gales of laughter from the beginning of the play to the end. The cast: Mrs. John Cleary, Mrs. Bruce Trotter, Miss Kathaleen Crosson, Miss Irene Gibson, Miss Winnifred Beamish, Messrs. Leo Gibson, Howard Porter, John Gibson, Eric Pulfer and Jack Smith. Between acts music was furnished by Messrs. Don Beamish and Richard Williams.

The school program included an opening chorus, "Deck the Hall"; recitation by Dorothy Oliver; recitation, David Cook; dance by four little juniors, Dorothy Oliver, Shirley Keogan, Sarh. Beamish and David Cook; recitation, Danny Cleary; recitation, Shirley Keogan; chorus, "Away In A Manger"; recitations, Howard Richardson, Samuel Beamish, Lyle Cook, Paul Smith; chorus, "Little Wooden Shoes"; solo, "I'm the Man with the Mandolin," by Howard Richardson; recitation, Eddie Smith; duet, "Tell Me Little Gypsy Maid" by Donna and Isabell Beamish; recitation, Helen Lamey; tap dance and solo by Marguerite Kelleher; recitation, Dan Smith; solo, "Over the Rainbow," by Helen Richardson; recitation, Isabelle Beamish; solo, Helen Lamey; dance, Donna Beamish; dance by Marguerite Kelleher.

Santa then arrived and distributed gifts from the well-laden tree.

Firemen Survey Their Work of Bringing Happiness To Many Children

There shouldn't be a child in all Peterborough this Christmas who thinks Santa Claus has forgotten him. For firemen yesterday delivered more toys than in any of the more than ten years they have been repairing and painting toys. This picture gives some idea of the number of toys that were made like new, and of their quality, although not all are shown here by any means. Part of the staff that worked on the toys is shown here, with Adjutant Buckley of the Salvation Army, Alderman Malcolm McIntyre, and Mayor James Hamilton. Fire Chief George Gimblett and his staff make up the others in the picture.

Mrs. Lean Heads Centenary W.A.

ROSENEATH, Dec. 23—The regular and annual meeting of Centenary United Church W.A. was held on Thursday afternoon in the church, with Mrs. N. Lean, president, in the chair.

The financial statement presented by the treasurer, Miss Hilda Arthur, showed real achievement by the 15 members of the society. Beginning the year with a balance of $19.14, the society has raised approximately $127. This amount was raised through sales of quilts, a bazaar, an ice cream social, sales from the "surprize box" and other efforts.

The society has donated $75 to the church treasury, and $10 to the M. and M. fund. There is a balance on hand of approximately $18.

Miss Jessie Sherwin presided over a Christmas program which included the following numbers: a reading, "Christmas," by Miss Emma Shewin Mrs. D. Timlin read "Many Changes Since Father Hung His Sock"; Jean Edington sang a Christmas song, as did Lawrence and Allan Beech; Mrs. M. Brown read "Shall Ever a Star Shine as the Bethlehem Star," and Miss Hilda Arthur's contribution was "Christmas Bells"; Mrs. Eugene Beech read an article, "Christmas Rights," and Mrs. A. Elder contributed a reading also.

Rev. E. Beech had charge of the election of officers. Mrs. N. Lean was re-elected president; vice-president, Mrs. D. Timlin; secretary, Miss Emma Sherwin; treasurer, Miss Hilda Arthur; Sunchine Convener, Miss Jessie Sherwin; pianist, Miss Hilda Arthur.

Mrs. I. Skuce and Mrs. B. Arthur moved a vote of thanks to the officers for their faithfulness.

Misses Emma and Jessie Sherwin offered their home for the January meeting.

Albert McBrian of Cadillac, Michigan, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Ray Campbell and Mr. Campbell of Lansing, Michigan, visited the former's niece, Mrs. A. Nill, during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hoover left on Friday to spend Christmas in Buffalo.

CAULFIELD, Australia—(CP). — A belligerent magpie has become an aerial raider on the grounds of a girls' school here. Swooping from its base in high trees, the bird has launched many fierce attacks which send pupils and teachers scurrying.

Christmas Concert Is Presented By United Church Sunday School

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 23. — An enthusiastic audience attended the annual Christmas concert given under auspices of St. John's United Church Sunday School on Wednesday evening. The affair was a distinct success with most of the credit going to the teachers and instructors.

Opening the program after a brief introduction and appropriate Christmas story by Harold A. Twigg were the pupils of the kindergarten section under the direction of Mrs. A. E. Wragg and Miss Doris Mason, who provided a number of recitations in harmony with the season. Those who took part in this included Barbara Fox, Charles Reynolds, Janet Sills, Gerald Sills, Anne Palliser, Jackie Morgan, Paul McPherson, Carol Weston, and Dorothy Ferris.

Mrs. H. Pearse was in charge of the primary group which provided the second part of the program which also consisted chiefly of recitations and songs from the platform gaily decorated with evergreen and Chrismas trees with colored lights. Assisting in that section were Dorothy Fairman, Janet Stewart, June Ames, Barabar Ellis, Marjorie McComb, and Carrol McArthur. Twelve other boys and girls of the same class told a Christmas story with each reciting a small part. This was followed by singing the carol, 'Away In A Manger."

The combined classes of Charles Jeffs and Frank McKelvie offered as their contribution a pageant in three parts entitled "The Shepherds Who Did Not Go." This was well portrayed by the following cast: the Shepherds, Ralph Osborne, Ross Taylor, Charles Bertrand and Jack Connor; Abraham (owner of the flocks), Gerald Sloggett; servants of Abraham, Charles Diamond and Douglas Free; Mary the Madonna, Diane Ironside; Joseph, Frank McKelvie. The entire action and scene took place before a campfire on a hillside near Bethlehem and with the cast all appropriately costumed the effect was most realistic.

A second pageant, "When the Star Shone" was then presented with the following cast: Mrs. Goodhurst, Madeline Lisle; Maggie (the maid), Ruby Jones; the grandchildren, Billy Scott, Nellie Field, Thomas Fox and Barbara Greig; the children of Judea (who entered bearing lighted candles), Helen Weston, Betty Scott, Alex Johnston, Morley Maxwell; Deborah, Violet Abernethy; Little Sister, Joan Wilimink; the Angels, Enid Malcolm and Betty Fairman; the Madonna, Diane Ironside. Music was provided throughout by the junior chorus.

At the conclusion Santa Claus who had been eagerly awaited by the young folk all evening arrived and distributed small bags of candy and the chairman expressed thanks to all those who had assisted in preparing the program including Mrs. W. F. Scott, Misses Dorothy Henson and Gladys Stephen, Mrs. G. N. Maxwell.

How to combat avalanches and the strong winds which accompanied them was studied at a 3-day conference of scientists in Moscow.

Led Astray

Stockholm, Dec. 23 (AP) THE newspaper Social-Demokraten reported without confirmation today that the entire Terijoki Finnish Communist "people's government" had been arrested by Russia because they had misled Joseph Stalin concerning Finland's military strength.

Kafter Russia invaded Finland a "people's government" headed by the Communist Otto Kuusinen was set up in Terijoki, a Finnish town near the Russian border. Russia later signed a mutual assistance pact with this "government."

Harwood Pupils Honor Teachers

HARWOOD, Dec. 23 (ENS). — Teachers and pupils of the Public School presented their annual Christmas entertainment in the hall on Thursday evening to a large audience.

Pupils of the Junior Room, with their teacher Miss Helen Moyer, presented the first part of the program, which consisted of songs, dialogues, and recitations. During the intermission Miss Hoskin, principal of the school, who is leadinv at Christmas, was called to the platform by the chiarman, E. Drope. Miss Jean Shearer read an address and Miss Barbara Zufelt presented her with a suitable gift on behalf of the senior pupils.

Miss Moyer, who has been appointed principal, was also presented with a gift from the junior pupils by Tereasa Callahan and Merla Kelly read the address.

The second part of the program was presented by the senior pupils. Santa Claus arrived and distributed the gifts from the decorated tree. The juniors sang a farewell song as he left the hall.

Personals.

Miss Jean Shearer spent a few days recently in Torbnto.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Corkery, Peter and Kathleen, left on Thursday to spend the Christmas holiday with her parents in Buffalo.

Miss Anna Wade, who has been visiting in Buffalo, has returned home.

T. Callahan has returned home after spending two weeks with relatives in Cleveland.

Harwood friends were sorry to hear of the death of C. Roddy of Cobourg this week. Mr. Roddy was a most faithful bread truck driver through this village for the past thirteen summers and he will be long remembered by a wide circle of frietnds. Failing health caused him to give up his bread route a short time ago. It is remarkable to note that in his thirteen summers never once did he disappoint his customers.

ADMIRALTY TAKES SHIPS

Many ship used by British fishermen in catching fish for making cod liver oil have been taken over by the Admiralty for war purposes.

Germany Feeling British Oil Seizures

LONDON, Dec. 23 — (CP). — The Royal Navy has confiscated enough gasoline destined for Germany to provide power for fifty Nazi twin-engined bombers to raid this country every day for a year and a half.

This was one of the computations made yesterday by British Government economic experts whon emphasizing the serious effect the Allied two-way blockade is having upon Germany's war effort.

Judging from Germany's clandestine attempts to import certain goods through neutral countries, it is believed here the Nazis are getting short of several primary commodities, especially gasoline, fats, copper, zinc and cotton.

Shortage Conjectural.

How short they are is a matter of conjecture, but in recent weeks they have been making repeated attempts to replenish their stocks of these goods—and usually failing to run them through the blockade.

In modern warfare there are few products more important than gasoline and Germany is one of the few major powers without oil deposits. There have been many estimates of the extent of Germany's reserves of this vital product, including one—which is not believed here—that she has only enough for one sustained major offensive by land, sea and air.

Economic experts believe, however, that Germany is definitely short of gasoline and that this is probably one of the reasons why the German air armada has not made an appearance over Britain.

Speed Kings In The British Army Are Ready To Go

Even in wartime, Sir Malcolm Campbell cannot forsake his mania for speed and gasoline engines. Now a captain in the British army, he is shown here as he inspected his motorcycle company, which is at present undergoing extensive training in England. When their training is completed they will proceed to France as dispatch riders.

Season's Greetings

I am sure, that the foremost wish of every citizen of the City and County of Peterborough at this season of the year and the one to which I most heartedly subscribe, is: "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

I do not believe that any of us thought one year ago when we were buying our Christmas gifts, that Christmas, 1939, would find Canada and many other countries in the world engaged in another war. I know that we all prayed for a peaceful solution. We all felt that the pleas for peace would and should be heeded so that there would be peace on earth. These pleas were not heeded and our enemies now know that every Canadian stands solidly behind the British Empire and her Allies to fight with the determination to win, so that the peace-loving people of the world can unite together in the best interests of mankind and PEACE. You have no doubt, I have no doubt as to the result of this conflict, as right is right, and victory will be ours.

With that thought in mind, I take this opportunity to extend to the citizens of Peterborough County, irrespective of political affiliations, on behalf of myself and officers of the Peterborough County Conservative Association, a Merry Christmas and a sincere wish, that good health, happiness and prosperity will be yours for the New Year.

President of Peterborough County Conservative Association, Provincial and Federal, and Official Conservative Candidate for West Peterborough Federal Riding

Robert Graham 100 Years Old Christmas Day

TORONTO, Dec. 23 — (CP). — Robert Graham, who was born on a sailing vessel coming over from Ireland on Christmas Day in 1839, will celebrate his 100th birthday anniversary on Monday still eagerly interested in the life that goes on about him.

Graham's parents settled near Madoc when they arrived here, and for many years he worked in logging camps of Eastern Ontario. He has never worn glasses, still has all his own teeth and attributes his sturdy physique to the facts that he has "always worked outdoors and drunk lots of good whisky."

He reads the local newspapers and takes a sharp interest in civic politics, attending meetings at which his son Charles H. Graham speaks, seeking election as Alderman for Ward 5.

His wife, the former Susanah Castle, of South Monaghan Township, five sons, four daughters and 46 grandchildren will help him celebrate his birthday. All live in Toronto except one son Richard and his three children, who make their home in Peterborough.

M. H. Johnston Is New Reeve Of North Monaghan

Melville Johnston was elected Reeve of North Monaghan township by acclamation at a nomination meeting in the County Council chambers last night. He replaces James Milby, reeve for the past four years, and Warden of the county in 1939. Mr. Milby declined to stand for re-election. Mr. Johnston has been Deputy-reeve for the past six years.

Two were nominated for the post of Deputy-reeve, John Barnes by Bert Cunningham and Clarence Laing; and A. W. Archibald by H. E. Naish and F. G. White.

For council six were nominated to fill the three posts. They were: Walter Brown, by Bert Cunningham and Clarence Laing; Harold Cassan, by F. G. White and H. E. Naish; W. J. Grady, by Leslie Bristow and Herb Bourne; James S. Roberts by Herb Bourne and Horace Naish; A. J. Arnott, by C. H. Hotson and E. J. Hotston; and John Barnes by Clarence Laing and Bert Cunningham.

The names included all members of last year's council with the exception of Reeve Milby, and also included Walter Brown, Harold Cassan, and James S. Roberts.

Scarcely a rate-payer other than the nominees and their nominators were present at the meeting, which had been transferred from May's School to the Court House because a record crowd had been anticipated. In previous years North Monaghan nominations have been held in the afternoon at May's school, but the time was made later this year on request of the Ratepayers' association, whose members felt greater interest would be shown in a night meeting which could be attended by ratepayers who were working in the afternoon.

The entire council paid homage to their retiring reeve, and Melville Johnston made a presentation on behalf of the council and clerk to Mr. Milby of a beautiful silver dish. Absent from the meeting, Mr. Milby was brought to it for a few minutes by Clerk Bruce Johnston. A letter from him was read earlier, in which he declined to stand again for election.

He said that the township was in an enviable position financially, a position far better than most municipalities in the province. He had dealt fairly with both rural and suburban sections of the township during his tenure of office, he believed, and expressed gratitude to all members of the council, the clerk, and the road superintendent, for the co-operation they had given him. He said he had served the council faithfully for seven years and that he believed it was time for him to retire and pass along the job to another man.

Reeve Milby's claim that the township was in a sound financial position was borne out by H. B. Rye, former Reeve and former Warden of the county, who acted as chairman of the meeting last night. Mr. Rye said that the township is now in the "soundest position financially it has ever been in."

Reeve-elect Johnston, when he made the presentation to Mr. Milby, spoke in high praise of the retiring reeve. He said he had always envied him his splendid war record and the way in which he returned from France to reach the highest municipal honor his county could bestow on him. Enumerating his accomplishments as Reeve of North Monaghan, Mr. Johnston said that it was due to Mr. Milby that the township now has street lighting, much reduced sewage disposal costs, oiling and mulching of roads, a police system, and snowplough and snow fence systems in operation. He had been successful in his dealings with the Provincial and Dominion governments, and had been a worthy representative of his people.

Of his activity as Warden of Peterborough County, Mr. Johnston laid his finger on the expedition of all county school children to Toronto last summer to see the King and Queen, as being Mr. Milby's crowning achievement. "Those youngsters will remember that trip all their lives and they'll remember it was Jimmy Milby who took them up there," he declared.

"Mr. Milby has not only upheld the dignity of this township in the county of Peterborough, but he has upheld the dignity of the county throughout the province," declared Clerk Bruce Johnston.

Both candidates for election as Deputy-reeve, John Barnes and A. W. Archibald, spoke briefly as did nominees for council, W. J. Grady and James Roberts. Nominator Bert Cunningham, spoke briefly for his nominee, Walter Brown, and Melville Johnston added his support. Nominees Harold Cassan, Walter Brown, and A. J. Arnott were absent.

Reg Perrin Returned In South Monaghan

BAILIEBORO, Dec. 23—(ENS).—Reg Perrin returned to the reeveship of South Monaghan at the nominations Friday in the township hall at Centreville. He succeeds Reeve Roy Whittington, who is concluding a rather long service begun in the school of Fred Waterman, former Warden of the United Counties. Six citizens were nominated for the four council seats, and it was reported last night that three of them, Fred Barnard, Jay Whittington and Harry Campbell, had agreed to undertake the work of 1940, and that one of the other three would accept the fourth position, thereby avoiding the expense of an election. These three nominees are Franch Buckhan, Charles Fisher and Howard Barnard.

Sherbrooke Street Family Awaken In Night When Drunk Crashes Glass In Front Door

A Sherbrooke street family had their slumbers rudely interrupted during the night when the peace was suddenly shattered by the violent smashing of the glass in the front door.

Investigation of the noise showed that a young man who had started his Christmas celebration a little early and with a complete miscalculation of his ability to carry fire water safely and sanely had crashed into the doorway, breaking the glass and upset a bicycle inside the hall.

The intruder had departed before the householder could get dressed but was picked up in the vicinity by Constable W. A. Clarke who answered the call for police assistance and made the arrest. The offender will face the magistrate on Tuesday.

Monsters Of Maginot Line Handle Nazi Raids Nicely

With the French Armies on the Western Front, Dec. 23—(AP).—The guns of the Maginot Line are being thrown into the balance against German manpower in the sparring for supremacy over No Man's Lands.

Use of the forts' artillery is the French reply to the Germans' most recent tactics — attacking outposts with a strong force preceded by a cannonade and supported by mortars.

It is providing a test of the Maginot Line's guns, which were used first to prepare for the French penetration of German territory in September.

Now, artillery officers say, they are proving able to meet the German raiders with a fire that extends to every corner of the five-mile-wide frontier strip between opposing Maginot and Siegfried Lines.

One giant gun intended for holding a key sector of the front has fired many times against the raiders.

When an infantry advance post telephones the location of a German patrol, the call is relayed instantly to the artillery command post, translated into a fire order, and transmitted by dial to the gun tower.

The big gun swings into position with the turn of a handle, shells rise into the turret on an electrically-driven chain carrier, the gun crew heaves them into place, and the cannon speaks.

As the crash echoes through the concrete-and-steel galleries, the crew shouts: "It's the—(name of the fort)—giving forth."

The gunners say that within a few moments they can smash a patrol point and all the ground for 100 yards around. Although firing within 100 yards of their own lines, they say they never have hit one of their own men.

Belmont Reeve, Council Assured Fight

HAVELOCK, Dec. 23—(ENS).—The ratepayers of Belmont and Methuen townships have prospects of a large selection of candidates to choose from when they visit the polls on New Year's Day. At Friday's nomination meeting conducted in the township hall, four names were presented for reeveship and nine for council.

An election was definitely assured when Councillor Donald Plunkett announced his intentions of opposing Reeve Isaac Anderson in his bid for re-election to office. Both men qualified for the contest immediately following the nomination meeting, and it is possible that ex-Reeve W. E. Griffith may decide to make it a three-cornered fight. Richard Sanderson, former Havelock reeve, the fourth nominee for reeveship, did not definitely state his intentions.

The nomination meeting, though not attended as well as usual, developed into quite a lively session, with criticisims handed out freely from all sides. Results of the nominations was as follows:

For Reeve—Donald Plunkett, proposed by John H. Scott and Ross Hart; Isaac Anderson, by W. B. Sanders and Fred Ellis; W. E. Griffith, by Ross Hart and Frank Sopha; R. Sanderson, by W. E. Griffith and James Wood.

For Council—Joseph McNeely, by John H. Scott and A. D. Buchanan; Alec. McFall, by Wellington Ellis and Fred Ellis; W. A. Floyd Steenburgh, by Fred Ellis and Wellington Ellis; Carl Purdy, by Wm. Smith and Leonard Keene; Frank Sopha, by W. E. Griffith and R. Sanderson. Donald Plunkett, by A. D. Buchanan and Wm. Smith; Marcenna Rylott, by Ross Hart and John H. Scott; George Newton, by D. M. Rylott and Well Dafoe; Thomas Bannon, by Don Anderson and Carmen McMillan.

Three Others In Ring

Last evening three members of the old council, Carl Purdy, W. A. F. Steenburgh and Joseph McNeely, had already qualified for re-election, while three others had also tossed their hats into the ring. These were two former councillors, Frank Sopha and Marcenna Rylott, and a newcomer, George Newton.

Clerk Grant Dafoe, who presided during the nominations, was afterwards appointed chairman of the meeting and the candidates were all given the opportunity of addressing the ratepayers.

Reeve Anderson, first to speak, reviewed the contents of the financial statement for the current year, drawing attention to the considerable reduction in relief costs. He explained the slight raise in the tax rate as due to the increased costs of education and a rise in the county rate. He suggested that the new council investigate the possibility of forming a township school board, which would greatly increase the departmental grants for schools in this district.

W. E. Griffith, township reeve during the last great war, criticized the council for their failure to make a return to the county of the 1937 and 38 tax rolls, to which Reeve Anderson later replied that the amount of $2,900 in arrears transferred to the 1938 tax roll had been returned. Mr. Griffith stated that if he ran for election and was successful, the municipal offices of clerk, treasurer, etc., would be thrown open for bids, and these officers would be returned to their previous salaries.

Candidate Donald Plumkett did not go into a lengthy statement of policy, but merely asked the assembled ratepayers for their support.

Richard Sanderson, a newcomer in the township's municipal affairs, criticized the road system stating that with a government subsidy of 80 per cent, there was no reason why Belmont should not have better roads.

All candidates for council, with the exception of Thomas Bannon and Alec McFall, who were absent, spoke briefly.

Fireman Santa

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 23.—(AP)—A two-alarm fire took Santa Claus, red suit and all—except the whiskers which blew off somewhere en route—for a fast ride. John McMahan, truck chauffeur, was distributing presents at an engine house Christmas party last night when the call sounded. He leaped behind the wheel and started for the fire. He donned a rubber coat and helped extinguish the blaze.

Ross Is Elected To Reeveship Of Seymour Twp.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 23.—(ENS)—With at least four candidates for council and two definitely in the field for Deputy Reeve the township of Seymour is sure to have an election contest. Only possible acclamation was that of Reeve which went to the former Deputy W. J. Ross who was unchallenged by the three others nominated for the post at Friday's meeting.

The retiring Reeve R. W. Innes announced he was going to step back into the council and asked the voters for their support. He gave an account of his stewardship of the past year placing particular emphasis on the amount of road work done and on the splendid condition of the township roads. In a survey of the township roads the assistant road superintendant had placed them at the head of the list for the combined counties. "We are the only township in the counties which has its road work done all year by a road superintendant over a gang of men and up until last years were the only ones to have a power grader," declared the Reeve who was the first man to spend three straight years on the County Road Commission.

Deputy Reeve W. J. Ross was second to address the meeting and briefly outlined the roadwork done in his section of the township where he said gravel had been placed on the roads at a cost of 78 3-5 cents per yard. With regard to county work and maintaining roads free of snow Mr. Ross indicated that about 200 miles were ploughed regularly and kept open during the winter. In the northwest section of the township 1069 yards of gravel had been placed on the roads according to Councillor Kelly. This cost an average of 74 3-5 cents a yard. Mr. Kelly indicated he would again contest his seat on the council.

Retiring Councillor R. J. Bateson gave a brief outline of the roadwork done in his section of the township and intimated he would run for Deputy Reeve while M. Wight of Trent River declared he would again he in the field for councillor.

Others who addressed the meeting were W. J. Duncan, who will run for councillor; Percy Oddie who felt strongly that Seymour East should have a representative on the council but refused to say he was a candidate; Roy Loucks and Herbert Tinney both left the impression that they might qualify and William Milne and Alfred Barnum said they would notb e in the field.

Chairman Wesley Stephens told nominees they would have until 9 p.m. Saturday to qualify. Before any aspirant can have his name on the ballot he must first take the oath of allegiance to the King. With 27 names handed in for the five offices it was the largest nomination held in Seymour Township in years.

For Reeve: W. J. Ross; William Duncan, Roy Loucks, Robert Innes, Deputy Reeve, Robert Bateson, William Rowe, Frank Lee, Melville Wight, William J. Duncan, W. S. Milne, Robert Innes.

Councillors—John Kelly, Robert Bateson, Frank Lee, Wm. J. Duncan, Melville Wight, Robert Innes, William Rowe, Ray Williams, Roy Loucks, Percy Oddie, William Milne, W. A. Hume, J. W. Rannie, Herbert Tinney, James Goacher, Alfred Barnum.

Heavy Demand For Poultry On The Market

Buyers made up for their comparative neglect of last Wednesday's market by crowding the aisles of the upstairs hall this morning. They really turned on the demand in their question of turkeys and other fare for the celebration of Christmas. And the supply seemed to be ample and adequate. Prices at 10.30 o'clock were 22 to 24 cents for turkeys; 20 to 23 cents for geese; chickens 18 cents; butter 30 cents and eggs 23 cents for small size and 27 and 28 cents for the larger grade. The outdoor market this morning was only an after thought, an appendage to the featured turkeys in the big, crowded hall.

The outstanding difference in the aspect of the market was the big turnout of buyers. They made things more interesting than usual for the poultry producers. It was a highly satisfactory Christmas market with weather conditions favorable for a clean out of the last, or all but the last of the year's crop of turkeys and geese.

C. L. Winslow of Cavan offered a novelty for Christmas dinner, fast-frozen green peas, strawberries, raspberries selling at 25 cents a pint. Given about an hour and a half for slow thawing at home, and they taste just as they came from the bushes, Mr. Winslow said.

WHITE ACCENTS NOW!

By ALICE ALDEN

LINGERIE touches are usually talked about for spring, so the introduction of white frills at the throat and wrists, and such trims as the little organdie inset on today's frock are news at this time of year. Both Paris and American dressmakers are using white accents, mostly on black wool and crepe, and on young-looking clothes. Smocking, another childish steal, also makes this black crepe interesting, and helps to bring out a slim silhouette. It's about time for town's white felt hat, too; don't miss the chance of wearing one with such dresses.

ADDING ELEGANCE

By ALICE ALDEN

TODAY'S pcture is proof that jewelry allows a woman to wear the simplest gown and yet look elegantly dressed. With so much gold staring us in the face, and silver just around next season, the only thing to keep in mind is that the decor must be becoming to the person who is to wear it. It may be heavy or light, as her features permit—a half-dozen strands of delicate links, or the more impressive period pieces, such as these shown. Necklace and hair (or dress) clip are a combination of gold and pearls, with a large colored stone as the focal point. Neither ornament is horribly dear, but could be purchased with the average Christmas gift money.

Alphy—Pashler

APSLEY, Dec. 23.— (ENS)— A charming Christmas wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, December 20, at St. Stephen's Church, Chandos, by the rector, the Rev. F. McMulken, when Ivy Thelma, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Pashler, Chandos, became the bride of Mr. Charles Francis Alphy of England, now of Lakefield. The service was at 4 p.m. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave the bride away. She wore a midnight blue transparent velvet, three-quarter length dress with silver lame coattee and sash, with silver shoes. She wore a corsage of pale pink roses with wreath in her hair to match.

Miss Ethel Couch was the bridesmaid, who wore a pretty transparent ruby velvet dress. The best man was Mr. Vernal Young. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served to the wedding party and a few intimate friends including Mr. and Mrs. F. Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wilson and the Rev. F. McMulken. The bride's mother received in a wine velvet dress with corsage of white roses.

A wedding reception dance was held in the evening in the Geo's Hall, Apsley. A large number of guests enjoyed round and square dancing to music supplied by Mrs. and Master Jimmie Scott, Mr. S. McCauley, Mr. L. Lean, Miss A. Windsor, Miss J. Bullied.

Supper was served at midnight after which the groom thanked the guests for them any beautiful gifts received by his wife and self. Dancing was resumed and a good time enjoyed by all.

After spending the Christmas holidays at the home of the bride's parents. The happy couple will reside in Lakefield.

FASHIONS

Give your best friend something to be thankful for on Christmas... a luxurious hand-made nightgown and bed jacket. So inexpensive when you make them yourself. Pastel blue lingerie crepe or satin, trimmed with dainty lace straps makes the prettiest nightie we've seen. The jacket is lovely, too, with its lace collar and tiny pockets. Perhaps you will want to give the gown to one friend and the jacket to another. You might even make a present for yourself of a pretty little jacket to wear when you want to read in bed at night.

Style No. 3117 is designed for sizes 12, 14 16, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39-inch material. ¼ yard lace for nightgown; 1¼ yards material, with ¼ yard 27-inch lace for jacket.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, December 24.

Sunday's horoscope holds all the symbols of life, action, pleasure and spiritual uplift indicative of the spirit of Good Will and happiness pertinent to the season. There are signs of much travelling on short journeys, with the affairs of youth paramount. A hint of some degree of restraint in its festive indulgences may not be amiss. Be cautious with writings and packages, lest there be small loss.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a very active year, with benefits of major importance arising from deep undercurrents or unpredictable sources. All make for the fulfillment of fervent hopes and wishes, although it is admonished that carelessness with writings and documents might bring legal entanglements or loss. Friendships in high places should prove valuable.

A child born on this day may be versatile, resourceful, powerful and ambitious, winning the support of those in prestige and authority. Elements of expediency rather than principle in its character should be given early direction.

For Monday, December 25.

Monday's astrological forecast abounds with all the presages and prophecies to encourage the traditional gaiety and festivity of Merry Christmas, with the worthy, profound and mystical elements under high stimulus as well. Indeed, elders may be found particularly generous, with Venus and Jupiter shedding expansive and warming rays on young and old.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of unusual progress and prosperity, with rich reward for past industry and steadfastness. Elders will prove generous in their preferments or rewards. Be ready for surprising developments or change in the direction of advancement and accomplishment. High friendships and social contacts add to the prestige and popularity. Be vigilant to petty deceptions or subtleties.

A child born on this day may be deep, steady and industrious, and at the same time audacious, ingenious and skilful in unusual directions. It may be inventive or inaugurate new ways and means for advancing old matters into more progressive channels. Romance and adventure figure in its life. It may be subject to subtle enmities or peculiar snares.

Myrtle Burns Is Bride Of Kenneth Anderson

Poinsettias, narcissus and evergreens decked George Street United Church for the wedding this (Saturday) afternoon at two o'clock of Miss Myrtle Margarete Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burns, 487 Aylmer street, who was united in marriage to Mr. Kenneth Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Anderson of Toronto. Rev. M. C. Parr officiated during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an afternoon frock of teal blue crepe, finely pleated from neckline to hem. Her turban was of the same material, and she wore a corsage of lavender orchids and lily of the valley. Miss Rosamond Burns attended her sister, in a frock of rose crepe with softly gathered bodice and a bustle flare at the back. She wore a matching turban, and a corsage of violets and pink roses. Mr. Ronald Glenn of Toronto was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Ronald Burns, brother of the bride, and Mr. Lionel Hind of Oshawa.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Burns receiving in a smart gown of hunter's green, matching felt hat, and corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Anderson, mother of the groom, wore black crepe with matching hat and corsage of Talisman roses.

After a wedding trip through Southern Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will live in Timmins, Ont. For travelling, the bride wore a grey wool crepe frock and black accessories.

Guests from out of town included Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Westlake, Hamilton; Miss Grace Westlake, Lewis Smith, and Miss Mildred and Miss Dorothy Pitfield of Toronto.

Find Cheer in Poetry Throughout the Year

"....home is bright with a calm delight. Though the room be poor indeed."

Do you remember those lines by James Thomson? Often in this season filled with thoughts of home, love and friendliness, such favorite verses come to mind.

How warmly human is Burns' "A Man's a Man for a' That." It ends:

"That man to man, the warld o'er,
Shall brothers be for a' that."

And, as the old year dies, the flight of time reminds us of these lines from Longfellow's "A Psalm of Life"—lines which urge us also to ". . . leave behind us

Footprints on the sands of time;
Footprints, that perhaps another,
Sailing o'er life's solemn main,
A forlorn and shipwrecked brother,
Seeing, shall take heart again."

There's no time indeed in which poetry does not speak to us. In downcast moments, turn to the cheery poem by Frank Stanton which ends:

"Hear the bells that sweetly ring,
When you feel like sighin' sing,
Keep a-goin'!"

Let favorite poems bring you comfort and inspiration in the new year. Our 32-page booklet has complete poems by Wordsworth, Whitman, Henley, Eugene Field, Ella Wheeler Wilcox and many others.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of WORLD'S BEST-LOVED POEMS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

DOROTHY DIX

A Mother Should Carefully Consider Her Children's Future Welfare Before She Marries a Man Who May Prove To Be a Poor Stepfather.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—For two years I have been engaged to a man who is a fine character in every way and with whom I am very much in love. But here is the problem: He is a widower with three children and I am a divorcee with children who are quite a bit younger than his. My children are all fond of him, with the exception of the eldest, and he and my fiance do not seem to even try to get along together. When he starts bickering with my child I get so very provoked. It seems to me that if he loves me, as he says he does, and as he is so much older than my child, he would use a little tact to prevent these disturbances when he knows it upsets me so. Now I love my children and I love my fiance, but would it be wise to marry him under the circumstances? He says that our children should not come between us.—WHAT TO DO.

ANSWER:

I think it is easy to know what to do in your case. It is to break off your engagement to this man who shows even before marriage that he cannot get along with your children and will make them a bad stepfather.

There are various sorts of hell that we make for ourselves in this world, but no woman prepares for herself such a place of torment as does the widow with children who marries a man who resents her youngsters and who embitters their young lives by his harshness and petty tyrannies. The mother treads her Gehenna who sees her children having all of the gayety and laughter and high spirits of youth crushed out of them by a stepfather who never speaks to them except to correct them; who makes them feel that they are eating the bitter bread of dependence and who, under pretense of disciplining them, vents his venom against them by beating them.

Yet many a mother has to go through this. She has to see her children have their spirits broken and go about, cowering, pathetic little creatures, knowing they are not wanted. Often she is afraid to show them any love and tenderness herself because it will still further inflame the jealousy of their stepfather and make him treat them worse. And her lot is all the more pitiable if she is fond of her husband and has to act as a buffer between those she loves.

Sometimes a woman blunders ignorantly into marriage with a man who makes a bad stepfather to her children, but you are forewarned as to what will happen to you if you put your fiance over your children. Furthermore, there are his children, who will still further complicate the situation. So if you are not a candidate for martyrdom, stay as you are. Women with children take the most desperate of all matrimonial gambles when they marry, because it takes virtually a he-angel to pinch-hit as a father to another man's children. For children are not the little cherubs in real life that they are in fiction. They are dirty and noisy and quarrelsome and mischievous, and while these traits seem cute and interesting in our own darlings, they are nerve-rasping in other people's children. Also, not many men enjoy toiling to support their stepchildren, and they are nearly always consumed with jealousy of them.

Such being the case, the widow with children should be very sure that she is the favorite daughter of Lady Luck before she marries again.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a happily married man, near 40, with a fine wife, three lovely children and a nice home. My widowed mother, who is financially independent, lives alone, her other two married children residing out of the city. Now my mother has absolutely no outside interests, doesn't care for friends, radio, movies, reading, travelling, parties, anything, just sits home and mopes. She makes demands on me and my time continually. She depends on me for entertainment and, as I am a busy man, I cannot spend my time amusing her. I hate to see my mother unhappy, and, as she complains more and more lately, saying she is all alone and not long for this world, well, I am at my wits' end to know what to do. As I contact her at least once a day, either by phone or in person, I feel that I am doing the best I can, but she isn't satisfied. So what?—WORRIED SON.

ANSWER:

The only thing that you can do is to just quit worrying over your mother's unreasonable demands and firmly refuse to yield to them. Also, try to realize that when she weeps and tells you how lonely and forlorn she is she isn't suffering a particle. She is having the time of her life just wallowing in self-pity.

Otherwise she wouldn't do it. If she wanted companionship she would have it. If she wanted to be amused she would go about it. If she wanted entertainment she would find it. So don't be cruel enough to deprive your mother of her chief joy, which consists in posing as a martyr. When old people get selfish and unreasonable and childish they should be treated like children—kindly and tenderly but their whims should no more be catered to than those of a spoiled brat.

Go to see your mother as often as you can conveniently, but don't let her make a victim of you.

DOROTHY DIX.

Recreation Facilities

LONDON, Dec. 23—(CP Cable).—British Columbia has led the way to providing recreational facilities for the Canadian active service force in London. With the approval of the provincial government, agent-general W. A. McAdam has set aside and equipped about 2,000 square feet of floor space in British Columbia House.

Mr. McAdam said troops had been coming there steadily, both Canadians and Imperials.

The facilities include reading card, and recreation rooms, with a billiard and snooker table.

Cheap electricity is now available to more than 80 per cent of the people of Norway.

Christmas Party At Shelter Is Merry Affair

The Board of Directors' Christmas party at the Children's Shelter Friday evening was a merry and well attended affair. A Yuletide program was cleverly presented by the children and several outside artists, under the direction of the matron, Mrs. G. McMillan and Mr. McMillan. Santa himself was present to pass out the gifts from a tall tree a-glitter with twinkling lights and weighed down with presents which the children had been watching with open-mouthed awe and curiosity for an hour before he proceeded to pass out gifts to the "good boys and girls."

Arrangements for the tree were in charge of Mrs. J. Fanning and her committee. Ice cream and cake were served to conclude the party.

Assisting artists were Agnes Maycock, A.T.C.M., Fred Garvey, Menzie McLaren, Jack Harris Fife, Beth Melrose, Shirley Jeffrey, Jean Leach, Dorothy Taylor.

Branch Notes

ST. JOHN'S, LAKEFIELD.

The regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. took place on December 18 in the Parish Hall, with thirty members and visitors present. In the earlier part of the evening a short business meeting was held, the latter part of the evening being spent in games and dancing. Candy was served by the committee in charge, Misses Marsden, Binnington, and Mesdames P. Hill and C. Hurl.

Members are reminded of the Watch-night service on New Year's Eve.

A Christmas Fantasy [Part 18] By DAVID ORME and WILLIAM SHERB

Inspector-General Of The C.A.F. Has Long, Colorful Military Career

MAJOR-GENERAL E. C. ASHTON

In retirement for only a few months after a long and honorable career in the military service of his country, General Ashton has been called again to the colors. He has been appointed inspector-general of the forces, and in this capacity the country in its crucial hour will again have the advantage of his genuinely outstanding administrative ability. In spite of his 46 years of commissioned service, General Ashton is active and youthfully enthusiastic, and one may be sure that he answered his country's call with alacrity. This does not mean that time has hung heavy on his hands since his retirement. As a matter of fact he was rather enjoying his well earned rest from public duty. He has never been a harp with a single string. His interests have been varied. He is a naturalist of no mean repute; he is a keen botanist, and his friends are convinced that there isn't a wild flower or plant in Canada that he doesn't know the name of both the common and the scientific name. It is said that while walking along the slope of a hill somewhere in British Columbia his keen eye fell on and recognized the withered leaves of a rare species of wild orchid. He carefully dug up the plant, potted it and sent it to Ottawa to be forwarded to Lady Byng, who had taken the greatest interest in Canadian wild flowers. He later received grateful thanks from Lady Byng and the word that the plant was thriving in its new environment. As a boy General Ashton spent his days among greenhouses and stables and fields of his father's farm near Brantford. Nothing pleases him more now than working in his own garden at his summer home on the Ottawa river about 10 miles west of the capital.

Holds Medical Degree

Kipling wrote of that queer mixture "soldier and sailor too" to be found in the marine. In General Ashton the combination is soldier and doctor. He was not always a member of the permanent force. For many years the practice of medicine was his vocation; soldiering in the non-permanent militia his avocation, but who can say which calling was first in his heart? The war of 1914-18 brought him out as a full blown soldier and charted his career for the future. He was born in 1873 in Brantford, Ontario, where his father, the Reverend Robert Ashton, was principal of the Mohawk Institution, an Indian school. Young Ashton took the greatest interest in his father's work, and for a time taught the Indian children himself. From the home of the aboriginal tribesmen he went to the medical school of Trinity University at Toronto where he graduated as a medallist in 1896. From that time on until the war he practised his profession. He was house surgeon at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto in 1898 and 1899, and in the latter year became medical superintendent at the Muskoka Cottage sanatorium. It was in this position that he first showed the organizing ability, which later gave him an enviable reputation in the army. In 1901 he was appointed staff surgeon at the Brantford General hospital and from then on until the war broke out he succeeded in establishing and carrying on a fine surgical practice in his native town. When he donned his uniform in 1915 he abandoned forever his surgical calling.

Gazetted in 1893

His military career began when he was gazetted second lieutenant in the 36th infantry battalion in January 1893; he remained with his unit until he became its commanding officer, a position which he held for five years. In 1913 he varied his military life by joining the artillery branch of the service. He organized a howitzer battery, assumed command of it and was raised to the rank of colonel in May 1916.

In the war he went overseas in command of the 36th Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force. He was appointed to command the 9th infantry brigade and Canadian training division at Shorncliffe. The training centres under his jurisdiction were models of efficiency. In 1917 he had charge of the 15th Canadian infantry brigade, but in November of that year he was brought back to Canada to assume the duties of adjutant-general at headquarters in Ottawa. He was raised to the rank of major-general in the permanent force in 1918, and from that time on held some of the highest posts at headquarters. He was quarter-master-general from August 1920 to December 1929; for five years thereafter commanding military districts 2 and 11, and then his distinguished military career was crowned by appointment to the highest position in the military service, chief of the general staff. For his service he was decorated with the C.M.G. and the C.B.

General Ashton is tall, lean, with a fine military carriage. His clear blue eyes are youthful. He is energetic, and as he is so profoundly conscious of his duty, the danger is that he may drive himself too hard. But there he is back in the harness and the military effort of his country and ours will be served well by a man of his qualities, wedded as they are to an experience of nearly half a century in the military profession.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

Nazi Germany's naval activity in the second Great War appears to be based on lessons learned from failures in the first Great War. Many students of the last conflict were of opinion that had Germany started unrestricted submarine warfare earlier and continued it ruthlessly, unmoved by protests and threats from the United States, she could have brought Great Britain to a state of helplessness.

Germany apparently is determined not to make the same mistake again. With torpedo and mine the Nazis sink Allied and neutral ships without scruple and without mercy for passengers or crew.

Since 1918, however, real progress took place in methods of combatting submarines while the only improvements made in the undersea vessels themselves was in widening the range of their operations. Their two great weaknesses, lack of speed and their inability to attack except by complete surprise, remain uncorrected.

Moreover the present war brought the airplane to the fore as a new submarine destroyer.

Thus Germany's submarine forces have been checked, at least for the time being, and the Nazis are resorting to mines and aircraft in their attacks on shipping. Despite a larger number of submarines to start with, Germany has obtained less in the way of results from the submarine arm than in 1917.

The number of submarines destroyed must be crowding the production capacity of German shipyards if it does not surpass it. Even if Germany can build submarines as fast as Nazi leaders claim, however, they can not be manned with reliable crews.

Submarine service demands a high degree of skill, courage and physical stamina from officers and men

SEASON'S GREETINGS

REGARDLESS of the troubled times we are living through, I trust that this Christmas will bring a moment's respite, and give you the joy of seeing happiness in the simple things . . . in the faces of the little folks, . . . in the grateful response from those in need . . . and in the quiet places.

After all, who can say that these years have not left us spiritually and physically better? Possibly we shall consider more thoughtfully the philosophy of Him in whose name we celebrate Christmas.

It is my hope that 1940 will live in our memories as the year that brought peace and courage and a greater good will toward fellow men. With these thoughts in mind, I wish you and yours a Merry, Merry Christmas and a Happy, Successful New Year.

Charles W. Holland, gentleman, proposed by Maurice E. Ketcheson and James R. Black.

James Matthews, manufacturer, proposed by George C. Mitchell and E. F. Sheehy.

Assessment Change.

Only twenty citizens were present when City Clerk Armstrong said it was customary to hear addresses from prospective candidates.

Alderman Gordon, as first on the list in the order of nomination, reviewed two measures affecting local taxation which he said he had been largely instrumental in effecting.

"The maintenance of the industries we have is to me of most importance for the welfare of an industrial city like Peterborough," Ald. Gordon said. "That has been done. The growth and extension of our manufacturing plants is probably as important as the addition of new ones."

The business of many of the industries of Peterborough was of national importance and extent, Alderman Gordon said, and he turned his attention to the results of an amendment to the Municipal Act which prevented future renewals of fixed assessments, a change which, he said, resulted from certain litigation which he had initiated.

"The DeLaval Company's full assessment is $139,000, and its fixed assessment is $60,000, which means that the company's general tax is levied on the $60,000. The amount of these taxes on a 35-mill rate is $4,500, but if the company were paying on the full assessment their taxes would be $7,800, a difference of $3,500, which could be applied to the general purposes of the city. The fixed assessment of the DeLaval Company ends in 1942."

Alderman Gordon continued this tax survey. The full assessment of the Canadian Raybestos Company was $81,5000, he said ,and its fixed assessment $25,000, ending in 1942. The difference in taxes this company would pay was $2,000.

"The Quaker Oats Company has had the advantage of a fixed assessment for over forty-two years. Their full assessment is $1,320,750, but their fixed assessment is $50,750. This means that with a 35-mill rate the company pays approximately $33,000 annually on its fixed assessment, but the taxes on the full assessment would amount to $74,000, a difference of $41,000, which would also be used annually to pay for public services such as maintaining streets and bridges, fire and police protection, and so on. The fixed assessment of this company ends in 1941.

The fixed assessments granted the Martin-Hewitt and the Ovaltine companies end this year, and this means these two companies will pay taxes on their full assessments."

As a result of the litigation in which he was engaged in regard to certain fixed assessments here, Alderman Gordon said the Ontario Government adopted an amendment this year that "no by-law shall be passed by a municipal council granting a fixed assessment in respect of a business which has at any time theretofore enjoyed a fixed assessment of the same property." This law applied to the province as a whole and was designed to discontinue extensions and renewals of fixed assessments every ten years. With the expiration of the fixed assessments on the five industries he mentioned, the increased taxes they will pay should amount to "practically five mills, and would reduce our tax rate as at present from 35 to 30 mills."

"I claim the credit for having started the agitation to bring about this change and for having continued it to the point where the provincial Government saw their way to pass the amending legislation. It is effective in all the other municipalities of Ontario, and does not apply only to Peterborough."

Alderman Gordon said that the Quaker Oats Company would pay about one-tenth of the taxes levied by the City Council. This company was known the world over by its products, and as a Peterborough industry. Such large companies were bound to create a confidence in others looking for locations, "and with an assessment amendment that applies everywhere in the province there can be no complaint that they are not being treated fairly."

Alderman Gordon also referred to his activity in the efforts that were made to obtain legislation by which the surplus funds of the City Trust could be used for the reduction of the tax rate.

Alderman Cotton.

Alderman Cotton said briefly that in coming again before the ratepayers that he had been fourteen years in the municipal service of the ratepayers. "My record is before you, and I leave the question of my re-election entirely in your hands. I have done my part in helping to carry on the work of the Council, and I am prepared to continue my efforts for the betterment of Peterborough."

Alderman Glover.

"I wish to congratulate Mayor Hamilton on his re-election by acclamation. He deserves it. He has been most capable and painstaking in the performance of his duties as Mayor. As I have not changed my mind to become a candidate, I have little more to say. I have enjoyed my associations with the Mayor and the members of the Council in the few years I have been in the Council. I tried to use common sense in every matter we had to deal with. I hope the Council and ratepayers will elect to support Mayor Hamilton will give him that support, and that citizens will co-operate with the Council in every way for the advancement of the city. I wish everybody a Happy Christmas."

E. F. Sheehy.

Emmett F. Sheehy said that he had not decided whether he would be a candidate, "but if I was elected to the Council I would do what I could to co-operate with the Mayor and the other members." An officer of the local regiment, Mr. Sheehy added with a smile, "From the looks of things, by next October I may be in the Maginot Line, and I couldn't do much good here."

Charles W. Holland.

Mr. Holland said that in so far as giving his reason for letting his name go on a nomination paper, he preferred to remain silent for the present, and to reserve it for a day or two, when, if he decided to stand, he would make known his reasons through the press.

James Matthews.

Mr. Matthews stated that he had not definitely made up his mind to be a candidate for the Council. He congratulated Mayor Hamilton on his election for two years, and remarked, "I wish it was ten." Recalling that his father, T. F. Matthews of Toronto, had given many years of service to this city, Mr. Matthews said that no one could tell what problems would arise out of the present uncertainties facing this country, and it was a time when men with the interests of Peterborough at heart should be prepared to give time and effort in the work of the Council supporting the Mayor. He said he was interested in the industrial welfare of Peterborough as mentioned by Mr. Gordon and also in the dependents of men enlisting for service overseas.

The other men who were nominated were not present. Mayor Hamilton and Alex. L. Elliott, M. L.A., were also called upon from the gallery. His Worship again thanked the citizens for their renewal of confidence in him, saying that it was the third time he was elected Mayor by acclamation. With the loyal support of the incoming Council he felt that the problems and the business of the city would be well handled.

"From my closer contacts with Mayor Hamilton and the members of the Council during the last year or more, I know how assiduous they were in regard to obtaining legislation permitting the city's surplus to be employed over a period of years in reducing the tax rate," Mr. Elliott said, and added that the work of the Council was more onerous than many citizens believed. "I think the citizens acted wisely in keeping Mayor Hamilton in office. He is not very demonstrative and doesn't talk much about what he does, but he has been a very successful Mayor, and will be a sound and responsible head of our city during the next two years in which we do not know what is ahead of us. But the citizens can feel sure that their business is in capable hands."

The meeting closed with the singing of "God Save the King."

Government Wins

MADRID, Dec. 23—(AP). — The government cleaned up today in "El Gordo," Spain's revived Christmas lottery, because the war and international exchange restrictions cut the sale of tickets almost in half.

The national treasury shared the first and third prizes with ticket holders in Madrid and Barcelona and won all of the second prize.

First prize amounted to 15,000,000 pesetas (nominally about $1,500,000); second prize 6,000,000 pesetas (about $600,000) and third prize 2,000,000 pesetas (about $200,000).

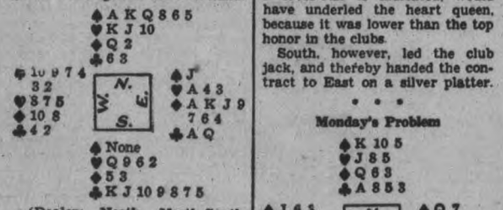
A BAD TIME TO DO IT

UNDER-LEADING an honor against a suit bid is usually risky business unless your partner has called that suit. There are occasions when it should be done, but a particularly bad time is when the declarer has indicated great general strength in his own hand.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Two gluttonous pairs overbid themselves a bit on this deal. North called 1-Spade, East doubled. South bid 2-Clubs. North 2-Spades, East 3-Diamonds, North 3-Spades, East 4-Diamonds and North doubled.

South should have reckoned from this that East would be almost certain to hold high honor strength in any suit except spades. Leading either a heart or a club figured to be precarious business, as in one case it might be into an A-K-J and in the other into an A-Q. Most advance players would have preferred a trump lead in this situation. Others, who dislike a trump lead except when a cross-ruff is indicated, would have underled the heart queen, because it was lower than the top honor in the clubs.

South, however, led the club jack, and thereby handed the contract to East on a silver platter.

A LEAD TO AVOID

AT ALL times a player should be wary about leading away from a guarded jack or queen. If he has either one of these honors singly guarded and finds his partner with the other one twice guarded, the side is certain to promote a trick in the suit if it is led by the opponents. A lead away from that honor itself, however, will usually sacrifice both honors.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South got into a normal contract of 4-Spades on this deal. He bid 1-Spade, North bid 1-No Trump, South 2-Spades, North 3-Spades and South 4-Spades.

West led his diamond king, followed with the ace and then switched to his spade 3. The declarer put on the 5 from dummy. East played the queen and South the ace. Later he caught West's spade jack in a finesse of the 10, so that the contract was made with the loss of only two diamonds and one heart.

Had West led a third diamond, his only means of avoiding leading away from an honor, the contract would have been set.

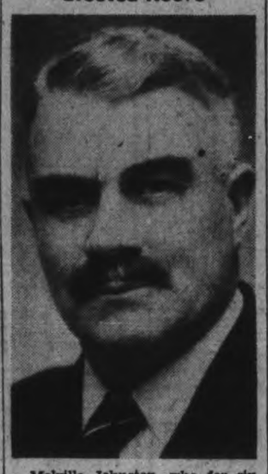
Elected Reeve



Melville Johnston, who for six years has been deputy-reeve of North Monaghan, was elected reeve for 1940 by acclamation.

6,500 Train In New Zealand

New Zealand raised a special force and 6,500 men are in training. Further echelons of the same strength will be raised.

Col. Deneys Reitz, South African representative at the Empire talks, said the country "had been told that man-power is not at present required of us and we have checked the thousands who want to come because we know they can do more valuable work at present—watching South Africa's resources for Britain's use in the war, guarding an important British sea route, keeping an eye on Britain's other African interests."

South Africa organized her military forces to meet any emergency which might arise in Africa, established special training schools for airmen and undertook to aid any threatened British colonies to the north. Efficiency of her air force was shown early in December when bombers intercepted the fleeing German ship Watussi.

In the words of R. G. Casey, Australian minister for supply and development, this is an "all-in war" for the Empire.

as a result of the meeting of Empire ministers in London. Most of them have returned home to advise their governments.

General Co-operation

Apart from their economic aid, the dominions are making a notable contribution in military effort. Dominion warships are co-operating with the British navy, the dominions have taken all necessary steps for home defence and other forces are being prepared for services as circumstances demand.

The empire's arsenal, Canada occupies a vital part in the great struggle. She has about 60,000 men under arms, her first division for overseas service was prepared speedily and a second left in reserve. Centre of the empire air training scheme, she will provide an unlimited stream of trained airmen.

Her supplies of food and raw materials pour to Britain. Canadian factories send a steady flood of munitions across the sea.

Australia mobilized a militia force of 80,000 men and a special force of 20,000 for service either at home or overseas. In addition to participating in the empire air training scheme about 200 officers and men of the Royal Australia Air Force will be provided in Great Britain to establish a reconnaissance squadron of flying boats already purchased by the Australian Government.

Her defence expenditure for this year has been placed at £62,014,000, exclusive of the cost of her participation in the empire air training scheme. The figure is about £19,- difficulties it faced in Finland "and therefore never expected to annihilate the Finnish troops by one lightning blow.

"Only ignorance or overt hostility toward the Red army could ascribe the Red army leaders the wish to do away with the Finnish troops in one week."

The Red army claimed that since the war's start it had advanced 130 kilometers (about 81 miles) from Finland's Arctic coast; 150 kilometres (about 92 miles) "in the direction of" Uleaborg; 80 kilometres (50 miles) in the vicinity of Serdobol; and 64 kilometres (about 40 miles) on the Karelian Isthmus.

Since the war began, the Red army said Soviet casualties were 1,823 killed and 7,000 wounded. The Finns, it claimed lost 2,200 killed, more than 10,000 wounded, 1,402 privates, 105 non-commissioned officers and 18 officers captured. Capture of 35 cannon, 300 machine-guns, 3,000 rifles and other equipment from the Finns also was reported.

The Finns have reported "annihilation" of entire Russian battalions and regiments. As long ago as Dec. 11, Copenhagen newspapers estimated Russian casualties on the Karelian Isthmus alone totalled 25,000.

Havelock Kiddies Welcome Santa

HAVELOCK, Dec. 23—(ENS). — Excitement ran high here on Wednesday evening as throngs of children and adults crowded the vicinity of the C.P.R. station eagerly anticipating the joyous arrival of Santa Claus who was scheduled to arrive on the 7.00 p.m. train from Peterborough. Many anxious moments were experienced before the Santa Claus express finally did puff into the station at about 7.20, with jolly old St. Nick waving a hearty greeting to the assembled crowd from the observation platform.

Santa's hand was practically exhausted from the numerous handshakes, and it was with some difficulty that he finally was able to reach his taxi, which had been hired to transport him to the scene of the community Christmas tree, because of the lack of snow.

At the gaily lighted tree on the village's main four corners, Santa was assisted onto a platform from which he was able to address his worshippers and present each child with a bag of candy as they passed before him. Finally, with a reluctant last farewell the merry old gentleman in red made his departure amid the cries of the cheering throng.

Santa Claus' visit to Havelock was made possible through the co-operation of the Albion Club and the following business men: Philip Greenley, James Ketchen, Bernard Smith, George Hubbell, Madge Curtis, Ray Patterson, James Squire, Bruce Curtis, Eric Anderson, G. W. Chiles, Rae Williams, Robert McCutcheon, Noel Lade, N. Wellman, W. Nobes, H. Bannon, Harry Watson, Don Mathison, E. J. Leeson, Ray Scott, Eldon Pirie, Mary Thomas, A. Aboud, R. A. Curiosity

Chicago, Dec. 23 (AP)

MR. AND Mrs. William Gamble have promised police they will leave their horse and buggy at home during future Christmas shopping expeditions. They hitched their horse to a post and by the time they returned the traffic tangle was terrific. The equipage, it seems, was a curiosity to thousands of pedestrians.

The Gambles explained they were shopping just as they did in 1893 when they were married.

Board Of Education Is Returned With 3 New Faces

Election by acclamation of five candidates for the Board of Education, three of them new members, and the qualifying of 10 aspirants to the city council, were the final results of the municipal nominations when the time for official registration ended at nine o'clock Saturday night.

The trustees elected to the Board of Education for two years are Mrs. W. R. Morris and David G. H. Melton who were returned without opposition to the positions they have held, and T. J. Carley, K.C., barrister of the firm of Carley and Standish; C. Alex Sollitt, district manager of the Canada Life Assurance Company; and David T. Diplock, district manager of the Sun Life Assurance Company.

These three new members take the places of John R. Marshall, manager of the Canadian Nashua Paper Company, president of the Board this year; Dr. G. Raymore Scott and H. G. Walker who have retired from the administration of the city's public schools, Collegiate Institute and Vocational School.

Other nominees who did not accept candidature were Dr. Ralph Honey, G. Harry Thompson, Dr. D. W. Clarke, Dr. H. M. Yelland and Ivan T. Lillico.

The personnel of the Board for the new year is: Mrs. Morris, W. A. Richardson, Dr. A. Moir, Dr.. C. M. Scott, G. Wilson Craw, D. G. H. Melton, D. T. Diplock, C. A. Sollitt, T. J. Carley and V. J. McElderry, K.C., representing the Separate School Board of the city and Mark Burnham, representing the county.

Council Candidates.

The ten candidates for the city council include three veteran aldermen who are again offering a continuation of their service to the ratepayers, Walter Stocker, Robert S. Cotton and G. N. Gordon, K.C.

Aldermen R. M. Glover and James Juby have retired from the aldermanic board, a decision that did not surprise their friends. Both of them have been indisposed at times during the year, ill health having kept Alderman Juby from quite a number of the meetings. Substantial recovery that has gladdened his friends would probably have enabled him to carry on if the ratepayer had decided against an election for 1940, but with so many other candidates presenting themselves for the five vacancies, Alderman Juby decided to withdraw from the field.

Alderman Glover's intentions have been made known during the last 10 days, and so convinced was he of the need of complete rest at a critical time in the community's affairs that he found it impossible to reconsider his decision.

The 10 candidates from whom the ratepayers will choose on New Year's Day five members of the council are as follows, in the alphabetical order of their listing on the ballots:

Robert S. Cotton, superintendent, chairman of the finance committee of the council for a number of years.

George N. Gordon, K.C., barrister, member of this year's council with long experience in the municipal administration.

Charles W. Holland, gentleman.

Marice E. Ketcheson, salesman.

James H. Matthews, manufacturer, Sunshine Dairy.

Holiday Toll Kills 9 In Maritimes

HALIFAX, Dec. 26.—(CP)—The Maritime Provinces counted a death toll of nine today in the reckoning of Christmas week-end accidents.

Two Dartmouth, N.S., men, Clarence Cross, 21, and Joseph Smith, 22, died in an automobile accident Sunday on the east side of Halifax harbor. They were occupants of a car driven by William Grady when it overturned. Grady, on his way to take a Christmas gift to his father, was unhurt.

Only a few miles away at North Sydney, two brothers, Louis, 14, and Donald Bartlett, nine, were drowned yesterday when they went coasting with their Christmas sleighs on Forrester's Lake. The sleighs broke through the thin ice.

King George Broadcasts Message Of Hope As War-Torn World Slows Slightly That Nations May Celebrate Christmas

(By The Canadian Press.)

To the echoes of Christmas carols that had a paradoxical obligato of violence, the world rushed today into the last week of a year of crises and conflict.

Christmas observances ranged from the fireside quiet of most English and Canadian homes, through the subterranean forts on the Western front, to the dank air raid cellars of besieged Finland.

But in many Canadian homes, fathers or sons were absent. These men of Canada's first contingent to go overseas observed Christmas in their camp at Aldershot or in homes of English friends and relatives.

Thousands of Canadian troops in camp attended morning religious services, and then Christmas dinner in messes decorated with holly. An afternoon program was broadcast from the camp to Canada.

A Message of Hope

The King alone in his study at Sandringham read a message to the Empire.

"We cannot tell what the New Year at hand will bring—if it is the peace for which all men hope, how thankful we all shall be. But if it brings a renewed struggle it shall find us undaunted."

The King emphasized that while the Empire wished peace, it stands steadfast in the struggle "against wickedness" on which it has embarked.

Speaking in a clear voice near the end of a broadcast that reaffirmed before the world the Empire's unity, His Majesty gave words of cheer and courage to the fighting men, and to his 500,000,000 subjects who are behind him.

Listeners heard descriptions of Christmas in England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, followed by the voices of a Newfoundland fisherman, a Canadian pilot, a New Zealand farmer, Australian munitions workers, a Malayan naval rating, an Indian officer and a South African defence officer.

High over "somewhere in England" a Royal Air Force pilot, flying at 5,000 feet, spoke his message of good-will, while from a destroyer leaving a harbor to go on patrol duty, came also the words of the Yuletide.

King Uses New Quotation

The King concluded his broadcast by reading this quotation from an unidentified source:

"I said to a man who stood at the gate of the year, 'Give me light that I may tread safely into the unknown,' and he replied, 'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than light and safer than any known way.'"

The King emphasized that while the Empire wished peace it stands steadfast in the struggle on which it has embarked.

"We feel in our hearts," he said, "that we are fighting against wickedness and this conviction will give us strength from day to day to persevere until victory is assured.

"At home we are, as it were, taking the strain for what may lie ahead of us, resolved and confident. We look with pride and thankfulness on the never-failing courage of the Royal Navy upon which throughout the last four months has burst a storm of ruthlessness and unceasing warfare.

"And when I speak of the navy I mean all the men of the Empire who go down to the sea in ships from the senior officers down to the last boy who has just joined up.

"The same message I send to our gallant air force. I would also like to send a special word of greeting to the armies of the Empire—to those who come from afar—and especially to the British Expeditionary Force. Their task is a hard one, that of waiting. But when the moment comes for action I know they will prove them-

Paris Finds Fun Underground In Popular Abri

PARIS, Dec. 26—(CP). — After night falls "L'Abri" is probably the most popular place to be found in Paris.

"L'Abri" in French means "shelter." While there are several thousand shelters which are frequented only when the "alarm" is sounded and are blessed roundly by citizens who are obliged to pull on their shirts and pantaloons in the dark only to descend and find they've been pulled on inside out—the "Abri" we mention is different.

This Abri is Paris' newest and most popular music hall. Its first drawing card is that if an alert is sounded the spectators do not need to budge. If they've forgotten their gasmasks, an extra supply in all sizes is available for their use. They can continue to watch the spectacle oblivious of the drama going on above their heads.

No Outside Strolls

Between acts, instead of going for a stroll in the streets or dropping into a nearby bar for something as was the peacetime custom, the patrons troop to an adjoining room with cafe and dance facilities. Subterranean passages are links. For some reason wartime audiences like singing and almost the whole program is composed of sentimental, satrical and military songs.

When the "Abri" opened most of the talent was getting on in years. This week's program is an "all change" reflecting the desire for youth and gaiety. The artists are mostly under military age. For the first time in years one has an opportunity to see a strictly French chorus. Up until now Paris chor-

Turk Ship Sinks

ISTANBUL, Dec. 26 — (AP). — The Turkish freighter Kizilirmak, 2,794 tons, struck rocks near Sinope during a Black Sea hurricane and went down with her entire crew of 24.

Scores of trawlers and other light craft were missing to-day after the rostm. It was feared some of them were lost with all hands. Lifeboats searched for survivors.

Double Shooting Denied By Jealous Wife

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 26 — (AP).— Pleading not guilty to three counts of assault with intent to kill, Mrs. Stella Jaques, 42, was held in $30,000 for Superior Court to-day as an aftermath of a shooting affray which brought an abrupt end to a gay Christmas dinner and left two men critically wounded.

Benjamin Jaques, 42, her estranged husband, was shot in the chest, as was Edward Heirtzler, 37, host at the dinner. Mrs. Jaques, a hospital nurse, surrendered to the police.

Detectives said the woman told him she had determined to kill her husband because of his friendship for Mrs. Heirtzler, to kill Heirtzler because of his refusal to "do anything about it," and also to kill Mrs. Heirtzler.

RAF Bombs Miss German Ships

LONDON, Dec. 26—(CP)— An encounter between British warplanes and German patrol vessels in the North Sea yesterday was reported today by the Air Ministry.

A ministry announcement said the Royal Air Force continued its patrols throughout Christmas Day "covering the British fishing fleets and the North sea."

German patrol ships which were sighted fired on the planes, which dropped some bombs. Neither side registered a hit.

First Aussie Squadron In England

Initial Contingent Is Composed Entirely Of Airmen

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(CP Cable)—For the second time in a week Britain witnessed a demonstration of Empire solidarity today as a group of tanned Australians landed at a south coast port.

They were the first squadron of the Royal Australian air force to come here for active service.

While the Canadian Active Service force was settling down in its second week in camp, a transport brought the Australians to British shores. The Aussies sang "roll out the barrel" as they crowded the decks of the ship.

The men are fully trained airmen—pilots, gunners, observers and a ground staff of mechanics ready to take their place with the Royal Air Force immediately.

The contingent is under the command of Wing-Commander L. V. Lachal, who preceded them to England and was at the dock to welcome them today. The men will have their first experience in wartime service with the coastal command of the R.A.F.

F.D.R.'s Personal Envoy Sent To Vatican

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Representatives of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish churches today acknowledged with gratitude President Roosevelt's proposals that governments and religions join in working for world peace and alleviation of suffering arising from the war.

Archbishop A. G. Cigonani, the Apostolic Delegate in Washington, wrote the President that Pope Pius desired to assure him that Myron C. Taylor would be "cordially received" as Mr. Roosevelt's personal representative to the Vatican "in a manner befitting the highly important mission entrusted to him."

The Pope's acknowledgment, to be amplified later in a personal reply, was forwarded through the Most Reverend Francis J. Spellman, Archbishop of New York, who said he had been requested to express "His Holiness' profound gratitude" for Taylor's appointment.

The President, in virtually identical letters to the Pope to Dr. George A. Buttrick, president of the Federal Council of Chuches of Christ, as a Protestant leader, and to Rabbi Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, as a Jewish leader, said that eventually the time would come to reestablish peace in the world, and he added that those in religion and in government who have a common purpose should be encouraged in a closer association to bring about peace.

Dr. Buttrick Accepts

Dr. Buttrick told the President in a telegram that his invitation to visit the White House from time to time to discuss world problems was "gratefully accepted."

"We join you," he said, "in the prayer that a lasting peace of justice and good will may soon bless mankind."

Dr. Adler said in a message to the President that it would be a privilege "to have the opportunity to visit you at the White House," and added that it was a "noble deed to bring the forces of religion together." He said he held the confident hope that "the leaders will unite the members of their churches and synagogues into a unanimous support of your efforts."

Shortly before the three communications were made public, Stephen Early, White House dress secretary, expressed belief that when the few who have questioned Mr. Roosevelt's appointment of a personal representative to the Vatical "learn the facts they will be satisfied."

Hitler Distributes Gifts In No Man's Land "Easy Mark For French Guns," Says Berlin

BERLIN, Dec. 26—(AP).—Adolf Hitler, authoritative sources told the Associated Press today, made a Christmas visit to no man's land between the German and French outposts on the Western front.

The account said that Hitler, "with orderlies carrying gift packages," actually crossed the international boundary into France. It was not explained whether the gift packages—distributed to "soldiers on watch"—were disposed of on French territory, or on the return trip.

The excursion was said to have been made in the vicinity of Spicheren Heights, between Saarbrucken and Forbach. Hitler was described as "an easy target for French guns."

If Hitler set foot on French soil it was the first time since 1918 when he was a corporal in the 16th Bavarian Reserve.

(German propaganda ever since the war began has sought to convince the world that France is the unwilling ally of Great Britain, and that there is no hostility between Germany and France. The visit of Hitler to no man's land would seem to be an attempt to create the impression that the French are not taking the war seriously)

ITALIAN authorities today announced that air mail service to South America would be continued regularly despite the plane crash in which seven persons were killed Sunday during an inaugural flight.

The plane, carrying the first load of air mail from South America, crashed near Mogador, French Morocco. Authorities said Pilot Antonio Rapp apparently had tried to fly through a storm rather than delay the first trip of the new service.

In addition to the plane's crew of four, one Italian and two Brazilian newspapermen were killed.

Torpedoed Minus Warning, 14 Britons Die

LONDON, Dec. 26—(CP). — The British steamship Stanholme, 2,473 tons, was reported today to have been torpedoed and sunk with a loss of 14 lives off the west coast of England.

Ten survivors said the ship had been torpedoed without warning on Christmas Day.

Most of the crew were below decks when a terrific explosion sank the ship, only two hours after she left port.

The only uninjured survivor was

Severe Penalty Demanded On Army Critics

HAMILTON, Dec. 26 — (CP). — Imposition of severe penalties was asked by G. W. Ballard, K.C., Crown Attorney, against anyone who violated the provisions of the Defence of Canada Regulations, when John Cain, 47, of Toronto, was convicted before Magistrate H. A. Burbidge to-day, on a charge of making statements likely to prejudice the recruiting of His Majesty's forces.

Cain pleaded guilty to a nagging charge and on both counts was remanded one week for sentence.

"The authorities have gone to a great deal of trouble in gathering together a group of our fittest and finest young men, and enrolling them in the ranks of a great and hazardous service," said Mr. Ballard.

"These young men have made the decision to fight for their country, but that decision has entailed a great play on their heart strings. They have to leave behind wives, fiancees, friends and relatives. When they have joined they have a great pride in their uniform.

"Then certain men come along, and by their remarks may make them believe that they have been deceived, deluded, and seduced into the army. Derogatory remarks tend to discourage a soldier and take away his self-respect. The more self-respect a soldier has, the better soldier he will be. Take away the self-respect and you take away the biggest part of his soldierly qualities."

Valera Proposes Peace Parley

DUBLIN, Dec. 26.—(CP) — Prime Minister Eamon De Valera in a Christmas broadcast to the United States last night proposed a conference of the warring powers to seek a peace settlement.

"The people of Eire and the people of the United States are not belligerents," he said, "but they sympathize with the peoples enduring the horrors of war.

"The knowledge that in modern war the victor and the vanquished alike have to endure privations for years after the war should urge that a settlement be sought now. It is better to seek a settlement in goodwill rather than wait until exhaustion has forced the war to end. Common sense suggests that it be tried now, before the war has wrought its full havoc."

Finnish Troops Carry Battle Into Russia, Within 75 Miles Of Murmansk Railway; Reds Shell Viipuri From 25 Miles Away

Evacuees Reviewed By Queen

While the King was getting first-hand information of the Allied activities in France, Her Majesty the Queen was touring England, inspecting the hundred and one activities that have sprung up to aid the nation in its emergency. She is seen here with members of the women's voluntary services reviewing women evacuees at Bosham in Sussex.

Raids On Coast City See 200 Bombs Dropped Christmas

VIIPURI, Finland, Dec. 26—(AP)—Long range artillery shells burst throughout the night on this seacoast city previously abandoned by most of its citizens.

Numerous fires were started and homes in the southeast section were destroyed bu the damage was comparatively slight.

The Soviet Russian forces appeared to be concentrating in this area by long range hammering and air raids as the Finns took the war into Soviet territory in another sector, driving toward the Murmansk railroad, Russia's main supply line to the far noth.

Viipuri firemen kept a constant vigil, fighting flames started by the shells, apparently fired from batteries 26 miles away.

This would place the Russian artillery about 18 miles within Finnish territory on the Karelian Isthmus.

As firemen battled flames in the southwest section of Viipuri a shell ripped a big hole in a nearby backyard. The size of the crater, about seven feet deep, led military experts to believe the Russians had brought up heavier batteries than previously used.

Russian warplanes in a four-hour raid over the ancient city yesterday bombed a workers' section but the only casualties known were two women and a girl injured. The few remaining residents huddled into bombproof shelters at intervals throughout the day. Public gatherings for Christmas celebrations were quickly dispersed.

One Plane Downed

At least 30 warplanes flew over the city and one was shot down by anti-aircraft fire. Approximately 200 bombs shook the city, including four or five 200-pound missiles and incendiary bombs.

Shrapnel tore holes in many homes in the workers' district. Electrical and telephone service was interrupted periodically, gas was cut off completely and water pressure reduced.

Although the Russian apparently were aiming at a railway line through the area, the tracks thus far had not been damaged.

In Helsingfors a 30-minute air raid alarm sent citizens to underground shelters today when four planes were sighted, but no bombs were dropped inside the city.

There was little actual news received from the war fronts today, but it was understood that cold weather had slowed operations considerable. In the Helsingfors zone the thermometer dropped to 25 degrees below zero.

Finnish troops pressed within 75 miles of the strategic Murmansk railway, as the war was carried into

Elections Are General In The County

Warrants for elections in Smith, Otonabee and North Monaghan were signed Saturday in the qualification of candidates nominated on Friday afternoon.

In Smith and Otonabee the deputy-reeves have ambitions of moving up to the presiding position.

Peter Mather, mentioned some weeks ago as having designs on Reeve W. A. Anderson's title, left the job of contesting to Deputy-reeve Harry Reid; and in Smith township Harry Fowler is making the same move, seeking to oust Allan B. Mann.

Deputy-reeve Melville Johnston was unopposed for the reeveship of North Monaghan, succeeding Warden James Milby, and receiving from the suburban majority a recognition of rural partnership that is likely to deepen goodwill and harmony throughout the municipality.

Six Reeves Returned

Reeves Robert Martin in Dummer, Martin Coughlin in Douro, James Gifford in Ennismore, Ernest Leeson of Havelock; Gordon Scriver of Lakefield and David Curtin, Galways, received acclamations.

An interesting circumstance in Ennismore is seen in the fact that Reeve Gifford is the only survivor of the 1939 council. He will be presiding over four new municipal workers when the council begins its work.

TORONTO, Dec. 26.—(CP).—Men of the field force of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations visit more than 9,000 plants in Ontario each year, it was shown today in a bulletin of the organization. Referring to increased industrial activity and Canada's war effort, it says that more than ever it is essential to control to the utmost every type of industrial accident hazard and every possibility of industrial waste.

Holiday Toll 29 Over Canada; Cars Kill 23

(By The Canadian Press.)

Twenty-nine persons died violently in Canada during the Christmas holiday week-end. Drownings and traffic accidents took their toll.

Ontario led in fatalities with 14, seven in automobile accidents. In Northern Ontario 15-year-old Stancey Ogden, of Emo, crashed through the ice while skating and died in Rainy River icy waters. A girl companion was rescued.

Six persons, including two boys who drowned when their Christmas sleighs plunged through thin ice of a lake, died violently in Nova Scotia. Quebec, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba and Saskatchewan reported one death. Margaret Ferguson, 17, daughter of a Neidpath district farmer, was the Saskatchewan victim, dying from injuries suffered when the car in which she was riding struck a Canadian Pacific locomotive near Swift Current. The father and a sister Gertrude, 20, were injured.

British Columbia reported four week-end deaths, all caused by automobiles. Willett A. Redline, 50, Port Coquitlam; Ray Mace, 23, Rosedale, and Rene Gagne, 31, Maillardville—three Fraser Valley towns — were killed when cars in which they were riding plunged from highways. Thomas Baylis of Victoria was struck by a car and fatally injured.

Sheriff's Law

Hamilton, Dec. 26 (CP)

REFUSING to accept the city council's appointment of Dr. Harold E. Bulford as city physician to act at the jail as well, Sheriff J. Wilkie Lawrason today announced the appointment of Dr. Harold Richardson McAlister as jail physician while Dr. Thomas C. Gibson is absent on military service.

The controversy between the sheriff and certain city officials was given a pseudo melodramatic touch when Sheriff Lawrason received a letter which purported to be from "the Communist party of Hamilton" urging him not to interfere with the city's appointment.

Japs Slay 15,000 In Hankow Area

SHANGHAI, Dec. 26—(AP).—Japanese dispatches said today that 15,000 Chinese had been killed in recent fighting north and south of Hankow, in Central China, at present the most active sectors in the conflict.

The Japanese reported heavy fighting in north, central and south China, and said their counter-attacks in six provinces forestalled a winter offensive by the Chinese.

It was admitted that the Chinese made a number of bombing attacks late last week in the southern war zone, but, the Japanese said, all Chinese air bases in Kwangsi province were bombed and destroyed in retaliatory raids.

Chinese reports said fighting still is in progress around Pautouchen, terminus of the Peiping, Suiyuan railroad in Suiyuan province in the war northwest.

Chinese troops were said to have entered Chiangchih in southeastern Shansi province, one of the active north China sectors.

Japanese also reported their troops engaged in mopping up operations in Kwangtung province, near Canton, against the Chinese 19th route army.

Weather Man Asks $5,000 For T.T.C. Yuletide Aid

TORONTO, Dec. 26.—(CP)—Alexander Roy, Self-styled rainmaker and controller of the weather, has billed the Toronto Transportation Commission for $5,000 for having manipulated the weather over the Christmas season. T. T. C. officials are not perturbed with the account, neither is Board of Control, which body also received a proposal from rainmaker Roy last February to control the weather by importing hot-air from Florida.

For the T. T. C. Mr. Roy wanted to adjust the weather either to increase their business during the Christmas holidays. Faced with troubles of their own, the T. T. S. declined to have the weather manipulated.

In his offer to the Board of Control, Mr. Roy wanted to import Florida hot-air and thus keep the streets free of snow. Only last spring Mr. Roy held he created three inches of rain and thus saved the farmers millions.

Canadian Hero Takes Salute At British March Past

Otherwise Boxing Day was a quiet one for the Canadian forces. Many still were on their Christmas week-end leave. A high pile of invitations which the troops were unable to accept over Christmas is lying at headquarters and they are to be used at the New Year.

Crerar Finds Britain Grateful

War Not Being Felt Here In Canada Minister Claims

OTTAWA, Dec. 26. — (CP) — Amendments to the transport commissioners act are expected to form a part of the government program at the forthcoming session of parliament with a view to extending the "agreed charges" provisions to include water carriage and to increase the board's control over carriage by air.

This act was passed by parliament at the session of 1938. It transformed the old board of railway commissioners into a board of transport commissioners with jurisdiction over carriage by rail, water and air.

Meantime, for the present the Yuletide season brought a lull in government activity though the Defence Department, with the country at war, carried on as usual as did the Prime Minister's office. A skeleton staff manner the External Affairs Department during the week-end.

Mines Minister Crerar, who headed the Canadian mission to the Empire war parley, returned from London the day before Christmas to report to the government on the deliberations. He was met at the station by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

A Grateful Motherland

Mr. Crerar said Great Britain and France were "profoundly grateful" for Canada's aid in the struggle against Nazism.

He reported Great Britain was organized and equipped to a much higher degree now, after only a few weeks of war, than at the conclusion of the first Great War and said that co-operation between France and Great Britain was "complete."

Mr. Crerar was impressed by the spirit of the British people in the face of wartime burdens they are bearing and added: "We, in Canada, do not know what war is."

On January 25 members of the House of Commons will meet for the sixth session of the 18th parliament. It will be the first regular session since the war started.

One Cabinet Council is expected to be held during the week but many of the Ministers are out of town for the holidays and it will be after New Year's Day before the regular pre-session rush gets into full swing.

One of the outstanding features of the Transport Commissioners Act to which amendments are expected at the next session, was a provision whereby railways were empowered to enter into transportation agreements with customers to handle their commodities for certain fixed periods at rates lower than standard.

This was then considered to be a radical change from existing regulations but so far it has resulted in few agreements.

More Protection

Now, it is understood, because of protests from water carriers, the transport department is considering amendments which would protect water carriers against agreed charges.

The board was given authority to pass on rates and permits for commercial aviation enterprises but it was provided that companies then in operation would not be disturbed.

Now, it transpires, the war has interfered badly with the great volume of business heretofore enjoyed by planes carrying prospectors and supplies into northern areas otherwise unserved by modern transportation methods.

The result is that on certain routes competition for business has become so keen that none can make a success of the enterprise.

It is understood power will be asked by the board to reduce the number of companies in competition with one another to the extent that there will be business enough for all.

They finally hit on the plan of driving a fire truck into the street at curfew and turning on the siren.

Pensions To Aid Over Million Across States

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26—(AP).—The United States Government puts into operation next month its far-reaching plan to provide mass security in the form of monthly retirement pensions for older workers and their dependents.

It will be the beginning of the monthly payoff of old age insurance benefits under the Social Security Law, an destimates indicate that during 1940 than than $100,000,000 will be distributed to approximately 1,000,000 persons.

The Social Security pay-off will not approach the goals of various proposals advocated by old-age pension groups. For the most part it may fall short of the $55 a month average security wage paid relief project workers.

Government statisticians have estimated that payments for retired single men will average about $26 a month for life. The estimated average for a married man who receives a supplemental benefit for his wife will be about $39.

The tops in Government old age benefits is $85 a month, but to get it, a married man would need to be covered by the Social Security system for 40 years and be able to show an average of $250 a month in earnings throughout that period.

Favorable responses to the President's action were tempered in some instances by expressions of hope that Mr. Roosevelt was not working toward re-establishment of formal diplomatic relations with the Vatican. Such formal relations were severed in 1867.

Among others, Rev. Louie Newton, Atlanta Baptist clergyman, and Bishop Paul Kern of the Methodist Church, at Nashville, Tenn., questioned the action, chiefly on that ground.

Earl, informally discussing such questions, said Mr. Roosevelt had the constitutional right to appoint Taylor and added that he never had held and does not now hold any intention of according diplomatic recognition to the Vatican.

French Repulse Pre-Dawn Christmas Raids

PARIS, Dec. 26 — (AP) — The French military reported today the repulse of pre-dawn Christmas raids by German patrols east of the Moselle River.

(The German high command claimed its troops had taken no action on Christmas.)

The heaviest skirmish, which the French officially described as "serious," began at 4 a.m. (11 p.m. Sunday, E.S.T.) on Christmas with artillery and mortar preparation.

They said the French did not suffer a casualty in routing the Germans in an hour and half fight.

The army high command reported in today's communique: "East of the Moselle River, two enemy raids have been repulsed by our fire."

British Held Off

BERLIN, Dec. 26. —(AP)— The German army high command claimed today that machine-gun volleys held off British air attacks on German "vanguard" boats in Heligoland Bay yesterday.

The communique said:

"On December 25, like the previous day, British airplanes attempted to attack vanguard boats in German Bay (Heligoland.) The attacks were unsuccessful due to defensive fire of machine-guns.

"Fighting actions of the German army did not occur on Christmas Day."

(The French army command yesterday announced that the only action on the Western Front on Christmas was the repulse of a German patrol.)

The chief of the coastal command, Air Marshal Sir Frederick Bowhill, was at the pier to welcome them. Sir Frederick expresesd his pleasure and pride to have the first Australian squadron under his leadership.

Air Secretary Sir Kingsley Wood was represented at the welcoming ceremonies by Ald Commodore T E B. Howe, himself a member of the Australian Imperial Force in the first Great War.

"We have all been greatly impressed in this country with the ready response which Australia has made to the Empire air training scheme and also with the part she is taking in the production of aircraft independently of the home country," Commodore said.

Wing-Commander Lachal read the welcome of Stanley Bruce, Australia's High Commissioner in London, as follows:

"The safe arrival of the first of Australia's units for active service in Europe has given great pleasure both in Great Britain and in Australia.

"You are the representatives of an air force which has already established for itself an honorable tradition. In the service which you are to be called upon to perform, in which you will be associated with the Royal Air Force, you will, I know, maintain that tradition."

Confidence At Home

J. V. Fairbairn, Autralian Air Minister, sent the following message through Wing-Commander Lachal.

"A great responsibility rests upon you as members of the first Australian Air Force squadron to go on active service in this war.

"Australia is confident that you will play your part well in whatever sphere you may be called upon to serve. The people of Australia will follow your activities with the keenest interest, and look forward to your safe return when your task is done."

The squadron was welcomed by the mayor on behalf of the town. Before they left the Austrians were addressed by the transport commander, who said he had never carried a better behaved or better disciplined body of troops in his entire career.

MELBOURNE, Australia — (AP). —The clock was turned back in a Melbourne theatre where to-day's army saw films of the Australian Imperial Forces of the last war on active service.

Justice Cannon Dies At 61 Christmas Day

OTTAWA, Dec. 26.—(CP).— Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Hon. Mr. Justice Lawrence Dumoulin Cannon, K.C., of the Supreme Court of Canada, who died Christmas Day. He was 61. The body will be taken to Quebec for services Thursday in the Basilica.

Mr. Justice Lucien Cannon of the Quebec Superior Court, Abbe Walter Cannon of Quebec Seminary, and Robert Cannon, Quebec lawyer, are brothers. Miss Maud Cannon of Quebec, and Rev. Mother Saint Edith of the Ursulin convent, Quebec, are sisters.

Justice Cannon last sat in the Supreme Court in February, 1939. He was widely known throughout Canada, especially in Quebec province, where in 1923 he was appointed a member of the commission charged with revising and consolidating the statutes of that province.

Admitted to the Bar in 1899, Justice Cannon was created a King's counsel in 1910. He entered politics as a Quebec city alderman and served in that capacity from 1906 to 1916 when he was elected to the Quebec Legislature as Liberal member for Quebec Centre. He was re-elected by acclamation in 1919.

He gained wide recognition in law circles and in 1924 was appointed batonnier of the Quebec Bar, being appointed in 1927 as secretary of the Honorary Secretary of the Canadian Bar Association.

His appointment as Puisne Judge of the Court of King's Bench for Quebec was made in 1927 and in January, 1930, he was appointed Judge of the Supreme Court to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. Justice Mignault.

To Reopen Exposition

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec, 26—(AP) —The Golden Gate Exposition will reopen May 25, 1940, with more and larger exhibits than in 1939. The decision assuring a revival of the $55,000,000 show on Treasure Island was made in federal bankruptcy court where referee Burton Wyman approved a plan submitted by Randell Larson, attorney for individuals and corporations to which the fair owes more than $4,000,000.

In The World Of Business

Mr. Perc. W. Atkinson of the Bank of Toronto staff, St. Mary's, and formerly of Peterborough, has been transferred to the Bloor and Howland branch in Toronto.

It is reported along the main stem that Harry Gainey, local barber, has purchased the brick building on George street just south of Cann and Morrison's service station and north of the Sugar Bowl.

Another business change which is scheduled to take place soon is the removal of the Simpson's mail order department from George street to the store on the west end of the new A. and P. Supermarket on Charlotte street.

Goodrich To Spend $85,000

Improvement in volume of business since the early part of 1939 and faith in Canada's future growth has prompted Goodrich Rubber Company to appropriate $85,000 to provide additional floor space for manufacturing purposes. Work on more adequate railway facilities has already been started at the plant. Plans call for the removal of the General Office to a new location and several departments will be relocated within the plant primarily to eliminate wastes in operation. Certain floors within the plant are also being extended. This work will put the Goodrich company in a fine position to serve Canada in its war effort.

Heinz Has a Birthday

26,000 Miles of wire was brought into one circuit under control of 385 operators and engineers when Howard Heinz uses a telephonic broadcast hook-up to address all employees of H. J. Heinz Company in Canada and the States on Thursday, December 28, the 70th birthday of the organization founded by his father and of which he is president. His audience will be assembled at 70 banquets in cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific, at each of which the same menu will be served, and he will speak at Pittsburg where 3,000 will dine together in Heinz Employees' Auditorium and Service Building. War in foreign lands prevents the hook-up from being world-wide.

Employs 17,000 People

The company was founded by Henry J. Heinz in Sharpsburg, a suburb of Pittsburg, in 1869. He rented a small building in which, with the aid of three employees he grated and bottled horse-radish he had grown in a small garden. Today the company operates 26 factories in five countries, one in Melbourne, Australia; 117 sales branches in four lands and 250 salting houses and receiving stations. It employs 17,000 people, uses the crops from more than 200,000 acres and sells its products in over 100 countries. The Canadian plant was established in Leamginton in 1909 and on Thursday next one of the banquets tuned in on the broadcast will be in Toronto where the company has a branch.

Hastings Voters Return Council By Acclamation

HASTINGS, Dec. 26 (ENS). — Ratepayers of Hastings showed their confidence in the Reeve, Council, and Hydro Commission of the past year by giving the entire body an acclamation on Saturday. A large number of nominations were registered, with some new names listed, but the past record of Council and Hdro Commission seemed satisfactory to the voting public and the present Reeve and Council will hold their offices for a two-year term and possibly for the duration of the war.

Results of the nomination meeting were: For Reeve—Lewis E. Kelley (acclamation); ex-Reeve, Howard G. Fairman; J. L. Doherty, Charles Lynch, Stanley Stevenson.

Council—Iden Bonds, Sr. (acclamation); J. L. Doherty, Charles Lynch (acclamation), Clarence Gillespie, Arthur J. McKenty, William McEachnie (aclamation), Timothy A. Walsh, M. A. O'Shea, Stanley Stevenson (acclamation), Dr. D. C. Hay.

Hydro — Arthur J. McKenty, Walter M. Fowlds, Howard G. Fairman (acclamation), Dr. D. C. Hay.

A minor flare-up at this meeting arose whetn a motion to adjourn was amended by a motion of A. J. McKenty to wind up the business immediately following the nominations. A vote was taken, with the result that ten were for the amendment and nine were opposed to it. Eventually, Mr. McKenty offered to withdraw the amendment, but his seconder, Stanley Stevenson, held out for a time before he consented to have the amendment withdrawn, and the meeting was adjourned until eight o'clock that evening in the Town Hall.

Reeve Lewis Kelley, who is embarking on his tenth consecutive year of service in the Municipal Council, was accorded a second consecutive acclamation this year for the Reeveship, which has not occurred in the Council in recent years.

Adressing the adjourned meeting in the Town Hall, he said in his past terms of office, he had showed no partiality and expressed the hope that the electors were not disappointed with their efforts.

Councillor Stanley Stevenson said he had been chairman of the Streets Committee for three years and the costs this year were lower than they had been in a number of years.

Councillor Charles Lynch, chairman of the Finance Committee for two years, drew attention to the fact that a considerable sum had been spent on repairs to the Council Chambers, a long-wanted need. He said the Council had worked well together in their two years of office.

Kept Off Relief.

Councillor William McEachnie, chairman of the Property Committee, pointed out that through the municipal woodlot project last winter, a number of families had been kept off relief without cost to the municipality. A check over of last year's activities with the project showed that 103 cords of wood had been bought, cut and sold. He drew attention to the fact that approximately $200 had been spent in putting the fire engine in first-class condition. This was an unprepared-for emergency which arose as a result of either putting the pumper in first-class shape or of purchasing a new machine.

Councillor I. Bonds said he hoped the people of Hastings would not condemn the Council when each one of them tried to do his best without fear or prejudice.

At this point, Harry Dodd, in the audience, charged that some streets had not been touched with oil last summer, and a heated discussion seemed destined to get under way until M. J. Baker, chairman of the meeting, interrupted and called on the next speaker.

J. L. Doherty and Clarence, although nominated for the posts of Council, were not present, and Arthur J. McKenty was next on the list. He said he could find little fault with the Council, but added he would await a report from the Hydro Commissioners.

Criticizes Council.

Levelling several attacks at the Council, Howard G. Fairman began by saying he could not favor the idea of holding the discussions in connection with the nomination, immediately following the meeting. He charged the Council took good care of the Hastings boys who have joined the army by giving them a sendoff, but they forgot the boys who died in the last war by holding no public memorial service in the Town Hall this year. Referring to the new dance hall by-law, Mr. Fairman said he was not sure whether there was one or not in view of the fact that Council relaxed restrictions on it through an amendment. He pointed out that Highway Number 45 was the result of his work as Reeve, and added he might seek the Reeveship this year.

Replying to these remarks, Reeve Kelley said he saw Mr. Fairman as a hard-working Reeve during Mr. Fairman's term of office. "The fact is, he worked too hard and didn't give the rest of the Council a chance," the Reeve alleged. "This was not right, nor fair to the Council." He said he was not in favor of midnight frolics as something to be permitted very often, but added he was in sympathy with the young people of Hastings, and felt that to permit a frolic on New Year's Eve would be the least the Council could do for the young people, who would probably go to a frolic somewhere that night.

GLITTER GOWN

By ALICE ALDEN

FOR A price almost every woman is content to pay for a flattering gown, this model is unusually good. The fabrics, a caressing jersey bodice and a gilt-embroidered sheer skirt, are pleasing together and permit no jewelry or lots of it. Unlike an all-jersey dress, this one does not cling to the hips and, therefore, is a better choice for the figure which isn't perfect. The suggestion of sleeves is a help, too, if arms and shoulders aren't what they might be. It is an American interpretation of a Paris model.

Do You Know?

Use a soft brush, hot water and a bland suds to wash fine china with an intricate, raised motif. Rinse thoroughly in clear hot water and dry carefully with a soft towel.

✧ ✧ ✧

When selecting oranges, choose fruit that has a smooth skin, that is firm and appears to be heavy for its size. Watch for decay or discoloration at the stem end. Grapefruit should be heavy, symmetrical, with a fine-textured thin skin. Like oranges, signs of decay appear at the stem end.

✧ ✧ ✧

When steaming a suet pudding, always put a tiny piece of lemon peel or grapefruit peel into the water. This prevents any grease sticking to the side of the pot.

Improve Your Dancing With Smart Variations

Practise New Steps at Home

You see them at every dance! The good dancers who with a variation or two make even the fox-trot new and exciting. And the poor dancers who try to imitate them but give up in despair.

But those lively variations aren't difficult. Anyone with diagrams and instructions can learn to do fancy steps, be among those sought after on the dance floor.

Do the swing step given in our diagram. It will dress up your fox-trot, delight your partner.

Count 1—Step forward on left foot. 2—Swing right foot forward and touch toe lightly to floor. 3—Step back on right foot. 4—Swing left foot back, touch toe lightly to floor.

To indicate a change from other fox-trot steps to the swing step, the man stops his partner with a firm pressure of hand and arm. And by knowing such tricks of leading, following, it's easier of course to do other variations in other popular dances.

Our 32-page booklet gives diagrams and directions for the fox-trot, slow fox-trot, waltz, rumba, tango and shag—basic steps and variations. Tells how to lead and follow smoothly, become an expert and popular partner.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of HOME COURSE IN NEW BALLROOM DANCES TO Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

We Noticed

...At the Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E., ball last night...a wide variety of evening gowns carrying out all the recent decree of Dame Fashion.

✧ ✧ ✧

...There were tiny waists; tight-fitting bodices; bustle effects;; peplums; full swirling skirts, and hip-line draped ones.

✧ ✧ ✧

...Quaint looking war a little frock of black net, pink-dotted, and with ruching at the square neck...colored sequins were scattered over another net frock with a bouffant skirt...and rather striking was a gown of champagne colored satin designed on rather simple lines...there was a matching open-crown turban.

"Y" Children Greet Santa With Excitement

Hundreds of eyes popped with excitement, and there was a deafening roar of greeting and clapping of tiny hands in the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium Friday afternoon when a ruddy, jolly Santa Claus appeared on the balcony and descended the stairs amid a merry jingle of bells to hand out gifts from a tree twinkling with lights and decorations. He was assisted by members of the physical committee. The happy occasion of his visit was the annual Christmas party for youngsters from the 'Y' gymnastic and ballet classes, arranged by the physical director, Miss Caroline Littlefield. Gifts included a scarlet bag stuffed with candies, nuts and oranges for each youngster, gifts donated by the senior classes and friends of the 'Y', and a present brought by each child.

A delightful program by the children of the ballet and other classes included a recitation by Joan Henry; song, Helen Bradley. Christmas carol, Geraldine Perks; group of carols, gym and clubs, Small Kenny Larone, hanging to the tails of Santa's red coat, was the centre of amused interest for several moments as he chanted Christmas songs in an entirely impromtu performance.

Other children taking part were Pat Nixon, Marilyn Hollingsworth, Sunny Gray, Patsy Moore, who were dancing dolls; Jean Millard, who was the fairy doll in a toe dance; Miss Jessie Pattison, who was a grown-up little girl in a Christmas song; and Sheila Goldstone, Lyn Quinlan, Joan Cowan, Geraldine Perks, Carol Goldstone, Barbara Outram, Audrey Keating, Pat Quinlan, Beverly Moncrief, Marion Rowe, Sheila Young, Joan Files.

Miss Irene Quinlan and Miss Francis Wells, A.T.C.M., presented music for the program; Miss Sybil Ecobichon decorated the tree, and carols were directed by Miss M. J. V. Jory.

Married Happiness Doesn't Depend Upon Emotional Demonstrations, But Upon Both Husband And Wife doing Little Things For Each Other—Soft Words Of Appreciation.

DEAR MISS DIX—I was married seventeen years In all that time my husband and I never had a single quarrel. We lived our lives together. We cultivated mutual friends and when we had them at our house both of us tried to make them welcome. I did not try to separate my husband from his men friends, and it was my pleasure when he gave a stag party to get up the very best meal I could for his guests, then, when everything was arranged, take the children and just fade out of the picture. Thank heaven we lived so smoothly together and that I did all of these things just as he liked them. He has gone from me now and I shall never have another opportunity to do anything to please him. It is great to feel that you have made somebody happy, and it is so easy if you are half-way loving and understanding. Also, it is great fun. —LAURA.

ANSWER:

I wish that every wife who reads this column would cut this woman's letter out and keep it where she can see it every day, for it contains not only the whole philosophy for how to be happy though married, but a warning that would have many a woman bitter tears of regret if she would only heed it.

The greatest grief that can come to any of us is to lean above the coffined forms of those we have loved and who loved us and know that we could have made them happy and that we did not do it. We did not speak the loving words they longed to hear. We did not give them the appreciation that would have made their hard work for us worth while. We never entered into their enthusiasm. We deprived them of little pleasure they might have had. We made their lives drab and dull instead of bright and colorful.

Why? Maybe selfishness. Maybe arrogance. Maybe the determination to rule another. Maybe indifference to another's happiness. Maybe just stupidity. But the realization of our crime against those whose happiness was in our hands comes too late when we pour our remorse into deaf, dead ears.

I always think of two stories I know about. One was about the widow of a rich man who, not long after her husband died, appeared with a modest little watch on, which she hesitatingly explained by saying: "All my life I have longed so for a watch, but my husband would never let me have one because he said it was so foolish to spend money on such gewgaws."

The other concerned a widow who sobbed above the body of her dead husband. "I wish now that I had let John have two cups of coffee with his breakfast but I thought one was enough." And there you are. All husbands and wives have the chance to make each other happy if they will only take the trouble to do so. Married happiness doesn't depend on big emotional experiences. It is made up of little things, of soft words, of gentle acts, of consideration, of appreciation.

It is made up of husbands remembering birthdays; of paying their wives compliments; of a 15-cent bunch of violets and a pound of candy; of trips to the movies and praise for a good dinner. It is made up of a wifes tenderness for her husband; of her realization of the strain under which he works; of her bucking him up when he is downhearted and making him feel that he can go out and conquer; of her forbearing to nag him; of her giving him freedom to belong to a club and to stay downtown to dinner without having to lie about it

As this correspondent says, it is a great thing for a wife to remember when her husband is dead that she made him happy. But if you want to make your husband happy, you must do it now. Today. We pass this way but once.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My husband and I are in our middle fifties and have been married since our early youth. We have no children. My husband is a good business man, honorable in all his dealings and is greatly respected by his many friends. However, I have long suspected him of philandering and have often thought of confronting him with my suspicions, but he is so kind and generous to me and provides me with a nice home and car and every comfort and luxury, and because we get along so well together I hesitate to do it. I am afraid I could not change him even though I talked to him, and with his disposition I might make matters worse. What do you think?—UNDECIDED.

ANSWER:

When a woman is in her middle fifties she is done with romance and should look at marriage from a practical rather than a sentimental viewpoint. Hence I think that you would be extremely foolish to break up your home just because your husband is philandering a little.

It is humiliating, of course, to a wife for her husband to have a wandering foot, but when she is aging, as Time says, it doesn't fill her with the rage and jealousy that it did when she was young and felt that she should be all-in-all to him. Sometimes, indeed, a woman is rather glad to have other women take a husband who needs to be constantly amused off of her hands and leave her to her own diversions. Surely you must realize, with your experience of life, that it never stops a philanderer from philandering for his wife to protest against it and tell him that she knows it. No matter how much he promises that he will never do it again, he chases off after the next skirt that passes his way.

Save your face by pretending to know nothing of your husband's little affairs, and keep your home and your luxuries and your husband, who is a good friend and companion even if his name isn't Joseph.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX—My wife and I have been married seven months and we fight continually. What shall we do about it? Is divorce the right way out, or what?—LARRY.

ANSWER:

The only way to stop quarreling is just to stop it. If when your wife begins to argue you will pick up a book and go to reading and refuse to answer her it will automatically shut her up. And the plan will work in reverse just as well, and she can stop you from fighting with her by getting out of your way. Don't get a divorce until you at least try this method.

DOROTHY DIX.

Many Attend Major Bennett Annual Christmas Night Ball

Charming girls wearing graceful frocks in flower-garden shades that were high-lighted against the formal black and white attire of their escorts supplied the most interesting and colorful note at the annual Christmas night ball of the Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E. this year, although decorations for the affair were admirably carried out in Royal colors, a tribute to Their Majesties, whose photographs were accorded a place of honor at the head of the room.

Patrons and patronesses were Mrs. J. Comstock, Jr., regent of the Chapter, and Mr. Comstock; Lt. Col. and Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Clarke. Miss Margaret Morgan was convener of the decorating committee, and Miss Jean Belleghem was invitation convener. Jimmy Duffus' orchestra provided rhythmic dance music. The ball was held in the Legion Hall.

Among those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. A. Rutter, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hewitt, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ash, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dunkerley, Mr. and Mrs. G. Barns, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Kingdon, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. STYLE BEGINS AT 40

By ALICE ALDEN

STUNNING IS the word after 40, and one of our designers interprets it in this ensemble for winter's gala evenings. Continuing to work on her theory that style, not fashion, is important to the mature woman, this couturier nevertheless keeps in line with the season's collections. The vogue for red, for instance, is observed in this broadcloth coat with appliqued spirals of black, and in the cherry red silk jersey gown. It is draped at the hips, disguising any fulness noticeable in the not-so-slim figure. The drapery continues in back, ending in a long cascade. The wrap is the classic kind which serves for years, looks magnificent over all black and lives up to its purpose of keeping the wearer warm.

The Call For Peace

From Vatican City comes word of the Pope's latest effort toward peace. He enunciated five points:

1—A guarantee of independence to all nations.

2—General disarmament.

3—The creation of reshaping of international bodies to assure faithful observance of international undertakings.

4—The fulfilment of the true needs of nations and ethnic minorities.

5—Abandonment of all hatreds for moral justice in keeping with Christian ideals.

On the same day the announcement was made that President Roosevelt had named a personal envoy to Rome, Myron C. Taylor, and it was explained Mr. Taylor's mission would be to work for the advancement of any definite moves which might be made to restore world peace. There was no definite plan in sight at the moment, but Mr. Roosevelt was rather looking to the future and the rebuilding of the world on a new basis.

* * *

We are quite certain Briain has at no time desired war. That nation went through all the genuine and unmistaken moves of seeking to give to the world an object lesson in disarmament, and she did it by disarming herself. Britain was disarming when Germany was doing exactly the opposite. The truth of that has been revealed often.

When it looked like war in September of 1938 Premier Chamberlain went himself to see Hitler at Munich, and for the sake of world peace Hitler was permitted to proceed with the annexation of the Sudeten lands in Czecho-Slovakia. We doubt very much if Britain even at that comparatively recent date was sufficiently armed or equipped to go to war over the issue. It was afterward shown pitifully and openly that the anti-aircraft defences of the city of London were in a deplorable state of muddled confusion, and if London, the heart of Empire, were in that condition, what must have been the condition elsewhere?

Britain as well as France were well sneered at in United States. That old phrase about Czecho-Slovakia having been "sold down the river," betrayed, forgotten, and so on, was fair game in what looked like an open journalistic season for international gunning. Britain and France should have gone to war; they should have listened to the call of the meek against the mighty, and they should become the guardians of the small nations.

After that the whole of Czecho-Slovakia went under, and Britain went seriously to the business of arming. Poland and the lesser nations of the Baltic were rolled up and Britain and France declared war. They did not seek it.

President Roosevelt must know that his own land was living in an atmosphere of dread and uncertainty while Hitler rode over the lesser nations of Europe; public opinion in that nation was much the same as in our own country. There was the feeling that we were living under the guise of peace only, and that war was being delayed instead of being cancelled.

* * *

Those who seek peace—God bless them too—can do so with the assurance that the Allies will join them just as soon as there is created the foundation on which a lasting peace can be erected. The Allies are not in the frame of mind today where they desire to cease fire and say "We have peace—but..." They do not desire to lay aside their weapons with the feeling that it would be well to make a note of where they were left and to make sure there was plenty of ammunition for the next time they are called upon to use them.

It is our honest conviction that Hitler's alliance with Russia and Russia's subsequent attack upon Finland has made the matter of talking about peace now a more remote possibility. Each great injustice which is inflicted upon the small nation is a wrong which will have to be turned into a right before there can be peace.

His Holiness at Rome and President Roosevelt are well advised to lay their plans for the coming of peace; to pray for it and work for it. A guarantee of independence to all nations, the first point named at the Vatican, is exactly what the Allies desire. They will approve of it in all the ramifications to which it can extend. Nor is there any point named by the Pope to which they could not or would not subscribe. The Allies are prepared to pledge their treasure of worth and manhood in this war, and at the conclusion they will lay claim to not one mile of added territory for themselves. In that way it is an absolutely unselfish conflict on their part. When they have adequate assurance of definite peace, of the rebuilding of despoiled lesser nations and of future safety then they will not need to be urged to discuss peace. They will do it of their own volition and they will do it gladly.

Norwood's Experience

When nomination hours came in Norwood it brought forth but one nomination for the Hydro Commission. One name was mentioned as a prospective councillor, but he would not accept. So as far as a Reeve, Council and Board of Education went there was a complete blank.

So word has gone forth that Norwood is in a bad way with no person caring a hoot what happens to the place, and with no strong hand in control to make sure that the taxes do not mount until taxpayers are forced into default.

Our belief is that Norwood will come along all right. There will be another nomination meeting and sufficient candidates will be named. Possibly a good many residents in the village were taken up with attending to Christmas business when the regular nomination meeting was held. The business would not wait and the nominations would.

A number of municipalities have found out the advantage of attending to their civic nominations and elections early in December instead of mixing them up with the Christmas rush. The plan has worked well. It has not been shown that the voting is on a larger scale, but there is more time to have the whole thing attended to orderly and well, and it is out of the road before the Christmas business gets under way.

Who Will Enforce It?

The nations of South America are much inclined to join with United States in making a protest about the war being carried to their vicinity. Not that there is the least danger at the moment of invasion, but naval engagements have taken place in what they refer to as neutral waters. According to the argument on which the protest is being based there should be a wide strip of water surrounding South America and a good deal of North America and vessels of nations at war should keep out.

The first thing one is bound to consider is simply this—what nation or organization of nations is going to enforce such a ruling? We use the word "enforce" because if there is no enforcement the rule will never be made operative.

The vessels of warring nations, merchantment and naval, are apt to roam widely. If Britain, for instance, gets scent of a German war vessel then Britain is going to search for it; it will do that for the purpose of destroying it-because Britain knows that the German vessel is raiding its commerce, and the purpose of war is destruction. If that sought-after vessel managed to get into what are claimed to be neutral waters, we have a feeling the British would just as soon have the engagement fought there as elsewhere. If a German raider came upon a British freighter in such waters, then the freighter would be downed there.

It is a difficult matter to say that the sea is safe here and not safe there, or to have some sort of a geographical schedule established to show where sea fighting shall or shall not be done.

Back of it all comes that matter of "enforcing" such a plan. And we do not believe it can be done. The sooner German vessels are cleared from the seas of the world the sooner will the war be over.

They Keep Diaries

At a non-jury session of the Supreme Court in Peterborough action was taken to recover damages by a resident who had slipped and fallen on the street in Havelock on March 17. The result was a broken hip.

As might have been anticipated in such a case evidence would have something to do with the condition of the streets at that particular date, and the claims of the municipality was that the streets had been sanded.

The peculiar feature was that there were two sources in Havelock which could be looked upon as furnishing a correct report on the state of the weather on March 17 or any other day. Mrs. Effie Williams keeps a diary, and so does Elton Bannon, a lad of ten years. This boy records the temperature at 8 in the morning, at noon, at 2.30 in the afternoon, and at times at 9 in the evening, and adds a note to say whether it had been snowing, raining or thawing and so on.

Each of these diaries was submitted as evidence and accepted. One might wonder what would prompt a boy of 10 to start keeping a diary. It is easier to perceive an elderly woman doing so. Whether it indicates a bent toward statistics or some such thing is a matter for wiser heads to say. The great majority of people keep no diaries; they are quite content that the official weather man should attend to all such matters. But when that Havelock case was opened there were those two day-to-day records which would furnish particulars about the 17th of March or any other day in the year. Rather remarkable.

He Was Too Practical

The world is getting too matter-of-fact; romance and gallantry are going from it. We say this because we mean it. To illustrate: There is a picture in the papers of Robert Armstrong, a man of 72, in Winnipeg. He is shown with his bride, whom he married the other day, and it does not even say who she is. Merely mentions that she is 71.

We learn they had been friends for 20 years, and Mr. Armstrong had retired from the C.P.R. service two years ago after working with that company 27 years.

It is stated in the report that Mr. Armstrong just walked into his friend's house and said he was tired of doing his own cooking. That appeared to have been sufficient for shortly after they were married.

To us that sounds flat. Robert did none of the things a man proposing marriage should have done. He did not go down on one knee when she was sitting on the sofa; he did not declare he loved her madly; never made a threat that he would do away with himself if she turned him down; murmured not a thing about the love light in her eyes and omitted entirely any reference to her ears looking like sea shells. Merely romped in and said he was tired of doing his own cooking.

Robert may make a splendid, a devoted and reasonable husband, but his method of courtship leaves much to be desired. No girl of 71 or 21 likes to feel she is in demand because she can cook. She craves a touch of romance or some such thing. The abruptness of this gentleman in Winnipeg would be enough to set Dorothy Dix off to the extent of a column and a-half.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Woman in Camden, N.J., asked police to help find her father. She lost him in the toy department of a big store. He's 85 and there's no saying what he might have been up to.

Texas woman took a shot at her erring husband in court and missed him. She apologized—for her poor aim saying she was generally looked upon as one of the best shots in the country.

German fliers dropped an umbrella for Chamberlain. If they progress to the point where they actually develop a national sense of humor there may be some hope for the future peace of the world.

Hamilton man drove when intoxicated, and was sent down for 21 days and he can't drive for three years. Some day it may dawn on motorists that when the law says they must not drive and drink it means just what it says.

Woman in Hanover lost $20 two months ago and found it when she was looking for string with which to tie up Christmas parcels. We can appreciate that. A search of that kind is apt to extend to all corners of the happy home.

The League of Nations staff of 500 was reduced by 140 when Russia was expelled, and Moscow's fees amounted to 11 per cent. of the income. Too bad, but we still contend the League smells better after the expulsion.

SHUCKS!

(By A.H.R.)

¶ I wish I was a handy man, who worked according to a plan, and knew just what to do; I'd like to fix up this and that, when it has gone both wrong and flat, and make it run like new.

¶ Wee Angus got a dandy train, likewise a red-winged bombing plane, and both of them would run; he was so tickled pink with them, he joined with other little men, to have a heap of fun.

¶ But when the train no longer run, I saw where something must be done, perhaps a broken spring; I'd have to take the thing apart, and find out just the place to start, and then I'd fix the thing.

¶ Screw driver and a monkey wrench, I got them from the cellar bench, I have a hammer too; the thing looked fairly simple then, I'd put the wheels all back again, and then it would be through.

¶ I worked as careful as could be, made little heaps called one, two, three, I found out what was wrong; I was progressing fairly good, and getting on like how I should, the job would not take long.

¶ I fitted wheels and put on springs, and tightened up a lot of things, my workmanship was smooth; but when Wee Angus took the train, the fact became alarming plain—it wouldn't budge or move.

Canadian Seeks To Have Truth Told In Japan

JAPANESE news agencies and newspapers, as well as their spokesmen, have given erroneous versions or details of a recent incident at Yaolow, near Suchow, where two Canadian Jesuit missionaries were wounded by a Japanese sentinel.

The following letter addressed to the director of the "Journal De Shanghai" by the Rev. Father Leo-Paul Bourassa, S.J., travelling companion of the wounded, establishes the truth of the facts:—

"My dear Sir,

"The Imperial Japanese army clings to its reputation. We cling to ours also, and I to mine, equally as well. Since we are spoken of rather unbecomingly and since the entire official Nipponese press, by its spokesmen, takes part in it and gives an interpretation of the affair absolutely false, I count on you and on the newspapers of Shanghai and the agencies to rectify the facts.

"Here are the facts (and permit me to point out point out that the inquiry made on the spot by the Japanese authorities, in my presence, and very courteously, confirms them. When you receive this letter, there will already have been a retraction in the newspapers, they assure us).

"On the 26th of October, 1939, with two companions I left Matsing, situated to the west of Suchow, for Suchow. Three times on the way (and we were accustomed to it) Japanese soldiers ordered us to stop. We did so willingly, as always, and as always also, after having stated that we were missionaries, the Japanese soldiers, spologizing very politely and even with friendliness, asked us to continue. One group even insisted that we should enjoy a cigarette with them first. Now at about 18 kilometres from Suchow there is the village of Yaolow. At 1.30 p.m., solar time, was passed Yaolow rather swiftly, for the three of us are cyclists of repute in the mission. We saw no soldier; we heard no shout. Suddenly a shot resounded. We immediately jumped from our bicycles. One of our number collapsed on the road; then came a second shot....My other companion and I threw ourselves in the ditch, thinking it was a bandit attack. We saw at a distance Japanese soldiers running towards us. I went immediately towards them after having ascertained that Brother Gauvin was wounded in the stomach and Brother Fontaine in the shoulder.

"Making use of the little Japanese I knew, I told them we were missionaries, that my two friends were wounded. The soldiers were stupified. Then they became very devoted in dressing the wounded, using their first aid material and mine. It was rather cold. They took off their cloaks and sweaters to cover my companions, and, carrying them into their barracks, they lighted fires and telephoned to Siaohsien, to which place their post was attached, and to Suchow. Soon a truck arrived with two doctors and orderlies; then a little later another truck and an ambulance with other doctors. From there the wounded were transported to the military hospital at Suchow, where the doctors and nurses were admirable in their devotedness.

"The next day there was an inquiry made by the headquarters and by the military police. I was invited and treated very cordially and with honor. The day following, with the collaboration of the Japanese authorities, there was a second inquiry, this time by the Rev. Father Courchesne, the Superior of the mission.

"It appears that the soldiers were occupied at cutting trees. It is said that they shouted at us to stop. I do not know about that, but I know perfectly that we did not hear anything. It is said that we wore Chinese clothes. The fact is true, but at such a distance that could not be seen so easily. Besides, that is the ordinary garment of a Catholic Missionary. Moreover, two of our number wore the large white, colonial hat that our missionaries continually wear.

"When we heard the first shot, we were between 340 and 400 metres away; the Japanese inquiry revealed that.

"Hence, you see now what must be thought of the following affirmations which I take from the different papers:

(a) That after having been stopped by the sentinels we tried to flee and that they only shot at a distance of 300 metres. (Peking Chronicle, October 31).

(b) That it was late in the afternoon. (North China Daily News, Oct. 31).

(c) That we had fled in spite of the shouts of the sentinel (Major Nishihara).

(d) That we had very well heard the sentinel, that we even turned towards him and had fled. (Major Nishihara).

(e) That, my two companions being wounded, I continued to flee. (Major Nishihara.) (I thank you for the compliment, Major, but that is neither a Catholic nor a French-Canadian custom.)

(f) That the sentinels succeeded in catching up to me. (Major Nishihara.)—(I was on a bicycle; these booted sentinels are truly champion runners! There is a nice subject for you, Mister Sapajou. And why wasn't there a third shot?)

(g) That we had been placed under arrest. (Make inquiries at the police-station.)

"Many thanks and best wishes

• When Dr. Brown Goes To Ottawa

OTTAWA.—If Rev. W. G. Brown, member-elect for Saskatoon, has to take his seat in the House of Commons next month without being formally presented to Mr. Speaker, he will be creating no precedent, although the reason will be a new one.

Traditionally a new member entering the house, at any time other than the constitution of a new house after a general election, is formally presented to the speaker by his party leader and another prominent colleague.

Mr. Brown, candidate of the new United Reform Party in Saskatchewan, will have no party leader and no colleagues in the house unless he forms an alliance with one of the existing groups.

But he need not feel badly about it. Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, clerk of the House of Commons and recognized authority on parliamentary procedure, declared there is nothing in the British North America Act or any statute requiring a new member to be so introduced.

This point was threshed out in the '70s when Hon. Alexander Mackenzie was prime minister, leading a Liberal government, Sir John A. Macdonald headed the Conservative opposition, and Hon. Timothy Anglin, father of the famous actress, Margaret Anglin, was speaker.

In 1875, during the parliamentary recess, 21 new members were returned in by-elections. For some reason they were not presented to the speaker as had been the custom since confederation, and the tradition in the British House since 1688.

One member inadvertently took his seat without having taken the oath or signed the roll, and he voted as a member. Next year Mr. Speaker recalled this event and ruled that new members should be presented to the Speaker with the customary announcement that he had been duly elected, had signed the roll and taken his oath.

Two years later Mr. Anglin inadvertently violated a house rule and resigned his seat. But his riding immediately re-elected him. When he returned for the 1878 session there was no speaker and Prime Minister Mackenzie moved that Mr. Anglin be elected.

Sir John protested that as Mr. Anglin had not been presented to the speaker he was not a member and so could not be elected Speaker.

Mr. Mackenzie retorted that Sir John himself and many others present had not been so presented. So long as a man had been duly elected, had signed the roll and take his oath there was no power could keep him from his rightful place in the House. Mr. Anglin was elected Speaker and resumed his duties in the chair.

So Mr. Brown is in good company. All he will be required to do is present his credentials, sign the roll, take the oath and seat himself in the house when parliament opens Jan. 25.

• Are These Gift Books Ever Read ?

LONG AGO I solved the problem of the Christmas gift, and I pass along my solution in case it may save you hours of unhappy toil. I give books. To all my circle of most intimate friends I give books and each of them gives me a book in return. It is all so simple and easy.

I never read the books my friends give me. They never read the books I give them. Every time I go into their houses I see a long row of nice shiny books, with pages uncut, with jackets still on them, unread. Whenever they come to my house they see the same thing. By a fixed convention between us, we never mention that fact. We never discuss books lest it lead to embarrassing questions. We all know that we never read the books given to us.

The reason, of course, is that we can never guess the taste of another in books. The most intelligent friend I have always gives me the most incredible books. I never read them by any chance whatever. Oh, I have tried. In the early days, when I didn't know him so well, I felt obligated by an old-fashioned courtesy, rare in these times, to attempt to read the first chapter so that I could make some attempt at discussing the book with the giver. But I soon abandoned that. The thing became too onerous, when I had half a dozen books of the same sort and had a liking to live as well.

In the early days I used to ask my friends how they liked my books and they used to put up a pretence at answering my question. They, too, had read the titles and maybe the preface. But we soon gave that up. It was too embarrassing. Now, by tacit agreement we give each other the books that we ourselves enjoy, without thought of each other's taste. I, for instance, am a Thomas Wolfe fan. I have given all his books to all my friends. None of them has ever read a chapter, I have a friend who is a fervent reader of Aldous Huxley and I haven't absorbed a comma of the fellow.

In the end it will work out all right. Each of us is willing to the other his collection of books so that some day I shall get back my Thomas Wolfe and my friend will get back his Huxley, but if we died about the same time it is going to be a little difficult. Anyway, my advice is to give books to your friends. They are a permanent gift. They will be treasured, undamaged, untouched through the years if they are anything more formidable than detective stories. —Bruce Hutchison in the Victoria Times.

• Should Keep the Mouth Closed

THERE ARE a great many people in the United States who are constantly declaring their determination to keep out of the war, and there are a small number of people in the United Kingdom who express the hope that the United States will get into it. Among the latter we note The Spectator, which says British opinion is "shocked" at the statement of Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, on his return home for Christmas vacation, that America must keep out of the war. The Spectator says Mr. Kennedy sufficiently knows British anxieties and ordeals to realize the potential necessities, and there are enough isolationists in the United tates without him adding to the number.

We have reason to believe that the British Government and the vast majority of the British peope do not want the United States as a participant in the war. They believe the Allies can handle Germany themselves. Moreover, if the United States entered the war, a large part of the supplies now going to the Allies would have to be diverted to the American forces.

In any event, what else could Ambassador Kennedy say but what is in accord with the reiterated policy of the President? If Mr. Kennedy disagreed with the President, and with Congress, he would simply have to say so and resign. It is a certainty his sympathies are with Great Britain and France; that, as Mr. Roosevelt hinted in his first broadcast after war was declared, Americans must be neutral in act if not neutral in thought, but if he is for getting into the war, then he could not hold his job as ambassador representing the policy of his country.

If there should come a time when the American people feel they would have to get into this war, which time will be if they see the Allies losing and their own security and interests are endangered, they will do so as they did before. But the more some Britishers talk about it now, the more suspicious and resentful will they be. Those Britishers who feel the United States should join the Allies will best serve their country by keeping their mouths shut.

The most abhorred word in the United States today is "propaganda." —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

HITLER HAVOC

EVERYTHING suggests that, unlike 1914's Der Tag, when all was methodically ready down to the last button and incendiary squad, Germany was plunged into this war without a plan. Such is the havoc a brief and crazy Nazi regime has played with Teutonic thoroughness.

We now know, from a Japanese M.P. who was taking an Axis tribute to Hitler from a Tokyo society, that so late as September 1 last Hitler believed he could pull off the Polish coup as safely and successfully as the Czech affair. When the Japanese M.P. left Bremen for Stockholm on September 1, Hitler wrote urging him to return, and stating positively that there would be "no war."

Here, then, is reliable testimony that, when he attacked Poland, Hitler literally put his brown shirt assurance that neither France nor Britain would fight over Poland. This fatal miscalculation amply explains all the strange characteristics of this 1939 addendum to the 1914 Der Tag. Germany is in the position of having to improvise a plan of campaign after the bottom has fallen right out of Hitler's diplomatic inspiration.—London Cor. Ottawa Journal.

CHIVALRY ON SUBWAY

WILMA HERVEY of New York is six-feet-two and weighs 275 pounds. Her magnitude has prompted the city's Advertising Club to draft her for a Santa Claus role at a Christmas party.

In an interview, Miss Hervey remarked that mashers never bother her and "men friends never get fresh —not without thinking twice." The most interesting feature of the conversation was Miss Hervey's revelation that "only the other day three men got up and gave me their seats in the subway."

We like to think of this as a sign of chivalry's refusal to die. A few of knighthood's flowers still bloom on New York subway trains, where courtesy is infinitely more rare than precious stones. Sacrifice of a seat to a lady definitely is not modish any more. Riders of the I. R. C. right here in Buffalo will verify that observation. The coincident proffering of three seats, as in Miss Hervey's case, seems almost incredible.

That warm glow we have on the chivalry angle, however, becomes a trifle chilled by one inescapable doubt. It may be that Miss Hervey looked at the trio just a bit contemptuously, and gallantry sprung into action only because the men were scared to death.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

To The Editor

ORGAN OR PIANO

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Not knowing how the audacity of this letter will strike you, I am therefore taking the bull by the horns, as it were, so here goes.

I would like to obtain an organ or a piano—a used one of course. Reason? I have seven children who are all musically inclined, and no wanting to retard them in their musical ambitions, but due to circumstances, am unable to provide them with musical instruments.

We were until a little over two years ago natives of Peterborough, but due to house shortage there, were moved by the Peterborough relief officials to our present abode, and we still are relief recipients of Peterborough. As far as I can see, I believe that I and mine have been well treated by the Peterborough Relief Board.

Now, would it be possible through your columns to appeal to any person's generosity re an old organ or a piano for which they have no further use, and would like to give it to a family who would greatly appreciate and make full and proper use of it in a home where music is enjoyed? Education retarded is knowledge and happiness lost. Having been a kid myself, I certainly know what it is to have lost the fullfillments of an education wanted, and ambitions retarded, like thousands more. Hoping this last method to which I have resorted will bring some results.

CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA

Conditions in Russia are such that many sympathizers with the Soviet cause, after visiting Russia, have returned saddened and hocked at the conditions they have found there. Not only do the nearly two hundred millions of Russians live in absolute poverty, except for the leaders, but they are in continual fear of being denounced to the Ogpu to be tortured and liquidated by that savage force of secret police. That happens if they dare to voice even the slightest criticism of any of the edicts of Joe Stalin.—Niagara Falls Review.

U.S. Bars Protest Of Captured Nazi Freighter

COLAN, Panama, Dec. 26.— Despite a German diplomatic protest, the British prize crew in control of a captive German freighter today was guaranteed clearance from Cristobal for a British port.

The protest, by Consul Walter Schmidt, "has not been entertained," said Major General David Stone, canal zone commander, and the freighter, the 4,930-ton Duesseldorf, was "free to proceed to sea."

The Duesseldorf was captured on December 15 off the Chilean coast by the British cruiser Despatch two days after putting out from Valparaiso.

With her Swastika fluttering underneath a British naval ensign and with British seamen pacing her decks with fixed bayonets, the Duesseldorf completed her transit of the canal in late afternoon yesterday and at 7:30 p.m., e.s.t., was granted clearance for Jamaica.

Dispute Starts.

While the gray-painted freighter was moving across the isthmus the diplomatic dispute arose. General Stone said the difficulty revolved about the demand of a passenger, Has Van Appen, former agent at Panama City for the German steamship line, Hapag-Lloyd, for hospital treatment.

Van Appen demanded that he be taken to Santo Tomas hospital which is in the Republic of Panama —this after he had been taken to Gogras hospital in the canal zone where physicians said he was in critical condition from some unspecified illness and required an emergency operation.

General Stone said Von Appen refused to undergo the operation at the Canal zone hospital.

"I know it was a subterfuge, but it was a question of humanity," General Stone said. "The man was dangerously ill, and did not want to undergo the operation in our hospital. I could not force the operation, so he was released to go to the Panama hospital."

Just how the demand for hospital care was linked with the German protest against clearance—if it was —remained unclear and so did the General's reference to "subterfuge." Requests for fuller official comment were referred to the State Department at Washington.

In Cristobal Harbar.

The Duesseldorf lay in the Cristobal Harbor while General Stone conferred last night with the British Minister to Panama. Hours after the effective time of her clearance she was still at anchor.

The ship was still nominally under the command of Captain J Peterson, her regular skipper, but he was receiving his orders from Lieutenant-Commander J. B. Herabath, one of the three British officers and 20 men placed aboard as a prize crew by the despatch.

The freighter's crew consisted of nine officers and 24 men. There also were a few passengers, in addition to Von Appen. These included one woman.

Holding It Down

Pittsburg, Dec. 26 (AP)

EARL BURKE lifts his left foot from the ground when he hits a golf ball, and is never quite sure where it will go. Hap Slater decided something should be done to remedy the situation, so for a Christmas present he gave Burke a left shoe of the correct size—but made of concrete. It weighs 50 pounds. Now all Burke has to do is figure out how to carry it around.

Church Concert Proves Treat At Trent River

TRENT RIVER, Dec. 26.—(ENS). A large attendance favored the annual concert of the year Thursday night at the United church, put on by Sunday school pupils, assisted by a number from Old Havelock school.

Rev. A. McLauchlin was chairman for the program as follows: Opening chorus, 'O Chiming Bells' by school; reading, Laurence Wight; recitations by Bobby Glenn, Eleanor Lean, Glenna Brown; reading, Goldie Glenn; recitations, Eleanor Brown, Gordon Carnrite, Doreen Free, Helen Hay, Craig Brownsell, Margaret Doupe, James Umphrey; reading, Roy Glenn; piano solo, Goldie Glenn; chorus, 'O Wondrous Story'; piano solo, Craig Brownsell; a patriotic number by a number of pupils from Old Havelock school under the direction of Miss Gena McNeely, each pupil carrying a Union Jack, concluding the number by singing 'Never Let the Old Flag Fall," after which Rev. A. McLauchlin requested the audience to stand facing the large Union Jack and singing the National Anthem; chorus, 'Do You Hear the Angels Singing?' playette, 'Striking For Higher Wages' in two cast, under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Brown. Those taking part were Vaughan Brown, as Mrs. Brown; Kenny Chaplin (Farmer Brown); Laura Dunn, Jim Brown, Jack Brown, members of the family; George Brown (a visitor), Clifford Dunn (doctor), Margaret Brown (nurse), Clara Chaplin, housekeeper with her three children, Laurena Wight, Elaine Brownsell and Craig Brownsell; piano solo, "Holiday on Beach' James Umphrey; play, 'Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs' by pupils of the Sunday school; piano solo, 'Minuet in D minor' by Irene Wood; vocal solo, 'Santa Claus is Speeding,' Jeryne Brown; A Christmas exercise, 'Gift of the Stars' by pupils of Old Havelock school, concluding their number with singing 'Star of the East'; chorus, 'This is Christ the King'; chorus, Peace.'

A hearty vote of appreciation was tendered Miss Gena McNeely, teacher of Old Havelock school, for bringing her pupils to assist on the program. Also to all those who took part.

During the closing Christmas chorus and jingle bells, Santa arrived to distribute the gifts from the tree. Miss Ethel Shearer played the piano accompaniment for Trent River numbers, while Miss B. G. French supplied piano accompaniment for Old Havelock school. Each child received a bag of home-made candy. The door receipts were $22.50.

During the evening Rev. A. McLauchlin gave a message of remembrance and good wishes for the audience from a former resident, Mr. Frank Brewer of Toronto.

Smith And Lakevale Hold Jolly Evening

FOWLER'S CORNERS, Dec. 26.—(ENS) — The annual combined Christmas concert of S.S. No. 2, Smith and Lakevale Sunday School was held in Lakevale church on Tuesday evening. There was a good attendance of parents and friends, despite the treacherous condition of the roads and this was a source of satisfaction to Miss Ruth Hunter and her pupils of S.S. No. 2, who worked so tirelessly to prepare the program.

Rev. J. M. Young was the chairman for the following numbers: chorus by school; welcome remarks by chairman; guitar selections, Miss Laura McManus; play, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs"; recitations, Joyce Westlake, Isobel Moncrieff, Ross Wetherup; dialogue, Arnold Kidd, Barrie Deyell, Cameron Clark; recitations, Reta Chicetti and Ronald Wetherup; vocal solos, Miss Mary Robson, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Ira Robson; dialogue by school children, "The 5:15"; recitation, Jessie Moncrieff; vocal solo, Miss Mary Robson; Duck Drill. A vote of thanks to Miss Hunter and her pupils, also the Lakevale Sunday School was moved by Milton Clark of the school Board; vocal solo, Wilma Darling; dialogue, "Burglars and Ghosts", members of Sunday school; guitar selections, Laura McManus; dialogue "A Backward Child", Fern McAdam and Kay Tully; recitation, Marjorie Millen; dialogue "Uncle Joe's Cold", Sunday School members. K. A. Murray, superintendent of the Sunday School spoke a few words of thanks to the gathering.

Miss Dorothy Darling was the efficient pianist for the program numbers. At the conclusion of the program Santa Claus distributed the gifts and candy to the children. The National Anthem concluded a pleasant entertainment.

Scenes As Nazi Sailors Abandoned Scuttled German Luxury Liner

Lifford Enjoys Joint Concert

LIFFORD LINE, Dec. 26.—On Wednesday evening, the Lifford Line community hall presented a gay scene when an excellent Christmas entertainment was staged. This year the usual annual concert was augmented by numbers arranged by the Lifford Sunday School and the net proceeds were divided equally between the Public School and Sunday School treasuries. The capable teacher, Miss L. Harper of Toronto, received hearty congratulations on the splendid program put on by her pupils.

The opening number was the singing of' 'O Canada"; recitation, Ronnie Williams; songs by senior pupils; chairman's address, Lawrence Staples; selections by Robert Sisson and Ben Page on piano and cornet respectively; recitation by Barbara Preston; short humorous play entitled "Malvina Entertains," with following cast, Ruth Medland, Macie Lang, Maurice and Glen Whiteside, Vern Mulligan, Charlie Bloxan and Stewart Staples; songs by juniors; drill in costume by five girls and five boys entitled "Where Are You Going My Pretty Maid?"; monologue, Lewis Staple; piano solo, Stewart Staples; play, "Madam Camillia's Beauty Parlors," by several pupils; recitation, Glen Whiteside; song by four little girls, Florence and Ruby White, Ruth Medland and Barbara Preston; short play, "The Spirit of Christmas."

Santa Claus then arrived by motor and distributed a generous supply of gifts to all from a very beautifully decorated tree. Home-made candy provided by the ladies was passed and "God Save the King" concluded a most enjoyable evening for young and old.

Centreton School Has Jolly Concert

CENTRETON, Dec. 26—(ENS)— Several of the parents and friends attended the entertainment put on by the public school pupils on Tuesday afternoon.

The program was as follows: choruses "Silent Night, Holy Night", followed by Christmas story; "Jolly Old Santa Claus", "There's A Song In the Air", "Christmas Secrets", "Christmas Is For All", "I Would Be A Christmas Star" and "Christmas Time" by the boys; recitations by Carol MacGregor, Donnie Curtis, Edgar Walton, Beverly Jackson, Vernon MacGregor, Donald Richardson, Algar Walton, Audrey Prettie, Gordon Birney; dialogues, "Snow Birds", "The Wisemen", "That Dog Goes", "Four Little Bells", "Getting Even With Sister's Beau"; solo, Bruce Curtis; reading, Etta Newton.

Rev. D. M. Smith was the chairman and spoke a few words of welcome. Rev. T. A. Nind, Grafton was also present. All the boys and girls received gifts off the well-laden tree.

Shoe Exchange

Halle, Germany, Dec. 26 (AP)

THE Local Shoemakers' Guild, with consent of the Lord Mayor, has formalized the business of hand-me-downs in footwear.

An exchange for children's shoes where parents can trade outgrown shoes for worn but not worn-out larger sizes has been set up to avert waste of precious leather and to sidestep the red tape of rationing on new shoes.

Large Attendance Hears Concert

KEENE, Dec. 26. — A large crowd gathered at the Mathers Corners Hall to see an enjoyable Christmas concert, the hall was gaily decorated.

A young member of the school master, Bobbie Nelson in an able manner acted as chairman. A welcome by Marie Adamson, followed by tap-dancing by three girls after which the senior room rendered two choruses: "Silent Night" and "Holy Night," and "Deck the Hall with Boughs of Holy"; recitations entitled, "My Pants," and "The Thresher," given by Jackie McIntyre and "Santa Couldn't be Fooled" by Marion Mather, a dialogue, "Eating a la Mode"; a duet, "Once in Royal David's City" by Jean and Dora Drummond; "To the Little Brown House" recited by Marion Howson; a skit, "A Terrible Catastrophe" followed by two recitations "Trimming the Christmas Tree" by Johnnie Dixon and "It's the Flu" by Earl Howson; drill, "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers"; dialogue, "Boy's Rights"; recitation, "Being a Boy" by Jimmie Drummond; 'Your The Only Star in My Blue Heaven" and "Little Sir Echo," sang by Jean Drummond with guitar accompaniment; a dialogue, the 5.15, junior choruses: "Merrily Merrily Over the Snow," "Up on the House Top," and "Have you Seen the Little Ducks; "Charge of the Christmas Shoppers" by Mabel Sexsmith; piand solo, Dora Drummond, dialogue, "A Mock Wedding"; a monalogue, "Enjoying the Telephone" by Olive Mather; dialogue, 'Harry's Pockets"; a conundrum by Vince Doris; a dialogue "Saying Good-bye" a recitation, 'Good-night" by Mary McFarlane; senior chorus: "First Noel" and "Who? Santa Claus."

Santa Claus arrived and distributed gifts from the Christmas tree. These pupils were ably directed by their teacher, Mr. J. Dunsford.

Mrs. Herbert McFarlane, and Miss Jean Drummond played the accompaniment.

Down-And-Outer's Plea Answered

PITTSBURG, Dec. 26—(AP). — A down-and-out young man abandoned his announced plan to "end my worthless life in some spectacular way" and enjoyed a bountiful Christmas with his wife and baby boy.

Describing himself as a "disappointed American," the distraught father wrote the Sun-Telegraph that he would resort to suicide at midnight Christmas eve to attract attention to the plight of the unemployed.

Published pleas of two ministers, however, "made me realize what a foolish thing I had planned," said the man of less than 30 years old. He accepted Rev. Bernard Clausen's offer to help and was employed at $35 a week.

"What drove me wild," the youth said, "was that I couldn't get enough money ta buy the medicine which had been making my sick wife well. I had to sit and watch her getting worse. I thought if I put myself out of the picture she would be taken care of—she and the baby.

Santa Pays Visit To Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Dec. 23—(ENS).— Children from the entire countryside were in the village Wednesday evening for the arrival of Santa Claus, who came, riding in state on a red truck, about 8.30 p.m., the parade being headed by the Citizens' Band, under the leadership of Lieutenant W. H. Peryer. Pierot and Pierette (Ruth Richards and Mary Sanderson) danced gaily ahead of the band, while accompanying St. Nicholas on the big truck were a bevy of girls dressed as the Snow Queen and other seasonable characters.

Children by the score followed in the wake of "Santa's chariot," and a number of cars completed the procession. Through the courtesy of two former Millbrook boys, Ted Larmer and Lawrence Ingram, a big pail of candy was donated for scattering through the throng of happy young folk as the parade came slowly through the downtown section of King street, Archie Johnson having this pleasant task in hand. Afterward the pail was auctioned off for $1.50 to Councillor R. A. Ford, the proceedings going to the local branch of the Red Cross.

The two donors mentioned also gave a box of chocolates to the youngest child present, the baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Sanderson winning this gift, and another to the band, which gave a fanfare on their instruments when they heard Santa's announcement of their "prize."

St. Nicholas was warmly welcomed by Reeve W. E. Ball, and the band played Christmas carols while over four hundred bags of candy were distributed to the children, the girls on the truck assisting with this popular feature, also Reeve Ball and Santa Claus himself.

Centreton Pupils Put On Fine Show

CENTRETON, Dec. 26. (ENS)— The United Sunday school held their annual interesting entertainment on Wednesday night.

The following program was given with the Rev. D. M. Smith as chairman: Christmas story; choruses, Hale Merry Christmas Time; boys' chorus, Merry Christmas; recitations, Donnie Curtis, George Peebles and Gordon Birney; solo, Bruce Curtis; piano solos, Gerald Rogers and Clara Coffey; dialogues, Centreton school; drills, Little Bells, Lavigne Ivatt, Betty Prettie and Carol MacGregor; Half Dozen Snow Birds by small boys; Christmas pennant drill, eight girls; Pleasant Visitors by pupils of Mrs. Johnson McKenzie; two-act play, "Getting Even with Grandpa"; two comic quartettes, "Room 202" and "The Blushing Bride", Mill Valley boys.

Santa Claus then gave the presents off the tree. Rev. Mr. D. M. Smith was the chairman. Hearty thanks was given to all by the superintendent, Mrs. S. McBride. The proceeds of the evening were about $22.00.

Through In 1943

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 — (AP). —Senator George Norris said today that he would never seek public office again when his present term expires in 1943.

The Independent Senator from Nebraska, after 37 years in the United States Congress, said in an interview that "my work is done."

Norris has had one of the most colorful careers in Congress, and has been the target of vituperation as well as high honors and wide commendation.

Christmas Concert Given At Springville

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 26 (ENS)—A splendid program was provided by the pupils of S.S. No. 3, North Monaghan for the Sunday School concert and Christmas tree, held in the church on Thursday evening. Rev. J. F. Everson occupied the chair. The program was as follows: Christmas Welcome, Stewart Shaw; recitation, Hazel McIntosh; chorus, "Christmas Lullaby", School; Christmas story, Stewart Shaw and Ronald Davis; Piano duet, Marylin Bowles and Eleanor Bowles; dialogue "The Little Stranger", Margaret McNeill, Eleanor Bowles, Delbert Davis; violin solo, Lester Davis; Star drill, Audrey Kelk, Hazel McIntosh, Marylin Bowles, Ila Dunford, Eleanor Bowles and Edna Davis; Hunter's Song, School; solo, Irma Shaw; recitation, Doreen Bowles; song, "Three Fishes", Ila Dunford, Marylin Bowles and Eleanor Bowles; Rhythm Band, Lester Davis, (leader), Jack Preston, Billie Windrim, Floyd Davis, Billie Dunford, Carlisle Murray, Ronald Davis, Munroe Sheppard, Delbert Davis, Howard Shaw, Bruce Davies; dialogue, "Making A Cake", Carlisle Murray, Billie Dunford, Bruce Davis; chorus, "Santa Claus Express", School; song, Margaret McNeill, Billie Windrim; Minuet, "Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree", Patricia Staples, Roberta Harrison, Carlisle Murray, Ronald David; dialogue "Christmas Strike", Marylin Bowles, Ila Dunford, Hazel McIntosh, Audrey Kelk, Howard Shaw, Munroe Sheppard; trio, Patricia Staples, Ronald Davis, Lester Davis; play, "Donation Party", Jack Preston, Patricia Staples, Roberta Harrison, Marie Sheppard, Floyd Davis, Lester Davis, Myrtle Davis; "Good Bye", Audrey Kelk, Eleanor Bowles, Hazel McIntosh, Marylin Bowles, Ila Dunford, Edna Davis; chorus, (audience singing also) "Silent Night".

M. H. Johnston, superintendent spoke briefly in appreciation of the work the children and Miss Wilson, their teacher, had done. Miss Wilson, in her reply spoke of the splendid work which Mr. Unitt was doing with music in the school. Santa arrived and distributed a heavily laden pack.

SUBSIDIZE M.P. MEALS

LONDON—(CP).—With an expested peacetime profit turned into a wartime loss of about $445 weekly, the Chancellor of the Exchequer announced a government subsidy to the House of Commons Kitchen Committee.

Christmas Toll In U.S. Takes 593

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 —(AP)— This year's three-day Christmas holiday brought death to at least 593 persons in accidents and other forms of sudden death with automobile traffic taking 397 lives.

Lasty ear 508 persons died in various kinds of accidents and as the result of violence in a similar three-day period. Illinois led the list this year with 60 dead—29 of them in traffic, 10 by trains, eight by suicide, seven by violence of one kind or another and seven from other causes.

Chicago reported more than 1,400 traffic accidents over the week-end and five states reported deaths by freezing or exposure.

DIES AT AGE OF 98 YEARS.

ALMONTE—(CP).—John Farrell, 98, oldest resident of Almonte and widely known in the lumbering business for more than 50 years, died at his home last night. Three sons and one daughter survive.

Ontario Holiday Mishaps Cost 13 Lives

(By The Canadian Press.)

Thirteen persons died accidentally in Ontario during the Christmas holiday week-end, extending from Saturday to Monday. Seven resulted from automobile accidents. Falls, fire and hunting accidents accounted for the others.

Andrew Dixon, 24, died in hospital at Sudbury of burns received when fire destroyed his two-room dwelling. He threw his two small children from a window in a snow pile and then dived after them. The children will recover.

Mrs. Lenora Palmer, 54, Cedar Springs, died at St. Thomas after an automobile in which she was riding along with seven other persons to a Christmas celebration, collided with another automobile. The others escaped with minor injuries.

Also travelling to a Yuletide family gathering in Windsor, Gordon Price, 30, Belle River, 18 miles east of Windsor, was killed when the car he was riding it left the highway. Two daughters escaped with cuts.

Alvin Clark, 24, Harrington, was killed near Embro when he stumbed and his shotgun expoded while he was hunting rabbits. Pearl Marshall, 13, Dereham township, near Tillsonburg, died after falling head first down a hay chute to a barn basement.

Grafton Girl Killed.

Gwen Royal, 19, Grafton, was killed when struck by a freight train as she was walking to church. Alfred Plante, 59, Ottawa, was killed when struck by a street car in the capital. David Graham, Ottawa, died after a fall in his home.

Eight-year-old Theodore Lachance, North Bay, was killed when a sleigh on which she was riding was struck by an automobile. Mrs. Anna Parker, middle-aged domestic, was killed when struck by an automobile as she walked along the roadway near Etobicoke, suburban Toronto. George Brant, 67, an Indian, was killed in a similar accident near Belleville.

Lloyd Brown, 20, suffered fatal injuries when his automobile went into a ditch near Port Perry. In East York township, suburban Toronto, Joseph Lewis, 71, was killed by an automobile while he walked along the road pulling a coaster wagon.

"Sleeping City" On Western Front

Evacuated in the first week of the European war, the French border city of Strasbourg presents a strange sight today. No sign of life is to be seen on its streets. It is as if the poison breath of war had killed or drugged every living thing. This is the French town nearest the international border.

French Infantrymen In Action On Western Front

selves worthy of the great traditions of their service."

Finns Battle On

There was no respite for the embattled Finns, a half-dozen of whose cities were bombarded by Soviet Russian fliers. Finnish troops had ham for dinner in their frigid outposts.

Russia had no Christmas, but those Russians who still profess Christianity will observe the January 7 Christmas of the Greek Orthodox church.

Where the rival Maginot and Siegfried lines lie athwart Western Europe, there was a tacit Christmas peace, harried only by the movement of one German patrol, which the French said they repulsed.

French soldiers received from the government a cigar and an extra quarter-bottle of wine for Christmas cheer. There were Christmas plays and song-fests in the barracks.

Premier Daladier, in a Christmas message, said, "We will give blow for blow in return for any violence coming from Germany."

Adolf Hitler paid a Christmas eve visit to German soldiers near Saarbrucken. Colonel - General Walther Von Brauchitsch, German commander, told the troops, "Only when we have won will we be able to speak again of peace at Christmas time."

Tufts of snow, clinging to pine branches and to patches of frozen earth, lent a greeting-card appearance to the bristling, fortified landscape.

From Dublin, Prime Minister Eamon De Valera broadcast an appeal that a settlement of the war "be sought now in good will rather than wait until exhaustion has forced the requisite dispositions for peace."

Irish Prisoners Riot

In Northern Ireland about 60 prisoners in the Londonderry jail locked their keepers in cells and rioted for five hours before being subdued. Suspected of membership in the outlawed Irish Republican army, they burned their bedding smashed furniture and shouted republican slogans to crowds in the street.

In the Holy Land, long the scene of violence between Jew and Arab, there was quiet, but the pealing bells of Bethlehem were not broadcast as in former years. Soldiers mingled with the thousands of pilgrims who visited the church of Christ's Nativity or other places of worship.

Pope Pius, who assailed war in a pre-Christmas peace proposal, celebrated two masses in his private chapel. Then spent the day quietly in his apartment, listening to Christmas music.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King celebrated the day quietly at his Ottawa residence. Because of the war much of the customary Christmas observance at the capital was omitted. Throughout the Dominon churches were filled. In Quebec, thousands attended Christmas mass.

The Dionne quintuplets in Callander, Ont., had a gay Christmas, highlighted by their attempts to use ice skates presented by Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe.

United States celebrations were typified by that of President Roosevelt, who had a "family Christmas," and attended church.

Christmas Mail Delivered All On Schedule

Of Peterborough's Christmas mail all that remained undelivered at the Post Office this morning was a tray of three hundred letters that were held up by the defect of incorrect address. Most of them lacked street numbers, and the staff simply hadn't time during the holiday rush to go into the detail of trying to locate the persons for whom they were posted.

Postmaster Lacheur told the Examiner today that the volume of letters and parcels seemed larger than in the lush years that reached a climax in 1929.

Cleared Out Christmas

"With the co-operation of the people of the city and immediate district in mailing their parcels and letters early we were able to handle the extremely heavy business, and clear out everything with the one p.m. delivery on Christmas Day," Mr. Lacheur said. "That assistance was a great aid, and it is deeply appreciated .We had also the advantage of a twenty-four hour service from the staff of the Customs Office that enabled us to clear parcels without delay, and our own postal staff, including our city and rural letter carriers, gave the very best of service. The result of all this help was that the post office wound up its work by noon Monday."

The city letter carriers turned out for work Sunday afternoon, sorting out heaps of mail in the order of the street numbers of their separate routes ,and finally getting through a huge job that seemed almost impossible when they started at it.

Rural mail was larger than usual this year, but the last of it was not sent out for delivery until this morning, the country carriers throughout the province having a rest on the holiday.

Mr. Lacheur said the public's preparation of parcels reflected a great deal of good taste, but a few exceptions were noticed especially in the extreme instances of goods wrapped in tissue paper arriving in Peterborough for delivery, and requiring the attention of members of the staff to wrap them in stout paper and re-address them.

Quite a number of letters arrived by air mail from Western Canada. One of them, for example, was from the Rev. Warren Turner, mailed from Regina on Saturday, and delivered to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Turner, on Monday.

Omemee Returns 1939 Council

Omemee completed its municipal set up for 1940 without recourse to voting. The council was re-elected by acclamation: Reeve John Bent and Councillors William Burgess, Floyd Parsons, Ralph James and William Stephenson, Jr.

For the School Board William Brown and Walter Thurston are new members replacing Dr. Earle and Robert Williamson.

Cecil Jones was elected by acclamation Hydro-Commissioner for two years taking the place of Sidney Vaughan.

Waiting Up For Santa—

She thought she'd catch Santa sliding down the chimney and so she gathered her babies about her and got comfortable in a big chair beside the Christmas tree, just as thousands of other youngsters have done before her. And, like thousands, she was caught by the sandman before Santa arrived on his joyous errand. She is Sylvia Anne Peterson, aged 2 years 9 months, daughter of the Examiner's photographer. Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up By Examiner Reporters

THE POLICE THANKS

The Peterborough police department fared well this Christmas in the matter of gift cigars, cigarettes and chocolates and the police wish to extend their thanks to the many citizens who remembered them in their Yuletide gift-giving.

IN BAD SHAPE

Word from Nicholls Hospital is that George Alloway, who was struck and knocked down by an automobile in front of the fire hall Saturday night is in serious condition, as a result of his injuries and the development of pneumonia.

SLEEPING LATE

Reeve Gordon Scriver of Lakefield told The Examiner this morning the villagers were taking their time about getting around. Business was generally disposed to take an extra holiday, and the municipal office was closed for the day.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES.

Christmas Eve services in the Roman Catholic churches of the city and St. John's Anglican Church were largely attended. Their bells rang over the city in the quiet just before the midnight hour, the chimes of St. John's including the "Come All Ye Faithful" in its call to worship.

CAR, TRUCK COLLIDE

The radiator and fan of a car belonging to Gordon Simpson, 383 Aylmer street, were damaged Sunday evening when the machine ran into the rear of a truck driven by Henry Mann, 55 St. James' street at Driscoll Terrace and Hunter street east.

HIGHWAY IS SLIPPERY.

The highway to Apsley, all the way north from Lakefield, presents an icy hazard for the motorist since the recent cold dip. Sand has been placed at some of the corners to aid the drivers. Most of the side roads north of the city, too, are decidedly slippery at present.

HAS CLOSE CALL

Byron Crawford, Bowmanville, had a narrow escape from injury Sunday when his car went into the ditch off the Fife's Bay Road after clicking with a passing automobile. Crawford had just left the Lindsay highway when the accident happened. His car struck a tree by the side of the road and then went into the ditch, damaging two fenders and tearing a tire. The driver was unhurt.

GIVEN PRESENTATION

Walter Dark, conductor of Peterborough Brass Band was on Sunday morning presented with a cabinet radio by members of the organization. Frank Smith, secretary, made the presentation on behalf of the twenty-five members of the band and spoke in appreciative terms of Mr. Dark's efforts since the band was organized little more than a year ago. In accepting the gift, Mr. Dark referred to the loyalty and co-operation he had received from each individual, and looked forward to a year of further success and progress.

CHRISTMAS IN CELLS

Nine homeless wanderers, one of whom gave a city address, applied at the police station for lodging Christmas Eve and saw the dawn of Christmas morning from the far-from-homelike surroundings of the police court cells. They had no other place to go on Christmas Eve.

A CHRISTMAS STAR

A large glittering star of silver and red lights is mounted on a high framework on top of Claude Rogers' home on McFarlane avenue and is one of the most unusual and effective Christmas decorations in the city. It is clearly visible from the west end of the city and McFarlane avenue is near the eastern boundary.

COUNCIL MEETING

The notice of T. J. Carley's motion for an injunction against the city's Hillrust Wine Company by-law is one of the subjects to be discussed by the council at a special meeting tonight. Another is the "ear-marking" of money for the purchase of a new pumper for the fire department.

VICTIMS HAD GONE

Two men walking across Water street at the intersection of Park Hill Road Saturday afternoon were struck by an automobile and one of them was reported hurt. However both victims had disappeared when Acting Chief Constable J. F. Reid appeared on the scene to investigate the accident, and the officer was unable to learn their identity.

ONE LUCKY MAN

There is one lucky man in town. He is the individual who left his unlocked car parked for some hours on a local street, thinking it had been towed away to a service station. Inside were a number of Christmas parcels and three valuable pump guns, but in spite of the fact that these articles were at the mercy of sneak thieves for hours none of the contents had been interfered with when Police Constable McGillen had the car removed.

CUT THE TREE—CUT THE PRICE

A Christmas tree merchant got the worst of a deal with a west end housewife last week. He offered a tree for 40 cents which when placed in the living room was too high. The merchant immediately sawed three feet off the bottom of the tree and it fitted perfectly. "How much for the tree now," asked the prospective buyer. "Forty cents, of course," replied the salesman. Why, you cut the tree why not the price was the lady's comeback. The man explained that the part he had lopped off was of no further use to him and the tree was still worth forty cents, but his customer was adamant and there was no sale, so the angry salesman had to cart the tree and the three foot trimming away to some one else.

DIES SUDDENLY.

Homeward bound after a pleasant Christmas visit with relatives of his wife at Havelock, Russell Douglas Post, 38, Rochester, N.Y., died suddenly at Jordan last night. While in the act of removing a flat tire from his car on the Queen Elizabeth Way, Post apparently collapsed from exertion.

BEN WILSON ILL.

Ben Wilson of Toronto, founder and superintendent of the Benny Wilson Mission on Parliament Street, is critically ill in the East Toronto General Hospital. A note from Mrs. Wilson contained the information that his operation was one of the first of its kind known to doctors. She asked for the prayers of friends.

PASSENGER SHAKEN UP

Clair Conroy, 14, was shaken up Saturday evening when a car driven by James Conroy, 498 Sherbrooke street, met in collision with another vehicle driven by James Wheeler, 207 Simcoe street. Conroy, according to the police report, was driving east on Simcoe street, west of George street, when a car pulled out from the south qurb. Conroy swerved to miss hitting this vehicle and his car and that of Wheeler, who was driving west, came into collision. Both vehicles were damaged.

CARS BADLY DAMAGED

Considerable damage was done to two automobiles which collided at the intersection of Hunter and Downie streets Christmas morning. Jack Crerar, 297 Pearl avenue, was driving a car owned by his father, R. L. Crerar, same address, north on Downie street and at the intersection of Hunter street met in collision with a car being driven east on Hunter street, by Neil McKenzie, Mather Arms Hotel, Fort Erie, Ont. The damage to Crerar's car is estimated at $110, and the other vehicle also suffered from the impact.

Mistletoe Bough Has Lost Its Sanction To Romance

The obsolescence of the permissive sprig of mistletoe was a mid-Victorian musing along main street this morning inspired by a girl's report of a grand Christmas presumably somewhere in the townships west of the city. Of course, it was an idle thought, but main street was so idle and almost deserted that you might have heard the ticking of the market clock. The city offices were closed, stores were dark, and in several banks the only sign of action was suggested by the fact that someone had changed the calendar date to December 26.

Pictures of old English manor homes arrayed for Christmas left the impression that down at Dingley Dell some persons discreetly remembered the appending of a branch of mistletoe from the candled chandelier in the big hall. It may have been the squire's daughter herself who hung it with pleasant expectations in that day when reticence laid a kindly hand on manners, and romance hadn't sunk to the common level indicated by the generality of necking in motor cars along the main street curb. But, other times and other mores; the mistletoe and its symbolism have been discarded with the Victorian graces, except probably as decorative sprigs of greenery to be stuck here and there in the Christmas scene, but never even thought of as a pendant to the electric hall light in this day of vestigial home life.

Romance goes its modern way in changing custom without benefit of mistletoe.

Fresh Air And Hard Work Secret Of Long Life Robert Graham Says

(By RALPH ALLEN).

Grizzled, wiry Robert Graham, entered his 100th year Monday with the same articulate enthusiasm for life he expressed on Christmas Day, 1840, when he entered his first aboard a pitching windjammer halfway between Ireland and Canada.

"How do I feel?" he roared with unfeigned gusto at the Argyle street house where he lives with his 77-year-old wife and two of their eleven children.

"How do I feel? I feel swell. Just had a big hooker of gin. Why shouldn't I feel good."

The dark-eyed, erect old man who did hard physical labor in a lumber yard until his retirement at 83, makes few concessions to the years, and makes those groudgingly. He still reads his morning paper without the help of spectacles, still runs a lean and steady hand through a bushy crop of grey hair, still eats anything that's put in front of him with the teeth nature provided. He's a little hard of hearing, but he has the sharp mentality of a man of 60. He stokes the furnace and empties the ashes, often rising at 4 or 5 a.m. to throw on another supply of coal.

Stopped Smoking.

He's never turned down a drink that he felt like taking. Until five months ago he smoked a ten-cent package of tobacco a day and chewed a copious amount of "blackstrap" tobacco.

"I'd have been smoking yet, too," he snorted, "except I ran out of money and tobacco at the same time one day. I asked the cigar-store man down the street to let me have a package of makin's on time. He gave it to me all right, but just as I was walking out the door, he said, "You know, if I couldn't pay for my tobacco on the line I'd quit smoking.' So I threw the tobacco in his face and said, 'By gosh, brother, you're right' I haven't had a smoke since."

There's only one secret of long life in his book.

Believes in Fresh Air.

"Fresh air and hard work. I worked in the lumber business up Peterborough and Madoc way for more than forty years," the old man cruckled. "In those logging camps a man had the outdoors in his lungs from dawn to dark, and he could sleep till the bedbugs ate him alive. If I've had a health rule outside of that it's been to drink a glass of cold water first thing every morning."

At Mr. Graham's birhtday-Christmas party all but one of his six living sons and four daughters and most of his sixteen grandchildren joined in the felicitations.

Mr. Graham told the kids their generation was a far better one than his.

"Look at that little girl there"—he waved toward a granddaughter not yet in her teens. "She knows more already than Charles there knew when he was eighteen," pointing an accusing finger at son Charles H. Graham, an aldermanic candidate in Ward 5. "Kids nowadays are smarter and the reason they're smarter is because they're cuter. I try to keep up to them, but it's quite a chore."

Laurier Jumped Wages

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was Canada's greatest statesman, Mr. Graham is positive. "Two weeks after he was first elected logging wages jumped from 80 cents a day to $1.67 a day," he explains in case ther's any disposition to argue.

Hon. George Howard Ferguson heads his all-time list of Ontario Premiers. "Look what he did with old age pensions and returned men," he challenged.

"Now that Hepburn! He's doing one of two things every hour of the day—getting into trouble or getting out of it. See that little cat there and that little dog? If they started a fight this minute, Hepburn'd be down to straighten it out just as sure as I'm sitting here.

The Rambling REPORTERS

CAR IS STOLEN.

When Frank B. Kennedy of the Beacon-Herald of Stratford started out to spend Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Kennedy of Peterborough, he had a car. When he arrived in this city he had not, because his car was stolen when he stopped for a short time in Toronto on the way through. He completed the trip by train.

Mr. Kennedy is a reporter and press photographer, and in his car were his camera, his grip, and several Christmas gifts. Police in Toronto were notified and an officer came to secure particulars, and as he did so offered the information that this was the fifteenth car reported stolen that day—Saturday.

744 Calls Placed Christmas Day

The cheerful 'Merry Christmas' greetings of 744 citizens sped over wire trails to all parts of the continent during the week-end. The number of long distance telephone greetings which were originated here during Yuletide topped previous marks, according to traffic tabuations by the Bell Telephone Company.

The total of 744 calls filed on Christmas Day for out-of-town points was 244 calls higher than the December daily average of 500 and an increase of 33 calls over Christmas Day a year ago when 711 connections were made. The peak hour was between 12 to 1, when out-of-town calls numbered 79.

The longest journey travelled by greetings from here was over a voice highway established between Peterborough and Santa Monica, California. Another connection involving widely-separated places was between Peterborough and Palm Beach, Florida. Other calls were placed to Calgary, Alberta and Columbia, Indiana.

Car In Collision With Bancroft Bus

Mrs. Annie Farthing, Bancroft, wife of the driver received a cut lip and two other passengers were shaken up when the Bancroft-Peterborough bus, bound for Peterborough, met in collision Christmas morning with a north bound Michigan car, four miles north of Apsley. The American automobile was driven by Rev. T. E. Serson who was unhurt as was Arnott Farthing, the driver of the bus.

The two vehicles met almost head-on on the top of a knoll at a narrow point in the road which was icy at the scene of the accident. Neither the bus nor the car was badly damaged by the impact.

EXETER, England—(CP).—Three soldiers walking back to their quarters at night on the Great Western Railway line were struck from behind by a locomotive and instantly killed.

Ten Prisoners In The County Jail Are Given Full Course Christmas Dinner With Turkey

Affairs at the county jail resumed their quiet and restricted pace this morning after a pleasant splurge on Christmas Day.

The ten prisoners, overtaken in the prison cells by the holiday sat down to a dinner that lacked none of the trditional embellishment serected around a well cooked turkey and winding up with plum pudding. In fact the group under Governor T. J. Johnston's supervision had everything from soup to nuts, and this morning a detail of them was back at work making snow fence in a county shed at the rear of the big stone building.

Probably the meal was charged to the county, most of it at any rate, with its pudding a gift from Sheriff John A. Harstone, and nuts and candies from the Salvation Army.

This morning's chore was going along in an amiable atmosphere of the afterglow of yesterday's grand dinner. Ted Chalmers, county engineer, bought 130,000 pine laths that is being steadily converted into snow fence, and a lot of the product is sold to townships. One of the men tending the machine this morning was holding forth on the general subject of the British navy, with particulars about some of the units with which he apparently had some service connection.

A box stove was throwing off a considerable heat, and altogether it seemed to be quite a pleasant spot, even if it was an industrial annex to the jail.

Two Minor Accidents

Although the Christmas week-end traffic was fairly heavy, and the road conditions were not of the best in some places Traffic Officers McClure and Broughton report an almost complete lack of accidents.

Officer Broughton had one minor mishap on his beat when a car slipped off the road but was undamaged and that was the only accident on provincial highways in this section.

Both officers patrolled their beats systematically over the week-end and kept a close check on drivers.

Drops Out Of Field

Alderman James Juby, who is not seeking re-election to the City Council. Alderman Juby has suffered ill-health during his last term and feels that he is not able to carry on the duties placed on an alderman and also look after his business.

Daniel McMillen Dies 91st Year

Daniel McMillen died Christmas Day at the House of Providence here in his 91st year.

Son of the late Samuel McMillen and the former Jane Slaven, both of Irish descent, he was born in Dummer township and had lived in Peterborough district during his entire lifetime.

Mr. McMillen was a farmer in his earlier working life, but followed the stonemason's craft for several years until his retirement. A man of remarkable vigor he was endowed with all his faculties right up to the end, and as recently as last week he was out and about. Walking was one of his favorite pastimes.

A devout Catholic, Mr. McMillen attended Immaculate Conception Church and was a member of the Holy Name Society. Before going to the House of Providence less than a month ago, he lived at 128 James Street. He was twice married, his second wife surviving. Other surviving relatives include nephews: J. Nelson, Peterborough and Thomas McMillen, Hastings.

The funeral is to be held from Lane and Eano's parlors on Wednesday to the Church of Immaculate Conception for celebration of Requiem Mass at nine oclock a.m. Interment at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Two Drunks Appear Before Magistrate

Two individuals who had been celebrating Christmas not wisely but too well faced intoxication charges before Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning.

One of them was a Curve Lake Indian who had been picked up by the police Saturday. He was not ready to plead this morning he told the magistrate.

"Do you want to wait until next year to plead?" asked the Magistrate, adding that next week would be next year.

"I think it would be better if you were tethered to the reservation for about six months," he remarked to the accused before adjourning his case until Tuesday of next week.

The other occupant of the dock was a transient who told the court that he had been sailing on the great lakes and had been on his way home from Toronto to Cornwall. He'd get out of town immediately if allowed to go, he said, after pleading to the charge.

This is not the direct route from Toronto to Cornwall," Magistrate Gee reminded him.

The accused said that he had come to Peterborough with friends.

"They did not take very good care of you," said the magistrate.

"They were in as bad a shape as I was," replied the transient.

Magistrate Gee imposed a fine of $10 and costs, with the alternative seven days in jail to date from Saturday last. "You'll be out in time to get to Cornwall for the New Year," he told the accused.

They report that the motorists must have heeded the warnings in regard to mixing gasoline and alcohol for they came across no cases of drunken driving.

Miners of Bolivia cannot produce enough tin ore to supply the present demand.

Fractured Hip In Fall On Cellar Steps

Suffering a fractured right hip when he well down cellar steps at his Charlotte street residence, Hugh R. Murray 73, retired merchant, lay helpless and alone for ten hours before being discovered by neighbours over the week-end.

To-day the physician who is attending him at Nicholls hospital told The Examiner, "Mr. Murray's condition has improved. He stood the ordeal remarkably for a man of his age."

Mr. Murray, who has lived alone at 518 Charlotte street since the death of his wife two years ago, was about to descend the cellar steps to check his furnace at ten o'clock Saturday night, when he slipped and fell.

Next morning shortly after eight o'clock, neighbours noticed lights on at his home and decided to investigate.

Mrs. Bert McLeod, next door neighbour and William R. Parker tried the front door and heard a slight moan. Going around to the rear of the house, they were directed by the injured man to get a ladder and climb in through an upper window. "I'm in the cellar and can't move," Mr. Murray shouted in a firm voice.

Mrs. McLeod said, "He was really bright when we reached him, and he told us that several times through the night he had tried to reach the bottom of the steps to drag himself to the upper floor. But he could not move because of the intense pain. He was cold and his only complaint was that it had been a very long night," she said.

Two Pedestrians Are Injured

Two pedestrians were injured in two different traffic accidents on city streets on Saturday night.

Crossing Aylmer street in front of the Fire Hall, George Alloway, 294 Stewart street, 64 years old, was struck and knocked down by an automobile driven by Norma White, 584 Charlotte street. The accident happened shortly after 8 o'clock. The injured man was taken into the Fire Hall and then by ambulance to Nicholls Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from crushed ribs and shock.

Morris O'Leary, Indian River, was the second victim. He was walking across Charlotte street in front of the public rest room when an automobile being driven east along Charlotte street by John A. Woodburn, 15 Hickory street, Ottawa, struck him and hurled him to the pavement. O'Leary was taken to the police station, and later to the office of Dr. Bob Young, where medical examination revealed no broken bones but showed that O'Leary was bruised along the right side from the shoulder down.

SIMPSON AVENUE GRADS DEFEAT ALL-STAR SQUAD BY 61 TO 43

Arsenal Holds Its Record With 3-0 Win

LONDON, Dec. 26—(CP Cable)—Only unbeaten team in the United Kingdom, Arsenal retained its record with a 3-0 victory over Clapton Orient in a Christmas Day match at London. The Gunners, leaders of the South "A" Group for London and district clubs, now has a seven-point lead over Norwich City and Crystal Palace, tied in second position.

Norwich and Crystal Palace, playing away from home, suffered losses, Norwich bowing 4-1 to West Ham and Crystal Palace losing 5-1 at Watford.

Bournemouth and Reading retained leading positions in South "B" group. Bournemouth defeated Brighton 3-1 at Brighton and Reading, performing at home, downed Aldershot 7-2. Swindon Town took advantage of an open date by Plymouth Argyle to break a two-team leadership tie in the Southwestern group. Swindon edged out a 4-3 decision over Bristol Rovers.

Two games were played in the Northeastern League, but did not affect leadership. Halifax lost 3-2 to Bradford and York City defeated Hartelpools United 2-1.

Glasgow Rangers won the Glasgow soccer cup final with a 3-1 victory over Queen's Park at Glasgow yesterday. Celtic held the title last year, defeating Queen's Park 3-0.

Armstrong Fights Jan. 4

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 26—(AP)—Henry Armstrong will defend his world's welterweight title in a 15-round championship bout with Joe Ghnouly here January 4, Promoter Tom Packs has announced.

Next Louis Foe

All the way from Chile to fight Joe Louis is the rather forboding outlook facing Arturo Godoy, ABOVE, the South American fighter who was rated a third or fourth grade mitt-slinger the last time he fought in North America, before returning home to enjoy his ring earnings, only to be recalled after a couple of years of retirement by Promoter Mike Jacobs to face Joe Louis, the opponent-less champion, in February.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

. . Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

And now that that's over, we can get settled down—after we settle up—forget Christmas and think of hockey. First, we must inject a pessimistic note into the old pillar. It sounds like the Ontario Government plans at its January session to restore the old amusement tax. This method of raising dough was used in the last war and was good for $2,000,000 a year. Since the liquor sales have fallen off—and maybe sports-minded gents could do something about that!—the Government is on the prowl to plaster some sort of tax on the public to raise coin needed in war time. Nor can one kick too much. But we trust they nick the big sports (such as pro hockey, senior football, etc.) and don't cut too deeply into the little amateur games. Goodness knows, it's tough enough now to make ends meet in many minor sports, without the games being taxed.

* * * * * *

This war tax is liable to hit all sports, recreational exhibitions and amusements—including theatres. In some cases, the clubs will absorb the loss, for instance charging fans 47c instead of half a slug; but in other cases, the customers will be called upon to dig a bit deeper in the jeans ere grumbling their way through the turnstile. We were young and tender during the last war, so can't recall how much of a hardship this amusement tax turned out to be. If any. But it will give sports bodies something to think about and right during the present puck season, too. Oh, how we hate you, Hitler!

Grid Chatter Again

It is reported that Montreal Royals and Toronto Argos of the Big Four are both in the market for 1940 football coaches. Ted Reeve quit his piloting job with the Royals at the end of the past season, and 'tis said Lew Hayman won't back as Argos' coach. One mediocre season, after leading his club to the Dominion title in 1938, seems to have soured the powers that be on the Argo club. Anyway, it's possible that Ted Reeve will coach Argos, while some say a Hamilton man may head the Royals. It won't be long now till there is another hue and cry for a Big Six, with a couple of the senior O.R.F.U. teams—including Peterborough—cut off, if possible. It's an annual outburst.

* * * * * *

Just before the O.H.A. season opens here, we'd like to remind hockey officials that fans like to see games started on time. When a tilt is listed for 8.30 p.m., that doesn't mean 8.50 or so. A few late starts and the cash customers lose faith in these ads and pin the blame right on the squad—even if bad roads, a late referee, or some such, is the real cause of the delay! It causes hard feelings (and no one likes to stand around on a chilly night in the rink for more than half an hour waiting for the game to commence). It might even result in less revenue at the gate. So it's up to clubs—regardless of the conditions—to see that home games start on time. And they should be sure to leave early enough to start the tussle on time in other towns, too. No foolin', paid fans like and deserve punctuality.

Hockey Season Opens

O.H.A. intermediate "A" season will open here Friday e'en at eight in the Brock St. arena, Belleville Redmen tangling with the Petes. The boys of Bella Villa have been playing for the past month or so in the Van Horne Cup series—being in loop semi-finals now—and should be in good shape. They're trying hard to get permission to use Hastie and Gow from down Kingston way and, if they put the snatch on this pair, the Thomas team will be plenty potent. Otherwise, they'll have a fair squad but one which will have to hustle like all getout to cop a nod o'er the locals. Or so we think. The Buckland bunch have been drilling for at least a month on Oshawa ice and look pretty fair to this corner. But we'll see Friday night.

* * * * * *

It would be funnier than somewhat if puck managers followed Conny Smythe's stunt and advertised their own teams in the other fellow's town. In paid advertisements, at that! For instance, Pilot Ed Thomas of the Bella Villa band would come up to Peter's borough the morn of a game—like this Friday when Belleville plays the Petes here—and dash over to The Examiner. "I want to run a big ad on tonight's game," he'd say, regardless of the expense. After all, it cost Conny of Toronto $63 to run an ad in the Boston sheet. Naturally, we folks in this office would gladly oblige Mister Eddie Thomas, asking no never-mind why he pays for a Petes' ad.

* * * * * *

Petes Wouldn't Be Mad

"Put something like this in," he might dictate, "but change it around to make decent grammar: You hockey fans of Peterborough should come out tonight and see a real puck squad in action, one that is a crowd-pleaser every minute of every game, whether at home or on the road. Our boys don't stall when they get a goal ahead like certain other teams right around this section of the country, but they give the customers a real run for their money." Then, he'd tell us to run a thumb-nail sketch, at so much a thumb—no, we mean at so much an inch—on each of the Belleville players, and etc. and etc. With him footing the bill. And do ya think Coach Frank Buckland and Manager Bill Jackson—or the rest of the local ossifers—would be mad at such an ad, with the rink packed to the roof? If ya do, you're screwier than a barrel of pretzels, mes amis!

* * * * * *

Comes a letter from Walter Dinesen, who is in Kirkland Lake now. He is playing hockey in a six-team Industrial League on Sunday afternoons before 600 to 700 fans. It is much like the old local Blood and Thunder Loop, says Walter—who used to be secretary and player in that circuit. But the hockey is a bit better up north, if just as rough. Dinesen thinks the Lakeshore squad—which trimmed Baltimore 10-2 early in season—is Allan Cup timber. Hockey has been played up around Kirkland Lake since the first of November. Walter wishes us to extend a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year for him to his friends here.

Wins Wool Blanket

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 26.—(ENS).—Prize winners of the draw held to raise funds for the Midget and Bantam hockey teams were announced at Davidson's Arena on Saturday evening. Mayor-elect F. F. Long drew the tickets and announced that Charles Montgomery had won the first prize, a pure wool blanket; W. H. Ashton was awarded the walnut end table as second prize and third prize a table lamp went to Herb Leonard. The proceeds will be used to buy equipment and promote hockey among the Public and Separate school boys this winter.

Remember When—

The smallest gathering of hockey fans in Boston in a decade watched Toronto Maple Leafs play a 2-2 draw with the Bruins six years ago today. Less than 3,000 Bruin supporters turned out for the Boxing Day contest.

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

ART CHAPMAN
N.Y. Americans

By Central Press Canadian

One of the many misfortunes suffered by Red Dutton's New York Americans in the N.H.L. this season was the loss of Art Chapman, after only five games had been played. Appendix trouble was the cause and Arthur is currently recuperating. This fine play-making centre, one of the reasons for the effective scoring of Sweeney Schriner in his days with the Amerks, and Lorne Carr over the past few seasons, was born in Winnipeg 33 years ago and is now one of the National league's 10-year men. He made his bow with Boston Bruins in 1930-31 and joined Americans during the 1934-35 season. Played his first hockey in Winnipeg, later moving to Port Arthur, where he was a member of the Allan Cup championship team of 1926. First pro teams were Providence and Springfield in the old Canadian-American league before he moved up to the Bruins. His best season for goals was 1931-32, when he got 11, and for both points and assists, his first season with the Amerks, when he was credited with 34 assists, to which he added nine goals for a point total of 43. Life-time totals are 58 goals, 170 assists, 138 minutes in penalties. Captain of the team and Dutton's chief lieutenant.

Charley Refuses To Quit Game It's In Blood

Writing in the New York World Telegram, Jim Burchard says:

Every time Conacher steps on the ice he's rubbing elbows with the Grim Reaper. He has only one kidney, and he fully realizes that a severe injury to the other will mean his finish. Doctors have told him to hang up his skates, and his friends have added their plea. But big Charlie continues to trade body checks with the toughest lads in the league, and he doesn't even bother to wear a special pad over his other remaining kidney.

Right away a lot of cash-minded enthusiasts figure Charlie is broke and is risking his health to bolster his bank account. But this isn't the truth. Conacher is in here pitching because he loves hockey.

"Maybe I'm a bit of a fatalist," he explains, "but this games is in my blood, and I'd just as soon be out of all competition if I can't play it. Anyway, I figure the law of averages ought to be on my side by this time. I've had so many injuries, year after year, that perhaps I'm finally in the clear."

The well wishers who tell him he's taking too many chances to remain in hockey don't make much of an impression on Charlie.

"No doubt they mean well," he grins, "but it was funny that nobody asked me to quit when I was the leading goal scorer of the league."

Conacher is 30 years old and has been in the pro business eleven years. Ironically, he lost his kidney as the result of an injury in the amateurs. At the start of the 1927-28 campaign, as a member of the junior Toronto Marlboros, he was tripped by a defenseman and slid into a goal post with a terrific impact.

"I was able to finish that season," he recalls. "I joined the Maple Leafs for the last twelve games. But my injured kidney was swollen four times its natural size. I knew something was seriously wrong one day when I was playing golf with Billy Burch, and I went in to see Dr. Rush.

"He examined me and turned white as a sheet. In nothing flat I was in a hospital. I refused to stay, but a week later they really collared me and I went under the ether. So now I'm minus one kidney. Well, it's my risk, and I still feel like playing hockey. So long as Red Dutton likes my work everything is swell."

Charlie isn't the first hockey player to brave the stick-handling wars with one kidney. Shorty Green, one of the original Amerks back in '25, had the same experience. In fact, Shorty was given the late rites, but he pulled through and came back for more punishment. To-day he's running a gents' furnishing shop in Sudbury, Ontario.

Blake's Record Greatest Feat Of Athletic Year

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Dec. 26.—(CP)—Hector (Toe) Blake, the hockey speedball, was right up at the head of the clas stoday with Melvin (Fritz) Hanson, the swift footballer.

Sports writers on daily newspapers across Canada, who named Winnipeg's Hanson the No. 1 performer in Canadian sports this year, voted that Blake had performed the greatest individual achievement of 1939 by winning the National League scoring championship with the sixth-place Montreal Canadiens.

Scarcely a prominent athlete in the country was missed in the voting, but Blake was named on twice as many ballots as anyone else. He topped the scoring records almost throughout the 1938-39 schedule, though the Canadiens ran last until near the finish.

Hockey players ran first and second in the poll. The second greatest individual achievement, the writers declared, was Billy Taylor's feat in jumping from Oshawa's Dominion junior hockey champions to Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League at the age of 20. Taylor already has shown that he will stick.

Black In Third Place

Ken Black of Vancouver drew third place with winning the Canadian amateur golf championship at Montreal over a strong international field.

Hanson got two votes, one for his all-around work all season and another for his running against Ottawa in the National final.

Among others mentioned were:

Mary Rose Thacker of Winnipeg, for winning the Canadian and North American figure skating titles at the age of 16.

Marjorie Delaney of Quebec, for taking the women's Dominion badminton championship.

Koe Krol of the University of Western Ontario football team, for a five-minute stretch of running, passing and kicking against McGill that provided a highlight of the fall.

Any Bieber of the Winnipeg football champions, for running back to salvage a fumble by Hanson against Ottawa that might have made Hanson the goat of the game.

Syl Apps of Toronto Maple Leafs, for play that started a controversy over whether he is the greatest hockey player of all time.

Billy Marquart, Winnipeg lightweight, fors pringing into prominence in United States boxing circles.

Back To a Hat

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Edward Cassidy, 23, finally saw his father wear a hat. Cassidy, a policeman, had his picture taken with a hat on 27 years ago. Displeased, he turned to caps. His children revolted. They gave him a hat for Christmas and delegated Edward to put it on his father's head. He did.

Baseball's Team Of Mac and Mac

At the left is baseball's grand old man, Connie Mack, leader of Philadelphia Athletics since they entered the American League nearly 40 years ago, and still going strong. Connie recently announced that he had no intention of retiring, celebrated his 77th birthday and predicted fine things for his lowly Athletics next summer. With him here is his son Earle, following the tradition of his father, who, according to present reports, will succeed the latter as field boss of the A's some time in the future.

Speed And Balance Is Answer Of Success Of Canadiens

There are two reasons being assigned for the tremendous improvement in the early stages of this season's National Hockey League race, shown by Montreal Canadians.

One is the accent on speed, as stressed by Coach Pit Lepine, himself a star when Canadiens' name was synonymous with speed, when the team was paced by Morenz the Meteor, and went roaring along to one title after another. Canadiens of to-day are already being compared favorably with the Flying Frenchmen of the Morenz era, as a result of their startling improvement over the team of last season, which lost its first seven games, whereas this year's flying club was unbeaten in it first four.

And a secondary aid has been the presence of a reliable right wing, to team up with Paul Haynes, and high-scoring Toe Blake. Canadiens have for years been weak on right wing, strong on left. On the latter sector now they have the battling Blake, leading scorer of the National League last season; Louis Trudel, rated one of the fastest skaters on a fast team; George Mantha, another speedster of high velocity, and blond Ray Getliffe. But in right wing strength, they were lacking, so Herbie Cain, also a left winger, was traded to Boston Bruins for Sands, and that made a huge difference to the French club.

It lent balance to the strong forward line, added scoring and playmaking punch, so that Canadiens' first-string line is now better-balanced than it has been in years. With the all-French line of Drouin-Trudel-Lorrain fairly flying, and a sound line of Barry or Mantha, Getliffe and Robinson to reinforce the other two, Lepine seems to have built up a team with plenty of resource.

Sands is playing in his third National League uniform, as he wears Canadien livery. Toronto Leafs and Bruins were his previous ports of call. Toronto scouts uncovered Sands at Fort William, Ont., and brought him to Toronto at the end of the 1932 season. Although he did not get into any games the next season, Charlie had the keen satisfaction of watching the Leafs go through to win the Stanley Cup. Then he was sent to Syracuse where he played under Mickey Roach, and the following year was returned to the Maple Leafs.

His two goals in the fourth game of the Bruins-Toronto Marathon play-off series of 1933 were the edge by which Toronto beat Boston and evened up the series. Bruins figured out he was too dangerous to be left at large and bought him. He played there until the present season, when traded to Canadiens. Sands is the plugging type of puck chaser who is blessed with an abundance of fortitude and at his best under pressure. He packs a heavy shot.

Toronto Cagers Cop A Win Over The Locals

Maintaining a decisive edge almost from the starting whistle, Simpson Avenue Grads of Toronto's Senior City set-up, scored a 61-43 victory over a local All-Star team in a well played exhibition basketball game, Saturday night, at the Y. M. C. A.

A fair crowd saw a clever exhibition of ball-handling and play-making by the Toronto team that gradually wore down the locals' stubborn defense. For most of the first half, the All-Stars stayed even with the visitors and led mid-way in the opening period 15-14, but from that point on the Grads forged ahead. They led 31-21 at the half and lengthened their lead by 8 points in the last period 30-22. Despite several brief local rallies that momentarily shortened the winners lead, the Grads stayed 10 to 15 points ahead mots of the way.

Bill Devitt topped the Toronto team's attack in the first period dropping 14 points, and then adding a field goal in the last period to total 16, with 'Shag' Park making 7 in the first half and 11 in the final to lead with 18.

Jimmie Thornburn and Pete McArthur of last year's champion St. Paul's team led the locals with 18 and 14 respectively. The teams:

Simpson Avenue Grads:— Devitt, Maxwell, Fountain, Edwards, Park, Anderson, Bundy.

All-Stars:—Marsh, Gillespie, McArthur, Patterson, McIntyre, Ascott, Sedgewick, Craig, McPherson, Ward, Thorburn.

Referee:—Dr. Worton, Peterboro.

Eleven Horses Disqualified In Free-For-All

TORONTO, Dec. 26— Eleven disqualifications, ten of them in the free-for-all pace, marred the harness racing program at Dufferin Park on Christmas Day.

After four disqualifications in the first two heats of this event, the judges disqualified the entire field of six horses in the third and final heat and all money wagered on the heat was refunded.

Bert Patch, Mart Harkaway and All Grattan were ruled out by the judges in the first heat of the free-for-all for beating the McNamara barrier. Victor Lee won the heat but the next time out, he was disqualified for the same infringement. Bert Patch won the second heat.

Tension of the drivers was so high in the third heat they apparently couldn't do anything right— and the judges finally wound up by disqualifying the entire set of competitors.

The other disqualification during the afternoon came in the first heat of the fifth race—with Baron Grattan the victim.

As a result, only nine heats were raced, leaving nine to be completed this afternoon. There will be a free gate.

Walter Grattan and Laurel Watts won the two heats raced in the half-mile pace, the latter winning in 1:04½.

Lee Oliver a converted pacer, won the only heat contested in the Class E event for trotters in 2:19.

First Race (only one heat raced)—1, Lee Oliver; 2, Lee Bennett; 3, The Guy; 4, Phalia; 5, Princess Lee; 6, Ormonde Mack; 7, Peter Past; 8, Win Aubrey. Time, 2:19.

Second Race (only one heat raced)—1, Peter Phillips; 2, Jody Signal; 3, Pine Ridge Lady; 4, Rex Grattan; 5, Ray Peters; 6, Rosabelle Lee; 7, Widow Grattan; 8, Queen Elizabeth; 9, Top Hat. Time, 2:21¼.

Third Race (only two heats raced)—Victor Lee 1 (disqualified); Bert Patch 1 (disqualified); Tom Grattan 2-4; June Grattan 3-3; Mart Harkaway (disqualified); 5, All Grattan (disqualified) 2. Times, 2.10¼, 2:10½.

Fourth Race (only two heats raced), (half mile).—Walter Grattan 1-3; Laurel Watts, 3-1; John Lean 2-2; Peter Protector 4-5; Todd Britton, 5-4. Times, 1.07¼, 1:04½.

Fifth Race (only two heats raced)—Peter Bidwell 1-1; Archdale Grattan 2-2; Kathleen Grattan 3-4; Baron Grattan (disqualified) 3; Gracie Grattan 4-6; Bud Wenger 6-5; Tony Grattan 5-9; Lee Hanley 817; Berry Direct 7-8. Times, 2:12½, 2:13¾.

Sixth Race (only one heat raced)—1, Jane Harvester; 2, Miss Peter Grattan; 3, Bertha Lee; 4, Bruno Dewey; 5, Kay Harvester; 6, Jimmy Grattan. Time, 2:15½.

BOSTON BRUINS LEAD N.H.L. BY 4 POINTS OVER TORONTO LEAFS

Walters Leads Loop Hurlers In Earned Runs

In arranging the National League pitchers of 1939 in the order of their effectiveness, it was found expedient to classify them into three groups, the same arrangement that has been followed for the last twenty five years. The first group embraces those who bore the brunt of the campaign and pitched at least ten complete games; the second, those who participated to some extent in a minimum of ten games; the third, all others who took part in a championship contest.

The percentage of games won and lost is given, with notation of the relative position of each pitcher, this special record being supplied in order that a comparison may be made with the official earned run rating.

William H. Walters, Cincinnati, leads the pitchers in earned run percentage, with a mark of 2.29. Walters pitched most innings, 319; most complete games, 31; won most games 27; faced most batsmen, 1283; tied with Luke D. Hamlin, Brooklyn, and William C. Lee, Chicago and Hugh N. Mulcahy, Philadelphia, for allowing most sacrifice hits, 30.

Clyde M. Shoun, St. Louis, pitched in most games, 53, none of which were complete, establishing a new record that displaced the former mark made by Mace S. Brown, Pittsburgh, in 1938, with 51 games. Shoun finished most games, 25.

Robert H. Klinger, Pittsburgh, and Albert M. Butcher, Philadelphia Pittsburg, tied for most defeats, 17.

Paul Derringer, Cincinnati, had the highest won ad lost percentage .781, winning 25 and losing 7 games. He also allowed most hits, 321.

Louis W. Fette, Boston, pitched most shutouts, 6.

Hugh T. Casey, Brooklyn, and Hugh N. Mulcahy, Philadelphia, tied for hitting most batsmen, 11. Mulcahy made most wild pitches, 11; allowed most runs, 144, and most earned runs, 125.

Walter K. Higbe, Chicago-Philadelphia, gave most bases on balls, 123.

William H. Walters, Cincinnati, and Claude W. Passeau, Philadelphia-Pittsburg, tied for striking out most batsmen, 137.

William J. Hoffman, Philadelphia, tied the record for most batsmen hit in an inning by hitting three on August 13, against New York, fifth inning of the first game.

Joe Louis Is Selected Fighter Of Year

By SID FEDER
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 — (AP). — For the unprecedented feat of flattening four aspirants to this throne during 1939, Heavyweight King Joe Louis last night won the Ring magazine's annual award as "the fighter fo the year" for the fourth time in the last five years.

He won out by a narrow margin over Pittsburg Billy Conn, the light-heavyweight champion, with Tony Galento third in the balloting of 116 writers, other experts, contributors and staff men in the Ring's annual poll. Louis received 51 votes and Conn 45.

Along with "the Ring merit award" for Louis, the magazine announced its rankings for the year. The undisputed champions were placed alone in the No. 1 groups among the heavyweights (Louis), light-heavyweights (Conn) and welterweights (Henry Armstrong), Galento and Bob Pastor, both knockout victims of Louis this year, were ranked in that order in group two among the heavyweights. Tony got the call over Bob, the magazine explains, because he floored Louis in the third round of their bout last summer—which was picked by the Ring as "the round of the year."

Both claimants to the middleweight crown, Ceferina Garcia of Los Angeles, who is recognized by New York State and California, and Al Hostak of Seattle, the National Boxing Association's standard-bearer, made up group one among the 160-pounders.

The magazine listed two Canadians among the "best prospects" for the year. Maxie Berger, Montreal, among the welterweights, and Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, lightweights. Berger was ranked in group three of the welters; Marquart fifth in group three of the lightweights; Dave Castilloux, Montreal, fourth in group one of the featherweights, and Spider Armstrong, Toronto, twelfth in group two of the feathers.

Ambers Gets Call.

Lou Ambers won back the lightweight crown from Armstrong this year, for universal recognition as 135-pound boss, for which The Ring gave him No. 1 spot. Sammy Angott of Louisville and Pittsburg, and Davey Day, slim Chicago clouter, weer ranked behind him.

Joey Archibald of Providence, R.I., the generally recognized titlist, is No. 1 in a group of five leading the featherweights. Sixto Escobar, abdicated bantamweight titleholder, was still No. 1 in his class. The Ring pointed out he didn't vacate the throne until late in the year.

Among Ring magazine awards for the year were:

Classiest fighter—Billy Conn.

Most punishing fighter — Joe Louis.

Most active fighter—Tommy Spiegal, Pittsburg lightweight, who engaged in 26 fights.

Most promising fighter—Al Davis, Brooklyn welterweight.

Roughest fight — Tony Galento's knockout of Lou Nova.

Best all-round fighter in divisions under light-heavy—Ambers.

No. 1 disappointment — Lou Nova California heavyweight.

Games with minor league clubs are also included in the schedule.

Baseball Star Sells Footballs

Frank McCormick, one of baseball's younger stars, who hasn't missed a game at first base for Cincinnati Reds in two years, is seen at his winter occupation, selling sporting goods in a New York department store, the cameraman coming along when he was "de-advertising" the summer pastime by selling footballs. Tsk, tsk!

Johnny Mize Had Close Runner-up In Padgett For Batting Honors

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP)—As the kids used to say, and probably still say, "the third time is the charm" for Johnny Mize, St. Louis Cardinals' first baseman who finally won the National League batting championship this year after twice being runner-up.

But what nobody has said, and apparently nobody noticed until the official averages were announced today, was that teammate Don Padgett would have copped the title, if he had played in eight more games.

Mize batted a rollicking .349 in 153 of his team's 155 games and in addition, he topped the league in home runs with 28 and for the second year piled up the most total bases, 353.

But Padgett, playing in only 92 games slugged .399. If he had played in eight more games, he would have qualified for the batting crown, based on participation in 100 or more contests. He was one of the principal sparks in the Cardinals' near successful pennant drive. With such pace-setters, St. Louis had no trouble winning the club hitting honors with a .294 percentage, 16 points better than Cincinnati Reds.

It was nearly a one-two-three finish for the Redbird sluggers, because Joe Medwick was nosed out by Frank McCormick of the Reds by the margin of .3317 to .3316.

Rangers Defeat Maple Leafs 4-1 To Tie For Second Place While Bruins Humble Hawks 6-3

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Sports Writer.)

Art Ross can be polite about it and slip away by himself for a quite chuckle, or he can make faces turn red by giving vent to his mirth in public.

His Boston Bruins hold the top spot in the National Hockey League with a four-point edge over Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers, which would be enough to bring joy to any manager's heart. But to top it off, Milt Schmidt is doing a better than middling job of proving Ross a man with the ability to spot a great star.

A month of so ago the Bruins didn't occupy such a high place in the standing. It was around the time that Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings started such a controversy by calling Syl Apps of Toronto Maple Leafs the greatest hockey player he had ever seen.

That All-Star Team

It was no time at all before anyone who ever held a hockey stick named an all-time all-star team. Ross bobbed up with one on which he picked six centremen, and said in effect: "Take your choice boys, anyone of these centres will fit the bill." The pivots he chose were Frank Nighbor, Cyclone Taylor, Apps, Howie Morenz, Russell Bowie and Schmidt.

The naming of Schmidt caused the raising of quite a few eye-brows, which Ross lifted further by declaring that Schmidt is a faster skater than was the great Morenz and a "better hockey player right now than Morenz was in his prime."

The Bruins have travelled well up the ladder since that declaration by Ross and Schmidt has been the spark-plug, climbing high in the individual scoring statistics to now hold a spot with eight goals and nine assists only four points behind the leading Gordie Drillion of Maple Leafs.

Bruins Won Two.

Bruins climaxed the long Christmas week-end by walloping Chicago Black Hawks 6-3 last night, after defeating New York Americans 3-2 in the only Sunday night game. Rangers followed suit by thumping Chicago 7-1 Saturday and dropping the Leafs 4-1 last night. In other games the Leafs won 5-1 Saturday over Detroit Red Wings, who came back to defeat Montreal Canadiens 3-1 in a Christmas night contest.

Starring with Schmidt in the last two Boston victories was linemate Porky Dumart. Dumart scored three goals, one on a penalty shot, and Schmidt got two goals and an assist as the Bruins defeated Chicago. Bill Cowley supplied the other Boston tally while Chicago score went to Cully Dahlstrom, Less Cunningham and Phil Hergesheimer.

Against the Americans, Dumart scored once on a pass from Schmidt while Flash Hollett and Art Jackson also tallied. One American goal went to Charlie Conacher on a penalty shot and the other to Tommy Anderson.

Rangers' honors went to Bryan Hextall, Wilbur (Dutch) Hiller and Elx Shibicky. Hextall had three goals in two games, Hiller two goals and an assist and Shibicky a pair of goals and two assists. Clint Smith, Hiller, Hextall and Babe Pratt got the scores as Rangers downed Leafs who were held to a tally by Murph Chamberlain. Against the Hawks, whose lone goal went to George Allen, Hextall and Shibicky got two apiece while Hiller, Art Coulter, and Lynn Patrick fired one each.

Canadiens Beaten 3-1.

Like Dumart, Syd Howe of Detroit turned in a three-goal effort against Canadiens. The Wings spotted the Flying Frenchmen a first-period goal by Hector (Toe) Blake and then Howe went to work in the last period running one goal in near the start, another about midway and a third in the last minute. Dumart, Howe and Pep Kelly of Toronto are the only players to hit the mark this season.

Each member of the Kelly-Chamberlain-Sweeney Schriner line picked up three points in Toronto's victory over Wings, from a goal and two assists apiece. Apps and Red Heron tossed in the other Toronto tallies while Modere (Mud) Bruneteau scored Detroit's goal.

Wings, in beating Canadiens, scored their first victory in 11 games. Victories over the Hawks and Leafs gave Rangers a record of 12 straight unbeaten games made up of seven victories and five draws. The Bruins have dashed along at an even more prolific pace, winning 10, drawing two and losing one in their last 13 games.

IN MEMORIAM

MONAGHAN.—In loving memory of Victor (Jimmy) Monaghan, who passed away December 26, 1938.

Come to my Heavenly garden
And see its perfect bloom;
The flower you loved so dearly,
And thought I had plucked too soon.
Then you will know my reason,
Though you will not know it today,
Why in his promising manhood,
I took your darling Jimmy away.

—Sadly missed by Mother and Dad, little Joan, Ellen and Kay, Vic and Em.

JACKSON.—In loving memory of our son, William Gordon, who died December 26, 1930.

The fairest lillies are the first to fall,
The sweetest first to fade;
The fondest dearest, best of all,
At peaceful rest is laid.
As some sweet blossom droops and dies
When blighted by the frost,
He faded from before our eyes,
And all too soon was lost.
But in God's garden free from pain,
Where grow His fairest flowers;
We know that we shall meet again
This fairest bloom of ours.

—Lovingly remembered by Mamma and Daddy (Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Jackson).

Bewdley School's Annual Concert Proves One Of Year's Highlights

BEWDLEY, Dec. 26.—On Thursday evening the teacher, Mr. H. C. McCormick, and pupils of Bewdley school presented their Christmas concert in fine style.

With Rev. E. K. Smith, of Port Hope, acting as a very capable chairman, the program commenced with little Sylvia Stinson bringing greetings, followed with a chorus, 'Just a Smile of Holly.' The juniors presented a fine short play, "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe,' with Arnilla Strong as the old women and her children in a huge pasteboard boot. When the children were spanked and put to bed, others representing Little Miss Muffet, Jack Horner, Jack and Jill, the Baker, etc., brought gifts and placed them at the door, which the children discovered on waking. The children were Bob Benson, Lester McCormick, Helen Stinson, June Stinson, Murray Manley and Reg. Woodworth. The others were Sylvia Stinson, Garth Manley, Russell McCormick, Leighton Westington, Arleigh McAllister, Arnold Whitehead, Laura Graham, Buddy Goss, Mary Graham, Leona Strong and Murray Sidey.

Two plays were given in comedy style. One was 'An Early Start' with Murray Manley as father, wishing to get started on a fishing vacation at six in the morning, but the many hindrances from his wife, Arnilla Strong, the maid, Mary Graham, grandad, Ross Carruthers, and the children, Leona Strong and Murray Sidey. The other play was 'An Adventure in Matrimony' when Bob Pearson, an Irishman, mistook an advertisement placed by Helen Stinson for a hired man with one for a 'wanted husband.' June Stinson was the maid.

'The Coming of the King' told the Christmas story in acting and carols at intervals as Kathleen McIntosh read the story to her children, Arleigh McAllister and Garth Manley, as their bedtime story. This play was very effective and the costumes added a great deal. Mary Graham was Mary, Billy Woodworth, Joseph, the innkeeper Rollie Hubbard, his daughter, Laura Graham, the angels Marlyne Bray and June Stinson. The shepherds were Murray Sidey, Fred Kuntherworth, Murray Manley and Rollie Hubbard. The wise men were Ross Carruthers, Ross Gordon and Russell McCormick.

A star drill by nine girls was a pretty number. They were dressed in white paper gowns with silver stars and carried wands with large stars. They sang a number of Christmas songs. A changing color spotlight made this drill very effective. This light was also used on a number of other numbers, such as June Stinson's solo, 'Alice Blue Gown' and 'Beautiful Lady in Blue,' with the girls in the same gowns grouped around her in the last number as she danced.

The juniors5 chorus was 'Christ Was Once a Little Baby.' Helen Stinson and Murray Manley sang duets, 'I Love You Truly" and "My Wild Irish Rose.' As a closing number the school chorus was 'Santa Claus is Coming to Town,' when Santa entered and distributed the gifts and candy bags from the trees.

A vote of thanks was moved by Kenneth Benson to Mr. McCormick and to Mrs. McCormick, who so ably helped with the concert. Mrs. McCormick played the accompaniments and marches and had made the many beautiful costumes. The school was well filled and were an appreciative audience.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM A. TRIPP.

William Archibald Tripp, Crawford's Grove, died at Nicholls Hospital on Monday in his 66th year.

Well known throughout the district as a market gardener, Mr. Tripp had been in poor health for the past three years, but was only recently stricken seriously.

Born at Fenelon Falls he was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Tripp, who both survive. He also leaves his wife, the former Mary Costello, four daughters and seven sons. They are: Mrs. Bruce Williamson, Kirkland Lake; Mrs. Gordon Robinson and Mrs. Charles Foulger, both of Peterborough; and Miss Ruby Tripp at home; Herbert Tripp, South Porcupine; Elmer and Roddie Tripp, Peterborough; Thomas Tripp, Kirkland Lake; Mcssom, Ewart and Stephen Tripp, all at home.

Other surviving relatives include two sisters, Mrs. Robert Ramsay, Porterville; Mrs. F. Caustantie, Temagami, and six brothers, Daniel Tripp, Saskatoon; Stephen Tripp, Bancroft; John Tripp Porterville; Nicholas Tripp, Golden Rose Mine; Irvin Tripp, Kirkland Lake, and Herbert Tripp, South Porcupine.

The late Mr. Tripp resided in Peterborough district for thirteen years, coming here from Wilberforce. He was a member of St. James' United Church.

The funeral is to be held on Wednesday at 2 o'clock p.m. from Nesbitt Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte Street, with the Rev. F. W. Craik officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, December 26

A DAY of unusual activity and possibly excitement holding over from holiday jollification, is presaged from the ruling planetary aspects. These pleasant engagements may be more than superficial interest, since surprising twists seem to be involved. Perhaps some sudden, although minor, change may be necessary by way of readjustment. Contacts with employers, superiors or others of influence may not be entirely happy or satisfactory. Extravagance of over-indulgence figures.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a particularly lively and eventful year. It is probable that some sort of minor change is in store, and the relations of superiors, employers or other influential persons may be strained. A tendency to extravagance, over-enthusiasm and indulgence should be curbed.

A child born on this day may be genial, kindly, indulgent and extravagantly inclined, not always having the approval of its superiors.

For Wednesday, December 27
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

EXCELLENT opportunity for putting over new projects is read from the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects. However, before definite progress is made it may be necessary to break up static conditions or remove obstinate and long-standing obstacles through the means of an indomitable will, energy and practical constructive effort. This aggressive initiative, if applied in new ways and means or entirely fresh technique, will prove lucrative, attracting solid support from large corporations, or political or diplomatic endorsement where this is essential. Flexibility of plans, rather than cut and dried tactics, may prove gainful.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of great progress and productiveness, especially in putting over decidedly new and modern propositions. But stagnant and crystallized conditions first must be tackled with force, determination and aggressiveness, thus attracting substantial support from large interests—business, financial, political or diplomatic. It may be profitable to yield rather than insist on old routines or passe methods and processes.

A child born on this day may be endowed with splendid energy and initiative, as well as much originality, inventive and constructive ability. It should make a decided success of its life by its strong character and applied faculties and forces.

Mike Karakas Is Sent To Minors

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Mike Karakas, goalie for Chicago Blackhawks of the National Hockey League the past four seasons, was sent to Providence, R. I., of the International American League today in exchange for Paul Goodman of the Providence Club a "Blackhawks "farm."

The 30-year-old Goodman, Black Hawk officals said, will be in the Hawk cage tomorrow night against the Americans in New York.

Goodman was picked up as the outstanding goalie in the International-American League last season and played one game for the Hawks when the Chicago club won the Stanley cup in the 1937-38 campaign.

Karakas, a native of Eveleth, Minn., played brilliantly during the Hawk drive to the world championship but had a mediocre season last winter and has been unsteady this year.

South Australia Beat Queensland

ADELAIDE, Dec. 26.—(CP Cable) —Piling up 821 runs for seven wickets, declared, a record total for cricket at Adelaide, South Australia defeated Queensland by an innings and 222 runs in a Sheffield Shield match concluded today. In a closer encounter at Melbourne, Victoria downed New South Wales by 72 runs.

Clavel Badcock, South Australian star, scored 236 at the rate of a run a minute. He gave only one chance and smashed out four sixes and 26 fours. Don Bradman hit up 138 in less than two hours and M. G. Waite obtained 137 for his first century in first-class cricket.

Queensland was dismissed for only 222 runs at the first attempt but bagged 377 in the second innings largely through a fine score of 156 by W. A. Brown, international first-wicket batsman. The previous record innings total made at Adelaide was 807 by New South Wales in the 1899-1900 season.

At Melbourne, Victoria compiled totals of 280 and 242, New South Wales replying with 321 and 129. Sidney Barnes on the losing side, was top scorer of the game with 96 runs and in New South Wales' second innings J. Scott captured four wickets for 35 runs.

Community Concert Held In Lang School

KEENE, Dec. 26—The Public School and Community concert of Lang school was held on Wednesday with a large turnout. The chairman was Fred Nelson and the following program was given: Chorus, "Christmas"; recitation, Sonnie Brummel; skipping exhibition; recitation, Billy Nelson; Monologue, Jackie Hope; recitation, Lois Redpath; dialogue, Jake Hayseed; short play, "Little Red Riding Hood"; Strong Man act, tumbling, by the Boys; dialogue, "The Train to Loontown," by the Young People of the Village; skit, "Too Much Christmas Dinner"; dialogue, "The Selling of Sally". There were also a number of well-rendered choruses.

Joseph R. Barnard, Lang teacher, directed his pupils for their enjoyable concert.

Santa Claus arrived and distributed presents from a heavily-laden Christmas tree.

After the Christmas tree, during which time Santa had a jolly visit with the children, there was a dance in the school house. Music was supplied by James Miller's Orchestra.

British cotton textile mills are rushed with orders.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

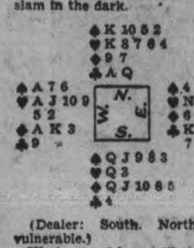
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

NO SURE WAY TO TELL

SOME SLAMS, which are easy enough to make in the play, cannot possibly be bid soundly, because there is no way for one partner to find out certain crucial things about the holding opposite him. Even if he could find out, the slam still might be dependent upon the way the opponents' honors are placed. For that reason, a sizable defeat of the opponents' doubled contract has to be preferred to reaching out for the slam in the dark.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

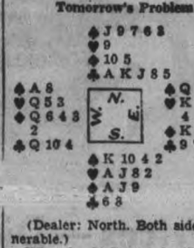
West opened here with 1-Heart, North doubled, East bid 2-Clubs, South 2-Spades, West 3-Hearts, North doubled and East bid 4-Clubs. North then called 4-Spades, East 5-Clubs, South 5-Diamonds, West doubled, North 5-Spades and West doubled that.

The diamond king, heart ace, a heart ruff, the diamond ace and later the spade ace gave East and West five tricks, setting the contract 800 points.

Notice how surely 6-Clubs would have been made, but also how East and West had no way to learn that fact.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

Why should Spades be the first suit named by both North and South the first time either bids on this deal?

Fairmount Pupils Present Concert

FAIRMOUNT, Dec. 26 (ENS).—The Christmas entertainment in the Community Hall last week turned out to be most successful, with a good attendance, while the tree, laden with gifts, along with the decorations brought forth the happy spirit again.

The following program put on by the pupils of the school under the able leadership of C. S. Morgan, brought out the sentiment of the season, but was mixed with a good deal of humor. Welcome was given by Marie Ballantyne and a school chorus that sang "Santa Claus Express."

Margaret and Catherine Earle gave recitations, as did Lila May Seymour, Shirley McArthur, Margaret Hooton, Myrna Seymour sang; Rev. Mr. Everson gave a few humorous remarks, followed by the junior play, "Baby Show"; recitations were given by Doris Fair, Marie Hooton, Ivan Rowan, and Jean Seymour; senior girls and a junior chorus sang; the seniors presented a skit, "The Truth-telling Machine"; the junior chorus sang again; "Hiawatha" was a play put on and one that received enthusiastic applause; Mervin Rowan, Eleanor Downes, and Audrey Fair, recited selections; a comic drill and a pageant brought the program to a close. Mr. Morgan was accompanist throughout.

Santa Claus distributed many gifts to th children and a large quantity of candy. Miss Betty Albin and her brothers Stanley and Morley, were presented with hymnbooks by F. R. McIndoo. The books were given by the Sunday School and Young People's Union to the three, who are leaving for Newcastle.

OBITUARIES

MRS. SARAH M. MAIN

TWEED, Dec. 26—After a lengthy illness, Mrs. Sarah Maria Main, widow of John Main, passed away at the residence of her nephew, Mr. A. E. Phillips, Rednersville, on Friday.

The late Mrs. Main, who was in her 77th year, was born in the Township of Hungerford, her parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Foster. For some time she resided in Toronto and for the past eighteen months she made her home with her nephew at Rednersville. In religion, she was a member of the United Church.

Surviving her are two sons, Mr. William F. Main, Toronto, and Mr. Ralp Main, Sidney Township.

CHARLES WALLACE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 26. — (ENS)— Funeral services for the late Charles Wallace one of the original members of the former Royal Northwest Mounted Police, were held in Toronto on December 20th. Mr. Wallace was born in Campbellford and was a son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Wallace who were among the pioneer residents of this town. He died at his home at Beachwood avenue on Monday last and was borne to his grave by members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Surviving him besides his widow and one son both in Toronto, is one sister, Miss Blanche Wallace of Campbellford.

GEORGE W. BARRONS

MARMORA, Dec. 26—(ENS). — The death of George W. Barrons occurred on Tuesday at his residence in the 1st Concession of Belmont Township, following a month's illness.

Mr. Barrons, who attained unto his sixty-fourth birthday a month ago was a member of a well-known and highly respected family, long settlers of the district. The late Mr. Barrons was a son of the late Charles Barrons and Elizabeth Briggs. In his earlier years he followed mining but for the past 30 years farmed on the firm on which he died.

He is survived by his widow (formerly Lena Steenburgh), and seven children, namely Everett, Sudbury; Harry and Charles, Edith and Evelyn at home; Mrs. George Rush, Belleville, and Irene, New York.

He is also survived by three sisters: Mrs. W. Hamilton, Moose Jaw, Sask.; Mrs. Charles Weese, Niagara Falls; and Mrs. Frank Thompson, Vancouver, B.C.

The funeral service was conducted at the Free Methodist Church, Cordova, on Thursday afternoon. Rev. C. W. Kay of Warkworth, assisted by Rev: J. S. Martin of Cordova officiated. Burial took place in Maple Grove Cemetery, near Havelock. The pall-bearers were James, Murray and Stewart Barrons, Christopher and Walter Steenburgh and Carman Ellis, all nephews.

Deputy-reeve—George C. Macdonald.

Councillors—Harry A. Harrison, Seldon R. Homan, William Arthur Clazie.

Wilson In Sidney

In the Township of Sidney, Fred J. Wilson was made the new reeve for 1940 by acclomation, while the deputy-reeve, Samuel Nicholson, also received the same honor.

For the position of councillors, the following were nominated: Sam Danford, Dan Bleecker, Fred Campbell, Clayton Marisette, Walter Morrow.

Denmark has more people employed than a year ago.

Santa Claus Parade Marmora Highlight

MARMORA, Dec. 26— (ENS). — The annual Santa Claus parade under auspices of Marmora branch No. 237 Canadian Legion was held on Saturday afternoon. An appropriate showing of films at the Town Hall by Larmer Brothers of Peterborough packed the building with juveniles. About 4.15 p.m. as the program terminated, a procession was formed and led by the Boys' Bugle Band and Santa Claus, it wended its way to Forsyth street, when from two parked cars Santa and his helpers issued bags of candies, nuts and oranges to approximately five hundred recipients.

Later in the evening Santa made his usual visit to the stores and lated still to homes of the needy and shutins. He also appeared for a brief period at the evening show and thanked Larmer Brothers, on behalf of the Legion, for their kind co-operation in the afternoon besides wishing the audience a Happy Christmas.

Hastings Institute Remembers Needy

HASTINGS, Dec. 26—(ENS)—Ten families, motherless children, aged, shut-ins were made happy Christmas when members of the Women's Institute distributed well-filled Christmas boxes. The members are most grateful to the Hastings council and all others who contributed towards the work of bringing cheer to those in need. Members of the Institute met at the council chambers on Friday afternoon, packed the boxes and distributed them on the same evening.

New Zep Ready But Gasless

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The dream of Dr. Hugo Eckener, master of zepplins for reestablishment of a regular, two-day airship line between North America and Germany, has been shattered by the European war.

The "LZ 130," successor to the ill-fated Hindenburg, is all dressed up but has no place to go and no gas with which to go.

Besides, construction work on the "LZ 131," intended as a sister ship to the "LZ 130," has ceased.

Eckner's first dissappointment came when the United States vetoed the sale of helium gas to the zeppelin company. Eckener's plea that helium never could be used for military purposes and that his ships would not aid warfare was rejected.

Then valuable deposits of helium gas along the German-Netherlands frontier were reported but the war halted exploitation.

Meanwhile Eckener tried to keep his zeppelin crews in training by ordering a number of practice flights with hydrogen gas. These now are banned by the air ministry.

Marmora Pair 54 Years Wed

MARMORA, Dec. 26.— (ENS)— Christmas Eve had a double significance to Mr. and Mrs. John Burns of Marmora inasmuch as it was their 54th wedding anniversary. On December 24, 1888, in the Marmora Methodist parsonage of that period, they were married by Rev. William C. Beer, who was then the local circuit minister. The witnesses were Thomas R. Warran and Mary Burns (now Mrs. George Logan).

Mr. Burns is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Burns of Marmora. After learning the business of a butcher when young, he divided the succeeding years between shantying, river driving and his earlier occupation.

Mrs. Burns, of a quiet retiring disposition, yet possessing friendly manners, was before her marriage Carrie Tennyson. Her parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Tennyson of Marmora Township. Her father was proud to claim a close relationship to the famed poet and Mrs. Burns, like him, has been fond of reading, including poetry. Until more recent years she used many leisure hours in knitting and doing fine needlework.

After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Burns lived successively at the stone residence near the river which was Marmora's first school, the old stone residence called the Richard Campion residence and in rooms rented by the late John Green before they moved about forty-five years ago to the frame residence which Mr. Burns erected on North Hastings avenue, where they have resided until now.

Six children were born of the marriage: Minnie (Mrs. Albert Tennyson), Toronto; George, Marmora; Jonas, who died in 1923 from the results of wounds received in the first Great War; Myrtle (Mrs. Leslie Phillips), Marmora; Gertie, Toronto, and Laura (Mrs. Tom McQuigge), Marmora.

Their fellow villagers unite in congratulations and wishes that they may attain their sixtieth anniversary.

2 Marmora Cats Invade Stranger's Home, Wind Up In Battle, Get Tossed Out At 3 a.m.

MARMORA, Dec. 26.—(ENS).—Feline appreciation of the Christmas spirit of goodwill was well proved in Marmora last week to be non-existent.

The front door of a residence in some mysterious way, became open in the night and in stepped two cats, each apparently bent on personal comfort. How long they put up with each other's presence cannot be told, but about 3 a.m. the householder was awakened by discordant notes and lost no time in ending the battle royal on the front room rug.

Three Are Contesting Oshawa's Mayoralty

OSHAWA, Dec. 26.—The following have qualified as candidates in Ontario county municipalities:

Oshawa—Major, J. C. Anderson, James Haxton, S. G. Carnell; aldermen (ten to be elected), Fred J. Perry, Ernest Cay, W. H. Gifford, W. H. J. Harmer, Clifford Harman, E. E. Bathe, Nicholas Williams, Finley M. Dafoe, William A. Walker, J. R. Hurst, R. S. Stacey, J. A. Coleman, John Stacey, R. D. Humphreys, S. R. Alger, Alex S. Ross, Alex. S. McLeese, Bryce A. Brown; Public Utilities Commission (two), Clifton C. Lang, R. E. Hawke, S. J. Babe, Norman Millman; Board of Education (four), Frederick Britten, William J. Naylor, Stephen J. Saywell, H. L. Lewis, E. A. Lovell, F. O. Kirby.

Two Enter Field For Seymour Deputy

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 26. — (ENS).—An election for Seymour township was assured early Saturday when both Robert Bateson and William Rowe qualified for Deputy-Reeve. Five nominees headed by former Reeve Robert Innes will contest the three seats on the council. Frank Lee and William J. Duncan are the two new nominees who will fight it out with the former members, John Kelly and Melville Wight on the New Year's day. Former Deputy-Reeve William Ross, the only one of the four nominated to qualify for the Reeveship, was accorded an acclamation.

Seven In Field At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 26 (ENS) —Though a serious lack of interest in municipal affairs was evidenced by the fact that only eighteen "filled" the audience at the annual nomination meeting, Campbellford is slated to have an election on January 1st. Seven qualified for the six Council posts while acclamations for all other municipal offices were announced by Clerk John MacGregor on Saturday evening. Only change at the top of the list was that of Deputy-Reeve, which went to Harvey M. Donald, a member of last year's Council. Mr. Donald was accorded an acclamation when Deputy-Reeve Percy M. Locke, only other nominee, failed to qualify, choosing instead to step back into the Council where he will contest a seat.

Acclamations fo rthe Mayor, F. F. Long, who was returned to the position for the sixth time, and for the Reeve, Charles Calver, were announced early in the day. They were the only ones nominated for the posts. J. O. Benor, chairman of the Water and Light Commission also accorded an acclamation, will begin his eighth term on the Commission. There won't be any change on the Board of Education this year, Dr. H. O. Richardson, and J. A. Irwin and H. A. McArthur, all retiring members, were returned.

For Council the following will be in the contest, Peter H. MacMillan, James L. Dorie, J. R. Battisby, S. A. Maguire, A. E. Burgiss, P. M. Locke, and John O'Sullivan.

City Council Rejects Wine Appeal

Should Motion Quash City's Vote No Appeal Be Made

The council last night by a division of 7-2 refused to sanction an immediate appeal in the event of the Supreme Court at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, granting on Thursday the motion of the Hillrust Wine Company to quash the city's by-law providing for taking a vote of the ratepayers New Year's Day on the question whether they desire the closing of the company's shop on Charlotte street.

The possibility of involving the city in subsequent litigation, and a reluctance to begin proceedings that would engage the incoming council in a form of law suit, were reasons expressed by some of the majority members of the council in their opposition to Alderman Gordon's resolution, seconded by Alderman M. McIntyre.

Alderman Gordon proposed that if the motion was granted, City Solicitor Huycke could forthwith file an appeal, having prepared the notice before hand and taking it to Toronto in anticipation of an adverse decision. He and Alderman McIntyre supported the resolution, and those voting against it were Alderman Bradburn, Cotton, Stocker Wilson, McCannan, Glover and Jury. Alderman Dutton was not present.

Might Become Involved.

Alderman Bradburn took up the discussion after Alderman Gordon had briefly presented his resolution.

"I'm not altogether in favor of appealing right away," he said. "It would go through the Court of Appeal, and then the company might take it to a higher court. In the meantime the vote would be taken here, we would get the expression of the ratepayers' opinion, and the appeal would not be heard until afterwards. Besides we have already passed a resolution asking the government to provide legislation enabling local councils to vote on the wine shop question, and if it is passed we avoid the expense which we might be running into if we go ahead with this appeal right away."

Alderman Gordon remarked that the Hillrust Wine Company was afraid of public opinion, and was trying to forestall its expression.

King's Christmas Broadcast Quotation Brings Retired Lady Teacher Fame, Upsets All England In Hunt For Author

LONDON, Dec. 27.— (CP). — Fame came unexpectedly to Minnie L. Haskins a retired London school of economics tutor, who set down a quarter of a century ago 56 words which the King's voice carried to the four corners of the earth in his broadcast on Christmas Day.

The quotation with which His Majesty concluded his Empire broadcast had stumped literary sleuths, critics and authorities the world over for 24 hours.

Miss Haskins' simple phrases reminded Poet Laureate John Masefield of G. K. Chesterton, but when he looked in Chesterton he could not find the passage.

Bernard Shaw and H. G. Wells admitted they had never seen the passage before, and Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, who had to range through the whole of English poetry to compile the Oxford book of English verse, said he was baffled.

This was the quotation:

"I said to a man who stood at the gate of the year, 'give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown,' and he replied, 'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than light and safer than the known way'."

The King himself did not know whom he was quoting. He had read the passage apparently in a recent issue of the Times, found it apt and significant, and fitted it into the end of his moving Yuletide address to his people and fighting men.

The letter to The Times which gave the quotation was from Mrs. J. M. C. Allen of Clifton, Bristol. She said that "these words will give courage to many of us," but she too did not know who wrote them. She said she obtained the quotation from a Christmas card sent to her last year by a Miss Dorothy Glover of Bristol.

Miss Glover, in turn, said that her father had obtained the quotation from a young singer. Madame Katherine Gerrish. Reporters found Mme. Gerrish, but they were again stumped. She didn't know either.

Shortly before midnight last night an anonymous telephone call to the British Broadcasting Corporation identified Miss Haskins as the author. A member of Miss Haskins' family told reporters that "on Christmas Day she missed the King's speech, but heard the quotation in a news broadcast later and recognized it at once as her own."

"My recollections of the circumstances in which the lines were written are vague," Miss Haskins told reporters. She said they were composed for a book of verse she called "The Desert," privately printed in 1915. Some copies were sold in aid of an Indian charity.

The authoress recalled that inspiration for the liens came when she was in the West of England shortly before 1914.

She has written two novels, one published 11 years ago called "Through Beds of Stone," and the Snow Blankets "Dust Bowl" 18 Inches Deep

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 27 — (AP).—Snowstorms of zero weather whirled eastward today, leaving a white blanket nine to 18 inches deep over the old "dust bowl."

The snow was passing over Missouri, Iowa and Northern Arkansas and was due to hit Ohio by nightfall.

But as midwest and southwest shivered, two of winter's strongholds reported "heat waves." Temperatures in the high 20's and 30's in Michigan were the highest for December in the 66-year history of the Detroit weather bureau, and a ski tournament in the Wasatch Mountains of Utah was postponed because of lack of snow.

To carry out the freak theme—frost warnings were issued in the California citrus belt, and a gulf storm whipped near-freezing temperatures into New Orleans.

Two hundred automobiles were abandoned in snow-blocked mountain passes near Clayton, N.M., but all passengers were brought out safely. The snow as 18 inches deep in Clayton, near the centre of the "dust bowl' of 1934-37.

At Guymon, Okla., there were 10 inches of snow and at Boise City 12 inches. Rain, sleet and as much as five inches of snow were general over the Texas panhandle. The temperature was eight above at Amarillo and was expected to dive below zero.

Kansas farmers were cheered by snowfalls of five inches to a foot. Garden City, in the northeast part of the three-state dust bowl area, gained 1.52 inches of moisture.

Crop experts said the snow would be of immense benefit to wheat in Eastern and Central Kansas and Oklahoma but feared crops to the west were too far gone to germinate.

City's Surplus Likely Hit $12,000 Mark

Prospects of a surplus in five figures at the end of the year induced a slightly expansive spirit in the council last night under the effect of which Alderman McIntyre, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee, was able to wangle a promise to label $7,000 of the carry-over for the purchase of a new 600-gallon pumper in 1940.

City Treasurer Shaver said he was making only a rough guess in estimating that the surplus might be $12,000 or $15,000 as a result of the council's financing this year, but Alderman McIntyre was inclined to believe from his review of the financial report for the eleven months to the end of November that the surplus was going to be substantial.

He said his own committee would report $2,000 on the right side of the ledger as a result of economies, and the Board of Works might come through with $6,000. Alderman McIntyre recalled that the council had agreed early in the year that a new pumper was necessary to maintain the efficiency of the fire department. The price quoted at that time was $8,000 with an allowance of $2,000 "trade-in" for the old steam pumper and a couple of junk machines, a chemical truck and hose wagon and an old horsedrawn outfit that is kept stored in a barn back of the fire hall.

Option Cancelled.

Since the outberak of war this basis of a deal has been withdrawn.

"This is one department that should be kept up to a high standard of efficiency," Alderman Glover said, "bu they need adequate machines."

Personal Friends Of Stalin Swoop To Crush Finns With 300,000 Crack Troops

Finn Ski Battalion Races For Vital Rail Line Invaders Falling Back Acrosss Border. Deserting Much Equipment, Many Tanks

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 27 (AP)—A picked battalion of Finnish ski troops today was reported driving through Russia about 116 miles north of Lake Ladoga and east of Lieksa in an attempt to cut Russia's vital Murmansk railroad.

Russian forces on the Arctic Ocean front and other northern sectors receive most of their supplies over this railroad, which runs from 50 to 150 miles east of the border.

At the same time, fresh Soviet troops under the command of Joseph Stalin's personal friends were reported by Finnish sources to be massing for new smashes against the Finns.

The Finns said on Monday that their troops had crossed the frontier into Russia near Lieksa.

From the Finnish - Norwegian border came reports that advancing Finnish troops in far northern Finland were collecting large quantities of war material abandoned by retreating Russians between Nautsi and Hoyhenjaervi. Included were many Russian tanks stalled in the snow.

With the temperature still four below zero Fahrenheit, the woods east of Kemijaervi, central Finland, were reported full of Russian deserters and wounded.

Finns Getting Ready

In all sectors the Finns were said to be preparing for the new Russian thrust they expect will come in an attempt to regain some of the prestige lost in recent weeks.

Indications of the new offensive were seen in the reported gathering of new Russian troops.

Coming on the heels of reported Finnish drives as much as 50 miles in some sectors, Finland's northern army headquarters said 300,000 picked Red army soldiers were being massed to counteract recent retreats.

The Russians have lost 4,000 men in the sub-zero cold of the Arctic fighting the last three days, despatches from the Finnish headquarters said.

Russian strategy was foreseen by military observers to be a renewed drive to cut Finland in half along the "waistline" and a campaign near Hoyhenjaervi, south of the Salmijaervi nickel mining region, where the Red army was reported last week in hasty retreat.

The Finnish army was getting set for a new drive on the Kemijaervi railroad. The Soviet campaign was seen by the Finns as headed for the Swedish border at the Gulf of Bothnia.

Finns Count On Cold.

Although outnumbered, the Finnish command counted on the bitter Arctic weather, as well as military strategy, to withstand the expected attack.

General Kurt Walenius, northern forces' commander, was quoted as saying the Finns generally faced a Russian division of about 18,000 men with a battalion of about 600.

A Finnish communique yesterday said the Soviet forces left 700 dead on the ice of Lake Suvanto on the Karelian Isthmus in a clash in which Soviet tank, airplane and artillery units engaged.

Sixteen Russian machine-guns were among military prizes of the day in the Suvanto section, the Finns reported, adding that 23 Soviet planes were shot down.

(The Russian army communique merely reported "petty skirmishes of reconnoitring units and artillery duels in a number of areas." It said Soviet aviation engaged in reconnoitring flights).

Meanwhile, neutral Sweden was sending aid to her beleaguered neighbor in the form of volunteer troops, medical supplies and financial credits.

Although the volunteers' movement was not recognized officially because of Sweden's neutrality, it was known that hundreds had crossed the border for action on the northern and central fronts under General Ernst Linder, 71-year-old veteran commander.

More Cities Bombed.

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 27—(AP).—The Russian air force today struck repeatedly and vigorously at Tammersfors (Tampere), vital Finnish munitions city, and other cities in a series of bombing raids.

Twelve bombers appeared over Tammersfors first at 9.58 a.m. (2.58 a.m., EST) and dropped only a few bombs, but returned two hours later to shower at least 50 bombs on the

Nazis Taking Advantage Of Red Woes

Force Concessions As Russians Bog In Finland

MOSCOW, Dec. 27—(CP Havas)—Germany is taking advantage of the Russian armies difficulties in Finland to gain a number of concessions from the Soviet Union that would have been impossible if the Red armys' prowess had lived up to advance prediction, foreign observers said Tuesday.

Already German pressure has led to the departure from Moscow of Dr. Zdenek Fierlinger, former Czecho-Slovak minister to the Soviet Union, who refused to surrender his legation when his nation disappeared into the Nazi map last March, these sources pointed out.

The Soviet Union also has agreed to permit railway traffic between Russia and Germany through the Russian part of dismembered Poland at eight different points.

In addition Moscow has agreed to retain the international gauge railway tracks on the Polish railways for three years instead of substituting the narrow gauge lines used throughout Russia. Retaining of standard gauge lines will permit transshipment of goods from Rumania to Germany through Poland without the necessity of expensive loading and unloading at the Rumanian-Soviet and German-Soviet frontiers.

More Raw Materials

German circles in Moscow claim that negotiations now under way here between the foreign trade commissar, A. I. Mikoyan, and Kurt Schnurre, chief of the German foreign office eastern department, will result in Russia supplying to the Reich even more raw materials than had been scheduled under their preliminary agreement.

With the Red army stalemated in Finland observers believed it would go into winter quarters along the Soviet-Finnish border and resume its operations only when the spring thaw permits use of motorized equipment.

In view of this it was suggested that Soviet diplomacy might turn toward the Balkans in the coming weeks, with strong pressure being placed on Rumania for the return of Bessarabia. An important development in this connection is expected today when a Bulgarian delegation arrives here under the leadership of Dobri Bojilov to negotiate a trade agreement with Russia.

Windsor Welfare Inspector Proves Forger

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 27.—(CP)—H. Mark Anthony was sentenced today to two years in Portsmouth Penitentiary on a charge of forgery in connection with administration of single men's relief here.

An inspector of the Windsor Welfare Department, Anthony previously pleaded guilty to three counts regarding food vouchers. Crown Attorney James S. Allan said that Anthony had served from three months to two years less a day, in Brantford in 1923 for theft. In 1931 at St. Thomas he was given concurrent terms of two years less a day in reformatory for two cases of theft and forgery.

A handwriting expert in Toronto described the work as that of one of the most expert freehand forgers he had ever encountered in his experience.

The Crown said that although Anthony was charged with only three forgeries, investigation by provincial authorities disclosed at least 50 forgeries had been traced to Anthony.

The inquiry leading to the charges was conducted by Thomas J. McDonald, special investigator from Toronto.

Le Tong, Chinese proprietor of a Windsor restaurant, has been charged with false pretences in connection with the relief situation.

CONTRAST

Contrast in honesty was found in the little story of a girl who lost nine dollars taken from her purse which she hurriedly left in the cloak room of a store and the return of a wallet and fifteen dollars to a young man who had left it on a counter. Faith shaken on the one hand and strengthened on the other.

Selling Clarion Costs Veteran 3 Months In Jail

OSHAWA, Ont., Dec. 27—(CP).—Convicted of violating the Defence of Canada Regulations, Frank Towers, veteran of the First Great War, to-day was sentenced to three months in county jail. Towers was found guilty of distributing copies of the Clarion, Communist weekly newspaper, containing statements which might be prejudicial to prosecution of the war.

Towers wa sarrested on an Oshawa street, selling copies of the Clarion, Defence Counsel Louis Hyman pleaded that his client, as a single man, had been cut off relief and was trying to earn a living selling the paper.

Crown Attorney Allan Annis said: "It is very difficult to understand why a man with a war record such as the accused would sell such a paper with the enthusiasm he apparently had."

Towers served with the Canadian Army in France for three years in the last war, and was with the army of occupation in Russia.

Red Agents Fined

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)

TWO Russian agents and a Soviet corporation pleaded guilty today to violating the foreign agent registration act and were fined a total of $2,500. Boris Nikolsky, president of Oookniga, Inc., and I. A. Ilyin, secretary-treasurer, admitted a charge of withholding material information in registering themselves and the corporation with the state department.

They pleaded guilty before Justice Jennings Bailey about an hour after indictment by a federal grand jury.

Canada And U.S. Alone Show Drop In Jobless

GENEVA, Dec. 27.—(AP).—Canada and the United States were the only countries to show decreases in unemployment since the start of the war according to a survey published to-day by the International Labor Office.

Addition of hundreds of thousands of the ranks of the unemployed in other staes, both belligerent and neutral, during the first months of the war was cited in the survey.

The mobilization of millions of men and a boom in war industries thus far have falaled to absorb unemployment resulting from trade restrictions, the appearance of women as job seekers and the closing down of peacetime industries.

No figures were issue for Germany, but Labor office experts said unemployment increased there despite war-made jobs.

A world-wide lack of skilled labor was reported.

Girl Is Wounded Lover, Officer Shot In Gun Duel

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 27—(AP).—A half-hour gun battle at a tourist camp between 25 police officers and two holdup suspects which cost two lives led to the capture of James Charleston, 21, of Chicago, in a rooming-house here today.

Police said Charleston fled leaving behind his companion, yet unidentified, shot to death by officers who surrounded a tourist cabin after Clyde Shipley, city detective, was killed.

Patricia McDonald, 19, one of two girls in the cabin, was critically wounded. The other girl, Marian Lindquist, 19, was unhurt.

Charleston was charged with murder.

Shipley and five other officers were sent to the tourist camp last night to question the occupants of the cabin about a series of holdups in downtown Chattanooga.

Pistol fire greeted a knock on the door and Shipley fell as he forced his way into the cabin.

Ontario House Will Discuss Seaway Pact

TORONTO, Dec. 27 — (CP). — A Toronto evening paper said today in a front page article that the Ontario Government at its next Legislature session will introduce enabling legislation for the St. Lawrence Seaway project.

The paper said that from authoritative sources it was learned that Cabinet discussions on the Bill have practically settled all details but one —the member who will introduce the legislation involving expenditure of millions of dollars.

The Ontario Legislature is scheduled to meet early in January.

Premier Mitchell Hepburn may introduce the Bill as a Treasury measure, the story said. Or Hon. W. L. Houck, vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, may sponsor the measure as a Power Bill.

Premier Hepburn opposed the St. Lawrence project for some years on the ground that it would provide increased water competition for the railways.

Following outbreak of the war, Ontario was faced with a power shortage and Mr. Hepburn withdrew his opposition, offering his co-operation to Prime Minister Mackenzie King during a conference at Ottawa.

War Orders Run $1,426,842 In Past Week

OTTAWA, Dec. 27.—(CP)—Orders totalling $1,426,842 were placed by the War Supply Board during the week ended Dec. 26, Hon. J. A. McKinnon, acting minister of Transport announced today.

Except for $237,361 to the British Air Ministry and $204,015 to the British War Office for essential defence supplies not procurable in Canada, the week's purchases were divided among Canadian firms.

The Board approved 423 separate orders of which 378 were for contracts worth less than $5,000 each.

Foodstuffs for Canada's armed forces ranks high in the purchases and these orders cost $299,603.

After a lapse of a week, army clothing and equipment appeared in the list, the sum appropriated for these purposes being $236,147. Mitts, winter caps, flannel shirts and great coats were among items represented in the orders.

Orders valued at more than $5,000 each follows:

Aircraft Supplies and Accessories: Ottawa—Irvin Air Chute Ltd., $49,535; Toronto—La France Fire Engine and Foamite, Ltd., $6,577; Fort Erie, Ont.—Fleet Aircraft Ltd., $5,-

Finn Lines Will Hold Until Spring Or Early Summer Says N.Y. Colony

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 — (AP). — Finland's small army will be able to hold off Russian forces at least until the late spring or early summer of 1940, say spokesmen for the 20,000-odd Finns living in the New York metropolitan area.

Ever since the close of the First Great War, from which Finland emerged with its independence, the nation has been preparing for "the next war," they point out.

Nature of those preparations is an index to the stubborn resistance put up by the Finns, as detailed in Finnish communiques, since start of the war with Russia on November 30.

Training and terrain are the corner-stones of the Finnish defence. The land itself, cupped with lakes and studded with forests, forbids large-scale troop movements, especially in the winter and spring, except with almost overwhelming difficulty. It is no place for the use of mechanized and highly motorized equipment, employed so effectively by the Germans in Poland.

For 20 years 23,000 Finns have been inducted into the army annually for training. Every five years they had returned for a month's "refresher course." They have been taught marksmanship, the use of skis and, most important, methods of orientation to prevent their becoming lost in the forests.

All Areas Photographed.

Of paramount importance to the Finnish defense has been the methodical photographing and charting of all frontier areas. Along the Mannerheim line, which has been fortified in depth like the Maginot and Siegfried lines, every sector has been blocked out in numbers. Finnish residents here say that is responsible for the remarkable accuracy of Finnish artillery fire.

Buttering the land frontier fortifications are those along the Gulf of Finland, from Koivisto to the Aaland Islands. Coastal batteries have an over-lapping fire. Any vessel approaching the coast comes within the range of at least two series of gun emplacements.

The floating coastal defence consists of two "ironclads," four light cruisers, seven destroyers, five submarines and a fleet of motor torpedo boats similar to those used by Great Britain during the last war, fast and deadly against lightly armored warships.

The Finns need air craft, as was evidenced by the recent purchase of 44 United States fighting planes. They entered the war with perhaps 300 warplanes, purchased from Italy.

Quake Wipes Out Whole Turkish Villages Kill Hundreds Along Black Sea Coast

ANKARA, Turkey, Dec. 27 — — Hundreds were reported killed and whole villages destroyed in an earthquake which shook Northern Anatolia early to-day.

Four shocks were felt in Ankara between 2.00 a.m. and 5 a.m. today (between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. Tuesday).

Accurate information of the damage caused was not immediately available because communications were disrupted. Officials by late afternoon said, however, that reports indicated a major catastrophe.

The quake's centre apparently was along the Black Sea coast of Turkey in Asia.

Heavy damage was reported at Ordu, Samsun, Tokat, Amasia, Sivas, and Yozgad.

Thousands were reported to have abandoned towns for the fields, fearing additional shocks.

The government and relief agencies rushed aid to the affected area, which is from 100 to 250 miles east and north-east of Ankara.

Anatolia has been struck by earthquakes frequently. On April 19, 1938, in that region there began a series of shocks which lasted for more than a week and took more than 800 lives. Thousands of homes were razed.

On Sept. 23, 1939, more than 200 persons were reported killed in a quake which struck the region about Smyrna, Turkish sea-

Cadi Threatens Maximum Sentence For Lad Genius With Explosive

HAMILTON, Dec. 27 — (CP). — Sensational claims were made today in magistrate's court, in a statement given police by Alex. Zolomy, 16-year-old boy, who faced four charges after a short-lived escape from the Ontario Reformatory two weeks ago.

Just before being remanded until Friday for sentence on charges of possession of a mould suitable for counterfeiting, two charges of shopbreaking and theft, and the possession of a home-made bomb, Zolomy asked that two statements he had made to police be read into the court records. As a result of the request, Magistrate H. A. Burbidge adjourned court and retired to read the statements.

In regard to a note found on his person when he was arrested, Zolomy stated that it was written only to impress his friends and was a means of "showing off." The note was addressed to "Wink," and contained a number of other nicknames which Zolomy has refused to disclose.

Might Have Become Great.

Before retiring to consider the statements, Magistrate Burbidge addressed the prisoner.

"I realize, Zolomy, that you have almost a genius for this sort of thing," he said. "If that genius had been turned to its proper uses, you might have made a great name for yourself.

"But you turned it to dangerous and desperate means, and as a result some people regard you as a menace. They think that you should be put away for a long, long time. I do not take that view entirely.

"You are young and as far as I am concerned, a further reformatory term would answer the needs of this case. It is rather unusual under the circumstances, but I may impose the maximum reformatory sentence—two years less a day definite, plus two years less a day indeterminate."

What He Was Doing.

Zoluomy's statement follows:

"Regarding the high compression model I was making and the nitro-glycerine: I was trying to connect high explosives with gasoline for a new type of fuel for a high compression engine.

"I found out that nitro-glycerine mixes with ether perfectly and in turn ether mixes with gasoline readily.

"I was going to use a high compression engine for developing my experiments. I intended to mix nitro-glycerine in such a small quan-

Aussies' Arrival Hailed New Blow To Hitler

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(CP)—Arrival in England of the First Contingent of Australian airmen was described in the press today as a further manifestation of the "free, prompt and unanimous decision of the British Dominions to join in the struggle against Hitler."

The squadron of Australian aviators and mechanics arrived in England yesterday. The First Contingent of Canadian troops already are training in Britain.

The Daily Hearld said that "the citizens of the British Commonwealth in both hemispheres rejoice at the free, prompt and unanimous decision of the British Dominions to join in the struggle against Adolf Hitler.

"Nothing has surprised foreign countries more sharply, and nothing has angered Hitler more deeply," the paper said. "The British Commonwealth has its merits and its faults. In wartime we see it at its best— a free association of democratic peoples who spontaneously unite together to resist the threat of barbarism."

"The best Christmas present Great Britain has had, comes with the arrival of the Australian airmen who landed yesterday in fighting form," the Daily Mail said. "No higher tribute could be paid to them than their immediate attachment to the coastal command of the Royal Air Force. In that arm of the service they will give a deadly answer to the Nazi lie that the Empire is not united in this war.

News Germans Won't Hear.

"The Nazis would like to believe that, would like to persuade the people that they are not really up against this invincible imperial power. Whereas the truth is that the

Nazi Ruled Poles Despair, Feel Betrayed

WARSAW, Dec. 27 (AP) — Despair and bitterness is the lot of the average Pole in the German-occupied areas of partitioned Poland.

Dazed by the swift events which cost his nation its independence, he feels himself betrayed by his new government, exploited by his new overlord and endangered by a westward-moving Communism.

He does not even hope for a German defeat in the west because he fears that a defeated Germany might withdraw from Poland and leave it open to Communism.

The average Pole feels his former military leaders lulled him into a false feeling of security with preparedness that was largely bluff and that they overlooked the possibility of a Russian-German understanding.

Poles complain their erstwhile military leaders, fattening on comfortable jobs, were too lazy to study modern warfare and still thought in terms of the guerilla fighting against the Russian invaders in 1920.

Even so—the argument runs—Germany could not have become Poland's master within a month except for the Russian "stab in the back."

Only after the Red army began to move into eastern Poland was all hope for saving the country abandoned, the Poles declare.

Reeve's Birthday

HASTINGS, Dec. 27.—(ENS)—Not only does Hastings oldest resident, Wiliam Raycraft, celebrate his birthday on December 25 but Hastings first citizen in the person of Reeve Lewis E. Kelley also observes the occasion with a double celebration. He was fifty-five on Monday and was the recipient of many congratulations on being acclaimed reeve of this municipality for the coming two years and of reaching another milestone. The day was spent quietly in the presence of close friends of Hastings and Peterborough.

British Official Freed By Germans

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(CP)— Government sources announced today that Germany had released George Vereker, former counsellor of the British Embassy in Moscow who was taken off an Estonian ship by a German warship December 9 while en route to his new post as Minister to Bolivia.

Vereker was said to have arrived in Oslo, Norway, Christmas day and to be now en route to London. Germany released him, British sources said, after being satisfied that Great Britain was not detaining diplomats passing through allied controls.

Vereker was reported to have been removed from an Estonian vessel by a German warship December 9 and taken to Swinemuende. The ship, it was understood, carried Polish refugees.

Informed sources said that Vereker probably now was in Oslo, Norway, where it was heard yesterday that he was en route there, although there was no official report of his arrival.

The British had contended that his seizure violated diplomatic immunity.

It is estimated that Finland has fully 5,000 fliers, military and non-military, available for war duty.

The infantry "effectives" of Finland have been estimated at slightly in excess of 300,000 men, though dispatches from abroad have put the figure as high as 400,000. The standing army before the war with Russia began numbered no more than 30,000.

Behind it stood the reserves—men with the required year's military training—and members of the civic guard.

The pumper the department is using was bought in 1927, and Alderman McIntyre said he felt it was a matter of duty as chairman to urge the buying of the new machine now that the council was likely to close the year with a surplus.

"I don't like the principle of trying to bind a succeeding council," Alderman Gordon said.

It was pointed out that the assessment on buildings in Peterboro is around $25,000 and with their contents the total property value would be between sixty-five and seventy millions, and the city's provision for its protection was around $35,000 a year.

The "ear-marking" resolution by Alderman McIntyre was seconded by Alderman Cotton and was carred without dissent.

Election Of Pope Highlights Vatican's Year

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 27.—(CP-Havas)—The passing of a Pope and the election of his successor were outstanding developments of a year which saw the Vatican bend all its efforts first to save Europe from war and, as 1939 ended, to restore it to peace.

Pius XI, Pope of Peace, Spiritual Father to Roman Catholics throughout the world for 17 years, was in failing health as the year opened.

His last formal audience before his death was granted Jan. 13 to Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax. The statesmen came away from this meeting profoundly stirred and the event subsequently had important favorable bearing on relations between Great Britain and the Vatican.

Feb. 11 marked the 10th anniversary of perhaps the greatest single achievement of Pius XI's reign—conclusion of the Lateran treaty with Italy establishing the Pontiff as an independent sovereign on his own territory.

The Pope died Feb. 10, mourned by Catholics and non-Catholics alike in a world that venerated and respected his peace-loving spirit.

The Sacred College went into closed session on March 1 to elect a successor.

On March 2 crowds massed out-

Britain Sowing Mine Field 500 Miles Long

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(CP).—Great Britain's answer to the sowing of German mines off the British coasts is a 500-mile charted minefield extending from the Orkney Islands to the Straits of Dover.

The Admiralty announced that mines would be laid in a strip 30 to 40 miles wide and about eight miles off shore to guard coastal shipping from mines "laid by the Germans without notice in the North Sea outside territorial waters off the British coast."

The British mine belt thus would be a screen behind which ships could move in relative safety. A neutral naval attache said it also would protect British warships in port from submarine attacks.

Presumably the British mines would prevent the laying of German mines by submarines or surface craft between the British belt and the coast.

Use 200,000 Death-Dealers.

The Admiralty did not indicate the number or types of mines to be used but naval sources estimated that more than 200,000 would be required.

Coastwise minefields have been maintained since mid-September

tity with ether and gasoline that it would not be too powerful....

"With regard to the detonating caps, I used the fulminite from them for a new type of bullet, which I loaded with a mixture of fulminite and (secret formulae). The bullet would have the appearance of an ordinary bullet, since I had constructed a mould to seal the end where the explosive was injected in the bullet.

"Such a bullet is capable of doing great damage. On striking an object, such as a deer, it would penetrate a ninch orso andthenblo wabout an inch or so and then blow about a foot hole inside, most of the pressure being exerted forward and doing great damage internally. When striking other objects, such as the wing of an aeroplane, great damage would be done because of its shattering powers. It could be manufactured for any calibre of rifle or revolver. In hitting the gas tank, it would ignite the gasoline inside. The explosion of the bullet would naturally explode the gasoline....

New High Velocity Rifle.

"So far I have only loaded one .303 bullet which I have not as yet tested. I have loaded several hundred .22 calibre bullets and have tested them in many ways. One such bullet would completely shatter a whole house brick, while an ordinary bullet would only chip it. I was only working on an invention for a new type of high velocity, small calibre automatic rifle.

"Not having funds for necessary equipment to carry out my experiments, I resorted to illegal methods in obtaining rifles, ammunition and other essential materials."

"Regarding the charge of having a bomb in my possession, I do not consider that the article referred to is a bomb. I made this of a steel outer shell, three-sixteenths of an inch thick — the approximate size about two and one-half inches in length and one and three-quarter inches in width. Into an opening of one-quarter inch, which I left at one end, I inserted a tube containing exactly 24 grains of mercury fulminite. My intention was to complete my experiment, to find out in regard to the pressure of fulminite of mercury. I wished to see if it would exert enough pressure to shatter the steel, and if it did, then I could calculate the ratio of pressure to a grain of fulminite. This being necessary in connection with another of my inventions.

New Formulae.

"Regarding the nitro-glycerine left in my home and now in the possession of the police: The capsules contained a type of nitro-glycerine which I manufactured before the outbreak of war, and presume to have outstanding qualities in comparison with the regular nitro-glycerine. The formulae being of my own invention is being withheld

"The outstanding qualities are that it has a lower freezing point than the average nitro-glycerine, and I think it is more sensitive to shock and is much stronger than the average nitro-glycerine.

"The only other nitro-glycerine which was in the basement along with the other stuff, was a very small quantity of ordinary C.P. nitro-glycerine which had not undergone my process of treatment.

"In one of my experiments, I invented a new type of bullet which contains my type of explosive in the projectile. Some of these are now in the possession of the police."

Sheep, 300; good and choice 90 lbs. down, $9.50 to $9.75; fat ewes, $4 to $4.50.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Dec. 27 — (CP). — The light run of cattle was cleaned up at strong prices at mid-session on the Toronto Livestock Market today. Calves were firm, sheep strong and few lambs offered sold at steady prices. No hog quotation was established.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 970; calves, 250; hogs, 1,320; sheep and lambs, 220.

Weighty steers sold at $7 to $8 and butcher steers and heifers brought $6.50 to $7.65. A few light steers made $7.75. Cows ranged from $4 to $5.75, and a few bulls sold at $4.75 to $5.50. Fed calves traded at $8 to $9.

Calves sold at $1 1to $12 for choice with the bulk of vealers ranging from $10 to $12. Grass calves brought $5.50 to $6.

Hogs closed yesterday at $9 to $9.10 off truck and $12 dressed-weight.

Lambs sold at $10 to $10.75 according to quality, and sheep ranged from $3 to $6.50.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 27—(CP). — Reports of moisture in sections of the United States winter wheat belt failed to weaken wheat futures prices on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Instead, traders adopted yesterday's strength at Chicago and Buenos Aires as their barometer, and at the close quotations were 1 to ¼ cent higher, December at 85, May 88⅛ and July 89 cents.

Cash wheat operations followed routine lines except for a little terminal buying in No. 1 Northern. Coarse grain trading was featured by a sharp early advance in rye where the May went to a new seasonal high before support thinned.

Official reports said the result was "destruction of some dwellings, one dead and one injured."

The important seaport of Turku (Abo) on the southwest coast was bombed, first by two planes and then by a squadron of 15. Most of the 50 bombs dropped there fell into the water harmlessly.

Helsingfors was visited by a lone enemy plane, but apparently no bombs were dropped.

2 Montreal Units Are Called Up

MONTREAL, Dec. 27 (CP)—The Gazette says today it was learned authoritatively Tuesday that the 1st Battalion of the Black Watch (Royal High' nd Regiment) of Canada and Le Regiment de Maisonneuve, two Montreal infantry units mobilized as part of the 2nd Division of the Canadian Active Service Force, will leave shortly for barracks in Toronto and Quebec respectively.

"The Highlanders," the Gazette says, "will go into quarters in the grounds of the Canadian National Exhibition, where buildings have been used as billets for Toronto district troops since the early days of the war. Vacancies are now available with the transfer of 1st Division troops overseas.

"Le regiment de Maisonneuve will move into the citadel at Quebec, normally the headquarters of the Royal 22nd Regiment of the 1st Division.

Cabinet Majority Would Quit Jap Headache

TOKYO, Dec. 27—(AP).—Premier Nobuyuke Abe received today a resolution signed by 250 of the 463 members of the Japanese House of Representatives asking that the Cabinet "give serious consideration to whether it should remain in power."

The resolution, adopted Tuesday at a conference among members of all parties, was sponsored by the younger element and does not represent parliamentary action. It is not recognized by official heads of the parties.

The resolution expressed the wish for Cabinet consideration of retirement "in view of the heavy responsibility attendant to assisting the throne conduct affairs of state."

(Circles close to the government predicted on December 20 that the Cabinet might fall if the United States did not react favorably to the Japanese proposal for reopening the Yangtse River to foreign trade as far up as Nanking).

Japan qualified her proposed reopening of part of the Yangtse today with the statement by Foreign Office spokesman, Yakichiro Suma, that establishment of a new regime in China was expected to precede such a step.

Japan closed the big Chinese waterway to foreign trade in August, 1937. Reopening as far as Nanking was proposed recently as Japan sought a settlement with the United States over the expiration January 26 of the Japanese-American trade treaty.

AFTER-WORK STYLES

By ALICE ALDEN

LOOK WELL put-together on those 5 o'clock dates. If you're a business girl who wears simple wool dresses such as the model pictured RIGHT, plan on dressy, matching accessories and clip an eye-catching accent to your collar. The bag and gloves shown are in doeskin, hand cross-stitched to contrast. A wool snood catches the loose ends of the hair after a hard day's toil; it's attached to the tiny hat of doeskin. The girl who has time to dress at home for late afternoon dates will find the season's velveteen and velvet frocks an uplift. We show, LEFT, one of the most attractive styles in a full-skirted wool frock under a jacket of velveteen with wool sleeves. Velveteen gloves, fur piece and impudent velvet hat go along.

FASHIONS

Chic simplicity is the keynote of this trim town frock. The unbroken front panel is amazingly slenderizing....soft shirring nips in your waist, lends flattering fullness over the bust. Depending on elegance of line rather than intricacy of detail for its smartness, this is the dress to set off your favorite accessories....your bib necklace or your shining clips. Short and three-quarter sleeves and a V-neck version are also included in the pattern. Black silk crepe is just right for holiday and winter season festivities, for all aged and sizes.

Style No. 3073 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material.

We Noticed

....That the British women doctors—who now number one to every eight men — consider they should be represented on General Medical Council, a powerful governing body, comprising 40 men, which deals with professional etiquette and can remove doctors from the register.

....That London housing expert Elizabeth Denby favors the building of estates of cottages and flats complete with restaurant dance hall, skating rink, etc., so that tenants have recreation on site. She says woman's idea of a perfect house can be built for $2,500.

....That Mrs. Jane Hater, 101, of Romsey, Hants, England, raised a family of 12 on $5 a week, has outlived her husband 30 years and several of her children. She said recently: "I have always worked and lived hard and minded my own business."

Do You Know?

If you do not have a stretcher for shaping laundered curtains, spread a sheet over the carpet and stretch the curtains to the desired size, pinning at intervals to keep them firm until dry.

Do not add dressing to tomato salad until just ready to serve. The salt and vinegar or lemon juice in the dressing tends to draw the juice from the sliced tomatoes, given them a wilted appearance.

Here is a little-known hint for cleaning mirrors. Crush up a piece of washing blue and rub this over the surface of the mirror with a damp cloth. Polish with a clean, dry duster, finishing with a piece of old silk.

Bridal Couple of 50 Years Ago Celebrate On Christmas Day

Mr. and Mrs. William Suggitt celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Christmas Day at their farm home in Sommerville Township near Fenelon Falls, which Mr. Suggitt hewed out of virgin forest, and in which he and his wife have resided since their marriage fifty years ago.

With them were their eight children: Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wicks, Coe Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Graham and Mr. George Suggitt, Fenelon Falls; Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Suggitt, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Melville Suggitt, Kenilworth; Miss Gladys Suggitt, at home; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Suggitt, Fenelon Falls, and nineteen grandchildren.

In the family party also were Mr. Suggitt's brother, Mr. Richard Suggitt, and his wife, and Mrs. Suggitt's brother and sister, Mr. Albert George Eades (groomsman of fifty years ago) and Miss Nettie Eades. Mrs. Robert Graham, bridesmaid at the wedding half a century ago, was absent because of an accident suffered a few days ago. Presentations were made by the children and grandchildren to the celebrants.

Mr. Suggitt is a deacon of the Badow Baptist Church. Mrs. Suggitt was formerly Miss Mary Eades. They were married at Fenelon Falls by the late Rev. James Fraser.

Air Pilots Sing Carols Over City of David

One of the most beautiful of Christmas stories, and one of more than usual interest to Examiner readers because it concerns the son of a well known Campbellford family, is told by Bride Broder, writing in the Globe and Mail.

She says: "While many thousands on more than one continent waited anxiously for news of the missing British airliner, and its pilot, Peter C. Fair, and its crew and passengers, we went back in memory, to old St. George Kingston, and heard again a small boy's treble, a silver strand threading its way among the harmonies of the surpliced choir of men and boys. Now and again it was lifted alone—Peter Fair was singing a solo, and solos were rare in the old cathedral. Clear full of sympathy and understanding, sweet, the boy's voice rose and fell, the great organ, and its Irish organist now bringing it up, now hushing down with it to reveal in its completeness, the beauty of the words.

Then we saw him later, a cadet of th Royal Military College, wearing the uniform as his forbears would have worn it— easily and as a part of life. For his mother was a Miss Cleugh of Campbellford, the village north of Belleville, in which and round about many officers of the army and navy settled in the early days of Canada, and a Cleugh ancestor was one of them.

Later, still, when the last Great War had called the R. M. C. graduates to the colors, Peter Fair, one of the British flying patrol sent to Palestine to help in the maintenance of law and order, bethought him on Christmas Eves of the Christmastides of childhood and of the carols the choir sang each year, and he talked it over with another member of the patrol, who had himself been a chorister in an old parish church in England. Together, when the stars came out over Bethlehem of Judea and all was still in the City of David, these two winged guardians of the air soared aloft and, hovering the plane over the town showered down upon it the carols they remembered from the days of peace. And if few of the inhabitants who heard understood the English words, the language of music, which is universal, fell graciously on their wondering ears, and if some thought they heard the voice of angels, well, what is an angel but a messenger, and Peter Fair and his comrade were messengers of good-will to a land that to them, as to the Jewish, the Christian and the Moslem world is holy."

Irene A. Spencer Becomes Bride Of E. L. Wicks

A pretty ceremony took place at the home of Mrs. Robert Spencer, Ashburn, Toronto, when her daughter, Miss Irene Alberta Spencer, was married to Mr. Everett Lawrence Wicks of Peterborough, son of Rev. F. Wicks and Mrs. Wicks of Coe Hill. The father of the bridegroom officiated in an arch setting of evergreens and white bells, and Mrs. Ivon Spencer of Greenbank played the wedding music.

Ms. Ivon Spencer gave his sister in marriage. She wore a gown of white taffeta with fingertip veil caught with white gardenias. Her flowers were Talisman roses. Miss Dorothy Spencer was her sister's attendant, wearing periwinkle blue taffeta and carrying pink roses. Mr. Lorne Wicks, twin brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman.

Mrs. Spencer wore a gown of vintage crepe, and Mrs. Wicks was gowned in black velvet. After the reception the couple left for Northern Ontario, and will live in Peterborough on their return.

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Remedy. It's Fine.

Gives Quick Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

This well-known home-mixed medicine costs very little, but it gives delightful, swift-acting relief from coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle and add your syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces of really splendid cough remedy—and it gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and children love its taste.

And for quick, satisfying relief, you'll say it's really splendid. It has a three-fold action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear air passages. You'll be delighted by its prompt, pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, a well-known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

She Fell in Love With the One Man She Couldn't Have!

WITH her cornsilk hair and longlashed eyes, Fabienne had always had her way with men. And then the impossible happens—she falls hopelessly in love with a penniless young surgeon who is engaged, os she believes, to the one girl to whom Fabienne is loyal. This brand-new, streamlined romance will intrigue you from the first chapter.

CHILDREN'S Frequent COLDS

✓ For relieving discomforts of chest colds and night coughs, rub VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action relieves congestion of upper air passages—eases soreness of chest and back muscles—helps the youngster relax into healing sleep.

✓ For coughing and irritated throat caused by colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue to relieve the irritation. Then massage VapoRub on throat and chest.

✓ For "sniffles" and misery of head colds, melt VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steaming vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air passages, makes breathing easier. Also massage VapoRub on throat and chest. Millions of families use these three time-tested treatments.

He Refused To Sign

Herbert T. Owens is candidate for Board of Education in Toronto. Like other candidates he has received a copy of a petition which the Canadian Corps Association has forwarded, according to which a candidate must subscribe to a code of this nature:

British subject and has not changed his name since birth; believes in Almighty God and affirms allegiance and loyalty to King and country; the candidate will uphold the flag, the crown and our British institutions, and will do everything he can to keep Canada within the British Empire.

Candidate Owens said plainly he had no intention of subscribing to any such document, and he gave reasons. The House of Lords and the Canadian Senate would be included in the list of British institutions, and he was not in favor of the continued existence of either one.

All the circumstances which go into the woof and warp of our social and economic system, and in the end result in unemployment and relief, might also be brought within the meaning of British institutions, and Candidate Owens was not convinced they should not be changed. In fact he said he would do his level best by orderly and constitutional means to uproot them and seek for something better.

As a rule we do not like election petitions which seek to bind a candidate in advance. Mr. Owens has kicked over the traces of such binding and better still he has explained the reason for the kick. It seems to us he has his head pointed in the right direction.

The Way Of War

The Eskimos who live in that vast Arctic wilderness of ours had really nothing to do with starting the war. Possibly there are many of them in remote spots who are not yet aware there is a war. Even if they heard a radio broadcast they would not understand, as their language is their own.

The war is a good distance away from them but they are feeling its effects. They have furs for sale and many of them used to find a ready market with the Jewish furriers in Germany, but these people are not now buying furs; Hitler put them out of business.

The Eskimo is particularly fond of two things, tea and tobacco. When he breaks through to some trading post now he finds that taxes have driven up the price of these two articles. And they are war taxes. Hitler spoiled their fur market, and the war to fight Hitler has made them involuntary contributors to the war fund.

When there's war on the whole world feels it. Being some thousands of miles away is no guarantee of immunity, and it hurts those who have given no cause for being hurt.

Now The Words Live

His Majesty King George reads carefully and well. When he was searching for material for his Christmas Day broadcast to the Empire, he "came across" something which impressed him, and he decided to use it. Here it is:

"I said to the man who stood at the gate of the year, 'Give me light that I may tread safely into the unknown'; and he replied: 'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than light and safer than the known way.'"

And then the search was on. No authority came forth to name the author of those words, where imagery was so impressive and the simplicity so delectable. After two days of asking and hunting it was found they were written by Miss M. L. Haskins and were published in a letter to the London Times shortly before 1914. Apparently lost and hidden in the interval, they were selected by His Majesty for the conclusion of his message to his people in troubled days. Now they will live.

Doing The Wrong Thing

The owner of a motor car at London, Ont., is under arrest and the charge preferred against him is striking and injuring a cyclist so that the man died and then leaving the scene of the accident. That comes under the general heading of hit-and-run.

And what an exhibition of stupidity. Stupidity of the superlative degree. Had the driver of that car gone direct to the police station and reported that he had struck and killed a man he would at once have placed himself in a most-favored position. He would have made it clear he was trying to conceal nothing; he would have demonstrated that it was an accident and that he was doing all he could to simplify matters for officials; he was coming forward of his own will like a man.

When the hit-and-run driver waits for the law to catch up with him he has forfeited all this. He has become one who has to be hunted out and secured. He places himself in the questionable position of one who would be quite willing to have some other individual blamed—if possible.

Running away after an accident is responding to a foolish instinct which suggests that safety lies in that direction. But it doesn't. Frankness and honesty constitute the best equipment with which to face any such situation. If the driver of a car would only stop and do some hard thinking for a few moments he would never run away.

Needs To Be Explained

Officials of the Treasury Department of Toronto say there will be a saving of $115,000 in salaries during 1940. It came about this way: There were in January of 1938 employees to the number of 106 who were over 70 years of age. In January of 1940 this number will be reduced to 14. Instead of paying them salaries they will receive pensions; $12 per week for the men and $9 for women. There have been no new appointments made to these posts, so the saving of salaries results because the pensions are lower than what these people drew as salaries.

But that requires a little explaining. These people were formerly working for the city; they were doing something each day or they would not have been there. That, at least, is a fair assumption. How can they dispense with the services of 92 employees over 70 years of age and not make any other appointments? Is one expected to believe that the work formerly done by 92 people can be distributed so that others will be able to attend to it as well as looking after the work they are supposed to be doing? It is very nice for officials to point to a saving of $115,000 in wages; it sound pleasant in the ear. But it requires a good deal of explaining to show how 92 people can be retired on pension money and not a single person appointed to carry on the work which these 92 pensioners had been doing.

It's Hard To Believe

Mrs. John Fisher is a resident of the village of Wheatley in Kent county, and she had a birthday which was number 93. Papers generally pay attention to such folk and Mrs. Fisher was no exception. We read where she was certain people should be more contented now because they had so many appliances which made work easier. In the matter of diet Mrs. Fisher eats just about anything which is put on her plate.

But there is nothing remarkable in all that; not a thing to cause one to raise an eyebrow or bring forth such a remark as "Well, I declare." One has to read farther and come to the place where this remarkable lady of 93 years admits openly and without a quiver that she does not know the meaning of vitamins. That is the place where thie sophisticated world should break in with "Well, I declare." It is the spot where the scientific world should raise an eyebrow and declare "Impossible!"

Knows nothing of Vitamin A, B, C, D, eats almost anything that happens to be going on the table, feels well, and is 93. Dear me!

Using The Telephone

The Bell Telephone Co. has been consistently advertising for a long time about son calling up father and daughter calling mother now and then. These advertisements have always been illustrated showing rather wholesome looking people using the telephone. One might be inclined at first glance to say the thing was just one way of advertising in order to secure more business for the telephone company. There is no secret about that; the company believes there is more business to be secured and they have gone after it in a way which attracts attention.

Christmas week-end in Peterborough found people here in conversation with relatives in Santa Monica, California; Palm Beach, Florida; Calgary, Alberta; Columbia, Indiana, and so on. On Christmas Day there were 799 long distance calls put through in this city. And there is something very real in being able to talk to your own folk on that particular day when they happen to be a good many miles distant. Of course it meant more business for the telephone people, and it also meant more genuine pleasure for all the people who participated in the conversations and greetings.

Gold In Our County

Peterborough county steps out in the limelight as the producer of gold. There have been many who contend that the rocky sections of central and eastern Ontario are mineralized, but it has remained for the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Cordova to pour the first brick—of gold.

This is not a new venture; truth is the belief was held about three-quarters of a century ago that there was gold in that district, and an English company at one time operated at Cordova. Today the methods of mining and of treatment of ore are better.

There is nothing spectacular about the methods of the company. They have simply proceeded with the work in hand as though the whole process was thoroughly understood, and the result is that gold is now being produced in our county.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Stolen car was left on the railway tracks at Port Credit and two freight trains hit it, and that looks like a useless duplication of sufficient effort.

Partial eclipse of the sun is due to take place on November 11 in 1940, and we can think of a couple of individuals in Europe who should be in similar state by that time.

Salesman in Kansas City sold toy dogs which would bark. He was a ventriloquist and when the dogs were taken away it was found they wouldn't bark a bark or yip a yip. Arrested for fraud.

South American republics are joining in drawing up a joint declaration of sympathy for Finland. Very nice, but the Finns need something more than that when dealing with the enemy.

Winnipeg city council passed a resolution asking that sanctions be applied against Russia. At the moment the Finns appear to be applying something which is even more effective.

There is a new machine out now for marking test papers in some U. S. schools. The papers are shoved in ond at the other end out pops the marks made. So its' no use taking a big red apple to the teacher.

Already numbers of cars have been abandoned on streets of Montreal due to ice. Montreal have hills where they can't go up and consider it too dangerous to come down. Hence abandonment looks like wisdom.

President Roosevelt is planning to rebuild the world, and after looking at the relief situation in Cleveland, Ohio, where thousands are facing starvation, it does look as though he might do some experimental work there.

The weather in parts of Finland is 25 below zero and the Russian tanks are frozen in their tracks. There are times when we find it hard to understand or appreciate the Weather Man, but on this occasion we regard his judgment as excellent.

A woman from Toronto was arrested and fined in Sarnia to the extent of $50 for selling tickets for a Ridgetown service club, the proceeds being used for crippled children work. If all the people were arrested who had sold similar tickets our courts would be as clogged as the postoffice in Christmas week.

Berlin has banned Nora Wain's book "Reaching for the Stars." It is a rather well written account of actual living conditions in Germany, but it mentions instances of what happened to people who fell into the hands of the Gestapo, and in a general way leaves one wondering what is going to happen in that land. It is good reading matter even if Berlin has banned it.

KIND

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I'd like to be like Uncle Dan, for he's a kindly sort of man, his temper's even too; he never seems to blaze up hot, and say things like he shouldn't ought, or sort of lose a screw.

¶ When neighbors argue loud and long, and Uncle Dan sees where they're wrong, he never starts a fight; he lets them all talk blue and red, and then he quietly goes ahead, and kindly puts them right.

¶ When folk don't fancy some poor chap, and he talking quite a rap, then Dan will hold his peace; he seems to know the talk's not true, and figures the best thing he can do, is just to let it cease.

¶ And meantime Uncle Dan has found, some facts that have a goodly sound, I know it by his smile; he's talked with folk who know this man, and what they've told to Uncle Dan, has made it quite worth while.

¶ Then Uncle Dan meets other men, and passes on good words to them, they see where they were wrong; the man they criticized is spared, the wrong reports are stopped and snared, it's like a happy song.

¶ That's why I like my Uncle Dan, he's such a wholesome sort of man, his goodness cannot cease; if he can't speak a word of praise, about the men who cross his ways—why then he holds his peace.

Mother and Son Swindled The New York Store

A GENTLEMAN who reads the papers carefully and misses little was in the office, and his inquiry was: "Have you read that story about the boy of 18 and his mother putting it over some of the big dealers in New York?"

He was rather taken with the report and he explained it this way: "Just let an honest man who has little money try and secure credit in some of those swank places and see what happens to him. I lived in that city for 18 years and I know there are plenty of stores which do not want a person in the place unless he has the backing of the Social Register. They want the select people to feel when they come there to shop they are not going to have to rub elbows with people who are not their financial or social equals. They made me sick, and yet how easily a pair of plotters made them look silly."

The story to which our visitor was referring is printed here:

NEW YORK.—A jobless clerk, only 18, and his mother, a Queens housewife, were arrested here on charges of defrauding the Pelken Art Galleries, 664 Fifth Avenue, of thousands of dollars' worth of jewelry and furnishings by posing as society folk so wealthy that dollars were peanuts.

During their highly lucrative masquerade, which began last August, the housewife and her suave, though jobless, son are alleged to have lived the roles they assumed in the most hoity-toity of the night clubs and to have become persona grata in the more expensive saloons where safe society cavorts.

The accused pair are William Janica and Mrs. Emma Janica, 40, both of 83-02 63rd Avenue, Forest Hills. The youth's father, who police say, was in no way involved in the swindle, is a stationary engineer. He's jobless, too, so things were pretty gloomy in the Janica household until Willie and mamma decided to do something about it.

Selected $165 Ring

The masquerade began last Aug. 2 when young Janica sauntered into the Pelkin Galleries, casually displayed a card to identify himself as Mr. William J. K. Vanderbilt, somewhat boredly selected a ring costing a mere $165 and nonchalantly offered a $500 cheque in payment.

The galleries were only too happy to accept the cheque and give the dashing young "Mr. Vanderbilt" $335 change with his purchase.

The cheque didn't bounce, either. For, police say, Willie and mamma weren't after chicken feed.

The aristocratic "Mr. Vanderbilt," dropping in at the galleries from time to time through the summer and fall, convinced the attaches there that he was a most democratic young millionaire. He chatted with them just as though he wasn't a Vanderbilt, and even confided that his income was down to a paltry $3,000 a month.

During this time, police say, mamma also visited the galleries now and then, posing as Mrs. Walter C. Hoving, wife of the president of Lord & Taylor.

Then young "Mr. Vanderbilt" and the resplendent "Mrs. Hoving" chanced to drop in together. If the gallery attaches had any doubts about the identity and wealth of the young man these were dispelled by "Mrs. Hoving." She confided quite a number of items of interest concerning her young companion's wealth and social position, leaving the gallery attaches as ready to swear to his identity as their own.

Get Busy

So the attaches considered him as good as money in the bank when "Mr. Vanderbilt" came in Dec. 10 and said he wanted a few things for an apartment he was furnishing in Sutton Place. He thought he should be able to do it quite nicely for $25,000 or so. Didn't they?

The galleries were only too glad to let him have all the furnishings and jewelry he wanted without mentioning such a distastefully crude subject as money. After all, wasn't he Mr. William J. K. Vanderbilt and wasn't he coming back to select the rest of his furnishings?

He didn't come back, though. Neither did "Mrs. Hoving." No William J. K. Vanderbilt was listed in the Social Register. Nor even in the telephone book. So the police were called, and they found that some of the articles bought by "Mr. Vanderbilt" were turning up in pawnshops.

And so detectives went to the Janicas' home and picked up Willie and mamma.

IF HITLER WROTE IT

PEOPLE are apt to throw off some half-considered remark about "the iniquities of the Versailles Treaty." But it is well at such times as these to consider what kind of treaty Hitler would impose on the British Empire if Germany won this war. The Simcoe Reformer rightly reminds Canadians of this angle.

In view of Hitler's record one may well imagine the ruthless terms which he would impose on a defeated nation. He is the last man who should rail against the Treaty of Versailles. That document would prove both mild and generous in comparison with the terms which Hitler would exact. In any case treaties mean nothing to him. He has torn the Treaty of Versailles to shreds and thereby sacrificed the honor of the German nation. As the British leaders have repeatedly stated, they no longer have any faith in his word or his pledge. No pact can be negotiated so long as he remains in power. Once he is overthrown, there is every reason to believe that a fair peace treaty can be arranged.

THEN PEACE

"Wake up, dear, and let's get the row over, because I want to go to bed early tonight."

—Humorist.

• U.S. Must Live With the Result

WHEN Lord Halifax protested against the appeal of Lord Darnley and Lord Arnold, Conservative and Laborite peers, for a negotiated peace, he warned that such pleas would create the impression that Britain was not substantially united. He also declared sharply that Britain had never closed the door to negotiations. The British Foreign Minister summed up the government's view—which is undoubtedly the view of most of the country—that, although a peace after a long and bitter war would present difficulties, they would be no greater than those attending the making of a "patched-up" peace.

A "patched-up peace is not only impossible, but would merely be an armistice in a continuing war. You cannot "patch up" the differences between the totalitarian European conception of the Nazi government and any other conception which might be called free, or democratic, or humane, or consistent with anything in the tradition of Western civilization.

The differences between the Nazis and Stalin's Communists are superficial and adjustable.

The differences between either of them and the rest of the Western world are essential and incompatible.

This does not make the struggle a struggle between capitalism and socialism. It is a struggle between a dynamic, revolutionary process whose object is the total overturn of everything existing, and great nations of people who resist in behalf of reason, experience and the right to evolve the necessary changes and adjustments in peace.

The outcome of this struggle is not a matter of indifference to the neutrals. For the European neutrals it is as important as it is to the European belligerents. For the outcome will determine the form of life and society which they must eventually share with the rest of Europe.

Nor is the outcome a matter of indifference to the United States.

If the outcome should be general anarchy or sporadic revolutions, arising out of exhaustion and despair, the burden upon the United States of supporting and maintaining civilization on this continent will be intolerable. I greatly doubt whether we will be equal to it. That is the worst that can be envisaged.—(From article by Dorothy Thompson, in the New York Herald-Tribune.)

• They Do Not Appear To Agree

OTTAWA JOURNAL

THEY'VE MADE Leonard Brockington, K.C., a sort of Recording Angel of our part in the war.

Mr. Brockington, we are told, is "to advise and assist the Government in providing accurate and essential information to the people of Canada"; will be used to "explain publicly what the Government is doing, and why"; will be concerned with "the recording and interpretation of Canada's war effort."

The people may want occasionally to hear direct from the Prime Minister, and from other ministers; only they can speak with full authority. But for the most part, we feel sure, they would prefer to hear about our war effort from Mr. Brockington; prefer to have the story told vividly, glamorously, with what Morley once called the "glory of words."

There is the radio. Not many men, no matter how good in Parliament or on a platform, can use it attractively .... Mr. Brockington, by common consent, is the best radio speaker in Canada. Voice, diction, command of simple, distinguished words—"words that walk up and down in the hearts of his hearers"—all are his possession. They are things he should be made to share, along with war information, with the Canadian people. He should be made to do it on the radio, and also on the platform. Made to make over and over again the sort of speech he delivered in Montreal some months ago; a speech which, for felicity of expression, for appeal to our higher and better national impulses, could scarcely be bettered.

Let Mr. Brockington record all he wants to. But, more than anything less, let—and make—him talk. It is a part of the man's genius. Mr. Mackenzie King is to be congratulated on attaching him to his staff.

KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD

THE Toronto Globe and Mail has done well to draw attention to the possible reaction to the appointment of Mr. Leonard W. Brockington as official chronicler of Canada's part in the war. It appears to many like an effort to provide Mr. Brockington with a job.

No one will for a minute gainsay Mr. Brockington's ability. He is a very clever lawyer and a brilliant orator. Unfortunately, however, Mr. Brockington is possessed of a rather autocratic disposition, as are many men of outstanding ability. There are positions in which this characteristic is a qualification rather than a handicap, but we doubt if it will be useful in a position in connection with the Prime Minister's office.

Just why Mr. Brockington has been appointed we do not know. Mr. George Hambleton, formerly a valued member of The Canadian Press staff, is already attached to the Prime Minister's office in some capacity or other. Major Tom Weyling, formerly of the Press Gallery, is attached to the Department of National Defence, and Mr. Walter Thompson is head of the Bureau of Information. These are all capable newspaper men and no appointment could possibly have been more popular than that of Walter Thompson.

If Mr. Mackenzie King was looking for a trained chronicler to do a really first-class job, the best appointment he could have made would have been Mr. J. F. B. Livesay, late general manager of The Canadian Press, war correspondent for The Canadian Press in the last war and author of "Canada's Hundred Days."

To The Editor

THE RINK AT KEENE

Editor Examiner;

Sir,—As a ratepayer in the township of Otonabee I think the same as a lot more people in the village of Keene and the farmers on the outskirts of Keene, that we should have our rink repaired as we all know our council did leave this matter to a late date which could have been taken care of months ago for the young people of this municipality.

Hoping this will drive some knowledge into the parents of this township. Thanking you for space in your valuable paper.

JOHN FARROW.

Keene, Ont.

WHAT FINNS WANT

WE ARE giving the Finns bread, but what they ask are stones, the stones of war—bullets to rain upon the red horde, airplanes to shower a leaden hail from the skies, cannon to smash the advance of mechanized forces. What Finland gets from us are chiefly food products and clothing for the home population.

Is there any reason why, if we really sympathize with the Finn cause, and really want Finland to hold off the invader, we should coldly refuse to give her the aid she requires?

Our failure to invoke the Neutrality Act, through a transparent sophistry that fools nobody, is heartily applauded by the whole American people. At least, then, let us be forthright in our hypocrisy. So long as the law's application is withheld in this case there is nothing whatever to prevent us from supplying the Finns with guns, munitions and 'planes. These, at the moment, constitute not only the best guarantee for the safety of our loan but also of a successful stand against the invasion.

And the latter is what we really want to see, is it not?—Chicago Daily News.

Three-Act Play Heads Concert

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 27 (ENS)—A delightful program featured by a humorous three-act play was presented at the Cobourg Road School as a part of their annual Christmas entertainment.

Though nearly every pupil contributed something to the lengthy program the play itself, which was directed by the very efficient teacher, Miss K. Crosson, had a supporting cast consisting of young people of the section.

Miss Crosson herself capably handled the leading role, and was assisted by Eric Pulfer, Leo Gibson, Howard Porter, John Gibson, Jack Smith, Mrs. Jack Cleary, Miss Winnifred Beamish, Miss Irene Gibson, and Mrs. Bruce Trotter. Title of the play, the action of which took place in a typical rural setting, was "Deacon Dubbs."

Donald Beamish was chairman of the evening, and the program opened with a chorus "Deck the Halls." Other numbers included recitations by Dorothy Oliver, David Cook, Dan Cleary, Eddie Smith, Shirley Keogan. Sam Beamish, Howard Richardson, Helen Lamey, Lyle Cook. Other numbers included a dialogue by seven pupils, a chorus, dance by Donna Beamish ,solo by Howard Richardson, dialogue by Isobel Beamish, Mary Smith, Elmer Taylor, Jack Lamey, and Sammy Beamish; solo, Helen Richardson; tap dance, Marguerite Kelleher; solo, Helen Lamey; dance Marguerite Kelleher. At the close the pupils sang "Santa Claus Express," after which presents from the heavily laden tree were distributed.

Ex-93rd Man Drowns On Service In Britain

HAVELOCK, Dec. 27.—Word has just been received from overseas by relatives of Private Abraham Tice, Post L 1070 C.A.S.F., that he was drowned in Great Britain. The message contained no further information except to say that further details would follow.

Mr. Bruce Post of Havelock, who received the message, said that he had not seen his brother for 14 years, during which time he is believed to have been in Regina. Local relatives did not know of his enlistment nor in what branch of the service he was. Mr. Post, a man of 43 years, served with the old 93rd Battalion in the Great War.

With The Boy Scouts

St. John's

The St. John's Rover crew have decided to hold mixed social at the home of Art Winslow, 198 Barnardo avenue, on Tuesday, January 2.

On Sunday, January 14, the crew has invited All Saints' crew to join in Corporate Communion followed by breakfast. Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson will be guest speaker.

Arrangements are being made for the crew's annual banquet soon.

Thirty-four hungry Wolf cubs sat down to the second annual Christmas supper at St. John's, on Friday. Afterwards Rann led in games of Rats and Rabbits, also Rotating Story; Baloo leading in the old favorite "Train Relay."

The Bill Coleman Memorial Trophy Committee paid the pack a visit, Mr. Lyburn announcing that St. John's pack had been awarded the trophy; President William C. English congratulating the cubs on winning the totem pole, stating it would be presented in a week or two.

Red Flower was one of Christmas carols and the story of "Christmas Legend" told by Baloo.

The pack will meet at 9.30 on Friday morning, December 29, in the Sunday school.

All Saints'

There will be no meeting of either pack or troop on Friday next, owing to Sunday school being occupied.

At St. James'

The Group Mothers' Auxiliary is holding a festive concert party on Friday next to assist funds for the carrying on of the group activities. Many outside artists are included in the program as well as special acts from each of the cub and scout sections. A silver collection will be taken up.

Few Reports.

No doubt the group officers have the holiday spirits, for very few reports have been received, but one message I would like to pass along: On Sunday next, at midnight, we will be turning onto a new page in the passage of time. Old Man 1939 will be laid aside and new history will be headed under the title of 1940.

Scouting in Peterborough has slipped a trifle during the past. So let us go ahead in the New Year with the determination to do better, that we will help build up a better world by our actions toward one another.

There is much talk of the want of peace, of the cessation of war. This can only be accomplished by the work of brotherly love from man to man.

CARD OF THANKS

TO THE CITIZENS OF PETERBOROUGH:

As announced last week, I am not a candidate at this time for re-election to the City Council. However, I wish to thank all those who have supported me in the past and who offered to support me again if I entered the contest this year. I wish also to repeat my expression of thanks to the mover and seconder of my nomination.

I have not been a member of the City Council for any great length of time, but I have arrived at the conclusion that it requires considerable time and energy of every Alderman if he is to do his share of the work.

I want to congratulate Mayor Hamilton on his re-election, and also the city on having at its head for the next few years, which are likely to be very trying years, a man who puts everything he has—patience, sound judgment and hard work—into the job he has to do.

Chairmen of committees also have an important responsibility, and from my observations they have made a success of what they have undertaken. Now that I am not a candidate, I can say that every elected official who is honestly doing the best he can to serve the City deserves the thanks of the tax-paying public, and the fact that good service has been given by this and previous councils is evidenced by the financial statement published by Mayor Hamilton a few days ago. We stand at the head of cities in our class financially, educationally and as a fine place in which to live.

Previous councils have also had the foresight to appoint heads of departments who are capable and desirous of serving the citizens, and who co-operate in a thorough manner with the Mayor and Council.

The assistants under the heads of the departments are imbued with the same desire to serve. An efficient and trustworthy civil service is just as essential as the City Council to good local government.

I should say something of the doings of the Manufacturers Committee of which I have been chairman several years. Peterborough is an industrial city, and its further growth must come from industry whether from new concerns coming in or by additions to plants already established.

We have lost one plant, the Auburn Woollen Mills, for which I feel no blame should be attached to the Manufacturers Committee. We have made a new lease with the Canadian Nashua Paper Company and its subsidiary, the Canadian Sealright Company, through the help of Mr. J. F. Marshall, local manager, and of the President of the Company who visited Peterborough with company engineers. It was against the opinion of the engineers, who said that the present buildings were not just so well suited for the most efficient production of their goods, that the company decided on making a new lease with the City, largely due to the very cordial relations and goodwill that have been in existence between the Company and the City ever since its establishment here.

Goodwill and co-operation with established industry is very vital for a city such as this which has not all the advantages to offer prospective plants that we had at one time.

Mr. A. E. K. Bunnell has established in a part of the old Wm. Hamilton Company building a modern plant for the manufacture of ventilating blinds, which is already a very busy concern. An addition has also been made to the already large plant of the Quaker Oats Company, one of our most important industries.

The Mayor, members of the Manufacturers Committee and other aldermen have been making goodwill visits to local plants, in a desire to be of assistance and making enquiries as to possible additions to any of the factories, and I would not be surprised if one or more of the plants visited might be able to make an announcement of factory expansion before the new year is well advanced.

A gentleman from Toronto called to see me Friday, whose information usually is quite reliable. He stated that in order to safeguard Great Britain's financial position and to avoid the loss of very considerable export trade as it did in the last war this business would be turned over to the dominions, and that there was the prospect of much new British capital being spent here to erect factories that would carry on during and after the war, bringing with it heavy immigration.

This applied not only to Canada but to all the Dominions of the Empire, and if this is a fact Canada has a future such as we have not dreamed of. Peterborough should share in this development, and be on the alert to take advantage of opportunities, if this information should turn out to be true.

These are just a few observations after four congenial years with the Mayor and the Council, and a brief report of the Manufacturers Committee, which together with the Mayor and the whole council has made quite a number of contacts but without success up to the present, owing to many difficulties due to the competition in this work. From what I can see there is a much brighter outlook than for some years back.

I heartily wish Mayor Hamilton and his new council every success during the coming year, and to that end the co-operation of every citizen in advancing the interests of Peterborough.

With best wishes to every citizen for happiness, good health and better times in the years to come, I am, sincerely yours

Bank Of Montreal To Amalgamate Its Two Offices In Peterborough

The two offices of the Bank of Montreal in Peterborough are being amalgamated at the end of this month, and with the beginning of the new year business will be confined to the premises at the corner of Simcoe and Water street, where customers of this 122-year-old institution will find much improved facilities for their convenience and accommodation.

One of the features of the alterations is the new safety deposit box department. A large new modern vault has been constructed to hold safety deposit boxes, and it also contains a section set apart for the use of customers. Separated from the rest of the bank by a polished steel grille enclosure, this department has been given a decidedly attractive appearance.

Extensive changes are also being made to the savings department. This part of the building is to be improved with a new front on Simcoe street, and substantial extensions and refinements are being made to the counter and fittings. In harmony with the design and appointments, low-type tellers' cages are replacing the old ones, and provision has been made to give customers the utmost service.

Other major changes are the installation of two new managers' offices and an adjoining loan department to facilitate the handling of all classes of loans, including the Home Improvement Plan an dthe Personal Loan, both of which have become so deservedly popular.

Office Redecorated.

The whole office has been completely redecorated. The floor of all the public space, including the safety deposit department, is receiving an attractive marboleum treatment, and, carrying out the modernization of the premises, an indirect lighting system has been installed.

Peterborough and the Bank of Montreal have been closely associated for nearly one hundred years. Oldest of the city's financial institutions, the bank began business here in 1843, seven years before Peterborough's incorporation as a town, and when the population was only 1,000. Continuously providing the expanding services of an institution that is nation-wide in scope, the bank has co-operated in all the enterprises of the citizens that have seen the community reach its present place of importance in the Province.

The managers of the bank have have constantly directed their efforts in the best interests of the people, and have been always taken an active part in the affairs of the community.

Robert Nicholls, first agent of the Bank of Montreal in Peterborough, played an especially important part in the growth of the town in its earliest days. He accepted the position of town treasurer when Peterborough was incorporated in 1850, and for many years he was one of its most prominent citizens and benefactors. Many evidences of the generosity of both Mr. and Mrs. Nicholls are to be found today in Peterborough. The splendid hospital which bears their name was one of their municifent bequests to the town which will perpetuate their memory in Peterborough's history.

First Safe of Bank.

Mention of Nicholls Hospital brings to mind an interesting act bearing on the comparison of banking methods of today with those of the middle of last century. Visitors to the hospital are surprised to see a quaint old iron safe given a place of prominence. This was the bank's first safe, and an inscription states that it was made by John English in 1848.

The story goes that Mr. Nicholls did not consider this safe quite fireproof or secure against burglary, and so he carried home the bank's funds in a tin box each evening.

Customers of the Peterborough branch of the Bank of Montreal will be glad to learn that upon the amalgamation of the businesses of the two offices next week, C. S. Cummer is to be an associate manager with T. A. Mackay, the present manager of the main branch.

Both Mr. Mackay and Mr. Cummer are bankers of long experience whose counsel has been found invaluable to customers of the bank for many years.

Mr. Mackay began his banking career more than 40 years ago, and some of the more important positions he held before coming to Peterborough in 1931 were the managerships of the Stratford and Sarnia offices and the assistant managership of the bank's main branch in Toronto.

Mr. Cummer's early training took him to many of the bank's offices in Ontario. He had charge of the Tara and Lucan branches before being appointed manager of the George street branch in Peterborough shortly after the last war.

Urge Italy, Vatican Work To Get Peace

ROME, Dec. 27.—(AP)— A suggestion that the Italian Government and the Holy See collaborate for promotion of peace and opposition to any spread of Communism has come from a journalist reputed to be closest to Foreign Minister Count Ciano.

The newspaper, Giovanni Ansaldo, was quoted yesterday by the Catholic Journal Avvenire as indicating such a possibility was heightened by the prospective visit of Pope Pius to King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena tomorrow—the first visit by a Pope to an Italian sovereign in 69 years.

"The Catholic church can never desire any solution of the crisis which would diminish Italian prestige and power," Ansaldo was quoted.

"Conversely, the Italian State can never passively tolerate that any political or social organization should prevail in Europe which fights Catholicism, impedes its free practice, humiliates it, bans it and massacres its priests."

Henry L. Doherty, Gas Czar Dies

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Death has ended the success saga of Henry L. Doherty—the poor boy who realized a dream of business empire. The 69-year-old head of the far-flung Cities Service Company died last night of bronchial pneumonia.

Doherty's fortunes had their inception in Columbus, O., where he was born May 15, 1870—a newsboy at 10, Gas Company manager at 20, and so up the scale to millions at 40.

It was at 40 that life for Doherty began in the larger sense, for in 1910 he launched Cities Service. Under his guidance, its flourished into an enterprise of international dimensions. By 1929 its assets in utilities and oil holdings totalled more than $1,000,000,000.

City's Banking Facilities Reach New Standard

FOLLOWING extensive alterations and additions to its premises at Simcoe and Water Streets, the Bank of Montreal —in amalgamating its Peterborough offices—will provide greatly improved facilities in the conduct of banking matters.

The work has been in progress for several weeks and will be completed about the end of January.

You are cordially invited to call and inspect the office and to make use of its exceptional facilities.

Airline Service Is Maintained

LONDON, Dec. 27 — (CP).—War has not halted civil aviation, but it has restricted its operations and spelled a virtual "blackout" of information about it.

Planes still fly between Britain and several Continental countries, including France. But the Air Ministry won't say for publication with what countries services are maintained.

The war has not stopped the Empire air services to India, Australia, and South Africa. But their frequency has been reduced, as an economy measure the "all up" air mail scheme was dropped at the outbreak of war. Air mail letters to the Empire now have to carry a heavy additional impost. Ordinary letters are sent as they used to be, by boat.

Travellers who go by air have discovered one unwelcomed change since war began. Pilots now have instructions to fly through storm areas instead of around them. It often means a bumpy ride. Wireless communication, particularly concerning the weather, is rigidly restricted lest useful information be picked up by the enemy.

Christmas Concert Held At Alwnick

ROSENEATH, Dec. 27—(ENS).—The annual concert and Christmas tree of S. S. No. 3, Alnwick, was held on Friday night in the schoolhouse, when a high class concert was presented by the pupils under the direction of their teacher, Miss Helen Richardson.

Following the program Santa arrived and help distribute the gifts from the tree.

Trustee Earl Braithwaite presided over the following program. There were recitations by juveniles, Roma Braithwaite, Joy Parker, Adele Varcoe, Theodore Parker and Harold Parker. Pupils giving recitations were Donie Ferguson, Trevor Brown, George Ferguson, Lavigne Parker, Bernice aPrker and Verna Wynn.

Musical numbers were contributed by Helen Glover, a solo; piano duet by Phyllis Parker and Ila McCracken. A vocal duet, 'Afton Water,' by Merla Braithwaite and Lois Brown; a solo, 'Over the Rainbow' by Merla Braithwaite; a duet by Clarence and Francis Parker; a solo, 'Santa Claus,' by Verna Winn. There were Christmas carols, and choruses by the pupils; community singing led by W. Wildman, music teacher; three dialogues by the pupils, and one adult dialogue; a monologue by Helen Braithwaite; a dance of greetings by the juniors; a foursome reel, and an address by the chairman.

To Represent City

The council agreed to Mayor Hamilton's question as to whether City Solicitor Huycke should go to Toronto Thursday to defend the council's action.

Reverting to the discussion of the proposed appeal, Alderman Glover enquired why the matter should not be approached in a legal way.

Alderman Gordon—"You mean by local option?"

Alderman Glover—"Yes. That is the way provided."

Alderman Gordon—"I don't think public opinion has reached the point where they would be willing to vote for prohibiting the sale of beer and wine. I think the last vote clearly showed that. But this sale of wine is a most obnoxious thing."

Alderman Glover—"I think that wine is used as a base with rubbing alcohol and the other things some men put into it after they buy it."

Alderman Gordon said the Hillrust company had plenty of time for an appeal if they had filed their motion with the court earlier.

Alderman Glover said that as he understood it Alderman Gordon's idea "was still to take the vote" if the motion was granted.

Alderman Juby— "If they were closed up, what is to hinder the Hillrust Company from coming back again under another charter? And I am as much opposed to the shop as any one."

Alderman Gordon—"I don't think another wine shop license would be granted here in the face of adverse public opinion."

W. F. Huycke, K.C., City Solicitor, referring to a recent comment in the Examiner quoting a statement from the Department of Municipal Affairs, said he considered that reference to a Hamilton case was incorrect, even if it did come from the Department. The Hamilton question proposed to ask the Liquor Control Board to fix closing hour of beverage rooms at 10 p.m. throughout the province.

"The Hamilton people tried to go too far," Mr. Huycke commented. "I have read a number of observations on that case. They say that when a question comes under the Liquor Control Act it is not a municipal matter. I don't like to see the city becoming involved in litigation. If the decision goes against us it will cost nearer $100 than the $50 Mr. Gordon estimated. Then if it is to be taken in the Court of Appeal the costs would be higher.'"

Alderman Glover—"I don't like involving at this late time of the year the council of 1940 in a lawsuit, especially when we don't know where we are going."

Aldermen Wilson and Juby said that Peterboro could wait until it heard the outcome of the other resolution to the legislature permitting municipal councils throughout the province to vote on wine shops.

"We should have simplified the question we decided to submit to the people and asked instead "Are you in favor of the operation of a wine shop in Peterboro?" Alderman Bradburn remarked. "That would have avoided mentioning the present shop."

Alderman McCannan was informed that native wines are also sold at the Liquor Control Board's shop on George street, and Alderman Gordon admitted that he was learning something when he was told that sale of these wines at the George street store does not require a permit.

Broader Legislation.

The other resolution by Alderman Gordon, seconded by Alderman McIntyre, was as follows:

"That the Ontario government be requested to pass legislation permitting municipal councils by a three-quarter vote either of the council or of the ratepayers to abolish and cancel the license of, and to prevent the opening of, wine shops or places for the selling of native wines in such municipalities; and that a copy of this resolution be sent to each member of the Government and to Mr. A. L. Elliott, K.C., M.P.P."

Beat The Atlantic

THOMASTON, Me., Dec. 27 (AP)—The crew of the Norwegian steamship Tana won a battle with the stormy north Atlantic today, repairing a broken rudder in mid-ocean and cancelling a call for assistance.

First radio messages picked up by the Mackay radio station indicated the Tana's distress was acute and that one of her lifeboats had been swept away by boarding seas. An hour later, the 5,535-ton vessel advised the damage had been repaired and that she had resumed her course. The Tana gave her position as 1,350 miles east of New York.

BISHOP'S PROTEST

ELY, England—(CP)—The Bishop of Ely, Dr. B. O. F. Heywood, is willing to sacrifice the expensive pomp of his episcopal palace and live in a six-room dwelling. The 54-room palace is outdated, he protests.

Burchell Calls For Cooperation

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 27 — (CP Cable). — Charles Burchell, K.C., Canada's first High Commissioner to Australia, said to-day that it was especially necessary for the two Dominions to co-operate to the fullest extent at a time when the Empire is fighting for its life.

Mr. Burchell, who arrived here today, told The Canadian Press that he hoped his new appointment would help bring Canada and the Commonwealth closer together.

He expressed the keenest satisfaction over the naming of Sir Thomas Glasgow as first Australian High Commissioner to Canada. The move would be most popular in Canada, he said, and was likely to be followed by appointment of a Canadian Commissioner to New Zealand.

Main work for Mr. Burchell during the next few weeks, probably will be in assisting the completion of the Empire air training scheme. He said he would fully investigate Australian air field accommodation. He stressed the enormous part Canada is playing in the scheme on which she is spending about $1,000,000 daily.

The new High Commissioner will go to Canberra, the capital, to-day. Early in the New Year he may tour all the states.

Mr. Burchell arrived as another move in the Commonwealth's diplomatic corps was causing widespread comment. Prospect of the appointment of Richard G. Casey, Minister of Supply and Australian delegate to the recent Empire talks in London, as Minister in Washington was welcomed here. Commentators stressed that this was a most important appointment for the development of Australian Pacific policy.

Doughnut and Hamburger Snacks

To supply British and French soldiers with free snacks American women have presented numerous canteens to be set up in England and France, and the picture shows Lady Astor, American-born member of the British parliament, serving two American standbys, doughnuts and hamburgers, to evidently happy consumers. "Sinkers" made a big hit during the last war, but the "Wimpy specials," 'tis said, are slow to catch on. The warriors claim to be well-fed at the regular mess without adding any ground morsels between times.

Cottesloe School Holds Concert

COTTESLOE, Dec. 27—(ENS). — The Cottesloe Christmas concert was held in the school on Thursday evening, with a good attendance. The program opened with a chorus by the school. Mr. Webster was chairman and made a brief address. "Merry Christmas" was a recitation in unison by seven pupils; "'Twas the Night Before Christmas," another recitation in unison; dialogue, "Cora's Callers," by senior girls; recitation, "When Santa Claus Comes"; dialogue, "Eating a la Mode" by the senior boys; recitation, "Why?" by two little girls; dialogue, "Making a Cake," by Alvin Clements, Eric Gallagher, and Carmen Nelson, brought forth much applause; a number of juniors sang jingles; dialogue, "Getting Even with Sister's Beau," by the seniors; play, "Oh, Doctor," by eight young men, and directed b J. S. Kidd, produced much merriment, when the darkey doctor's assistant undertook to perform operations during the doctor's absence; tableau, "The Christmas Star," was enacted by ten girls and was very beautiful.

The program closed with "God Save the King." Santa came with his pack and unloaded the tree, which was laden with beautiful gifts. Much credit is due Miss Jones and her pupils for the beautiful decorations which made the room very attractive.

South Dummer held their concert on Wednesday evening. The program was excellent and Miss Barrie deserves special mention for her training of the pupils.

Children Give Fine Program

OMEMEE, Dec. 27—(ENS). — The annual Christmas entertainment of Trinity United Church Sunday School was held in the basement on Thursday night and was largely attended.

Election Of Pope

side saw a wisp of white smoke curl up from the chimney of the Sistine Chapel, the age-old signal to a waiting world that a new Pope had been chosen.

Elected on the third ballot was Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, 63, the new Pontiff chose the name of Pius XII., in tribute to his beloved predecessor.

A Warning Back in April.

Pius XII. appealed for world peace in his homily delivered at Easter Mass on April 9. The Pope warned that peace could not be achieved "if solemnly sanctioned treaties and the pledged word have lost that security and that value which are the indispensable bases of reciprocal confidence."

On August 25, with Europe on the brink of war, the Pope broadcast a message urging responsible statesmen to do everything in their power to spare their peoples the horrors of conflict.

On October 27 the Pope issued the first encyclical of his reign—"Summi Pontificatus"—denouncing "the denial and rejection of a universal form of morality" and "the divorce of civil authority from every kind of dependence on the Supreme Being." The Pope was obviously referring to Germany and Soviet Russia, although he did not name them.

President Roosevelt's announcement on December 23 that he was sending Myron G. Taylor as a peace Ambassador to the Vatican was followed by the Pope's own Christmas Eve message outlining five essential conditions for a "just and honorable peace"—a guarantee of independence to all nations, general disarmament, creation or reformation of international pledges, fulfillment of the "true needs" of national and racial minorities, and substitution of "moral justice" for all hatreds, in keeping with Christian principles.

Held For Desertion

PEMBROKE, Ont., Dec. 27 — (C. P)—Charged with desertion from His Majesty's forces, Max Skebo, 35, of Barry's Bay, Ont., member of the First Division of Signals at Barriefield, Ont., near Kingston, appeared in court today and was remanded to jail.

A military escort will arrive tonight to take him to Kingston for hearing. It was alleged Skebo did not return after being given leave 24 days ago prior to the sailing of the First division.

He was arrested at his home in Barry's Bay by Provincial Constable W. J. Johnston.

Legless Aviator Flying For R.A.F.

LONDON, Dec. 27—(CP). — The Daily Mail reported today that a legless pilot, Flying Officer Robert Stewart Bader, is serving with the Royal Air Force.

"Coming out of a slow roll over Woodley Airdrome at Reading," the paper said, "he crashed and for weeks struggled against death in a hospital.

"That was eight years ago. Now, although he is legless as a result of the crash, he is once more a Royal Air Force pilot in Great Britain.

"Within nine months of the accident he was fitted with two artificial legs and again passed as a 100 per cent. first-class pilot. As soon as he could, he took a course in civil aviation and actually operated a plane, operating the rudder controls with his false legs.

"He applied to be taken back into the service, but it was peace time, and the Air Ministry refused. He continued to fly, and practised on many aircraft types.

"On the outbreak of war he renewed his application to the Air Ministry, asking to be allowed to fly single seaters. This time he was accepted."

Cars Impounded Two Drivers Placed In Jail

Two young men pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in traffic court this morning to charges of drunken and dangerous driving and received jail sentences and fines. In both cases the police were directed by the court to impound the offender's car for three months.

Thomas Foley, Oshawa, was sentenced to ten days in jail on a drunken driving count and fined $15 and $1.75 costs for dangerous driving.

Charles Pogue, 34, Fenelon Falls was given seven days in jail for drunken driving and on his plea of guilty to dangerous driving was fined $10 and $1.75 costs.

The charges in both cases followed traffic accidents on highways in this district. Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., prosecuted.

After Foley had pleaded guilty to two charges John A. Bradshaw urged leniency for him.

Describes Accident

Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd A. McClure was called to give evidence as to the accident. He said that when called to the scene five miles from Peterborough on the Peterborough-Port Hope highway on Saturday afternoon, December 16, he had found that Foley's car had driven along the shoulder of the highway for some distance on the wrong side of the road, then over a culvert, along the ditch for several hundred feet and then had crashed into another culvert. One of the passengers had been badly hurt about the face, his nose and cheek bones having been broken; the other was not injured except for a few scratches.

Foley, the officer said, was intoxicated and had not been able tell much about what had happened.

Magistrate Langley then imposed jail sentence of ten days on the drunk driving charge and a fine in the other with an alternative of ten days in jail to run consecutively with the other sentence. The fine was paid.

His Guard Rail

After Charles Pogue of Fenelon Falls had pleaded guilty to drunk and dangerous driving on Highway 7 on the night of December 18, Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon E. Broughton told the court some of the circumstances of the case. Pogue, he said, had driven his car into a guard rail at the point where the Lindsay highway left the Chemong Road and had knocked over a number of posts. He was alone at the time, 11.30 o'clock at night, and no one was injured to the accident.

"He was in no shape to drive a car," said the officer in answer to a question as to Pogue's sobriety at the time of the accident," but I have seen drivers who were drunker."

Acting Crown Attorney Kerr informed the court that it had been stated to him that Pogue had recently enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The Fenelon Falls mechanic stated that he had put his application in some time ago and expected to be called any time.

Magistrate Langley made the jail sentence for drunken driving in his case seven days and the fine for dangerous driving $10 with the alternative in the latter case ten days imprisonment, Pogue paid the fine.

Midnight Service Held At St. George's

Singing of Christmas carols was a feature of a special midnight service on Sunday at St. George's Anglican church, when a capacity attendance was present.

In his address, Rev. T. H. Floyd quoted parts of the Examiner's Christmas editorial, setting forth the proper way in which the Nativity should be observed. The rector also gave four reasons why Christian people should observe the great festival of the church. Choral communion was observed, administered by the rector.

On Christmas morning at 8:30 o'clock Holy Communion was observed. Member of the A.Y.P.A. were thanked by the rector for the way in which they had decorated the church.

THEATRE TREAT

Children of St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Children's Shelter were guests of the New Centre Theatre Tuesday afternoon to see David Copperfield.

PLEADS GUILTY.

Pleading guilty to a charge of having been drunk, two young men whose window-smashing activity the other night alarmed a Sherbrooke street family was fined $10 and $3 by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in police court this morning.

THE LONG LOOK

Taking the long view of things, Alderman Stocker told the council in an interjected comment that the new boulevard along Crescent street will have to be provided with a water service, "or it will burn as brown as Armour Hill."

MILES OF SKATING

A native runner from Rice Lake brings the news that the great open spaces afforded miles and miles of skating. The ice is glare and smooth, and has acquired the thickness of safety in all directions restoring motor traffic to George Nurse's island.

FIGHT FOR REEVESHIP.

Emily Township will have a battle for the Reeveship next Monday between W. J. Patrick and Wilbert Fee. The councillors have been elected by acclamation as follows: Thomas Morrissey, Wesley Wilson, Paul Maguire, Harold Dick.

DAMAGED AT STATION.

Earl Robinson, R. R. 6, Peterborough, parked his car at the loading platform of the C. P. R. station early this morning. After the train had gone he discovered that his front left fender had been badly bent. According to the police report the damage had been done by a truck driven by Joseph Connor of the Old Orchard Farm, backing into the other machine.

MAYOR CONGRATULATED.

Mayor James Hamilton received the congratulations of his colleagues on the Board of Police Commissioners when he arrived at Tuesday's meeting. Judge S. L. Smoke, chairman of the Board, voiced felicitations to the Mayor upon his re-election, and expressed pleasure that he was again to be associated with the Commission, and Magistrate E. A. Gee concurred in the sentiments.

A BIG CHRISTMAS GREETING.

Members of the local Police Department have received the biggest Christmas cards on record this Yuletide. They came from Dave Picard, one of the executives of the Conklin Shows, and were the same size and style as show bills and as gaily colored. "This was the biggest way I could think of to wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year," the bills proclaimed in huge letters.

BOTH CLAIM GREEN.

Cars owned by Andrew Harnden, R.R. 1, Grafton, and John R. Doogan, 352½ Water Street, were damaged to the extent of $40 when they met in collision at Water and Hunter Streets on Tuesday afternoon. Harnden had been driving east on Hunter Street and was making a left turn north on to Water Street, while Doogan was driving north on Water Street. Both drivers told police that they had the green light with them.

IS FOUND GUILTY.

An Ashburham man, charged with being drunk in whose case judgment had been reserved until today after the evidence had been heard a week ago was found guilty by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in police court this morning and fined $10 and $3 costs. He intimated that he would take the alternative ten-day jail sentence. A second charge of consuming liquor while on the interdicted list was dismissed when the police offered no evidence.

TRAFFIC CASES.

In traffic court this morning, James Wheeler, Simcoe street was fined $10 and $2.50 costs when he pleaded guilty to careless driving following a minor accident. A. L. Payne was fined $5 and $2.50 costs for not having proper identifying lights on his truck and Joseph Hickey paid the same amount for failure to produce his license when called upon to do so. William Tracey was fined $10 on a charge of not transferring a car within the three-day period set forth in the act.

POOL TABLE LICENSES.

An application from Louis Yeates that licenses for eight pool tables in the old former Loblaw store on Charlotte street be granted for January and February was granted by the council. The licensing year begins on March 1, and for that reason the present term was made for two months when full licenses will be taken out. The fee is $15 a table for a year, or $2.50 for two months.

COUNCIL AGREES.

City Council last night assented to the Board of Health's recommendation that thebarber shop bylaw be suspended for six months. The motion by Alderman Cotton was seconded by Alderman Juby.

FIVE BELOW AT NORWOOD.

A Norwood man reported that his thermometer in the village registered five degrees below zero. Possibly it is as sensitive as some of the local indicators that shivered down to six below.

LONG STRETCH OF ICE.

Little Lake was completely winter bound this morning, the ice extending above the C. P. R. bridge to the back waters below Riverside Park.

ONE DEGREE BELOW

BEING CONSIDERED.

Replying to the council's proposal that Sunday midnight shows be discontinued, the management of the Regent and New Centre theatres sent letters last night that the idea was receiving consideration.

WIN MEMORIAL TROPHY

The Bill Coleman Memorial Trophy, Wolf Cubs' most coveted prize, went this year to the St. John's Pack, it was announced by W. C. English, president of Peterborough Scouts. The award, a totem pole, is for the best all-round work during the year, and was appropriately enough won by St. John's, for Bill Coleman was Cub Leader there until his death a few years ago. The trophy was donated by A. Hope, present Cub Leader at St. John's, in memory of his predecessor.

Five Generations Present On 88th Birthday

Mrs. Nancy Clark Observes 88th Birthday Anniversary

Mrs. Nancy Clark was 88 years old Tuesday.

But the anniversary was unattended by the customary celebrations.

Instead she cheerily busied herself with moving operations that involved herself and four other generations of the household.

Mrs. Clark makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Frances J. Watson, at Prince and Aylmer street. The latter recently lost her husband and the business they operated having been bought by a Cobourg man, Mrs. Watson has converted the premises into a duplex apartment and the change-over coincided with her mother's birthday.

Remarkably active for her advanced age, Mrs. Clark is a native of Prince Edward County, but has lived in Peterborough for eleven years past. She comes of a long-lived family, a brother John Lawson, of Trent Bridge having recently celebrated his ninety-first birthday, while she has another brother, Isaac Lawson, of Brighton, who is enjoying life around the seventy mark.

Mrs. Clark entered into all the fun and gaiety of the festive season so that the moving operations were not the sole excuse for her dispensing with a birthday celebration.

Driver Is Fined For Highway Crash

As an aftermath of an accident in which he was involved at the point where the Lindsay highway leaves the Chemong road when the rear end of his car was badly damaged in hitting an elm tree by the side of the road, Norman Sanderson, Omemee, pleaded guilty to careless driving in traffic court this morning. Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., fined him $7.50 and 3.50 costs.

Telling of the affair, Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon E. Broughton said that he and Provincial Officer McClure had been investigating another accident on the Chemong road when they noticed Sanderson pass at a high rate of speed.

A little later they found that in making the turn his car had narrowly missed crashing head-on into the tree and had swung around so that the rear end did strike it. Sanderson's explanation had been that he thought something had dropped from the car and he had taken a backward glance to see just before the accident.

"If I had been going as fast as they say the officers should have chased me," Sanderson said.

"You had better keep your eyes on your own responsibility," said Magistrate Langley sternly. "I have found that the officers look after their duties well. In this case you might have been charged with dangerous driving under the code."

Nearly 3,500,000 people are reported to have attended the 1939 agricultural show in Moscow.

Mayor James Hamilton Expresses Regret At Retirement Of Two Of 1939 Aldermen

After the Council at its special meeting last night emerged from Ald. Gordon's shower of resolutions and was about to adjourn for the last time this year, Mayor Hamilton paid a tribute to Aldermen Juby and Glover, whose seats will be taken by other men in the New Year.

"I know you all join with me in expressing extreme regret that on account of illness Aldermen Juby and Glover can't carry on. We shall miss them very much indeed." His Worship said. "I hope that when they feel better they will reconsider their decision and come back. I wish you all a Happy New Year and every success. I want to express my appreciation, too, for the courtesy and kindness with which you have always treated me in connection with all the work of the Council."

In reply Alderman Glover said it wasn't easy to say goodbye to the council of 1939. "I have spent four pleasant years here, two of them under Mayor Macdonald and two under Mayor Hamilton, and I have always been used well. I found the experience an education and pleasant. I learned something of municipal government, and also that if you are to learn everything about it you are bound to be a very busy man. I hope you will have a minimum of worry and a maximum of success during the next few years, and that you will have two or three new industries, the lack of which has been a disappointment to all of us."

Alderman Juby said he was leaving the council with a great deal of regret. "It has been a pleasure to sit and work with you gentlemen for the last four years, although there were times when I didn't feel like sitting anywhere. I am going to miss the council's work. I have come to look on it as a job that was part of my duties. I had to be away so much this year that I feel I owe the ratepayers at least another year, and some time I may have the chance of paying that to them."

Alderman Juby wished Mayor Hamilton and the new council a new year of accomplishment.

Little Pressure On Part Of Adult Skaters May Get For Them An Open Air Rink In City

Would last winter's adult revival of interest in skating survive transfer from the piney background of Jackson Park to the willowy setting along the Engleburn bank south of Riverside Park?

Alderman Glover reminded the council last night that the lagoon at Jackson Park has been drained for the winter, so skating in that quiet beauty spot is out. And it is unlikely ever to come back in spite of that mushrooming of popularity.

From another source it was learned that the trustees of the park had a lot of worry about the hazard of the ice surface being left high above a lowered water level. At any rate the Exhibition Board will provide ground and accommodation for a rink for adults, Alderman Glover said, and Alderman Wilson reminded the council that the Engleburn location was attractive, central, could be easily flooded and offered as much area as was desired.

For the present the council is likely to let the adult skaters swing along on the memories of last winter's recreation, but a little real pressure might easily produce a rink around the islands on the east side of the river below Riverside Park.

Council Chamber Is Offered To School Board

Apparently it was news to the members of the Council, last night, that the Board of Education holds its meetings in the old South Central school building at the corner of Rubidge and Sherbrooke streets.

Mayor Hamilton seemed to be the only member who was aware of the change of the location within recent months from the Collegiate Institute to the South Central where nearly $2,000 was spent in new offices and vaults for the secretary of the Board, the Public School Inspector and Attendance Officer, in addition to a board room, which is also used as a conference room between the inspector and groups of teachers.

That information transpired in a discussion of a resolution by Alderman Gordon, seconded by Alderman McIntyre, offering to the Board of Education the use of the Council Chamber for the reason that it was central and convenient to the public.

"It would enable the ratepayers to ascertain how their business is being done," Alderman Gordon said.

Mayor Hamilton commented that the Board might resent inferences they might take from the resolution.

"We have no right to tell them where they should meet," Alderman Gordon said. "We are simply saying that our rooms are available to them if they desire to use them. I have lived here thirty years, and I confess I didn't know where they held their meetings."

Aldermen McCannan, Glover and Juby voted against the motion, and supporting it were Alderman Cotton, McIntyre and Gordon.

"I don't think it is any use, but I'll vote for it," Alderman Wilson said, giving the motion a majority.

Presumably, Aldermen Stocker and Bradburn didn't vote either way.

Midnight Shows.

The following resolution by Alderman Gordon ,seconded by Alderman McIntyre, was aimed at the theatres opening after midnight on Sundays, to which objection has been made to the council by the Local Council of Women on two occasions:—

"That the Ontario Government be requested to amend the Municipal Act, permitting municipal councils to regulate, license and govern dance halls, theatres, cabarets, dining halls, moving picture shows and similar places of entertainment, and also have the power of fixing the hours of opening and closing of such places within the municipality, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to each member of the Government and to Mr. A. L. Elliott, K. C., M. P. P.

Mr. Huycke told the Council that he had been reading the theatre and cinematograph act and had come to the conclusion that there was nothing to prevent theatres from at opening at five minutes after midnight.

"I don't think the city itself can do anything about it," Mr. Huycke said. "This resolution, however, asks the government for leglislation that would apply to all municipalities."

To Route Trucks.

Alderman Gordon produced two more motions, both of them relating to motor vehicle traffic. Both were adopted.

One of them was:

"That the Ontario Government be requested to amend the Highway Traffic Act, allowing municipalities the right to regulate and route traffic by trucks and motor vehicles to which trailers are attached along such streets, including boundary roads, as the council of such municipalities may designate, subject to the approval of the Minister of Highways, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to each member of the Government and to Mr. A. L. Elliott, K. C., M. P. P."

"That would give the city authority to route big wood trucks, for instances, through the city by way of boundary streets instead of coming through the centre of the city and residential areas," Alderman Gordon said.

Loitering Vehicles.

Another resolution by Alderman Gordon, seconded by Alderman McIntyre, is quoted as read:"

"That the Ontario Government be requested to amend the Highway Traffic Act, preventing owners and those in charge of motor vehicles loitering and impeding pedestrians and vehicular traffic, or impeding the free and convenient entry in places of business and residences, of motor vehicles or pedestrians, and that a breach of this proposed amend ment be an offence and punishment under the provisions of the Highway Traffic Act."

"There is no way to prevent young fellows from parking their cars for an hour or so and then moving it up the street ten or fifteeen feet," Alderman Gordon explained. "There is a bylaw that prevents pedestrians from loitering on the street. They have to move on when they are told to do so, but we have nothing to say about cars that loiter. Their drivers have nothing to do no business to be done, and I believe legislation will be passed against this practice. This resolution will support any action the Minister of Highways may take."

"I don't see how you are going to check it," Alderman Wilson said.

Alderman Bradburn's comment that "you cannot re-park in the same block in Toronto" but he wished to obtain information about what other cities did. "I'd like to look into the possibilities of it," he remarked, but the motion carried.

A Banned Prayer?

Halifax, Dec. 27 (CP)

LIFE is just one long headache for censors it seems. For example:

When the first Canadian contingent embarked secretly from here on a chill Sunday in December, a minister prayed that same day from his pulpit for the safety of the troops on the high seas and asked God's guidance for the British and Canadian men-o-war escorting the convoy ships.

New Car Ordered For City Police

The Board of Police Commissioners decided at a special meeting held in the City Clerk's office on Tuesday afternoon to buy a new Dodge Kingsway car from Lillico Motors as a cruiser car to replace the Pontiac machine now in use by the Police Department. The net price will be $430, which includes the cost of a heater and defroster and a second windshield wiper.

Tenders were received from J. K. Hughes, Hood & Cumming, Lillico Motors, J. J. Duffus, Howson Motors, Foley and Wilson, Charles Elliott and Gillespie Motors, and it was decided after considerable discussion to accept the tender of Lillico Motors, who quoted a price of $1,060 minus a turnover allowance of $650 for the present Pontiac. The additional equipment decided on as necessary increased the cost by $20.

The motion to purchase a Dodge car was made by Magistrate E. A. Gee, seconded by Judge S. L. Smoke, and carried unanimously.

It had been the decision of the Commission to choose a car in the low price field and that decision was turned into a necessity when a little arithmetic disclosed the fact that after all the year's bills were settled something less than $500 would remain to be devoted to the purchase of a new machine.

On that account it was decided to defer the purchase of a new generator for the Nash cruiser car now in use until next year.

Is Given Licence.

Arthur Collins, whose application for a renewal of his taxi owner's licence was refused at last week's meeting, made a successful personal application before the Board for reconsideration. Collins declared that the taxi business was his only means of livelihood, and he promised that he would offer no further cause for complaint if he were given another chance.

The applicant started to discuss a judgment given by Magistrate Langley in a recent case in which he was involved.

"We do not propose to set ourselves up as a court of appeal on Mr. Langley's judgments," Judge Smoke informed Collins, refusing to allow him to continue that line of argument any further.

"We could not very well go against an unfavorable report from the Acting Chief Constable," said the chairman, after Collins had retired. "If he is willing to withdraw that condemnation, we might give this man one last chance."

Acting Chief Constable Raid remarked that it might be all right to give the applicant h's licence provided he gave no cause for complaint, and accordingly the Commission decided to renew Collins' licence, at the same time instructing the Acting Chief Constable to warn the applicant that it would be his final chance, and that the licence would be cut off if he did not play the game.

Two O'Toole Boys Are In Uniform

Two sons justly proud in the uniforms of their country were the centre of all eyes at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Toole at 132 Sophia street over the Christmas holidays.

The two were Eddie O'Toole, 22, an electrician with the Royal Canadian Air Force, now stationed in Toronto; and Cyril O'Toole, 25, on the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve, now stationed at London, Ontario. Both were home on Christmas leave. Eddie returned yesterday and Cyril today.

Flying Officer Arthur Waddell Is Named To Co-operation Squadron Of 1st Division

Peterborough will be represented in the officer personnel of the Royal Canadian Air Force co-operation squadron which will serve with the first division of Canadian troops. Flying Officer Arthur Waddell, son of Mrs. R. M. Waddell of Peterborough is one of the five Ontario officers selected to join the squadron under Squadron Leader W. D. Van Vliet of Ottawa. After graduating from Royal Military College at Kingston Flying Officer Waddell joined the Royal Canadian Air Force and received his wings some time ago.

The co-operation squadron to which he has now been detailed and which comprises some 25 Canadian airmen officers will complete its training before going overseas at Ottawa where the latest type machines are now available.

Injuries Fatal To Pedestrian Struck By Auto

Injured when he was struck and knocked down by an automobile on Aylmer street in front of the fire hall shortly after 8 o'clock last Saturday night, George Alloway, 64, 294 Stewart street died in Nicholls Hospital this morning.

Facts as to just how the accident happened are difficult to learn. Alloway, police state, was hit while crossing the street by a motor car driven by Norma White, 584 Charlotte street, but Miss White was unable, they say, to throw much light on the affair. Officer W. R. Piercy who investigated the accident, states that the driver stated that the first she knew of the mishap was when her car bumped into the pedestrian. She did not see him before the crash, according to the official report.

Police are anxious to find out further details of the accident and they ask that any citizen who saw anything of it to report to the police station.

Mr. Alloway was a native of England, where two sisters, his only known relatives, still reside. He was employed by the Lock Works here for a great many years. The remains will rest at the Duffus Funeral Parlors from Thursday morning until his funeral on Friday afternoon. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

3,000 Toys Distributed

Firemen today looked up from their books to declare that they had distributed 3,000 toys this Christmas—a new all-time high — and that to the best of their knowledge not a needy child in all Peterborough went without a visit from Santa Claus. They voiced their gratitude to the generous citizens of this city whose donations made the result possible.

Special thanks went from Chief George Gimblett and his staff to the donors of trucks, who included H. R. Scott, Ltd., J. K. Hughes, Purity Bread, Charles Elliott, Tom Doughty, Johnson Motors, and Hood and Cummings. These trucks were loaned at a time when they ordinarily have been busy at their owners' work and in most cases drivers were also supplied on company time to help spread cheer. Chief Gimblett also expressed his thanks to the ladies of the city who dressed dolls for the department—close to 200 were distributed—and to the Quakers Oats Company, A. Wander, Ltd., and Tony Johnston, for special donations of toys in large numbers. He and the members of his staff sent personal thanks for Christmas gifts to the Quaker Oats Company, the Western Clock Company, Woolworth's, the Hotel Chaplain, G. N. Gordon, Warne Jewellers, Metropolitan Stores, and Zeller's.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

Tonight the junior "B" Colts hold their first practice of the season from six to seven o'clock at the Brock St. rink. All players under 20 years of age are invited to try out for berths, the session being a wide-open one under the eyes of Coach Archie Weir and Manager Hap Wilgar. While a good number of last year's O.H.A. junior "B" and junior "C" teams here are available again, not a single position has been allotted to date, and all lads with O.H.A. aspirations and sufficient ability will get a good trial. A number of the puck prospects have been practicing away by themselves on the canal, but this is the first official drill at the Brock. The season is but a week away and and the gang will have to be whittled down fast and put through some stiff early practices.

A chap gave us an old 1927-28 local hockey program the other day, showing when the Petes were in the senior O.H.A. with Varsity, Marlboros, Kitchener and Preston. Quite a few ads on the program, including such—now absent here—as Cheu's Rose Room on George St., Marathon Ice Cream Parlor and Parker's Cleaners. Varsity was billed to play here and on the Toronto lineup were: Snyder, Kirkpatrick, Garrick, Richards, Legon, Harley, Stuart, McMullen, Crosby, Graham and Little. The Petes then were: LeBarr, Rose, Clarke, Cripps, Kane, McPhee, Williams, Foley, Lackey and Maudsley. Harry Batstone of Kingston was listed as referee.

Let's Work Together

With hockey about to start here, we'd like to remind managers and secretaries—or others who contribute minor loop game accounts for publication—to get their stuff in early, compactly and in legible shape. Hockey forms may be obtained at this office by reliable league officials and these, when filled out after a game, (forms, not the officials) can be shoved in the mail slot of The Examiner's front door. Kindly fill in the right lines, have team names and players' monickers spelled right and don't forget to put in the score! We cover as much as possible but can't handle all the minor tilts in this busy puck town, but will give 'em as much space as possible if they co-operate. Otherwise, we just have to pass 'em up. Thanks.

Ice at the Brock St. arena is coming along fine. A big foundation is there now, inches thick, but the surface is a little rough as yet. Rink management is working on that now to smooth it off, cutting down the bumps and filling up the hollows. There appears no reason, with the weather plenty chilly yet, to expect anything but a first-rate sheet of frozen water when the Belleville Redmen open the O.H.A. intermediate "A" season here 'gainst the Petes this Friday eve. The locals had hoped to work in an exhibition tussle before this date, but soft weather slowed up ice making in all natural-ice centres till Christmas. However, it's all okay now.

Brock Seating Plan

A subscribers' reserved seat plan goes into effect at the Brock this season, opening there tomorrow afternoon and evening and again on Friday aft and eve. Seats reserved for this opening game will be reserved for the same fans—if they want 'em—all through the season, both for the schedule and playoffs. It means that the club and rink officials want to play fair with regular attendants and give them first chance at their favorite seats all winter, regardless of how big a demand there is for seats at certain contests. For instance, playoffs often find a sellout at the arena with plenty of folks raising the dickens to get choice seats and sometimes quite indignant when they don't—yet these people may not have taken in a scheduled game all winter! The subscribers' plan is a good one.

There were 19 teams entered at last night's Church Hockey League meeting, and the loop will likely have 20 in before the schedule opens. As it was found impossible to commence play this week, the executive extended closing date for entries a week. Play will start at All Saints' rink next Tuesday as follows: Knox vs. Trinity Bantams at six, Mark St. Juveniles vs. St. John's at seven, Park St. Juniors vs. St. James at eight, and St. Paul's Juniors vs. Mark St. at nine. In at present in this large and lively minor puck league are three senior teams, five juniors, five juveniles and six bantams. There are 11 churches represented, only St. Luke's and St. George's being missing of churches that were entered in past years. All squads are warned to have their entry forms and money made up and handed in to the executive at once.

Material Coming Up

So long as Peterborough has minor loops like the Church Hockey League, the Southend Loop, School Circuit and so on, there is no danger of puck prospects locally fading out as in spots like Belleville. When one small league—like our Junior City League—drops out of existence, due to lack of rink space, another springs up. Or else one of the other setups is expanded to include more teams. A particularly bright item in the church meeting report was the entry of five juvenile and six bantam teams—meaning about a dozen of the entries will be made up of real young lads, learning the game in organized competition and getting ready to battle in the future for O.H.A. berths. We should never need hockey imports in this town, unless the Petes step up to senior "A" company when, and if, Santa Claus brings the city an artificial ice arena some fine Christmas!

In the death of Clyde Engle, pro baseball loses another colorful diamond figure. The ex-scout of Toronto Maple Leafs was a former Big League star, but in recent years had been touring around Ontario looking for baseball material for Dan Howley and the Leafs. He was in Peterborough two years ago and gave the gang a lot of pointers in one afternoon, showing 'em correct stances in various positions, follow-through, the art of relaxation even when in action and a dozen other things. It was pretty to see the stocky, bowlegged veteran exhibit such grace in pegging to second, moving his feet with the rhythm of a waltz and co-ordinating muscles in one continuous motion. Engle, like Knotty Lee, lived all his life only for baseball.

Grab-bag: Executive of the Industrial Hockey League meets at eight Thursday eve to discuss an eighth entry....Prospective referees—who will receive pay if hired—are invited to attend this meeting and put in a bid; schedule will be out in a day or two....Guess the Belleville puckists are practicing for their game here Friday, but no word of it appears in the Quinte sheet....Petes are coming along okay, and will be in the pink for the big opener....Washington (with Covert aboard) copped a 7-5 U.S. amachoor hockey win o'er Baltimore (carrying Calladine and Vitarelli) last e'en....Lads under 14 are invited to try out for the Beavers' bantam team of the Southend Loop at six p.m. this Friday at the Sacred Heart rink....Tonight at six there, the juvenile Grads have an open workout and prospects should bring birth certificates...City Cage Loop should be organized by the end of the week and ready shortly for action....Ice ought to be O.K. in Lakefield this Friday when Lindsay juniors open the O.H.A. season in the nearby village; no one has sent us any dope on the Lakefield squad....No girls' basketball this week....All is quiet in hockey out around Omemee this cold spell....This is where we get off, conductor.

How many of these faces and places do you recognize? They've all played a prominent roll in the drama of international sport that unfurled through the past year, curtailed toward the end by international events of much more significance. The coming year may see some of 1939's big sporting moments curtailed, but before we go into that let's look back at the few items we have space to list here. Taking them in order . . .

1. Seen in action in a doubles match are John Bromwich (nearest camera) and Adrian Quist, the two playing members of the Australian Davis Cup team, who won the famous trophy in the United States last September, Australia's first win in the international team tournament in 20 years.

2. Much ridiculed in advance the summer heavyweight boxing extravaganza, that pitted world's champion Joe Louis against built-up Tony Galento, provided its element of drama when the rotund challenger knocked Louis down (the scene shown here) before being battered out in the fourth round.

3. Byron Nelson, winner of the United States open golf championship and winner of the Harry Wardon trophy as the best of the continent's pro golfers over the course of the complete year.

4. Ford Frick, Judge Landis, Will Harridge and Judge Wm. Branham participate at the celebration at Cooperstown, N.Y., where baseball officially recognized its 100th birthday, a milestone in the history of the game.

5. Don Meade, who was re-instated into racing's good books in most of the states across the line at the beginning of the year and came back to become the leading rider of the year with more than 250 winners booted home.

6. Irish Billy Conn, from Pittsburgh, one of the fanciest boxers to appear in top ranks in some years, who captured the world's light heavyweight title relinquished by John Henry Lewis and successfully defended his honors a couple of times.

7. Action in the Stanley Cup finals of last April in which Boston Bruins, rated one of hockey's great all-time teams, defeated Toronto Maple Leafs, three games to one, to win the historic trophy for the first time in 10 years.

8. Last May one of baseball's best known records came to an end when infantile paralysis forced Lou Gehrig out of the line-up of New York Yankees, for whom he had guarded first base continuously since June 1, 1925, a streak that ended at 2,130 consecutive games.

9. Joe McCarthy, who hasn't finished worse than second in the American League since he took over managing New York Yankees, who led his team to their fourth successive world's series win in October.

10. Frank Brimsek, goalie for Boston Bruins, holds the Calder trophy he received as being the outstanding rookie in the National Hockey League for the 1938-39 season.

11. Horse of the year was Challedon, overshadowed by Johnstown early in the season, but who came back to win the Preakness and the Pimlico Special, defeating Kayak II, best of the older horses, a couple of times.

12. Lou Ambers and Henry Armstrong battle it out in New York in this scene from their August bout in which the former regained the world's lightweight championship that he had lost in a previous bout with Hammering Hennery.

13. A new world's speed record for automobiles was set by John Cobb on Utah's saltbed speed flats in August when he raced his streamlined giant at a speed of 369 m.p.h.

14. Peter Astra and his driver, Doc Parshall, on a background made by horses rounding a turn during the running of the trotting classic, the Hambletonian, which Peter and his driver won this year in straight heats.

15. Joe Burk, again dominated the world's amateur scullers, winning the American and Canadian singles titles and journeying to England to capture the famous Diamond Sculls.

16. The "race of the century", the mile race that fizzled, after Sydney Wooderson, England's premier miler, crossed to the United States to compete against Uncle Sam's best, only to meet defeat at the hands of Chuck Fenske, Glenn Cunningham, Archie San Romani and Blaine Rideout in a race marred by the famous bumping incident.

17. Over one of the Grand National jumps comes Battleship, winner of this year's renewal of the world's most famous race, staged annually at Liverpool, England.

18. Serving it up is Bobby Riggs, maybe not the world's best, but Uncle Sam's best, and deserving recognition as winner of the all-England singles tennis championships at Wimbledon.

19. Completely overshadowing the rest of the feminine tennis players was Alice Marble, also from south of the border, who swept aside all opposition to earn rating, for the year at least, with Suzanne Lenglen and Helen Wills Moody.

20. "Mr. Baseball"—Joe DiMaggio, slugging New York Yankee outfielder, after only four major league seasons already ranked with the all-time greats of the diamond. He batted .381 to lead the American league this past summer.

Nineteen Teams Have Entered In Church Hockey League

Another 20-team Church Hockey League appears likely here this winter, 19 squads entering at last night's loop meeting in the "Y." Another entry is expected this week, and the schedule will open next Tuesday night with these games at All Saints' rink; Knox Bantams vs. Trinity at six. Mark Street Juveniles vs. St. John's at seven; Park Street vs. St. James' Juniors at eight, and St. Paul's vs. Mark Street Juniors at nine.

Three senior teams have entered so far, five juniors, five juveniles, and six bantams. Some of these have not filled in their forms yet, and all are warned—under possible penalty of being denied entry—to fill in forms and present, along with entry fee, to the executive this week. A fourth senior team is desired, especially. Games will be played on Mondays and Thursdays, with a few in the busy bantam or juvenile sections possibly on Wednesdays.

Murray Street Seniors, defending champions, are back again with Syd Johnston the manager. Bill Ellis, now working in Lindsay, may commute back and forth for games with his old team. Barney Worsencroft will master-mind All Saints, and the league president, Joe Dunkerley, is thinking of returning as player-coach for George Street Seniors. A fourth team would be welcome, playing most of its games on Thursday nights.

A Comeback.

The junior section is showing a fine comeback in prospect. St. Paul's and All Saints—who had a nine-game playoff last year — are back. St. Paul's lose only Steve Csumrik, while All Saints lost Leether and McDougall, both stars. Mark Street, made up of the champion juvenile team, will be the team to beat, likely, but Park Street has a fine squad of ex-juveniles, under Ed. Jobe. St. James will be the youngest outfit but expect to keep intact their record of being a finalist. George Street might yet enter this series. Junior pilots are: St. Paul's, Bob Whiteside; All Saints, Lloyd Livingstone; Mark Street, Carl Ferguson; Park Street, Maurice Dunkley; St. James, Jack Huggins.

A lot of new faces will appear in the juvenile section, Mark Street, George Street, and Park Street all moving up. Mark Street will enter a young team this time, and George Noftall's Trinity gang will be the biggest crew. Trinity may win, but will get plent of opposition from Gord Smith's All Saints and from St. John's, who can draw from last year's bantam champions. Norm Allen has an entry from St. Andrew's— their first in five years — which is unknown yet. The series is of fair calibre and well balanced.

Six lively bantam teams are in and St. John's look like winners again if Frank and Clarke decide to play. All Saints, coached by Art Beauclerc, St. Paul's and George Street will give them most opposition. George Street is handled by Reg. Kingdon and Jake Burnham. Stew Laing and Bill Gardiner will look after Knox. The Trinity team, gathered up by Harold Rehill, has a lot of youth. There are 11 churches represented, with St. Luke's and St. George's the only absentees of previous puck campaigns. The schedule will be published early next week.

Jeanette Dolson, Canada's Oustanding Star Sister Of Dean Dolson, Orchestra Leader

The sister is a sprint star and the brother is a swing artist in the Dolson family of Toronto. Dean Dolson, band leader, here at present, is a brother of Jeannette Dolson, voted the Rose Bowl trophy for being Canada's outstanding woman athlete in 1939. This vote was taken by the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation. Miss Dolson, an Olympic and British Empire Games standout for the Dominion, also won the 1939 Norman Craig Cup for Ontario girls and has permanent possession of the Abe Orpen Trophy, winning it three times in a row.

The brother holds the distinction of being the only Canadian band leader to have had a sustaining program on the British Broadcasting Corporation, having an all-Ontario orchestra in Belfast in 1933-34. He has played the piano in Europe, the States and Canada, returning recently from New York where he played with Freddy Goodman, brother of Benny Goodman. Mr. Dolson leads a five-piece band, known as the Swingette Orchestra.

James J. Johnston To Lift Veil On His New Heavyweight Hope

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP) — James Joy Johnston won't unveil his New South American heavyweight importation, Valentin Campolo, officially until tonight at a dinner for boxing writers. Yet, with his customary quiet and secrecy in such matters, he already is shouting challenges at Joe Louis.

But that is not the most unusual factor about the latest of the Argentines to follow Luis Angel Firpo to these golden shores. It seems this Campolo, brother of Vittorio Campolo who campaigned hereabouts some half dozen years ago, really thinks—which is a highly-prized commodity among heavyweights.

Valentin displayed that little knack almost as soon as he got off the boat. Through an interpreter (he speaks only Spanish and Italian) he explained how he decided, all by himself, that James Joy was the man to manage him.

"Five or six fight managers up here," he related, "they all wrote letters wanting to bring me to New York and manage me. But I remembered when my brother was here, he fought a fellow named Phil Scott (yep, it was old faintin' Phil). Scott was managed by Mr. Johnston. Now my brother, he's sure he beat Scott —but Scott got the decision. Well, if being managed by Mr. Johnston could do that, he's the man for me."

The Rumanian Government has placed a $2,500,000 contract for motor ambulances and trucks.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Notwithstanding the fact that the winter has been somewhat slow in setting in, we expect that the 1939-40 curling season will commence this evening, and at that it will be just one day later than the opening of the 1938-39 season.

It may be that we will not have all of the seven ices ready, but nevertheless there will be enough prepared to make a start.

And just as a reminder we would ask all skips to call up the new players on their rinks and invite them down to the rink and show them just what it's all about.

WINNIPEG BLUE BOMBERS MOST OUTSTANDING TEAM OF YEAR

Davis Cup In Australia

This smiling young lady is assembling one of the world's most famous trophies, the Davis Cup, and it's being done, for the first time in more than 20 years, in Australia. The emblem of international tennis supremacy, won this summer in United States by John Bromwich and Adrian Quist, crossed the Pacific safely to rest in the land of the Kangaroo and wallaby for an indefinite stay. The last time it journeyed there it remained six years, the world war of 1914-18 intervening between the Aussies' victory of 1914 and their successful defence in 1919.

(Fanning the Breitz for Eddie)

SEATTLE, Dec. 27.— (AP). — Freddie Hutchinson, who outhit Joe Dimaggio by one point last season, is spending the winter playing pro basketball and peddling poinsettias ....Freddie hit .382 for Detroit and wishes he had played in either one more or less game....He was hitting .402 until stopped at the plate in his last contest....As for his cantering with the Casaba, young Hutch used to be an all-city prep hoopster here. The blossoming young Tiger hurler put in the Christmas rush in a florists' shop.

There's talk in Eugene, Ore. of campaigning for a memorial for Dr. James Naismith, the father of basketball who died recently .... Eugene is the home of the University of Oregon's National Basketball champions.... Freddie Steele, the former middleweight champion, has been living in Seattle, but wants to open a cigar store in his old home town of Tacoma, 30 miles south.

Bobby Rowe of Portland, one-time defenceman who promotes hockey, auto races and more recently, pro football games, hopes to match Los Angeles Bulldogs at Portland January 15 with an all-star team to be picked by Paul Schissler ....Portland is still chattering about the recent pro thriller between Los Angeles and Columbus Bullies, and Rowe figures another game should draw more than the 6,500 pioneer ....It would be in the form of a homecoming for Schissler, "P. J." having coached at Oregon State before Stiner took over.... Rowe also discloses that the proposed inter-league hockey between Vancouver, Seattle and Portland of the coast hockey league and three California teams is off definitely.... inability of the Southern towns to get rink space and players was blamed.

Are Voted Tops Among Teams Of All Classes

TORONTO, Dec. 27 — (CP), — Winnipeg Blue Bombers, by a country mile, were the choice of sports writers on newspapers across the Dominion to-day as the most outstanding team in Canadian sports this year.

The great football machine that Reg. Threlfall brought out of the West to conquer Ottawa Rough Riders in the Dominion final was voted tops among teams of all kinds by one of the biggest margins ever recorded in the annual year-end polls taken by The Canadian Press. Of the 32 writers who submitted ballots, 31 placed the Bombers among the first three teams of 1939 and 22 said they were the very best.

Naturally they left no club near the gridiron champions although Port Arthur Bearcats, national senior amateur hockey champions, ran a good second. Seventeen selectors named the Bearcats among the first three, and, on a basis of three points for a first-place vote, two for second and one for third, Port Arthur obtained 29 points to 83 for Winnipeg.

Generals Were Fifth.

Third were Edmonton Grads, perennial champions of the world in women's basketball. New Westminster Adanacs, national senior lacrosse titlists, ran fourth and Oshawa Generals, junior hockey champions, were fifth. No other team scored more than four points.

The Blue Bombers piled up a string of victories as the Western Interprovincial Union season opened. Hit by injuries in the playoffs, they came from far behind in the second game of the finals with the Bronks in Calgary and won handily.

Then, after a long layoff and under unfamiliar rules, this driving Winnipeg team swept to the national title against the Rough Riders on a frozen, snow-covered field at Ottawa, achieving the margin of their 8-7 victory in the final minute. For classical fighting, their record had nothing like an equal.

It was a team that had everything, including a line whose ability at interference showed to tremendous advantage even under the limitations of the three-yard interference rule in the East. Fritz Hanson, sensational back, already has been voted the Canadian athlete of the year. Wayne Sheley and Art Stevenson gave the West better passing and kicking than ever before and Andy Bieber added tremendous plunging strength.

Port Arthur's hockey club came practically unheralded to play Montreal Royals for the Allan Cup after a season in which two other supposedly "super" teams had arisen in the East. The Royals had knocked off the mighty Toronto Goodyears, conquerors of Kirkland Lake's great Blue Devils.

In four games the Bearcats, led by 19-year-old Edgar Laprade, stopped the Royals right in Montreal. They would have represented Canada at the Olympic games this winter but for the war.

Collarbone Broken, Apps Is Out, Billy Taylor To Fill The Gap; Hawks Ship Mike Karakas To Reds

(By the Canadian Press.)

The most prominent news along the National Hockey League front to-day concerned, by far, the plight of Toronto Maple Leafs now that their great centreman, Syl Apps, will be out for a month because of a broken collarbone and the demotion of Goalie Mike Karakas of the Chicago Black Hawks.

Injury to Apps was revealed yesterday in Toronto after X-ray examination. The centre star suffered the injury on Monday night when Leafs were downed 4-1 in New York by the Rangers. It was the first serious injury that Apps has suffered in his four years in the league.

Manager Conny Smythe of the Leafs announced that Apps' centre spot between Gordie Drillon and Bob Davidson will be filled by Rookie Billy Taylor, just up in professional ranks this season after starring in the march of Oshawa Generals last season to the Canadian junior championship.

Karakas, with the Hawks for four seasons, was sent down to Providence Reds of the International-American League and the Providence netminder—Paul Goodman — will be on guard in the Chicago nets to-night against Americans at New York.

Goodman, 30 years old and a native of Selkirk, Man., played one game for the Hawks when they won the Stanley Cup under Manager Bill Stewart in the 1937-38 season. He was chosen the outstanding netminder in the Inter.-American circuit last season.

Gunners Defeat Crystal Palace

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(CP Cable)—League soccer on Boxing Day was confined mainly to the south of England, most northern clubs playing exhibitions contests. Leaders in the South 'A', South 'B', southwest and Midland groups forged ahead with decisive victories.

Arsenal clings to its title as the only unbeaten team in the United Kingdom. The Gunners made it two straight in the Christmas holiday program for South 'A' clubs by trimming Crystal Palace 3-0. In South 'B' section, Bournemouth stretched its margin over Reading to four points by defeating the runner-up 2-1. Swindon Town advanced in south west by drawing 1-1 with Bristol Rovers. The Town, however, has played two games more than Plymouth Argle holding second place, three points behind.

Vol Injury List Hatches Worry

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 27.—(AP).— Sideline trainers examined the injury rolls of the Tennessee and Southern California ranks today and decided that the vaunted Tennessee Vols had more to worry about tha nthe might Trojans of University of Southern California.

Chief concern for Tennessee, was George (bad news) Cafego, Tailback and big noise of Vol offence. On the Trojan side of the report, coach Howard Jones could view with anxiety the physical condition of Grenville Lansdell, number one quarter-back, Jack Banta, number two fullback, and an assortment of banged up shins, tricky knees, one case in-wrapped hand, and overconfidence.

Make no mistake however, about the possibilities of the two leaders in the hospital gang, Cafego and Lansdell, starting the game. Major Bob Neyland of Tennessee is uncommunicative but two will get you five that the terror of Tennessee will be in the starting lineup if he's able to walk into the Rose Bowl New Year's day without the aid of crutches.

IN MEMORIAM

FALLIS. — In loving memory of Johnston Fallis, who passed away two years ago to-day (December 27, 1937).

Weep not for me, nor wish me back
I am now from pain and free;
And in my Jesus arms I rest
Where I have longed to be.
You watched for me, beside my bed,
Now I watch for you;
And when you reach the Golden Gate
I will come and lead you through.
Calm and peaceful he is sleeping,
The sweetest rest that follows pain.
I who loved him, sadly miss him
And trust in God to meet again.
The world may change from year to year
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one I loved
From memory pass away.

—Ever remembered by Wife and Family.

Don't Show Too Much Interest In Dates With Boys Whom You Know Casually, Go Easy On Your Escort's Pocketbook, Don't Be a Know-It-All And You'll Be More Popular.

IF I could give one piece of advice that would be more valuable than any other to girls, I would say: Be moderate. Moderation isn't a virtue that is indigenous to our sex. Quite the contrary. We women are always extremists who are diving off into the deep end of the pool. We always overdo things. If we are good, we are likely to be austere saints. If we are bad, we are sure to be she devils. We just don't seem to be able to strike a good average in being wives, mothers, housekeepers, business women or eating or drinking.

We smother our husbands with affection or we are human refrigerators. We spoil our children rotten or neglect them. We work ourselves to death or lay down on our jobs. We get fat eating and drinking too much or are living skeletons or prohibitionists. Somehow we just don't belong in the one-cocktail crowd. This is a pity. For the middle road is the only safe one for feminine feet to tread. And so I would like not only to point out its advantages to girls who are just starting out on the hazardous adventure of womanhood, but to erect a few sign posts to guide them along the way.

First, I would say, dont be too eager for the attention of boys. Of course, every normal girl wants to be admired by the opposite sex. She wants to have dates and good times and cut-ins on her dances. But the way to get them is not to make heself a telephone pest who is always calling up lads and asking them why haven't they been around, or shanghaiing them into taking her to places, or just slopping over with delight when a boy notices her. The proper attitude for a girl to assume is the one that indicates that she can take him or leave him. She isn't always available on call. She turns down some dates, even if she has to spend the evening with Mamma and Papa. It is good popularity propaganda because it causes the boys to think that other lads have put their O.K. on her. For boys are like sheep, where one goes the others follow.

She lets the boy who takes her out to places of amusement see that she is having a good time and enjoying his society, but she doesn't tell him how wonderful it is and how sweet it was of him to give her such a pleasure, because that is a dead giveway that she seldom has a date. She is neither Lady Disdain nor Grateful Nellie. In a word, she neither runs away from boys nor chases them down.

Then, I would say, go lightly on a boy's pocketbook, yet do it without humiliating him by making him feel that you look upon him as a pauper. Don't offer to pay the bus fare or for the movie tickets, but develop a passion for neighborhood theatres and hot dogs. Or, if he should suggest a bite, tell him that Mamma has just made a chocolate cake. There is no better matchmaker than the home ice box. Don't talk too much or try to be too vivacious. If the boy is dumb, of course, you have to work like a coal heaver to keep the conversation going, but if he has a tongue in his head let him use it. Get him started on the subjects he is interested in and then lend him your ears and he will think you are the most interesting girl he ever met.

Of course, no man likes to drag around a girl who is a dead one, but he loathes the one who jumps around like a monkey on a stick and screams at the top of her voice. Besides, if there is going to be any cut-up or life of the party he wants to be IT.

Dress well, but not too well. Boys like girls to have on pretty and attractive clothes that make other men rubber at them, but they don't like freakish frocks, nor crazy hats, nor weird hair-dos. And, above all, they don't want a girl to look like a million dollars because that puts her out of their class. Many a girl sits at home because the boys feel that they can't ask the Queen of Sheba to go with them to the places of amusement that they can afford.

Finally, moderate your transports of affection. Don't ever tell a boy how much you love him. Keep him guessing if you want to keep him interested. Don't be the kisser, be the kissee. Never write first to a boy or be in a hurry to answer his letters. Never forget that men still enjoy the chase and lose interest in it when they find that the pursuit is over.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — What can one do who is afflicted with borrowing pests? I have friends who borrow my cherished silver service and my fine china, and when they send them home they are almost invariably scratched or chipped or broken.—A. B. C.

ANSWER:

Just tell your borrowing friends that you value your china and silver and that you will just have to refuse their requests. It is only cowardice and weakness on our own part that makes us the victims of grafters.

Lovely Plants Thrive With Little Attention

Azaleas May Bloom Many Years

What a gorgeous azalea! And how gratifying to know that with a little care it can be made to bloom again.

Like those other great holiday favorites, the Christmas cactus and the poinsettia, the azalea likes plenty of moisture in the air.

So, clever to keep their pots on metal trays filled with pebbles and water, wet sand or wet peat moss—particularly if yours is a very modern home with warm, dry air. Or enough humidity may be created by a bowl of water on the radiator.

Put your azalea in a cool light window, the poinsettia and cactus in a warmer spot. In the summer all three will be the better for a stay in the garden and next year how gratefully they'll bloom! You can grow little Christmas cacti and poinsettia too from cuttings.

And how are your ferns, other foliage plans? Such ferns as the Boston and birdsnest thrive with simple but right care.

Our 32-page booklet gives complete directions for growing ferns and many varieties of vines, flowering and foliage plants. Tells how to raise bulbs, grow material in water. Has directions for window boxes, bracket plants, pointers on watering, repotting.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of MAKING PLANTS AND FLOWERS GROW INDOORS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

LONDON, (CP).—The Archbishop of Canterbury suggested to-day that the people of Great Britain pray for Finland in church services Dec. 31.

In a letter to the London Times, he proposed the prayers as "special remembrance of Finland and its brave people in their hour of trial."

BERLIN, (AP)—The German Army High Command's communique, based on activities yesterday said:

"Except for feeble enemy artillery fire, quiet prevailed at the front on the second Christmas Day."

COPENHAGEN, (AP).— At roll call for Danish Air Force officers to-day after a Christmas furlough, two failed to answer. Investigation disclosed they had taken advantage of the holiday to go to Stockholm and enlist as volunteer fliers for Finland.

Visiting Moscow.

MOSCOW, (CP-Havas.)—A party of 22 German industrialists representing metals, chemical and timber interests will arrive here in the next few days to join the official German economic mission headed by Karl Ritter, it was learned today.

The German mission is expected to remain in Russia for three weeks and will visit a number of industrial centres.

PARIS, (AP). — The "delicate" problem of what to do with British Tommies who lapse into the habit of driving on the left side of the highway has been solved by the French government.

These offences and other traffic rule violations will be turned over to military authorities of the British army, the Ministry of Justice announced.

PARIS, (AP).—German scouting flights made in spite of low hanging clouds caused noon air raid alarms in Northern France to-day, but the alarms ended 26 minutes later without incident.

LONDON — (CP). — The protest made by 21 American Republics over belligerent naval activity within the Pan-American safety zone was reported in British official quarters today as being "carefully considered."

These sources said there was "full appreciation of the Americas" desire to keep clear of the war zone."

Planes Over Essex.

LONDON—(CP)—An unidentified airplane flew over Essex and the Thames estuary today and two others were seen over the Suffolk coast at a great height. Observers were said they may have been German reconnaisance ships. No air raid alarms were sounded.

LONDON—(CP)— The Exchange Telegraph Agency reported today the Finnish Government has issued new instructions to the public to carry sheets for quick camouflage in the snow, and to paint all vehicles white.

TORONTO—(CP)— Contributions from Finnish groups and societies throughout Canada continue to pour into the Red Cross headquarters here for relief of suffering in embattled Finland, Norman Somerville Red Cross chairman, reported today.

Among recent contributions was $2,000 from Finns in Thunder Bay district and an additional $400 from Kirkland Lake Finns which brings their subscriptions to $1,400.

All monies received by the Red Cross are immediately cabled to London where National Commissioner Dr. F. W. Routley transfers funds or goods to Finland.

OBITUARY

MRS. ANNIE FLEMING

HASTINGS, Dec. 27.—(ENS)—The death occurred on Tuesday morning, December 26, of Mrs. Annie Fleming, widow of the late William Fleming at the home of her son, John Fleming, of the Norwood Road.

Deceased was in her eightieth year. For several years failing health had made her frail so that when her last short illness came from the result of a stroke which she suffered over a week ago, she had little strength to resist it.

Mr. Fleming is survived by three sons, Roy of Percy township, John of Asphodel and Alexander of Trenton, also two brothers, Alex Wilson of Hastings, J. K. Wilson of Regina, Sask., and one sister, Mr. J. B. Harper of Edmonton, Alberta.

Funeral services will be held from the residence of her son on the Norwood Road on Thursday at 2 p.m. Interment at Trent Valley Cemetery.

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

LENGTH IS THE FACTOR

IF YOU hold two suits which you intend to bid, their length should determine which is called first and not the relative honor strength. As between two five-carders the higher ranking is nearly always the preferred choice by veteran campaigners, even though it is topped by a small card and the latter one by great power.

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

Violation of basic principles by both North and South on this deal gave the side a bottom score in a duplicate tournament. South, who should have opened with 1-Spade, because the two major suits were of equal length, called 1-Heart instead.

When North now bid 2-Clubs in place of 2-Spades that should have been called as a response, South was on the spot. Being vulnerable, he was afraid to try 2-No Trumps if there happened to be weakness on the part of his partner, who had passed as dealer. He therefore let the 2-Clubs stand.

If either North or South had bid spades at the first opportunity, the side would have reached a game and made it without difficulty.

A Never-Ending Activity "Somewhere In England"

Varying and conflicting are reports of the airplane production of France, Great Britain, and Germany, but whatever the relative production rates may be we can rest assured that night and day the work of turning out all kinds of aerial arms goes on apace. Shown here, "Somewhere in England," are men at work turning out Blenheim bombers, one of the Allies' most effective type of 'plane.

Millbrook Hall Sees Fine Christmas Student Night

MILLBROOK, Dec. 27—(ENS).—An event of popular interest each year is the annual Christmas tree and concert given by the pupils of the Public School, for which the Town Hall was well filled on Thursday evening. Dr. J. W. Wright, chairman of the school board, presiding.

The program opened with the singing of Christmas carols for which the scholars of the three rooms were massed upon the platform, after which the successful High School Entrance pupils were presented with their diplomas by Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson, B.A. The valedictory address was given by Laureen Richards, a pupil of honor standing, and the list of graduates included: Laureen Richards, Linda Murney, Patricia Moyles, Joy Howson, Mary Ridge, Colleen and Allen Blair, Teddy Stinson, Raymond Powell, Teddy McDowell, Alfred Brooks, Brentin Dawson, L. Ryley, Betty Smith, Evans Hatherly, Mary Muspratt, Jack Kidd, Melville McMahon, Lillian Foottit and Emma Peers.

A folk dance by the pupils from the primary room, Miss Betty Montgomery teacher, was a very attractive number, the girls wearing red capes and caps, and the boys suits of green. Following this the pupils of Miss Jean L. Burnham's room contributed a dialogue, "Mrs. Santa's Christmas Reception", its seasonable message drawing forth warm applause, as did also the patriotic drill by the little folk from Miss Montgomery's room, the girls dressed as nurses and the boys each carrying a flag to which the salute was given in true military fashion.

An exercise and song by the little beginners, preceded a southern folk dance by the girls from Miss Burnham's room, which in turn was followed by recitations by Irene Trick and Bob Kinsman, "Good King Wenceslas" was a carol by the intermediate pupils, with Connie Stinson and Billy Unitt singing the verses, when the highlight of the evening was reached in the presentation of the operetta, "The [illegible] Had to Wait," by pupils from Senior, Junior and Primary rooms, with the principal, Mr. B. B. [illegible] son directing.

This was an ambitious number, and carried through remarkably well, the costumes, balloons, candies, tops and many other toys, being very attractive and realistic, the dialogue well taken, and the tuneful airs sung with true time and rhythm, the audience showing its appreciation with frequent bursts of applause, which reached proportions when the curtain was finally dropped.

The arrival of Santa Claus, and the distribution of gifts from the glittering tree completed a most successful entertainment, one that generally voted outstanding in the list of programs presented annually by the Public Sch[illegible] tide season.

HASTINGS

Mrs. Samuel Beamish Honored By Family

HASTINGS, Dec. 27—(ENS). — Mrs. Samuel Beamish of Hastings celebrated her 70th birthday on Saturday when a pleasant surprise party was tendered her.

Around eleven o'clock in the morning, her daughters and sons with their husbands and wives arrived at the parental home laden with a tempting birthday dinner, all prepared and ready to serve, which included fowl and Christmas dainties.

Mrs. Beamish, who is noted for her jolly disposition and warm hospitality has many friends who sent their congratulations on her birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Beamish have nine children living. Ella (Mrs. W. Gibbons) of Assiniboia, Sask., Thomas of Victoria, Clara (Mrs. Russel King) of Stewart Valley, Sask., and Gordon were unable to attend. Those present were Mary (Mrs. Harold Morrow), Mabel (Mrs. Virgil Olive) and Mr. Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beamish, Mr. and Mrs. James Beamish and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beamish.

Pupils At Douro Hold Yule Party

DOURO, Dec. 27—(ENS). — The first Christmas concert staged by a local young teacher, Mr. Richard Sheehan, was an unqualified success. It was held on Thursday afternoon and drew a fine crowd of parents and others. A senior pupil, James Sheehan, performed the duties of chairman in veteran style. Following is the program: Chorus; dialogue, "Welcome"; recitation, Joe O'Grady; dialogue, "Bashful Cousin Jim"; recitation, Bernard Sullivan; song, Mary and Raymond Moher; dialogue, "Pooling the City Chap"; songs, Teresa and Bernard Sullivan; recitation, Monica Hefferman; dialogue, "A Mock Wedding"; recitation, Joe Condon; recitation, Teresa Sullivan; song by 11 members of the Junior Choir; Complaining Dolls; recitation, Essay on Men, Geraldine Allen; dialogue, "Poor Teacher"; song, "The Happy Bachelor," Bart Moher; song, 'South of the Border" by John Sheehan, with guitar accompaniment by Marjorie Ayotte; recitation, "Mixed Suitcases"; recitation, "An Old-fashioned Man," containing allusions to many of the villagers which were humorously received; Closing number, "Merry, Merry Christmas Bells."

The pupils served their visitors a generous treat of candy. The finale was the stripping of the tree by Santa Claus.

Fight Over Negress Said Behind Murder

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 — (AP). — Deputy Chief Inspector John O'Connor said Major Greenfield, 34, a Negro janitor, admitted the slaying of James Cangro, 44, a small-time policy operator, whose stabbed and strangled body was dumped on a vacant lot in the Bronx Christmas morning.

Homicide bureau detectives said Greenfield confessed the slaying after all-night questioning, explaining he felled Cangro with a clawhammer in a quarrel over a Negress known as "Annabelle."

The alleged confession countered earlier reports that Cangro was slain in the beginning of a war of extermination for control of the policy racket in the Bronx.

Pretty Neck, Shoulders, Right Hat All A Woman Needs Says Marjorie

TORONTO, Dec. 27—(CP).—Hats make the woman—and if they suit her they are still the most feminine furbelow she can use to enhance her charms. This is the opinion of Ross Hamilton who for more than 20 years has been mimicking women, dressing, singing and acting like them as "Marjorie," the feminine lead in the Dumbells.

Women's wiles haven't changed a bit in the past two decades, the ace Canadian feminine impersonator who won hearts in the front line last war, said. Its still the eyes that do it and a saucy tilt of the head. However, Marjorie learned one new wrinkle when she came back to the footlights a month ago—he paints her nails a bright red.

He's very particular about his wardrobe and never appears in the same gown in a repeat performance. Five "swish" evening frocks — with trains, sequin spangles or hoop spirts—line his dressing room walls. They will be remodelled or sold to costumers when their day is through.

But it is his hat box that fascinates Ross. "If women would only wear a hat that becomes them regardless of styles, they'd always be a knock out," he said. His pet hat in this show is of the old picture type—ultra - wide brimmed American beauty moire with bunches of violets on the shallow crown.

Jewels Unnecessary.

Women don't need jewels to be attractive, Ross believes. A good neck and beautiful shoulders should be shown off as they are without being spoiled by ornate jewels.

"It's easy to fool the men," Marjorie joked, patting his face with cream to make it femininely soft (he does this for an hour before each performance). "But I have to watch the women—even in the front rows they train their opera glasses on me throughout a whole performance and once in true womanly fashion I had to make a face at one of them.'

He's thankful that the half-starved silhouette is "out" in the fashion world this season, for the years have added a substantial roundness to his tall frame. "No wasp-waist corsets for me tho!" he smiled. "I just wear a zipper girdle."

Ace Safeguard

Brussels, Dec. 27 (AP)

KING LEOPOLD, in an order of the day to the army, said today that mobilization is the country's greatest safeguard. His message:—

"As the new year approaches, I address to officers, non-commissioned officers and the ranks my good wishes for them and their families.

"I have known the sacrifices which service for their country has imposed upon them for many months, above all to those mobilized and to their relatives, and I appreciate the patriotic abnegation with which they accepted.

"Each one should be convinced that our efforts constitute the best guarantee for safeguarding our homes and maintaining the peace so ardently desired by the entire country."

RCAF Takes Over 16 Airports

OTTAWA, Dec. 27 — (CP). — Under the Defence of Canada Act 16 Dominion airports have been designed as ports for direct or indirect military use to ensure their continued availability for such purposes.

Announcement of the designations was contained in the latest issue of the Canaad Gazette and the Transport Department said to-day that the move was in line with an Order-in-Council passed on November 28 which placed complete control of all air movements in the hands of the Government.

At the Transport Department it was said listing of the 16 airports as zones for direct or indirect military use would ensure that no tall buildings or other obstacles which might obstruct landings and take-offs, would be erected on adjoining property.

Such designation, it was said, does not necessarily mean that the airports will become full-fledged training bases, but, having been so listed, it may be considered they will figure in Canada's air effort.

The list of airports:

Vancouver Airport, Lethbridge Airport, Calgary Airport, Edmonton Airport, Regina Airport, Stevenson Field at Winnipeg, Fort William Airport, Kapuskasing, Ont., Airport, North Bay, Ont., Airport, Malton Airport at Toronto, Hamilton, Ont., Airport, Uplands Airport at Ottawa, St. Hubert Airport near Montreal, Saint John, N.B., Airport; Halifax Airport, and Moncton, N.B., Airport.

Finn Consul Quits To Help His Country

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—(AP). — A Kalle Aapro, Finnish consul at Rio de Janeiro for 18 years, arrived in New York to-day on his way to join the Finnish army.

Appro, 48, is an infantry lieutenant and a veteran of the war for Finnish independence against Russia. He will have travelled 8,000 miles to fight for his country when he reaches Finland.

"I hope we can stick it out for a few months until help comes," Aapro said. "I think everyone except Russia will help us."

Flemings School Holds Yule Party

HASTINGS, Dec. 27—(ENS). — Fleming's School held their annual Christmas concert on Friday evening under the direction of the teacher, Mr. Arnold Bates.

Mr. Ernest Stevenson acted as chairman for the following program: Opening chorus; recitation by five juniors "Why We Like Christmas"; recitations by Florence Brown and Mary Lewis; junior choruses, "Joys, Toys, Toys" and "Away in a Manager"; recitations by Roy Lewis and Dorothy Fleming; mouth organ selection, Mr. John Norton of Campbellford; chorus by boys "Blow the Man Down" and "The Capital Ship"; recitations, Donald Lewis; play, "Cinderella's Night Off" by Marilyn Ford, Julia McConnell and Phyllis Johnston; recitation, Jack Lewis; play, "Santa and Son" by the children.

Following the play, Santa Claus arrived and with the aid of the teacher distributed the gifts from the tree.

BULL RUNS WILD

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—(AP). — 1,400 pound bull cowed 30 milkmen today in a two-hour rampage on the west side. Escaping as it was being unloaded from a stock car, the animal snorted a challenge to three police cars and a sedan with five lasso-swinging stock handlers in a 1½ mile chase through traffic.

Swedish Tanks Are Rated Among The World's Most Efficient

Sweden may be the home of the Nobel peace prize, but is also equipped for meeting trouble if trouble is forced upon it. Here are some of the Swedish tanks that form a part of the defence force. These tanks, rated as among the world's most efficient, are equipped with 37 mm. cannon and .303 machine-guns. They are equipped with two-way radio and can travel over rough terrain at 28 m.p.h. Swedish armament factories are acknowledged to turn out the best and most modern army equipment in the world, and it is ironic that much of Germany's armaments were made either in Sweden or from Swedish steel.

Crew Of Sunken Nazis U-Boat Enroute To Internment Camp

Men of an ill-fated Nazi U-boat are pictured as they arrive "somewhere in Britain" as prisoners of war. They are shown coming from the naval vessel which captured them in battle at sea. The war is over for them—an internment camp will be their "home" for the duration of the struggle.

Fort At Dublin Looted; Irish Republicans Blamed

DUBLIN, Dec. 27—(CP).—A District Court to-day held two men for trial on charges of participating in a raid on a Dublin fort which was looted of a large quantity of arms and ammunition.

Police said the raid, Dec. 23, was made by members of the outlawed Irish Republican army.

Both men, William Cleary, 35, and William Gordon, 31, remained silent throughout the brief proceedings in the heavily guarded court room.

The raid on the fort was part of a holiday flare-up of what police said was I.R.A. activity. Sixty prisoner suspected of I.R.A. membership rioted in a Londonderry jail Christmas Day.

In the raid on the Dublin fort in Phoenix Park, the loot was hauled away in trucks. Telephone wires leading from the fort to nearby barracks were cut and a park attendant who attempted to inform police was critically injured.

Although four of the raiders were said to have been captured, none of the arms and ammunition has been reported found.

The prisoners in the Londonderry, Northern Ireland jail locked their warders in a cell, set fire to bedding, smashed furniture and leaned out of windows to sing Republican songs. They had been interned for the duration of the war because of suspected affiliations with the I.R.A.

They suspended a large placard from a window with read: "England is the champion of freedom. Is this freedom?"

The rioting continued for five hours before the prisoners were subdued by police, firemen and soldiers.

Offers Woman His Eye To Avoid Deportation

WAKEFIELD, R.I., Dec. 27—(AP)—Mrs. Gladys Northup, 42, blind since the age of six, disclosed that an Albanian held by Boston immigration officers had offered her one of his eyes if she would intervene to save him from deportation.

The specialist in charge of Mrs. Northup's case—she already his undergone eight operations in ceaseless pursuit of efforts to regain her sight—was unavailable for comment on feasibility of a grafting operation.

Mrs. Northup said she had received a letter from the man, who identified himself as Fein Hayden, 45, a resident of Waterbury, Conn., for 20 years, in which he said he would be glad to sacrifice an eye if it would help him to remain in the United States.

Children's Service Held At Marmora

MARMORA, Dec. 27—(ENS). — St. Paul's Church was prettily decorated for the Christmas festival on Sunday. In place of Sunday School a children's service was conducted by the rector at 10 a.m. The singing of several Christmas carols was a feature of the evening service, and following the offertory, Mrs. P. Gray beautifully rendered "The Gift."

Celebrations of Holy Communion were held on Christmas Day at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m., with Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell officiating.

NO ANSWER.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 27—(CP).—A sergeant at police headquarters thinks the tourist wifo phoned on Christmas day overdid- the Yuletide spirit. "We just arrived here and find the beverage rooms and liquor stores closed—where can we get a drink?" Asked the visitor. The sergeant says he didn't have the answer.

5,000 Newfoundland Men Offer Services

LONDON, Dec. 27 — (CP). — Eagerness in Newfoundland to help in the war was described to-day by a reporter for the Daily Mail.

"When the Government of Newfoundland issued a proclamation for 625 volunteers to help England sweep murder mines," he wrote, "5,000 fishermen mobbed the recruiting offices.

"One of the first was young Edward Snow, of Bay Roberts, on Conception Bay, an 18-year-old lad. Other men tried to elbow him aside. Officials suggested that he should join a later squad, but Edward had his way and sailing nearly 3,000 miles to England as the youngest of the first 2,000 volunteers.

"I met him among 50 Newfoundland fisher lads walking along the Strand and Pall Mall on their way to a "get-together luncheon' at the Overseas League Club.

"'You know, buddie,' he said, 'I am just beginning to live.'"

RAF Damages 3 Planes Patrol Ship

Raid Germany's Coast; Britons Attempt Sailing Half Vessel

LONDON, Dec. 28. —(CP)— The Air Ministry today announced a "successful reconnaissance" flight over Northwestern Germany from which one British plane failed to return.

It was not clear whether this flight was the same as that which the ministry earlier said resulted in successes over three German bombers and disabling of a German patrol ship. The German bombers were said to have been "damaged and silenced."

At least one direct bomb hit was made on the vessel near the German coast, the ministry said, the plane escaping despite heavy fire from German vessels, including several destroyers.

Accurate gunfire of the British was credited with breaking up a tight circling manoeuvre of the Dorniers and putting them out of commission. A bomb aimed at a Dornier in a third engagement "narrowly missed," said the air ministry.

Government sources also described a daring but unsuccessful attempt by a tanker's crew to sail the stern of their ship to port after a submarine's torpedo had destroyed the forward section.

The crew of the 7,397-ton San Alberto took to the lifeboats off Land's End December 9, but went back aboard when they found that the stern still floated. They steamed it backwards towards the coast, but a rising sea forced abandonment next morning, the report said.

The Ministry of Economic Warfare announced signing of a trade agreement with Sweden, aimed at maintaining commerce at normal levels.

Mines Ready In Two Months

Naval experts estimated that the mine barrage to be established along Britain's eastern coast line would be approximately 500 miles long and from 30 to 40 miles wide and include between 85,000 and 100,000 mines. It is expected to be in position in from eight to 12 weeks.

The mines are expected to be placed in such a manner as to prevent any approach to the coast by enemy surface vessels or submarines.

Two narrow channels will remain open for Allied and neutral ship-

Pope Pius Breaks Vatican Bond Of 70 Years Returns Visit Of Italian Monarchs In Rare Display Of Pomp And Ceremony

ROME, Dec. 28—(AP).—Pope Pius visited Italy's King and Queen today in a rare display of Papal pomp and royal ceremony signifying the ever-closer relations between the Vatican and the Italian state.

The glittering pageantry marked the first visit by any Pope to the ruler of the present Italian empire and the first call on a temporal prince in more than 70 years.

It formally repaid the visit to His Holiness by King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena a week ago.

Tens of thousands lined the streets to cheer the Papal procession and receive the Holy Father's benediction.

The occasion, rich with color and formality, symbolized the final dissolution of any discord over unified Italy's seizure of Rome from the Pope in 1870 and the city's designation as the Italian capital. In protests, the Popes became voluntary prisoners in the Vatican until 1929, when the Lateran peace was signed.

In some foreign eyes the ceremonial also signified possible cooperation between the Vatican and the Government toward eventual peace efforts, but Fascist authorities disclaimed any co-ordination of foreign policies.

The Pope and Premier Mussolini both are hostile to Bolshevism, but Virginio Gayda, editor who often expresses correctly the Government's view, said the meeting lacked any connection with policies or "concrete problems of war and peace."

Writing in the Giornale d'Italia, Gayda said that while "war and the problem of peace find the church and Italy on the same plane, their conceptions and evaluations differ."

The editor explained that the church thought in terms of humanity generally, while the Government thought in terms of Italy's "worldly interests," including "the quality of right and possessions with other nations."

As for the church, the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, said the visit taught that when "responsible chiefs know how to find equitable solutions, tempering cold justice with wise renunciations," as in the Lateran accords, the people understand and appreciate it.

Three cardinals and a host of dignitaries of the Papal Court made up a procession of 18 automobiles for the visit. Among them was the Papal secretary of state, Luigi Cardinal Maglione, who wore the Italian decoration of Annunziata, which makes him, like the Pope, an honorary cousin of the King.

Despite a drizzling rain, the Pope rode in an open automobile, giving the crowds ample opportunity to see his gestures of blessing.

Italian soldiers, standing shoulder to shoulder, lined the way to the Quirinal Palace, which once was the home of the Popes. From tall shafts along the route, the red-white-and - green flags of Italy fluttered with the white-and-yellow Papal banners.

At the palace steps was the King's master of ceremonies to lead the way between rows of guardsmen to the King and the princes of the House of Savoy.

Wearing the decoration of the Golden Spur, conferred by the Pope for services for peace and promotion of cordiality between church and State, Foreign Minister Count Ciano represented the Government.

Ring Of Tanks Baffles Finn Charge

Soviets Try Defence Of American Covered Wagon Days

HELSINGFORS, Dec. 28 — (AP) —Finland's defensive invasion of Soviet Russia was broadened today by a second thrust toward the Murmansk Railway, supply artery for Red invaders in the Far North.

At the same time Finnish forces in the Karelin Isthmus, South-eastern Finland, reported that repeated Russian tank attacks were shattered on the Mannerheim Line.

Finnish airmen, co-operating with swift, phantom-like ski troops in white, were said to have carried the eastern offensive to the railway itself with a series of bombing attacks.

Paralleling the movement of ski patrols from Lieksa, Finns were reported advancing into Soviet territory toward the railway in the Salla area, where the line runs within 45 miles of the border.

Patrols crossed the frontier in the "waistline" area "without intention of invasion but because of tactical necessity in view of military conditions within the country," said a Finnish source.

There were reports—but no confirmation—that the highly mobile ski patrols had reached their railway objective.

They were said to be bent on tactics similar to those of Lawrence of Arabia in the last war—swift forays to find weakly guarded stretches of track, then a dynamiting and withdrawal before opposing forces could reach the scene.

The Red Army was reported previously to have been driven back 50 miles in the Salla sector, about 230 miles north of Lieksa, point of the first Finnish invasion of Russia.

On the Isthmus front, each side retained its positions despite Russian attacks with heavy artillery and tanks. The Finnish communique yesterday said an enemy attack north of Lake Hatjalahti was repulsed and eight tanks destroyed.

City Steadily Bombed.

"The battle continues," the army report said.

Day and night artillery fire continued against Vitpuri (Viborg) near the Isthmus.

Russian thrusts in an attempt to cross Lake Suvanto were accompanied by aerial bombings of the south-

Findlay Fined $1

Halifax, Dec. 28 (CP)

ALLAN FINDLAY, youthful law school lecturer, today was found "technically guilty" of attempting to communicate information about military, naval and air force movements in the Halifax area and was fined $1 and costs.

Magistrate R. E. Inglis said Findlay's offence was "purely a technical offence and not intentional." He said, however, he had no alternative but to enter a conviction.

Costs will bring the total fine up to $7. In the case of failure to pay the fine Findlay will have to serve one day in the Halifax county jail. L. A. Lovett, K.C., the defence counsel, said it would be paid within the next day or two.

Britain Adding Sugar, Meat To Ration List

By J. F. SANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Dec. 28.—(CP Cable)—Food Minister W. S. Morrison announced today that sugar and meat will be rationed, in addition to bacon, ham and butter, the rationing of which already has been announced.

Sugar rationing will start January 8 when the scheme for butter, bacon and ham goes into operation. Sugar will be limited to 12 ounces a week for each person.

The meat rationing date and the amount of individual supplies will be announced later but the scheme for the control of livestock and home-produced meat will be brought into operation January 15.

It was understood the meat rationing scheme would not include poultry but would be limited to beef, mutton, lamb, veal and pork.

The ministry of food already is the sole buyer of foreign meat for Great Britain. Before rationing can begin he must take control of home-produced meat. This will start Jan. 15 by taking control of 750 slaughter houses and shutting all small ones.

The government says the purpose of rationing is to ensure even distribution of foodstuffs and does not indicate a shortage of these commodities.

The ration for bacon and butter announced Nov. 28 is four ounces weekly for every person. Putting into effect the scheme was delayed until after Christmas so as not to interfere with holiday festivities.

42,000 Quake Casualties One Area Alone; 12 Turkish Cities, 80 Villages Razed With Fresh Shocks Adding To Horrors

Vancouver Engineer Predicts High 'Quake Toll In 1940

VANCOUVER, Dec. 28—(CP). — Edgar C. Thrupp, a member of the Engineering Institute of Canada, forecast today that 1940 will "bring the most destructive earthquakes of the 20th century," but said Canada will not be seriously affected.

Pointing to yesterday's death-dealing earthquake in Turkey as an example of his successful predictions in the past, Thrupp said July 20 to August 5 next year will be the "first period of risk of the worst disasters."

"This occasion will compare with the disasters in Asia Minor on Aug. 13 and Sept. 5, 1822, when 20,000 people were killed," he said in an interview.

He forecast that October 20 to November 10 will be the second period of greatest risk.

The elderly Vancouver civil engineer, who retired from active practice in 1932, said the "new law of gravitation" he has developed and which forms the basis for his predictions," does not provide any means of forecasting the location of earthquakes.

Canada Solid Enough

The 1940 tremblors might occur in uninhabited areas and cause no loss of life, he said. Canada's subterranean structure is solid enough.

Flames Sweep Ruins In 22 Below Gale Lashes Coast

ANKARA, Turkey, Dec 28—(AP).—Officials announced today 42,000 persons were killed or injured in the region of Erzincan alone in yesterday's Anatolian earthquake

New tremors shook Anatolia today while a blizzard and fierce winds increased the suffering of hundreds of thousands of homeless.

A heavy storm raged along the Black Sea coast, tearing ships loose from moorings and battering down seaside homes.

With the temperature 22 degrees below zero (Fahrenheit), many of thousands of earthquake survivors who had fled to fields were frozen to death, according to sparse reports reaching Ankara officials.

Erzincan is a vilayet, or province, in the extreme east of Turkey on the Armenian border.

(The statesmen's year book gave Erzincan's 1935 population as 157,344. The city of Erzincan had a population of about 40,000).

Cold Adds Suffering.

The suffering of survivors was accentuated in many localities by bitter cold and deep snow.

Fires swept many habitations which had withstood the earth shocks, forcing many into the open where exposure carried the risk of widespread illnesses.

Food and pure water supplies were scanty.

Twelve cities ranging in population from 12,000 to 40,000 and 80 villages were said to have been demolished. In the city of Tokat alone, 953 persons were reported killed and 443 injured. Dwellings were shaken down on the sleeping occupants.

Erzincan, a city of 40,000, lay in flaming ruins. Every large building had collapsed, including a large military barracks where all the officers, 90 cadets and a large number of soldiers were killed.

Bursting gas mains and overturned oil lamps set fire to collapsed buildings in almost every corner of the wide disaster area.

Slowly, bit by bit, over disrupted communications the picture of the catastrophe was put together.

Hundreds Trapped in Fires.

Hundreds who escaped death in the wholesale collapse of buildings were trapped by fires which spread quickly in the stricken area. Whole villages were turned into vast funeral pyres.

Screams of the trapped women and children mingled with the dull roar of crumbling masonry, the crash of breaking glass, and sirens of ambulances and fire engines.

The lack of apparatus to fight hundreds of fires which still were burning frustrated attempts to recover bodies or to check the extent of casualties accurately.

Many towns and villages still were cut off entirely from the outside world by the wrecking of communication facilities.

In the crowded sections of cities, the streets were strewn with bodies

5 Piers, 13 Acres Packed At N.Y. With War Goods

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(CP). — Officials of the New York Foreign Trade Zone Operators, Incorporated, gazed today upon acres of trucks, bombing airplanes and trench diggers and sought additional space in which to store other implements of war.

More than $18,500,000 worth of products clog five piers and 13 acres of ground space in the Staten Island zone, a free port that for customs purposes is outside of the United States. The goods are the property of Great Britain and France and are in the foreign trade zone because storage facilities are available there which might not be found elsewhere.

Sixty fast bombing planes, part of an order of 250 built for Britain, are awaiting shipment across the Atlantic. Almost covering available lots enclosed within barbed wire fences are 2,500 trucks, the property of France. Thirteen huge trench diggers, each worth $3,000 and part of an order of 283, tower above the trucks. They are consigned to France.

Goods from foreign countries may enter the trade zone without payment of United States customs duty and remain until imported or transshipped. In this class of products are 500,000 cases of Argentine corned beef, worth $3,500,000, purchased by Britain. Sisal and ixtle for use in rope-making destined for the Royal Navy are among the stores.

Suspected Gang Chief, $4,000 In Loot Nabbed

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 28.—(CP)—Arrested last night after discovery of a large cache of stolen goods, Jack Henson, 25, was believed by police toda, to be the leader of a gang of robbers and safecrackers which obtained more than $5,000 in money and merchandise in a two months' raiding orgy in Western Ontario.

Held on six counts of breaking and entering and also charged with illegal possession of firearms, Henson was remanded eight days without plea by County Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw today.

Three months ago, he finished a five-year term in Kingston prison, imposed here for the theft of a machine gun from a display window in a downtown store. He stole the gun to "fix the police" he said at the time. His police record dates back several years.

Goods taken from six robberies, with total loot of $4,000, were identified by storekeepers at city police headquarters this morning. It is believed that about half the merchandise has been recovered.

Two or more alleged accomplices of Henson's were being hunted by London and Provincial Police today. Authorities would not say whether they suspected another cache of stolen goods.

Engine Crew Stops Saves 2 From Fire

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Dec. 28 —(AP). — A Lehigh Valley Railroad freight engineer and his crew were revealed to-day as the rescuers of an aged couple whose farmhouse near Le Roy was destroyed by fire yesterday.

Engineer Arthur Blain said he and his crew, Earl Dawson, George Pettit, and John Gilsky, all of Niagara Falls, stopped their train when they saw the farmhouse ablaze five miles west of Le Roy, and carried out Mr. and Mrs. James McComb, aged 95 and 93 respectively. After taking the couple to the home of a neighbor and ascertaining the house was doomed, they resumed their duties. The McCombs were little the worse for their experience.

Officers Wreck Two Cars, Get Their Men

MONTREAL, Dec. 28 — (CP). — Two men were arrested by police early today after an automobile chase through city streets that ended when the cars crashed into a pole, injuring the fleeing pair and both pursuing detectives.

Sergeant-Detectives Romaul and Albert Drayton, who forced the crash by cutting in front of the fugitives' car, scrambled from the wreckage and covered both men until radio police arrived.

The men, both wounded slightly during the chase, gave their names as Fernand Massey, 28, and Wilfred Peloquin, 38, both of Montreal. Massey was struck in the foot and Peloquin's head was grazed by two bullets fired during the chase.

Both detectives were taken to the same hospital. Drayton was kept under observation for a possible fractured skull, while Dubuc was treated for minor injuries.

Police said the chase started about 3.30 a.m., when the detectives became suspicious of the men.

A subsequent investigation of the car revealed five automobile tires, reported stolen from a city garage earlier in the night, police said. The investigation continued.

Costly Midland Blaze Hits Preston Block

MIDLAND, Ont., Dec. 28—(CP). —Fire of unknown origin to-day almost completely gutted the second floor of the W. E. Preston Block, occupied by the Midland branch of the Canadian Department Stores Limited.

For a time it appeared that the building might be destroyed. The automatic sprinkler system was shut off owing to a freeze up. Firemen were notified of this previously and turned it on again when they arrived.

Damage to the building was considerable and smoke and water almost completely ruined merchandise in the Canadian Department Stores and the meat and grocery store of W. E. Preston & Sons which occupied one-half of the main floor.

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN FRANCE, Dec. 28.—(CP-Reuters) —Home leave for the offices and men of the B.E.F. has hitherto been available only to those who arrived in France before the end of September. As from the middle of January, the personnel who arrived in France before the end of October will be on the leave list.

With so many scattered units in France and with a definite percentage of their total laid down as the maximum number of men to be allowed away on leave simultaneously, it is a complicated business to arrange a steady flow of men on leave who should represent a fair proportion of all regiments and branches of the army.

Staff officers are working frantically to keep things working smoothly. Leave must remain subject to the exigencies of war. But it is hoped that the men who arrived in France during November will be eligible to leave about the middle of February.

Once the individual officer or man has had 10 days' home leave, he will not be eligible for a second period until after an interval of six months.

243 Jews In B.E.F.

Among the 200,000 officers and men who approximately make up the present strength of the B.E.F. 243 are Jews.

A month ago it was decided to find out the number of Jews on active service. If the total warranted it, it was intended that application should be made to London for a rabbi to be sent out to attend to their spiritual needs.

To ascertain the total, the attestation form of everyone made in the B.E.F. had to be examined. The examination is now completed and it shows there are 243 Jews of all ranks. The war office will decide the desirability of sending out a rabbi.

Report Afghans Fortify Border

ROME, Dec. 28 — (AP). — Despatches from Peshawar appearing in the Italian press to-day said Afghanistan apparently was mobilizing her armed forces at the Russian border. The reports were denied by Afghanistan officials.

A British military mission was reported to have reached Kuweit to direct the construction of fortifications for the defence of the Gulf of Persia.

GermansHolding Neutral Ships

HAMBURG, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A number of neutral ships seized at sea by German warships on the ground that they were carrying contraband goods are tied up in German harbors awaiting disposition by the German prize court.

Confiscation of a ship, its cargo, or both, as well as the amount of damages, is determined solely by the court consisting of three judges and one sea officer, which meets here under regular Nazi courtroom procedure.

Prize ships normally pass through the following stages before a hearing: The Reich's commissioner, who also is prosecutor, sees to safekeeping of the prize and persons needed for testimony. He also examines the papers, inspects the ship and questions witnesses.

If, as a result on this examination, the Reich's Commission finds the seizure not in accordance with prize regulations he has power to release the ship. He also may make adjust-

FDR Soon To Pick Ottawa Envoy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 — (AP). —President Roosevelt is expected to name a new United States Minister to Canada shortly after Congress meets.

The Ottawa post is one of several for which the President is said to have picked men. Others are Belgium, Cuba, Peru and Bulgaria.

A Minister to Australia will be appointed later, after conclusion of negotiations for diplomatic relations with the Commonwealth. Naming of Richard G. Casey, Australian Minister of Supply, as first Minister to Washington already has been forecast in Canberra.

While neither the President nor the State Department has given any hint of the appointments, except in regard to Belgium, there is speculation that Hugh R. Wilson, former Ambassador to Germany, may be designated as Minister to Canada.

Although the Ottawa post does not carry the title of Ambassador it is considered one of the most important in the diplomatic service, especially since the Dominion's entry into the war.

With the exception of the few weeks when Daniel Roper, former Secretary of Commerce, served as Minister during the visit of the King and Queen last summer, the Ottawa post has been vacant nearly two years.

ColdWaveHeads On To Atlantic

TORONTO, Dec. 28.—(CP)—Ontario's wave of severe cold weather had passed over most of the province today, lingering only in the Ottawa district.

The temperatures which dropped drastically Wednesday morning were back in most areas to figures close to those for the same day last year.

At Toronto the low for today was 9 degrees, compared with 12 in 1938. At 11 a.m. the temperature in the city was 22 degrees and heading for the 1938 day's high of 28.

On the Niagara Peninsula, the mercury touched 10 above zero at St. Catharines, its low point for the winter so far. This was about two degrees warmer than the December low a year ago. Welland's low of nine above zero was the same as last year.

On the shore of the St. Lawrence, Cornwall felt a temperature of two below zero at 8 a.m. but three hours later it had warmed to six above. Brockville hit a low of six below this morning but was warming up and finding things less frigid than on the same day last year.

North Bay's nine below zero early this morning was precisely what it was 365 days ago. Many points noted that there was snow on this day in 1938 but none now.

'I Told You So' Says Drew Of Slip In Death Duty Act

TORONTO, Dec. 28—Revelation that a flaw had been discovered in the new succession duty act passed at the special session of the Ontario Legislature last September and halted then as the "last word," brought today from Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader a prompt "I told you so."

Col. Drew, reached in Guelph, expressed the hope that this latest "blunder" would convince Attorney-General Gordon Conant that "his legal opinions are not infallible."

(The Toronto Globe and Mail said in a newspage story today:

"Ontario's new Succession Duties Act, passed at the special session of the Legislature last September is said to have contained such a glaring error that collections by the treasury from various large estates are alleged to have been held up, the Hepburn Government has been unable to proceed with certain court actions, and senior officials reportedly involved in the mistake have barely escaped dismissal from the Civil Service."

("The error will undoubtedly be corrected at the coming session, but in making the correction if one is made, the Government is bound to admit that the months and months of preparation spent last summer by legal experts to make the new act "holeproof," as repeatedly claimed for it, have so far largely gone for naught. Section 47 is said to contain the mistake, but treasury officials at Queen's Park refused yesterday to discuss it or the "hair-tearing" situation it is said to have precipitated in cabinet circles.")

Col. Drew said: "I knew that the Act was badly drafted and unworkable and said so on several occasions during the special session when it was introduced. I urged that it be referred to a legal committee for careful consideration of its effects. This was met by Mr. Conant's courteous retort that he had heard enough of my 'barnyard law,' and that the

Cold Water Shaves, Baths, Smoking Grates Blackouts Toughen C.E.F. Officers Fast

By GILLIS PURCELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

CHILBLAIN CASTLE, Aldershot, England, Dec. 28. — (CP Cable)—A score of hanrdy Canadians in this fortress home are putting up a brave battle against fog and the chill of English winter coupled with thew artime blackout.

Officers of divisional headquarters staff are billeted in a stark red-brick triplex building which was named "Churchill Terrace" until shivering Canadians began transforming it into a home a fortnight ago.

The blackout has been beaten by memorizing the exact location of all hazards and bunkers and also with the aid of occasional moonlight. The greatest problem still is to penetrate the double arches between the gate in the privet hedge and the doorway in the distant darkness without blackening an eye.

Clammy chill in the rooms has been virtually eliminated by using rationed coal in the evenings and night, allowing the grates to die out in the day. A usual predinner scene is a group of officers around a fire warming alternate sides.

Chilblain Castle was obviously at one time the married quarters for "other ranks" but it was unoccupied for some time. It possesses the incredible power of becoming uninhabitable around bed-

Daladier Balances, Passes War Budget Of 80 Billion

PARIS, Dec. 28.—(CP-Havas)—France's civil budget of 79,247,000,000 francs (about $1,775,132,800) was unanimously approved by the Senate today. It has previously passed the Chamber of Deputies.

The military budget, dependent on the course of the war, is provided for by a 55,034,000,000-franc credit to cover the first three months of 1940.

Finance Minister Paul Reynaud said that in the future any increase in civil expenditure will be asked of the taxpayer, and any increase in military expenditure will be covered by loans.

"A budget is policy, and not simply arithmetic," Reynaud said. "A year ago I analysed here the conception of the state as a Santa Claus, permitting belief that wealth came from it and not from the citizens, so that Frenchmen expected happiness by decree and not by effort.

"Events have confirmed the policy approved by the Senate and pursued until the war. The volume of exports increased by more than 20 per cent in weight, unemployment fell to the lowest level for more than six years, more than 60,000,000 francs of capital returned to the fatherland.

"Thanks to these facts, numerous false ideas perished. It is not in undertaking great public works that one increases the activity of the country. We decreased great public works, and the total of constructions nevertheless increased by 56 per cent.

"We know that purchasing power increases through an increase in work and production, and not through an abitrary act of the state before unchanged production.

"A year ago we said this. We were told, 'the country will not understand.' But the country has understood. It is a lesson which should not be forgotten.

"A year has passed. The Santa Claus state has taken on another face with the war. It became a Moloch state which threw itself

Dies Group Asks Permanent Ban Upon Ross

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The Congressional committee on "unAmerican" activities recommended today that Colin Ross, whom it described as a "Nazi propagandist," be prevented from ever entering the United States again.

Ross has been registered at the State Department as an agent for various German interests, including motion picture companies, but the committee expressed the opinion in a formal statement that he had not reported the full scope of his activities.

The committee report declared that during the last war Ross was a "German spy and secret service agent." He has been in the United States intermittently in recent years and sailed for Japan last March. He is now believed to be in Germany and there has been no public indication that he wished to return to America.

The committee, which was directed by the House of Representatives to investigate unAmerican activities, said that high federal officials have issued warnings and secret orders concerning Ross' affairs while he was in the United States.

The committee announced, however, that it was reporting only on its own investigation of his activities. It summarized some of its findings as follows:—

A CHINESE army spokesman asserted today that Japan had suffered 100,000 casualties on all fronts in the December campaigns and that each week three Japanese vessels were being damaged on the Yangtse river.

The spokesman declared that Japanese reports of recent military successes "betray their own fears and anxieties, reflecting alarm over their own staggering losses."

Burns Kill Baby In Carriage Fire

INGERSOLL, Dec. 28.—(CP) — Matches that her 6-year-old brother was reportedly lighting to amuse his baby sister, resulted in nine-month-old Nona Logan being burned to death shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon when their mother, Mrs. Clarence Logan, was using the telephone at a neighbour's home.

According to information given Constable John Holmes, the 6-year-old boy, one of the three children left alone in the house, held one of the lighted matches beneath a celluloid doll that hung from the hood of the baby carriage where his small sister was lying.

The investigation was later turned over to Provincial Constable John Clark, of Woodstock, and a complete investigation was made. Authorities later said death was accidental and there would not be an inquest.

The fire spread from the blazing doll enveloping the child and her clothes and spread to the wall. One of the brothers ran to the town dump near-by and gave the alarm to George Savage, who is in charge there.

The child died soon after Mr. Savage reached the house. He prevented the flames from damaging the house. Police and a doctor were notified and Mrs. Logan was notified on her way home, not having previously learned of the tragedy.

Snow Coming?

WINNIPEG, Dec. 28 (CP)—Grey clouds hung low over many districts of Western Canada today, blacking out sunshine but failing to bring snow except in the wooded rock country or northwestern Ontario.

Temperatures remained only moderately cold from the western tip of the Great Lakes to the foothills of the Rocky Mountains and weather forecasters of the Dominion Meteorological Bureau here predicted little change for the next 24 hours.

Moderate southwest to west winds blew over cloudy northwestern Ontario, bringing snow flurries. Mercuries were expected to drop a little before the week-end.

Hint Reds After Concessions From Bulgaria

MOSCOW, Dec. 28—(AP).—Speculation was revived in foreign circles today that Soviet Russia might be extending demands for new naval bases on the Black Sea, as a Bulgarian trade delegation arrived.

Russia has been concerned over her position in the Black Sea since Turkey signed a mutual assistance agreement with Great Britain and France after negotiations with Russia collapsed.

Meanwhile, Russia called more men to the colors, presumably for the Finnish campaign. The number involved in the order was not disclosed.

A Red army communique covering yesterday's war activity said merely: "Nothing important occurred on the front. Soviet aviation made reconnoitring flights."

"In the same way it took over the instruments of the creation of wealth. It took men first.

"It also made purchases abroad, delivering the country's gold to obtain raw materials, machines and airplanes which it needed. Everything must be paid for. Everybody must make sacrifices.

Balanced 80 Billion Budget.

"We are at war. I present to you a war budget of 80 billions—balanced. In the future, every increase in civil expenditure will be asked of the tax-payer—every increase in military expenditure by loans.

"We must count in the hundreds of billions if the war lasts. There is to be no inflation. That is an unjust and dangerous method.

"If no Frenchman subscribed to war bonds we should lose the war. The French have understood. Subscriptions and the bringing home of foreign currencies means nothing else.

"The duty for the future is to same more, still to economize—to meet the costs of the state with the savings of the country.

"It is therefore now necessary to deprive oneself of the superfluous; to export much and import little, or to deliver the gold of the Bank of France — a patrimony which, expended is lost.

World of Two Zones

"The world is divided into two zones: that where we must give up gold and that, immense, where we can buy with sterling. Here comes of the usefulness of our accord with Great Britain."

The Finance Minister read the text of the Franco-British declaration of December 12, which established financial cooperation between the two countries.

"The essential part of the accord," he continued, "is not the division of expenses but the monetary and economic understanding which is preparing the reconstruction of Europe.

"What will come after the war? The state will not continue to reign all-powerful as now. Control of exchange, or wages, or prices—we shall not be able to retain these rigorous frameworks. We must maintain the regime of liberty after victory."

act was going through in the form in which it had been introduced.

"I said then that time would be saved if the act were referred to a committee of judges and lawyers with special qualifications to consider the legal effect of legislation of this nature. I pointed out to the house that the effect of several of the new sections could not possibly be understood except by a few specially qualified legal draftsmen.

"I urged the members not to vote on these new sections unless they could honestly say to themselves they knew what the words meant.

"Now it is admitted that I was correct when I said that the Attorney-General himself did not know what these sections meant. I hope this comedy of errors may at least serve the useful result of finally convincing the Attorney-General how unwise it is to force halfbaked legislation through the house in the confident assurance that his legal opinions are infallible."

Fire In Car Put Out

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 28—(ENS)—A pail of water and a motor rug helped to quell a blaze and save Forrest R. Dennis's car from destruction by fire at noon Wednesday. It was slightly colder than usual in Campbellford, so when Mr. Dennis attempted to start the car he had to give it plenty of choke. The engine back fired and in a moment smoke began to pour from the hood. Before aid could be summoned the heat had melted the vacuum tank, spilling another pint of gas over the engine. Principal damage was in a scorched hood and cracked spark plugs.

time. Thus far the solution of the damp sheet problem has been to dive into sleeping bags which have been kept dry and warm.

It is worth a chuckle any day to see a lieutenant who was unworried by sub-zero temperatures at Aklavik rubbing his hands and shivering at a feeble morning fire when the thermometer though at its lowest point of the year still is 29 degree above zero.

Unable to locate a salamander, an ingenious officer discovered two oil heaters which are most helpful. The problem of hot baths still is unsolved, the closest being a block away.

It is possible batmen would be able to warm up some bath water if the pipes from the hot tank did not go a considerable distance outside the house before reaching the tap. Shaving in cold water lugged from the kitchen now is the regular practice.

After Canada's steam heating it was a bit upsetting momentarily to encounter dust and dirt from the grate and also from the smoke and fog, but all that can be got use to.

One problem still unsolved is the army towels. Apparently they are fabricated from a combination of wallboard and sheet metal. They are impregnated with a peculiar glaze rendering them impervious to water. Analysts are working on the matter.

Poilu, Bayonets Stop Nazis In Saar Raids

PARIS, Dec. 28—(AP). — French troops repulsed two German attacks yesterday, in one instance in a hand-to-hand combat, during a day of heightened patrol activity described by military sources today as extending the length of the north flank of the Western front.

The first German action started in the morning in an offensive against a hamlet between the Saar River and the Vosges Mountains.

The second raid started an hour later in the same vicinity with artillery and mortar barrages. Directed against the French advance posts, the German troops were driven to hand-to-hand fighting before being forced to retire as the French held the post intact, military advices said.

Meanwhile, both French and German patrols operated on reconnaissance missions. The French said their activity was concentrated in the region east of the Moselle River and that the Germans were particularly active in the Nied River section.

Freed After 3 Years For Killing Son

NEW YORK, Dec. 28—(AP).—A belated Christmas gift from the State of New York will bring freedom today to the woman once sentenced to death for drowning her two-year-old son to "save him from a life of poverty."

For her excellent behavior since she was imprisoned September 9, 1936, to serve six to 15 years, Mrs. Dorothy Sherwood, one-time burlesque dancer and former Salvation Army lassie, will be released today from the women's prison at suburban Bedford, N.Y.

Waiting at the prison gates to greet her as she gains "controlled freedom" was her daughter Dorothy, 10, who has been cared for by the Salvation Army.

Six months after her husband died and left her destitute, Mrs. Sherwood carried her son's body to a police station at Newburgh, N.Y. She was convicted of first-degree murder. The jury recommended mercy bu, under the law the court had no alternative but to impose the death sentence. Newburgh residents then signed a petition which won Mrs. Sherwood a second trial, and on her plea of guilty to a manslaughter charge she was sentenced to Bedford.

OBITUARY

ROBERT RUSSEL ROBSON.

NORWOOD, Dec. 28 (ENS). — A large cortege of friends and relatives paid final tribute to the late Robert Russell Robson, whose funeral took place in Norwood on Tuesday. The late Mr. Robson, who was in his 43rd year, died suddenly at the home of Alexander Kempt early on Sunday morning, the cause of death being an acute heart attack.

Although Mr. Robson had not been in real good health for some time, his condition was not regarded as serious, and news of his death came as a great shock to his large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Robson was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church — a regular attendant and always ready to assist in anything pertaining to the welfare of his church or community.

Funeral services were held in the church with the pastor, the Rev. D. K. Perrie, officiating. The musical part of the service included two hymns, favored by Mr. Robson, and a solo by Mrs. M. Telford of Peterborough entitled "The Christian's Good-night."

Gerald Robson of Peterborough, a brother, is the only immediate survivor, his father, mother and one brother having predeceased him several years ago.

Six cousins, George McNaughton, Dean McNaughton, Arnold Baptie, Mervyn Baptie, Howard Baptie, and Garnet Baptie, were the pall-bearers and William Parcels, C. H. Cuthbertson, C. S. Watson, Leonard Edwards, William Ferguson, and Stanley McMillan the flower-bearers.

JOSEPH FISHER.

JANETVILLE, Dec. 28 (ENS).—The sudden death of Joseph Fisher occurred in the Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, on Wednesday morning, December 20, as the result of a stroke suffered the day previous.

The late Mr. Fisher was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fisher of Lindsay, and was born in Lindsay 65 years ago, where he resided until 8 years ago, when he and his family moved to this district.

The late Mr. Fisher was of a quiet, unassuming nature, was a good neighbor and a kind and loving husband and father.

The funeral service was held on Friday at 2.30 p.m. from Anderson's Funeral Home, and was conducted by Rev. Mervin Bury, M.A., of Janetville United Church, Rev. H. C. Wolfraim, M.A., B.D., of Queen Street United Church, Lindsay, and Rev. P. C. Reed of the Lindsay Baptist Church.

Surviving besides his widow and son are one sister, Mrs. Morley Gifford of Toronto, and one brother William Fisher of Lindsay.

The pall-bearers were Bert Courtney, Joseph Macksey, William Fisher of Lindsay, and John Jackett, Percy Walker and Merritt McGill of Janetville.

Interment was made at Riverside Cemetery, Lindsay.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 28 — (CP). — Small gains were scored by wheat futures prices after a steady session on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Only moderate support was required to absorb the light offerings as quotations finished ¼ cent lower to ¼ higher, December at 84⅞, May 88¼ to ⅜, and July 89¼ cents.

Cash wheat trading was confined again to light terminal buying of No. 1 Northern and moderate mill support in the lower grades. Export purchasing in barley, milling interests in oats and southern purchases of rye gave coarse grain operations fairly active tone.

Christmas Spirit

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 28—(AP)—Santa Claus gave an encore for 14-year-old Jesse Mulkins. The lad's Christmas bicycle was stolen while he was in a theatre. Police told him to go to a store and get a new one. S. J. Beierfield, who had heard of the loss, remembered the ple

Millbrook Pupils Hold Concert

MILLBROOK, Dec. 28—(ENS).—The school room of Grace Presbyterian church was gaily decorated on Friday evening for the annual Christmas treat and concert, given the scholars of the Sunday School by the teaching staff and officers, the chair being taken by the minister, Rev. A. Raeburn-Gibson, and the event opening with "O Canada" sung by the massed pupils.

Recitations were given by Wilma Hubbeard, who voiced the welcome, followed by the pastor's words emphasizing the meaning of Christmas, after which all sang, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing"; by A. J. Ball, Donald Thompson, Sylvia Hunter, Mae Hubbeard, Robina Hancock, Jackie Miller, Margaret Hancock, Betty Forsyth, whose number was "Green As Evergreen"; Ruth Forsyth, "What Can I Say?" and Lindsay Belch, "A Letter to Santa."

Miss Margaret Armstrong's girls gave a dialogue, "Arithmetic Class" and Mrs. Alex Miller's class, "Christmastide." "Busy Little Maids" was another dialogue that won the audience with its action and words, and Mary Blair's reading "Fat Girls' Trials," brought warm applause. Miss Gladys Coyte's class sang a Christmas air, and a play, "Squire Hawley's Christmas," was well presented by the combined classes of Mrs. S. E. Eakins and Mr. Joseph Burns, the characters being: Squire Hawley, Gordon Larmer; his wife, Doreen Deyell; their children, Geo. and Nora, John Hicks and Rhoda Gibson; Rev. Williams, Norman Hubbeard; Katie, the maid, Gertrude Forsyth; Mrs. Bass, Martha Belch; her children, Jennie and Frank, Marjorie Hubbeard and Ian Gibson.

Following a song by John Hicks, the superintendent, Mr. Harold Hubbeard, was invited to the platform and presented with a personal gift from a member of the men's Bible Class, as was also Mrs. Hubbeard. Suitable reply having been made, much jingling of bells announced the arrival of Santa Claus, when the gifts from the lovely tree were distributed, as well as the awards won during the year.

Miss Margaret Armstrong gave awards to pupils of her class reciting the Golden Text each Sunday: Mary Blair, Esther Armstrong, and Wilda Hubbeard. Mary Blair also received the award for regular church attendance, and after a silver collection had been received, candy was served to all, with special mention being made of the fact that the beautiful decorations of the school room were the work and donation of Mr. S. E. Eakins. The National Anthem closed an enjoyable and successful evening.

German Infantry In Action In "No Man's Land"

Just somewhere—not somewhere in Germany, not somewhere in France, but in that no man's land between the German Westwall and France's Maginot line, German infantrymen advance on patrol. They use all the caution of stalking Indians out on a scalp hunt. Death may lurk behind any rock or bush—the war so far consists mainly of skirmishes between patrols like this and similar bands of French skirmishers.

Christmas Concert Is Big Success

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 28—(ENS)—The annual Christmas concert held under auspices of the English Line Tabernacle Church was a distinct success. Owen Findlay was chairman of the evening which consisted of a miscellaneous program opening with a chorus followed by a dialogue, "A Terrible Catastrophe" in which five young members of the Sunday School took part.

Ronald Dunk offered a recitation after which a sextette of milkmaids appropriately attired in pink dresses and blue bonnets presented a drill. Tam Chadwick, Earl Goden, Albert and Clarence Grills contributed two vocal numbers and Mrs. Orval Grills and Miss Muriel Stollery gave a vocal duet, "Rose Of No Man's Land". A short skit, "Madame Camellia's Beauty Parlor" was a highlight of the program and the cast for this consisted of Misses Margaret and Winnifred Hiag, Mr. and Mrs. Tam Chadwick, Lyle Lewis, Miss Olive Tinney, Raymond Tinney and Miss Isobel Saunders.

S.S. No. 5 At Bonarlaw Has School Party

BONARLAW, Dec. 28—(ENS).—The annual school entertainment given by the pupils of S.S. No. 5 in the school house at Bonarlaw on Thursday evening last was a decided success, being well attended and much enjoyed by all.

The program, under the direction of Miss Marion Richardson, teacher, consisted of dialogues, recitations, tableaux, folk dances, vocal solos, duets and trios, and a number of splendidly rendered choruses by senior pupils, junior pupils and the entire school.

Rev. Canon W. G. Swayne acted as chairman and commented favorably on the splendid selection of numbers and the manner in which they were given.

Mr. J. F. Baker assisted with a few solos between numbers.

At the close of the program Santa Claus appeared with a large package and distributed bags of candies to all the pupils and also presents from the gaily decorated Christmas tree.

A feature of the evening was the presentation to Miss Richardson from the pupils of a lovely magazine rack and box of bon-bons. Miss Richardson thanked them for the lovely gifts and wished everyone a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

STRAP SAVES LIFE.

Death Claims 3 In One Family

HASTINGS, Dec. 28—(ENS).—Death has struck three times in the past three weeks in a Hastings family. Two sons and a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Archie Waddell, former residents of Percy township.

The three children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Waddell are survived by a brother, Matthew Waddell. His brother John died the week before Christmas in Billings, Montana, a week after his sister, Mrs. J. Stewart, had died in Toronto. She was buried in the Trent Valley cemetery, Hastings, oin December 11. A week prior to her death Archie Waddell, another brother, died in Christie Street Hospital and was buried in Hastings on December 4. The only surviving member of the family besides Matthew Waddell, is a sister Mrs. Ben Stewart, who is critically ill at her home in Montana.

Finnish Troops Continue To Repulse Reds

Finnish troops continue to hurl the Russian forces back on all fronts. On the far northern front (1) the Reds continued to retreat and fierce fighting was reported around Salmijaervi. New gains were reported by the Finns in the Salla sector (2), and they also reported throwing the Russians back in a bitter battle near Aglajaervi (3), while on the Karelian Isthmus (4) they hurled back Russian attacks with heavy losses and bombed Terijoki, seat of the Finnish Communist government. Helsingfors, or Helsinki (5), was subjected to several Red air raids.

Russia Begins To Hear

When Stalin of Russia had a birthday recently he received one message from Vladimir Potemkin, in which it was declared:

"The policy of the Soviet Union, inspired by Stalin, defeats all attempts of imperialists to involve our country in bloody slaughter, and secures for our country prolonged peace for creative labor and further development of socialist culture."

The man who sent that message must have with intention become blind to facts and deaf to the recording of statements the world over. One cannot but wonder if that is actually the state of the Russian mind today. We know the people in Russia are not informed of what is taking place in the world; we have the statements of Russian prisoners captured in Finland who said they had been rushed into the army because Finland was attacking Leningrad.

Russia is involved in "bloody" slaughter," and Stalin is only too well aware of it. Bombing the defenceless centres of Finland is nothing at all if it is not "bloody slaughter," and the stubborn fact that this slaughter has bounced and become the fate of the invading Russian army is also known to Stalin. What under the sun could the man who wrote that message have been thinking of?

The correspondent of the London Times at Moscow is authority for the statement that word of what has been taking place in Finland is beginning to make its way through Russia. The evidence is there before them, particularly in the cities, that something has gone wrong. There have been so many hospital cases sent back from the battle front that they cannot be cared for in Leningrad, and many of them are now being sent on to Moscow.

Reports from abroad which are now finding their way in Russia say from 25,000 to 30,000 Russians have been killed, and between 30 and 40 thousand are wounded, frostbitten, ill, captured or have deserted. It is known that figures of that range do not constitute a catastrophe for an army of the numerical size of Russia's, but they are sufficiently large to make it plain that something substantially wrong has taken place in connection with the invasion of Finland which at the outset was scheduled to be completed in a few days.

Moscow has learned that the Russians are poorly clothed when they go to war, and even the Russian mind, dulled as it is by fear of open speech, will find it difficult to understand that. For a long time the Russians have been short of clothing but it has been explained to them that the army, the navy and the air force had to be provided for first because in that way only was there safety for Russia against the capitalistic nations of the world who were poised and ready to strike at her.

Moscow is also hearing that casualties in the Russian army have been fifty times as frequent as those in the army of Finland. The London Times correspondent admits all these facts are not widely known in Russia, but they are now being spoken of in Moscow and elsewhere. The "bloody slaughter" engineered by Russia, but ignored in the birthday greetings to Stalin, is moving back toward home in the trail of wounded and frozen soldiers, and that is the kind of information which it is impossible to suppress.

Leave This Law Alone

We read in an exchange the argument that the present law against drunk driving was not popular and therefore it was not possible to enforce it. What then should be done? Take the stern sections from the law and make it softer?

We think not. It is lamentable that there are still so many of these cases coming before the courts of the province. It cannot be claimed drivers of cars do not know the law; they are well aware it says they must not drive when drunk, and they have found often enough that they must not drive after having taken a drink, whether they consider themselves drunk or not.

There is only one course open, and that is to keep on enforcing the law as it exists. Keep on until it is driven into the heads and hands and actions of car drivers that they have to do their driving according to the regulations. They cannot expect that an exception from a general regulation is going to be made for their special benefit.

It would be evidence of weakness and admission of defeat if there were changes made in the drunk driving law. The large number of cases in court is not evidence that there is anything wrong with the law, but is positive proof that there are too many people who consider that they are above the law or else that they are smart enough to drink and drive and escape. It is plainly a case where the law cannot change, so the drivers must.

Lifted From Obscurity

Every paper one picks up is carrying a story about Miss M. L. Haskins, who wrote the lines selected by His Majesty the King to conclude his Christmas broadcast to the Empire. Miss Haskins used to be a tutor at the London School of Economics, but retired some years ago and is now living in Sussex. It was 25 years ago she wrote the words which are now attracting so much attention. They appeared in these columns before, but for the purpose of this article we use them again:

"I said to the man who stood at the gate of the year, 'Give me light that I may tread safely into the unknown,' and he replied, 'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than light and safer than the known way.'"

When literary critics, librarians, and all such were asked regarding the author, they began thinking and speaking about Chesterton, Rudyard Kipling, John Bunyan, but they found nothing. Heads of universities in several places in several nations admitted they were stumped; they had no knowledge or index or record of that bit of writing. It was not until an anonymous telephone call reached the British Broadcasting Corporation that the much-desired information was received. And today writers in many places are paying their tribute to this unknown Miss M. L. Haskins.

The point seems to be just here: The words which are receiving such notice today are exactly the same as when they were written 25 years ago. There has been no change made, nothing added and nothing taken away. But the world paid no attention to them; they were as forgotten as the record of a great Biblical character of whom it is recorded: "There arose a Pharoah who knew not Joseph." But when one man, His Majesty, made use of the lines of Miss Haskins, they became famous. The same lines which the world had ignored for a quarter of a century. So it may be there are other superior articles in the world of creative art waiting for some one in authority to point toward them and lift them from obscurity.

Well—How About It?

It was only a few days ago when the Globe and Mail was rapped on the knuckles for having published an advertisement about grape juice which was held to have gone farther than permitted by the laws of the province. The Toronto paper no doubt accepted the material in good faith and possibly had not spotted in advance the particular wording to which exception was taken.

Now comes the National Police Review for December of 1939 and on page 44 is displayed the advertising of beer and tonic ale. In good black letters so it can be readily seen.

There are a number of publications which drive around the Ontario law by having the printing done in Quebec and it is made to appear the office of publication is located there. In the Police Review there is a notice which says: "Quebec editions published at 411 Transportation Bldg., Montreal. Address all communications to editorial and business office, 600 Bay Street, Toronto." There is nothing to indicate that the number before us is a Quebec edition It is worded entirely in English and appears to be intended for general reading across Canada. And it carries an advertisement for beer and ale.

We do not believe a paper like the National Police Review should try to turn a sharp corner on this question. The paper deals entirely with police work, and the police are regarded as the visible evidence of law and order. If the law of Ontario prohibits an Ontario publication from carrying advertising of beer and ale—and it does—then such a paper should be one of the first to comply 100 per cent. with the law. It should be one of the last to duck behind a corner which might permit the printing to be done in Montreal to evade the laws of Ontario.

The Law Says So

Reports from several centres indicate that traffic officers have been seeking to check night drivers who do not dim their lights when meeting cars coming from the opposite direction.

It has been found that in nearly every case car drivers did not know the law or the traffic regulations had anything at all to do with it. They regarded it as something which a driver could or could not do depending on how he was feeling at the time. At best it was looked up as an act of courtesy.

But that has been in the traffic regulations—or the law—for four months or more. A motorist must use his "down beam" when 500 feet from an oncoming vehicle. Apparently the presence of the traffic officer by night is the only agency of enforcement, and one can drive great distances by night or by day without encountering a traffic officer. They have long mileages to cover and the number of motorists they can check would at best be comparatively small.

This looks like a case where the Highways Department might well spend some money in publicity. What is the use of passing a law or changing a regulation regarding the conduct of drivers of motor cars if the motorists are not aware of the change? That regulation about dimming headlights is just as important as anything on the books but it is going to take a long time for its use to become general if the great majority of motorists still regard it as nothing more than an act of courtesy.

Warning Mr. Hepburn

Premier M. F. Hepburn goes skating on his own farm near St. Thomas, on what is described as a pretty little pond which he calls Lake Laurier. It is even announced that spectators stand on the shore and watch him go. We are informed also that he is doing this in order to get in good shape for the opening of the Legislature.

But we fear the publicity department has gone too far. Mr. Hepburn is a farmer and is so catalogued in the Parliamentary Guide. He owns large horses and grows many onions and in general is a tiller of the soil unless he has a sufficiency of hired tillers to supplement his own efforts.

Having that in mind we believe the St. Thomas report has erred on the side of volume by reciting that Mr. Hepburn when he goes skating wears a tam-o'-shanter and a pair of plus fours. The headgear may get by all right, but we doubt if rural Ontario has yet learned to look with sincerity upon the plus fours. They smack too much of the city and its inhabitants. True, they have lost much of their rage, but the association of ideas sticks. We are certain if a man wearing plus fours had ever made his way down the Tenth Concession word would have spread quickly that folk should be on the look out for him; it would be taken for granted he was up to some mischief; some slicker from the city who was trying to sell something.

If our Premier wishes to go skating—fine. And if he feels he can do the grape vine or cut the figure eight better when wearing plus fours that too is quite all right by us. But in a spirit of kindness we suggest he should have the recording scribes omit that section about wearing the plus fours. Let him roll his overalls up and tie a bit of binder twine about the knees if he wants freedom of action, but do not publish it to the world that the man is wearing plus fours.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One report has it that Col. Lindbergh is thinking of leaving United States and taking up residence abroad—again.

The manner in which Germany in sinking her own boats suggests Hitler has at last seen the wisdom of going in for disarmament.

There is a case being tried at Halifax dealing with the alleged mailing from this country of maps. And it was just like the luck of the crowd which loves to attend court sessions that it should be decided to hold this case in camera.

United States is now thinking in terms of battleships of 65,000 tons, while 35,000 tons is considered the limit today. And at the same time President Roosevelt is planning how to rebuild a peaceful world after the war is over.

Moslems and Hindus had a riot in Lucknow, India, and 50 were injured. If these folk desire a proper recording of their differences we'd advise them to wait a bit until pressure on page one has eased off.

SPASMODIC

(By A.R.K.)

¶ It happens every month or two, there's something that I have to do, 'tis then I run berserk; I whistle then no merry tune, but find that I am cramped for room and then I clean my desk.

¶ Each day piles up a little more, of things I never saw before, I stack them here and there; I see some item that looks good, I'd like to use it if I could, it seems so right and fair.

¶ And next day on I do the same, admire the work of some smart brain, I'll just put that aside; I start another little heap, of stuff I think I'd like to keep, it rolls up like the tide.

¶ And people who come in to talk, I know they get a little shock, can see it in their eye; I guess they go and spread the word, for now then I've often heard, I'm not a tidy guy.

¶ And then I get from out my groove, when things are piled so I can't move 'tis then I'm rather rough; I go the limit when I clean, I guess you know just what I mean, pitch everything away.

¶ Then next day on I worry much, I know I've pitched out such and such, I walk with stupid men; then I start like I did before, and start collecting yet some more—and pile things up again.

Peterborough Civic Record Much Praised

WEDNESDAY'S ISSUE of the Globe and Mail looked something like a Peterborough Day. In the editorial column and again on the financial page there is reference to the financial standing of this city, and to the soundness of the policies which have been followed. The editorial says this:

PETERBOROUGH DOES WELL

Peterborough does not pretend to be the best governed city in Canada, nor even a model for Ontario, but the City Council of that municipality has done something which other cities and towns might well seek to emulate. A signed advertisement in the Peterborough Examiner tells about taxation and expenditure, shows the trend of them, and deals with the city's debenture debt and the steps taken to liquidate it. It is a story worth telling. The Examiner puts it in a nutshell: Per capita taxation is now $35.54, while in 1931 it reached the peak of $40.59. There may be cities in which the per capita taxation is lower—Charlottetown is one of them—but there are many in which it is higher.

Peterborough began some time ago setting up a reserve fund for loss in taxes, and $5,000 was added this year, bringing the fund to a present total of $68,000. The city has not issued a debenture since 1933, and during the past five years the gross debenture debt has been reduced by $1,151,718. To meet this debt the City Trust has on hand sinking funds of $1,823,156, leaving a total net debt of $1,965,-921. Peterborough has been paying all its bills for relief, etc., and at the same time reducing existing debt, and, as the Examiner observes, "that policy remains as the soundest kind of good municipal financing."

The other day we referred to Brantford, which in three years has reduced expenditures by $189,534, not by concentrating on any one item, but by reductions all along the line. In five years the combined municipalities of Ontario have reduced their aggregate debt by more than $80,-000,000 by cutting expenditures and calling a halt to extravagance. Brantford, Peterborough and several other cities have proved it can be done. The fact is that the better administered municipalities have been more economical than most of the Provincial and Federal Governments. They are now enjoying the fruits of their policy of pay-as-you-go, and are in a position to take advantage of any improvement in economic conditions. Industries seeking favorable locations invariably prefer municipalities in which they are not unduly hampered by excessive taxation, other things being equal. And with the need to safeguard the nation's resources for the military effort we are called upon to make, sound economy is vital.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Financial editor, Wellington Jeffers, comments:

Peterborough Does a Fine Municipal Job,
Reduces Debt, Unemployment and Taxes
And Wisely Tells the Citizens All About It

The Peterborough Examiner in a recent number compliments the Municipal Council of Peterborough on its stewardship, and especially for its good sense in publishing in a signed advertisement a summary of what taxes were collected, how they were spent and what was done to make the city better and the debt lighter.

It is not to be wondered at that Peterborough publishes its civic statement. Councils should do this always, but it is notable that Councils with a good story to tell are the Councils that do it most often. Not all of these tell the good story, but they should. Start such a good practice in good years, and in worse years, when such a report is even more worthwhile, citizens may be given an opportunity to know where they stand. Their knowing and being definitely interested in the conduct of civic affairs is half the battle in having those affairs well conducted over a long period of time.

In Peterborough the tax rate is 34.5 mills, while in 1930 it was 39.2 mills. Taxation per capita is $35.54, but in 1931 it was $40.59. No changes were made in the basis of assessment, but new homes were built.

Gross debenture debt was reduced by $1.2 millions from 1933 and not a single debenture has been issued since that year. The total net debt is now less than $2 millions. What a help to Peterborough business men to lower the levy for the debt on general taxation by 28.6 per cent since 1934!

The city has been particularly sound in its way of dealing with unemployment relief. In 1935 there were 548 families on relief and today 290 families. Since 1933 the entire cost has been included in the tax rate and nothing has been paid by the issue of debentures. It was a harder method at first, but it proves easiest on the taxpayer in the end; and who will deny the justice of this summary by the Examiner:

"There may be cities which have made a better showing, but at the moment we cannot place them. We can only hope they do exist. We have been paying all our bills and at the same time reducing existing debt, and that policy remains as the soundest kind of good municipal financing."
